ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

In preparing this revised edition, I have had invaluable help from many hearts and minds. I am indebted, in particular, to my friend of a dozen years in India, the Rev. Joseph Putz, S.J., Professor of Theology at St. Mary's Theological College, Kurseong, India, chief editor of the "The Clergy Monthly", and author of "My Mass". Father Putz has not only strengthened the chapters on the Mass; he has also reviewed the book from cover to cover. The Rev. Eugene H. Maly, S.T.D., S.S.D., Professor of Sacred Scripture at Mt. St. Mary's Seminary of the West in Cincinnati, has again been generous with his corrections and advice. Both Fr. Putz and Fr. Maly are "experts" (periti) for the Ecumenical Council in Rome. Dr. Anthony T. Bouscaren, Ph.D., Professor of Political Science at Le Moyne College, Syracuse, N.Y., once more improved some of the chapters, especially the one on Communism. The Rev. George Bardes, S.T.D., Professor at St. Joseph's Seminary at Dunwoodie, New York, has offered useful suggestions for chapter 167. My special thanks go to Sisters Frances Honorine Esper and Marie Pothanamala, of the Krishnagar (India) Diocesan Congregation of Mary Immaculate, for their wise suggestions and their patient help in correcting the proofs.

I expressed appreciation in the previous editions to many who had given of their time and thought in reviewing, correcting and improving various sections of the book. They contributed so much that I must, in all fairness, name again the Very Rev. Francis J. Connell, S.S.S.R., former Dean of the School of Sacred Theology of the Catholic University of America; and the Rev. John L. Murphy, M.A., S.T.D., author of "The Living Christ" and other works. To their number I should like to add two others for the first time. One is the Rev. Henry A. Coffey, S.J., who reviewed and censored the book before I was made bishop. The other is the late Miss Natividad M. Márquez, Ph.D., a former Professor at the University of the Philippines, without whose skill the first editions might never have taken shape. In her lifetime she never let me acknowledge her help. Now I do so, with a sense of abiding gratitude.

Dear Reader:

This book is a complete manual of religion for the general reader. It explains many subjects and answers many questions that often perplex Catholics and non-Catholics alike.

If you are a Catholic, you will find in the following pages all that you need to know and practice. It is not enough to know our religion; we must live it. Hence the motto that appears at the foot of every page: "Know God better to love Him more." Love is shown by deeds.

If you are a non-Catholic, whether Orthodox or Protestant, this book will give you a clearer picture of what Catholics believe, and why. It will provide new insight into the discussions at the Ecumenical Council in Rome, where Pope John XXIII has been and now Pope Paul VI is meeting with over two thousand Cardinals, Archbishops and Bishops from all over the world. The first aim of this Council is to put our Catholic house in order; the second, to bring about the reunion of Christians of Orthodox and Protestant faiths with those of the Catholic faith. Did not Christ pray that all His followers be one, as He is one with His Father? Is it not time for all Christians to unite again, in Christ's spirit of humility and love?

For many who do not follow Christ, this book should also hold interest and surely some benefit. If it helps to dispel misunderstanding, if it explains to non-Christians a faith that millions of their fellow-men believe and love, then indeed it will have served another good and useful purpose. Have we not all the one Father? Has not the one God created us? (Mal. 2:10).

"My Catholic Faith" therefore has a three-fold aim: to help Catholics to know, love and practice their religion; to promote a greater charity and unity among all who follow the teachings of Christ; and, lastly, to tell Christians and non-Christians, as clearly and simply as possible, what it means to be a good Catholic.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
WHAT TO BELIEVE:

THE APOSTLES' CREED
In creating us, God gave us the power and right to choose which path we should follow in life: either the path of obedience, or the path of disobedience to His commandments. The first seems wearisome and full of thorns, but reward comes in the end: happiness with God. The second seems full of pleasures and roses, but punishment awaits the traveler at the end: eternal damnation in hell.

Each must choose for himself. We may find the choice a hard struggle. We shall be strengthened in the choice of the difficult path if we remember that we belong to God, that He loves us, that He will help us and is waiting for us at the end of the road—of obedience.

1. Religion and the End of Man

What is THE DESTINY OF MAN?

Man’s high destiny is to go to God, because man comes from God, and belongs entirely to God.

1. Our reason tells us that Someone made us. That Someone is God.

“For all men were by nature foolish who were in ignorance of God, and who from the good things seen did not succeed in knowing him who is, and from studying the works did not discern the artisan” (Wis. 13:1). “For since the creation of the world his (God’s) invisible attributes are clearly seen—his everlasting power also and divinity—being understood through the things that are made” (Rom. 1:20).

2. Our reason also tells us that God must have made us for some purpose. God made man to know Him, to love Him, and to serve Him in this world, and to be happy forever with Him in the next. God made us for Himself. The end of man, as of all creation, is the glory of God; to manifest the divine perfections, to proclaim the goodness, majesty, and power of God.

“The Lord has made everything for his own ends (Prov. 16:4). Whether he wishes to or not, man must manifest God’s perfections, dominion, and glory.

3. Through glorifying God, man is destined to share His everlasting happiness in heaven. Man was created chiefly for the life beyond the grave; this present one is merely a preparation for the eternal life.

In this life we are exiles, wanderers, pilgrims. Heaven, the Home of God, is our true country, our true Home. “For here we have no permanent city, but we seek for the city that is to come” (Heb. 13:14).

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
4. We belong to God. Since we are His creatures, we have certain duties towards God which we must fulfill. Religion teaches us what these duties are.

What is RELIGION?

Religion is the virtue by which we give to God the honor and service due to Him alone as our Creator, Master, and Supreme Lord.

It is by religion that we know, love, and serve God as He commands us to know, love and serve Him. It is by religion, then, that we fulfill the end for which we were made, and so save our soul.

To PRACTICE RELIGION, we must:

1. Believe all the truths revealed by God.

In religion we learn about God and His perfections. We learn what is right and what is wrong. We learn about the future that He has prepared for us.

2. Carry out in our lives what we learn about the duties we owe to God, about His commandments and wishes. Mere knowledge of God is not religion, and will avail us nothing. The devil has a perfect knowledge of God, but he has no religion. Religion is not a matter of feeling; it is a matter of will and of action. It is service of God.

Our Lord says: “Blessed are they who hear the word of God and keep it” (Luke 11:28).

How can we prove that ALL MEN are OBLIGED to PRACTICE religion?

We can prove that all men are obliged to practice religion, because all men are entirely dependent on God, and must recognize that dependence by honoring Him and praying to Him.

God gives us no choice in the matter. It is by religion that we fulfill the purpose for which we were created. By believing what God has revealed, we know God. By knowing God, we cannot help but love Him. By practicing what we learn and obeying God’s commands, we serve Him. “He who has my commandments and keeps them, he it is who loves me” (John 14:21).

Many people spend their lives in a vain pursuit of riches, honors, and pleasures. But these never satisfy the heart of man even on earth. Besides, they have to be left behind when the hour of death comes.

From whom do we learn to KNOW, LOVE, and SERVE GOD?

We learn to know, love, and serve God from Jesus Christ, the Son of God, Who teaches us through His Church.

1. The study in which Jesus Christ teaches us about God and how to know, love, and serve Him, is the study of Religion. It is the most important study anyone can undertake. The neglect of this study is the root cause of crime in the world at present, because God is the foundation of the moral order.

Our salvation is much more important than a knowledge of physics, poetry, or history. All our science and knowledge, with our wealth and honors, will be profitless if we do not save our soul. “What does it profit a man, if he gain the whole world, but suffer the loss of his own soul?” (Matt. 16:26).

2. To study religion we need to listen to a good teacher. The deacon Philip asked the Ethiopian reading Holy Scripture, “Do you then understand what you are reading?” But he said, “Why, how can I unless someone shows me?” (Acts 8:31).

Who are those that ADVOCATE NO STUDY OF RELIGION?

Those that advocate no study of religion are generally termed free thinkers, agnostics, skeptics, and rationalists.

1. These thinkers claim that all problems can be solved by the use of the intellect alone, without necessity of any dogma or authority.

“Freedom of thought” has a pleasant sound, but it is against reason; by it the mind is fettered by error. We submit our minds freely to natural and scientific truth; that is true freedom. If there is no freedom of thought in mathematics, why in religion?

2. “Freedom of thought” is evidently a contradiction; we are not free to think what is not the truth. There are fundamental laws that bind the intellect.

For instance, are we free to believe that the sun revolves around the earth, even if it appears to do so?

3. The intelligent man, in order to attain the kind of freedom humanly possible, should find out to which authority he must submit; he must discover which is the Law. And this is why the rational man studies Religion, to find out this fundamental Law.
The Apostles, before they parted, gathered together in Jerusalem in the year 50 or 51 in what is called the first Council of the Church.

The Apostles' Creed is not so called because formulated by the Apostles, but because it contains a summary of the principal truths taught by them.

2. The Apostles' Creed

WHERE do we find the CHIEF TRUTHS TAUGHT by Jesus Christ through His Church?

We find the chief truths taught by Jesus Christ through the Catholic Church in the Apostles' Creed.

1. A creed is a summary or statement of what one believes. "Creed" comes from the Latin credo, which means I believe; that is, I accept or hold true something on the word of another.

Creeds were also used in the Old Testament. They were recited at the liturgical celebrations which renewed, ritually, what God had done for His people. The creed was the recitation of God's saving acts (Deut. 26:1-11). "I believe," with relation to the Apostles' Creed means that I firmly assent to everything contained in it. I believe it exactly as if I had seen those truths with my own eyes. I believe it on the authority or word of God, Who cannot deceive or be deceived.

2. The Apostles' Creed is so called because it has come down to us from ancient times, and contains a summary of the principal truths taught by the Apostles.

3. Originally, the Apostles' Creed was slightly shorter; a few clauses were added by the Church later, in order to counteract various heresies. These additions, however, are not new doctrines, but a clarification of what the Creed already contained.

Thus the words "Creator of heaven and earth" were added to counteract the Manichaean heresy that the world was created by the principle of evil; and the word "Catholic" was added, to distinguish the True Church from churches springing up around it. As our Lord said, "And you also bear witness, because from the beginning you are with me" (John 15:27).

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
4. There are several other creeds used by the Church, in substance identical with the Apostles' Creed.

The Nicene Creed, which is said in the Mass, was mainly drawn up at the Council of Nicea, in the year 325. The Athanasian Creed is said by priests in the Divine Office on the feast of the Blessed Trinity.

Into HOW MANY ARTICLES may the Apostles' Creed BE DIVIDED?

The Apostles' Creed may be divided into TWELVE ARTICLES.

All the articles are absolutely necessary to faith; if even one article is omitted or changed, faith would be destroyed.

It is symbolical to divide the Apostles' Creed into twelve articles, because the Apostles numbered twelve; thus we are reminded that the Creed is a summary of what the Apostles of our Lord taught.

APOSTLES' CREED ARTICLES:

1. I believe in God, the Father Almighty, Creator of heaven and earth;

2. And in Jesus Christ, His only Son, Our Lord;

3. Who was conceived by the Holy Spirit, born of the Virgin Mary;

4. Suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, died, and was buried.

5. He descended into hell; the third day He arose again from the dead;

6. He ascended into Heaven, sitteth at the right hand of God, the Father Almighty;

7. From thence He shall come to judge the living and the dead.

8. I believe in the Holy Spirit;

9. The Holy Catholic Church; the communion of saints;

10. The forgiveness of sins;

11. The resurrection of the body;

12. And life everlasting. Amen.

The twelve articles of the Apostles' Creed contain the mystery of the Blessed Trinity, one God in three distinct Divine Persons—Father, Son, and Holy Spirit,—with the particular operations attributed to each Person. The Creed contains three distinct parts. The first part treats of God the Father and creation. The second part treats of God the Son and our redemption. And the third part treats of God the Holy Spirit and our sanctification. Notice how the Christian creed recalls the saving acts of Jesus Christ just as the Israelite creed of the Old Testament recalled what God had done for Israel.

WHAT ACT OF RELIGION do we make when we say the Apostles' Creed?

When we say the Apostles' Creed we make an act of faith.

1. Christian faith is a supernatural gift of God which enables us to believe firmly whatever God has revealed, on the testimony of His word. By it we believe in the truth of many things which we cannot fully grasp with our understanding.

For example, we believe in God, although we cannot see Him. We believe in the Trinity, although it is beyond our understanding. "Without faith it is impossible to please God" (Heb. 11:6).

2. Faith does not require us to believe in anything contrary to reason. When we believe what we cannot perceive or understand, we act according to reason, which tells us that God cannot err, lie, or deceive us. We therefore put our trust in God's word.

In many natural things we often believe what we do not see, as sound waves and atoms, on the testimony of scientists who have studied them. Thus we act within reason; but how much more reasonable it is to believe the word of God!

3. A great reward in heaven awaits those who suffer persecution or die for the faith or some Christian virtue. We know that very many martyrs have died for the Catholic faith; their number is known to God alone.

All the Apostles suffered persecution, and all except St. John suffered death by martyrdom, for their faith. St. John the Baptist was beheaded because he censured Herod for violating the law of marriage. St. John Nepomucene was put to death because he refused to violate the seal of confession. "Therefore, everyone who acknowledges me before men, I also will acknowledge him before my Father in heaven" (Matt. 10:32).

4. Neglect of the study of the truths of our religion is frequently the cause of lukewarmness, a bad life, and final apostasy and impenitence. We should be zealous in studying the Christian doctrine, in the catechism and religion lessons, in sermons, missions, and retreats, in confraternities and sodalities. God will not forgive ignorance if we voluntarily neglect the means He has granted to dissipate it.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The first chapter of the Book of Genesis teaches us that God created the world and everything in it. The work of creation is divided into six days, with one day of rest, to teach us that we also must work six days and rest on the seventh day. The tremendous power of God is shown by the fact that he has only to express His will in order to achieve results. "God said, 'Let there be light, and there was light'." All things came ultimately from God. Therefore all things show His power and glory. "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament proclaims his handiwork" (Ps. 18:2).

3. God the Supreme Being

(First Article of the Apostles' Creed.)

WHO is GOD?

God is the Supreme Being, infinitely perfect, Who made all things, and keeps them in existence.

1. God made everything — men, beasts, plants, planets, stars, everything. Not only that; God keeps everything in existence. Were He to take away His hand from what He created, everything would disappear into nothingness quicker than thought. Without a cause, there could be no effects. Without God, could there be anything at all?

"It is he who gives to all men life and breath and all things" (Acts 17:25). "In him were created all things" (Col. 1:16).

2. The traditions of all nations and races support the idea of the existence of God. All nations and peoples have an inner conviction of God's existence; their intellect supports their instinctive trust.

Even among the wildest, most remote, and most degraded pagans there is invariably found the worship of some deity recognized as supreme, on whom man depends. There are savage peoples without ruler, laws, or even settlements, but never without some god that they worship with prayer and sacrifice.
What do we mean when we say that GOD is the SUPREME BEING?

When we say that God is the Supreme Being, we mean that He is above all creatures, the self-existing and infinitely perfect Spirit. "I am the first and I am the last, and besides me there is no god" (Is. 44:6).

WHAT is a SPIRIT?

A spirit is a being that has understanding and free will, but no body, and will never die.

1. God is a pure spirit. As God has no body, when we speak of His eyes and His hands we only speak in a figurative manner, in order to make ourselves more understandable according to our human way of speaking.

Our Lord said to the Samaritan woman at the well: "God is spirit; and they who worship Him must worship in spirit and in truth" (John 4:24). Yet God has often taken on visible forms, in order to be seen by men. Thus He showed Himself in the form of a dove at the baptism of Jesus, and in the form of tongues of fire on Pentecost. God is neither a dove nor tongues of fire; He merely assumed those forms in order to be seen by mortal eyes.

2. Angels and devils are pure spirits. Men are only partly spiritual, because they have a body. Man's soul is a spirit, absolutely independent of matter, and by creatures indestructible.

As spirits, God and man have this in common, though in different degrees: both have understanding, intellect, and free will. By his free will man can even defy his Creator, God.

What do we mean when we say that GOD is SELF-EXISTING?

When we say that God is self-existing we mean that He does not owe His existence to any other being.

1. God made us, but who made God? God said to Moses, "I am who am" (Exod. 3:14). He exists of Himself, deriving His Being from no other. God is the First Cause.

All other beings and things owe their existence to God. In comparison to Him, we are nothing.

2. Man can never have a complete knowledge of God. Man is finite and cannot fully understand the infinite. A cup can contain the immensity of the ocean more easily than man can fully understand the Infinite God.

We know God only partly, from the order, harmony, and existence of things, from our conscience, and from God's revelations to man.

What do we mean when we say that GOD is INFINITELY PERFECT?

When we say that God is infinitely perfect, we mean that He has all perfections without limit.

God is immense and eternal, "an ocean without shore or bottom," the unchangeable Being that only Himself can fully understand: "His greatness is unsearchable" (Ps. 144:3).

1. God is so great and wonderful that He needs nothing to make Him greater or more wonderful. He possesses all perfections, countless, innumerable, imitable, boundless, the cause of perfection in all. God cannot be better, more holy, or more perfect than He already is.

2. So perfect is God that He is infinitely incomprehensible, incapable of being completely understood. Reason can verify the revelation that God made of Himself. But when we make our reason or our emotions the final authority, we make ourselves our own god, and shut the road to the supernatural, the Infinite.

3. The Creator is above all the created, though something of Him, some likeness of His Being, may be found in every creature. But even were all creatures, from the most glorious seraphim to the lowliest of moss, to combine their powers and perfections, theirs would be a faint shadow of God's all-encompassing supremacy.

What are SOME of the PERFECTIONS of GOD?

Some of the perfections of God are: God is a) eternal, b) all-good, c) all-knowing, d) all-present, and e) almighty.

God's perfections do not exist separately in Him, but are one and identical with Himself. They are only various manifestations of His one nature and perfection. In God, for example, His goodness is one with His wisdom and power. His perfections, besides being one and the same in Him, are also identical with Him: that is, God Himself is infinity, wisdom, goodness, power.
God is eternal: He has no beginning and no end. Before there ever was anything, there was God. He always was, is, and ever will be.

With God there is no time; everything is present. We cannot imagine eternity; but we can understand what it is to be without beginning or end.

4. The Perfections of God

GOD IS ETERNAL

God always was and always will be, and always remains the same.

1. God had no beginning; there never was a time when there was no God. God can never cease to exist; He will have no end. He will always be living, immortal.

   There is no time with God; with Him there is neither past nor future; everything is present. "One day with the Lord is as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day" (2 Pet. 3:8). "Before the mountains were begotten and the earth and the world were brought forth, from everlasting to everlasting you are God" (Ps. 89:2). "I am the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end" (Apoc. 1:8).

2. God will always remain the same. As He was in the beginning, He is now, and He ever shall be.

GOD IS ALL-GOOD

God cannot change. The God that is God now is the same God that has ever been, the same God that will ever be, from and throughout all eternity, the "Father of Lights, with whom there is no change, nor shadow of alteration" (Jas. 1:17).

GOD IS ALL-GOOD

God is infinitely lovable in Himself, and from His fatherly love every good comes to us.

1. God is Himself love. Love is part of His nature. Compared to God's infinite goodness, the goodness of man is nothing, only the shadow of a shadow.

Men, creatures of God, are good because God made them to His image and likeness. "Taste and see how good the Lord is" (Ps. 33:9).

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
2. Out of His goodness, God created angels and men, although He had no need of them. God loves His creatures far more than a mother loves the children she has borne.

God gives us the beautiful world to live in. He takes care of our body and soul. He showers benefits and graces on us day after day. He prepares for us a place in heaven. Above all, He sent His Son down to earth to die for us.

GOD IS ALL-KNOWING

God knows all things, past, present, and future, even our most secret thoughts, words, and actions.

1. God is all-knowing. Before His eyes all secrets, even the most hidden, are clear, even secrets that will not be thought of by man until the end of the world.

    God knows us for what we are: we cannot hide anything from Almighty God. "All things are naked and open to the eyes of him to whom we have to give account" (Heb. 4:13).

2. God, all-knowing, will one day make everything known to everybody, disclosing our entire lives for all to read and know.

    If we think of this power of God to see and know all things, and His promise to make everything manifest on the last day, we can more easily resist temptations to sin. "For there is nothing hidden that will not be made manifest; nor anything concealed that will not be known" (Luke 8:17).

GOD IS ALL-PRESENT

God is everywhere.

1. God is all-present, because there is nothing that can have existence apart from Him. All creation exists in Him as thought exists in the mind. There is no place where God is not.

    "Do I not fill heaven and earth?" saith the Lord" (Jer. 23:24). "In Him we live and move and have our being" (Acts 17:28). However, we must not make the mistake of thinking that God, in Whom everything exists, is limited by this everything. He has no limits, and exists outside as well as in all creation.

2. God is all-present, present everywhere, at the same time. He is not like man, that cannot be in two places at the same time. God is wholly everywhere at the same time.

    The presence of God should be an incentive for us to do everything to please Him. As we are careful never to do anything wrong in the presence of our mother, how much more careful should we be in the presence of God! "Can a man hide in secret without my seeing him? says the LORD" (Jer. 23:24).

3. Although God is everywhere, we do not see Him, because He is a spirit, and cannot be seen with our eyes.

    Similarly, we cannot see our own soul or that of another. "God is spirit, and they who worship him must worship in spirit and in truth" (John 4:24).

GOD IS ALMIGHTY

God can do all things.

1. God can do anything, by a mere act of His will. Nothing is impossible to God.

    "Things that are impossible with men are possible with God" (Luke 18:27). The only thing God cannot do is to make a contradiction: He cannot will wrong, because wrong is a contradiction of His goodness.

2. God's omnipotence or power is known to us especially by the magnificence of creation, and by His miracles.

    Yet God created all the immensity of the heavens with nothing except His word. "'Let there be light,' and there was light" (Gen. 1:3). In the same way Our Lord worked many of His miracles. "Great is the Lord...his greatness is unsearchable" (Ps. 144:3) -- Read Matt. 8:23-27.

GOD IS ALL-WISE

The more we learn of the wonders of the universe, the more we are amazed by the infinite wisdom of God, by His almighty power.

His knowledge is infinite. He knows how to direct all things to the highest ends, and by the most fitting means.

GOD IS HOLY AND ALL-JUST

God is infinitely holy in Himself. He loves good and hates evil. Therefore He is also all-just. He will punish the wicked and reward the good. "Be holy, for I, the Lord, your God, am holy" (Lev. 19:2).

Partial justice is done in this life, for often the good are happy, and the wicked are tormented by their conscience. But complete justice will not be accomplished till the next-life.

GOD IS INFINITELY MERCIFUL

He gives sinners time for repentance. He receives us back with joy when we repent. But merciful as He is, we must not presume on His mercy, for "God will not be mocked." "Merciful and gracious is the LORD, slow to anger and abounding in kindness" (Ps. 103:8). "He is long-suffering, not wishing that any should perish, but that all should turn to repentance" (2 Pet. 3:9).
Many people make themselves miserable worrying over the future. They should have more trust in Divine Providence. Let them do the best they can, and leave the rest to God, Who cares for them. Our Lord said, "Look at the birds of the air: they do not sow, or reap, or gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feeds them. Are you not of much more value than they? . . . Therefore do not be anxious, saying, 'What shall we eat?' or, 'What shall we drink?' or, 'What are we to put on?' for your Father knows that you need all these things. But seek first the kingdom of God and his justice, and all these things shall be given you besides" (Matt. 6:26-33).

5. Divine Providence

DOES GOD SEE US?

God sees us, and watches over us with loving care.

1. God preserves and governs the world. If He were to take away for one instant His sustaining power, the whole creation would at once fall back into nothingness.

   It is as if He held us in His hand. If He withdrew it for a moment, we would be nothing. It would be like the light which vanishes as soon as the current is cut off.

2. Nothing happens without the will or permission of God. Our Lord tells us that not one sparrow falls to the ground without the will of our Heavenly Father, and that the very hairs of our head are numbered.

   God is to the world and men as the engine is to a train, as the pilot is to a ship. He guides the whole universe and all creatures. He guides the nations.

   What is God's loving care for us called?

   God's loving care for us is called Divine Providence, His plan for guiding creatures to their proper end.

   1. Divine Providence is good, constant, and just. It watches over even the humblest and most despised creatures on earth.

   Of the paternal tenderness of God, Holy Scripture speaks thus: "Can a mother forget her infant, be without tenderness for the child of her womb? Even should she forget, I will never forget you. See, upon the palms of my hands I have written your name; your walls are ever before me" (Is. 49:15-16). "Cast all your anxiety upon him, because he cares for you" (1 Pet. 5:7).

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
2. God has special care for those who are poor, despised, and forgotten by the world. He has often shown forth His glory by means of the humble.

So poor shepherds were the first to receive news of the birth of the Saviour. So poor fishermen were His Apostles. So a poor maiden was His Mother.

If Divine Providence is Good, why do poverty, sickness, sufferings, and other physical evils exist?

Physical evils are often the result of the weakness of creatures in body and mind.

Although we often do not understand God's arrangements, we must have faith and exclaim with the Apostle: "How incomprehensible are God's judgments, and how unsearchable his ways!" (Rom. 11:33).

1. Physical evil is partly a punishment for actual sin. It serves to sanctify the good, and helps them attain eternal salvation. The greatest sufferers have often been the greatest saints. God sends suffering to the just man in order to prove his love.

So holy Job lost everything he had, yet loved God more. So Tobias became blind and poor, and only proved his love for God.

2. God never sends anyone suffering beyond his strength. To gain merit, we must be patient and resigned under suffering. Let us imitate Our Lord in the Garden, whose prayer was, "Father, not my will but thine, be done!" Our Lord taught us to say, in the Our Father, "Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven."

He who resigns himself joyfully to the will of God, in sickness, death, poverty, persecution, and other misfortunes, obtains true peace of heart; he will be blessed even on this earth.

3. God often sends physical evil to sinners in order to bring them back into the right way. It serves as a warning to them.

Among those who were converted through bodily sickness, we may mention St. Francis of Assisi and St. Ignatius of Loyola.

4. Sufferings can be a boon, and should be welcomed. By sufferings, patiently accepted, the punishment due for sin is diminished or cancelled. The more we suffer in this world, the less we have to pay in the next life, in purgatory.

If Divine Providence is just, why do the good often suffer misfortunes, and the wicked enjoy prosperity and honors?

The misfortunes and satisfactions of the world are not real and lasting, and cannot gauge God's justice.

As St. Paul said, "I am filled with comfort; I over-flow with joy in all our troubles" (2 Cor. 7:4).

1. No sinner has true happiness; his conscience will not give him inner peace. Riches, honor, and pleasures can never give peace to the spirit. On the other hand, no lover of God has true misery, for he possesses inner peace and a good conscience. Real reward and punishment begin only after death.

On earth sinners are rewarded for whatever good they do. Their good fortune lasts only for this life. The just are punished on earth for whatever sins they may have committed. Their reward is full in the other life.

3. We must therefore resign ourselves lovingly to the will of God. Thus we shall have peace of mind even in the midst of the greatest trials. Sufferings should remind us that this is not our true home, and that we are citizens of heaven.

"I will rejoice and be glad of your kindness, when you have seen my affliction and watched over me in my distress" (Ps. 30:8).

Is God Responsible for Sin?

God is not responsible for sin; sin is the result of man's wrong use of his free will.

1. God does not will or cause sin; He forbids it and will punish the sinner. He permits sin for His own reasons, to sanctify the good, by trying them and giving them opportunities for more faithful obedience.

God created man free to choose good or evil. He wishes us to choose good, in order that we may merit heaven. But since we are free, we can, if we so wish, choose evil. God is not responsible for our sins.

2. Even the evil that God permits to happen, He turns to our good. He draws good out of evil.

The wicked persecutions of the Church make the Gospel better known and loved among the just. Thus the patriarch Joseph said to his brothers, "You intended evil against me, but God intended it for good" (Gen. 50:20). "For those who love God, all things work together unto good" (Rom. 8:28).
Adam and Eve, our first parents, knew God in the Garden of Paradise. God spoke to the patriarchs and prophets, and gave them messages for the rest of men. God gave the Commandments to Moses. Our Lord Jesus Christ, God Himself, came and taught about God.

6. Existence of God

How do WE KNOW BY OUR NATURAL REASON that God exists?

We know by our natural reason that God exists, because of:

1. The existence of the world.
2. The order and harmony of the whole universe.
3. The testimony of our conscience.

The existence of the world proves the existence of God, because it could not have come into existence by itself.

1. Everything in the world had a beginning. Men, animals, plants, the earth, planets and stars—all had a beginning. They could not have come into existence by themselves. They must have been made by Someone Who had no beginning. Planets and men could no more have made themselves than a watch can make itself.

The astronomer Kircher had a friend who denied the existence of God. During a visit one day, this friend saw a globe in the study of the astronomer. —"This is an interesting globe," said he; "Who made it?"—"Why," replied Kircher, "it just made itself!" The friend had a hearty laugh at the idea. Kircher asserted, "It would be much easier for a little globe like that to make itself than for the immense globe of the earth to create itself."

2. When we see footprints on the sand, we conclude that someone has passed that way. The universe is filled with the footprints of a Supreme Creator.

We find His imprint in the very mind of man, in its deep aspiration to the Infinite. If God does not exist, man's deepest striving tends to nothing, is absurd.

The order and harmony of the universe prove the existence of God because they lead us to infer the existence of a Supreme Architect and Preserver of surpassing skill.

1. The heavenly bodies go along their appointed courses age after age. The seasons succeed one another year by year. There is
Existence of God

From Adam and Eve down to the present, all men have acknowledged the existence of God. Even pagans and primitive peoples recognize a Supreme Being, a god. They have sacrifices, and they worship some deity whom they recognize as superior and supernatural, on whom man depends.

Splendor, beauty, arrangement, and order everywhere. The whole universe is governed and preserved by immutable law.

If you plant an orange seed, you are certain an apple will not spring from it. Every morning you are sure the sun, when it rises, will appear in the east. At night you can go peacefully to sleep, assured that after your rest the day will come again.

2. To say that this universal order is the result of accident, or that the planets direct their own courses, is as foolish as to say that an automobile goes sensibly around the city streets running itself.

"The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament proclaims His handiwork" (Ps. 18:2). God is the Intelligent Cause.

3. Long ago the pagan Cicero said: "When we contemplate the heavens, we arrive at the conviction that they are all guided by a Being of surpassing skill." The great astronomer Newton often uncovered and bowed when God's name was uttered.

How does the TESTIMONY OF OUR CONSCIENCE prove the existence of God?

By our conscience we can distinguish right from wrong.

1. Our conscience approves the right and condemns the wrong. Thus within ourselves there is a recognition of a Supreme Law-giver to Whom we are responsible, Who will reward the good we do, and punish the evil.

"The fool says in his heart, 'There is no God'" (Ps. 13:1).

2. Those who persist in denying the existence of God in spite of external and internal testimony are atheists—not rarely blinded by pride. To them can be applied the words of our Lord:

"Seeing they do not see and hearing they do not hear, neither do they understand .... For the heart of this people has been hardened.... Lest at any time they see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their mind, and be converted, and I heal them" (Matt. 13:15-15).

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Divine Revelation comes down to us by two means: through Holy Scripture, written down under divine inspiration, and through Tradition, handed down orally from Apostolic times. We read the Bible with great respect, for it is the Word of God. We treat Tradition with as great reverence, for God speaks through Tradition as well. It is wrong to believe the Bible alone without Tradition. That is like believing the Word of God written in the morning and denying it spoken in the afternoon.

7. Divine Revelation

Can we KNOW GOD in any OTHER WAY than by our natural reason?

Besides knowing God by our natural reason, we can also know Him from Supernatural Revelation.

1. God has often revealed Himself to men through means beyond the ordinary course of nature. This is supernatural, or Divine Revelation, as opposed to the natural revelation of Himself that God makes in the external world, and the revelation He makes through our natural reason and conscience.

Some revealed truths are beyond the power of the human understanding; we could never, by our own abilities, have known such truths if God had not revealed them. For instance, could we by ourselves have known about the Blessed Trinity, had God not revealed it?

2. The public revelation of truths to men by God began with Abraham and ended at the death of the Apostle St. John.

Private revelations have been made to holy persons, such as those of the Sacred Heart of Jesus to St. Margaret Mary, and those of Our Lady of Lourdes to St. Bernadette. But these private revelations are never proposed to the faithful as articles of faith. When the Church approves them, it merely states that there is nothing in them contrary to faith or morals.

Divine Revelation may be classified into pre-Christiant and Christian revelation.

1. Pre-Christiant revelation may be divided into:

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Divine Revelation

(a) primitive revelation, made to Adam and Eve; but this was not preserved; God had to reveal Himself again at the time of the
(b) patriarch revelation, made to the patriarchs; and
(c) Mosaic revelation, made to Moses and the prophets.

The first man's intimate friendship with God was broken by sin. The growing corruption of the world led to a general apostasy from God (Gen. 4:11). God, therefore, had to intervene again at the time of Abraham, in order that man might know Him better and love Him more. Through the patriarchs, Moses, the prophets and other men of the Old Testament God's revelation was gradually unfolded.

2. Christian revelation contains the truths revealed to us by Jesus Christ, either directly or through His Apostles.

    Our Lord commanded His Apostles to teach all these truths to the end of time. “Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations.”

Why should we BELIEVE in DIVINE REVELATION?

We should believe in Divine Revelation because God, Who is its Author, cannot deceive nor be deceived.

1. No reasonable man can believe in any truth until he is sure it is revealed by God. We know that God is the Author of Revelation because He has proved it by external acts, especially by miracles and prophecies.

    The writers who made Divine Revelation known worked under direct inspiration of the Holy Spirit, Who is, therefore, its Author.

2. Miracles are extraordinary works perceptible to the senses, that cannot be accomplished by the mere powers of nature. They are brought about by the action of a higher power.

    The coming to life of a dead man is a miracle. So is the instantaneous cure of a man blind or paralytic from birth. Our Lord and the Apostles worked many miracles.

3. Some extraordinary works never before heard of or known but invented are not miracles. They are mere discoveries of previously unknown processes or combinations.

    An example is the radio. And so were the first telegraph, telephone, wireless, phonograph, etc. All of these are very wonderful. Even today people in general do not understand them fully. But they are not miracles, because they are produced by the forces of nature as harnessed through the ingenuity of man.

4. Prophecies were God's word delivered by specially chosen men. The prophets, therefore, were God's heralds, or spokesmen. They constantly directed the people's attention to the final fulfillment of God's plan for salvation in the fullness of time. They believed that this plan would be fulfilled through a special individual whom the Jews called the Messiah, or “the anointed one.” Jesus Christ fulfilled these words of the prophets in a fullness of manner that they themselves could not have known.

How has Divine Revelation COME DOWN TO US?

Divine Revelation has come down to us through Holy Scripture, written down under divine inspiration, and through Tradition, handed down orally from Apostolic times.

1. From the time of Moses, at different times, God inspired men to write down His revelations. These passed from generation to generation as sacred books.

    For pre-Christian revelation, there were forty-five of these sacred books, composing the Old Testament. They were jealously guarded by the Israelites, the Chosen People, whom God Himself had chosen to keep His truths intact for the instruction of future generations.

2. Finally our Lord Jesus Christ, Son of God, came to earth to reveal Divine truths to men. After His death, His Apostles and disciples wrote about Him and His teachings.

    There are twenty-seven of these books, composing the New Testament. With the forty-five books of the Old Testament they were scattered in different parts of the world, until the Church gathered them together into one Book, Holy Scripture, or the Bible.

3. The deposit of faith which Jesus Christ entrusted to the Church has been preserved for us in Holy Scripture and Divine Tradition, the latter containing the clear exposition of many truths, principally by the Fathers of the Church.

    Divine Revelation was completed at the death of the last of the Apostles. Since that time no new revelation has been made for the instruction of the whole of mankind. Whenever the Church decides a point of faith, it does so according to Scripture or Tradition. It simply finds out what has been revealed from the beginning.

The Bible is the best Book in the world. It is the Word of God. It is better than any other book that has ever been written or ever will be written. Catholics are not only permitted, but urged, to read the Bible. They must read a version approved by the Catholic Church. Catholic Bibles have the necessary explanations for the guidance of the faithful. To find a text in the Bible, as Matt. 16:26, turn to the Gospel of St. Matthew, Chapter 16, verse 26. To find the text, 2 Tim. 3:16, turn to St. Paul's Second Epistle to Timothy, Chapter 3, verse 16. All texts are found in the same manner.

8. Holy Scripture, or The Bible

What is HOLY SCRIPTURE, or the BIBLE?

Holy Scripture is the story of God's revelation in history, written by men under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit, and contained in the Old and the New Testaments.

1. The seventy-two sacred books which make up the Bible were composed by many different writers in three languages: Hebrew, Aramaic, and Greek. The period of composition covers about 1,500 years, from Moses to St. John the Evangelist.

   "God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spoke in times past to the fathers by the prophets, last of all in these days has spoken to us by his Son" (Heb. 1:1).

2. The writers were inspired by God. By a supernatural influence God enlightened their mind and moved their will to write all that He wished, and only that. They acted as free instruments of God, Who directed them and preserved them from error.

The writers of Holy Scripture were, however, not passive instruments. Each writer brought his personality with him into what he wrote. The writers were like skilled painters who paint from the same model. The products are similar and all correct, but with differences according to talents.

Who is the AUTHOR OF THE BIBLE?

The principal author of the Bible is God; the human beings who wrote it were His free rational instruments.

(a) Since God is the chief author of the Bible, there could not have been any mistakes in the original text.

(b) The Bible is correctly called "the written word of God."

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
(c) The human authors of the Bible, though inspired, retained their individual style and methods of writing.
(d) Since the Bible is the Word of God, it must be treated with the greatest reverence, this is why we take solemn oaths on the Bible.

CAN the books of THE BIBLE be proved to BE RELIABLE historical records?—Yes.

1. We must remember that the Bible does not contain history as we ordinarily think of it, as a disinterested presentation of facts. It is religious history. Everything that happens is in its relation to God and God's redemption of man. Therefore, many things which are more important for the political or cultural history of mankind are omitted by the Bible if they are not directly connected with the story of salvation. Also, the Bible frequently attributes directly to God, the first cause, what we would say happened through the natural, or secondary causes.

Basically, however, the events described in the Bible are historically true. Archaeology has shown that these events actually took place. It has shown that the inspired writers were eye-witnesses of these events or that they had reliable records on which to base their accounts.

2. The Old Testament was recognized by Jesus Christ, approved by Him, and often quoted by Him. Evidences from the New Testament prove that this was written by Christ's Apostles and disciples.

That the writers lived in the first century is shown by the vividness of their knowledge about Jerusalem, which was destroyed before the end of that century. The earliest Christian writers testify to the reliability of the Gospels; the consent of the churches of the time proves such reliability.

3. The Gospels have not been changed by the passage of centuries. This can be proved from the oldest copies, from ancient translations and quotations. The Gospels could not have been altered, because the fervor of the early Christians carefully guarded them.

When in the fourth century St. Jerome was ordered by Pope Damasus to gather all existing texts of the Bible and translate them into Latin, there were some 35,000 ancient copies. After thirty-four years of labor, he finished the translation, our Catholic Bible, called the Latin Vulgate, from which many Catholic English versions have been made.

HOW IS the Bible DIVIDED?

The Bible is divided into TWO PARTS: the Old Testament and the New Testament.

1. The Old Testament, written before Christ, is generally divided into forty-five books:
   (a) Twenty-one historical books relating to the earliest ages of the world, or to the history of the Jews, among which books are the five books of Moses and the four books of Kings;
   (b) Seven doctrinal books, made up of maxims and prayers, among which are the Psalms and the Proverbs; and
   (c) Seventeen prophetical books, among which are Isaiah and Jeremiah.

2. The New Testament, written after the Ascension of Christ, consists of twenty-seven books:
   (a) The four Gospels according to Sts. Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John, containing the story of the "good news" of salvation;
   (c) Twenty-one epistles by Sts. Paul, James, Peter, John, and Jude; and
   (d) The Apocalypse by St. John.

The four Gospels and the Acts are mainly historical. The Epistles are doctrinal. The Apocalypse is prophetical.

THE FOUR EVANGELISTS

1. St. Matthew was one of the twelve Apostles. Before he followed Our Lord, he was a tax-gatherer or publican, called Levi. Matthew's Gospel is placed first in the New Testament. There is an ancient tradition that it was first written in Hebrew for the Jews of Palestine, and it was then translated into Greek. The Gospel shows that the Old Testament was fulfilled in Jesus Christ in a divine way, and that He established the "Kingdom of Heaven" on earth, i.e., the Church.

2. St. Mark was the disciple of St. Peter, and wrote according to what he heard from St. Peter himself.

The Gospel was written in Rome around the year 70 A.D. His purpose was to show that Jesus of Nazareth, who worked miracles and was crucified and rose from the dead, is truly the Messias and the Son of God.

3. St. Luke was born of Greek parents at Antioch in Syria. He became a Christian while he was still young and later joined St. Paul in his missionary journeys.

Since he was a Gentile himself, i.e., not a Jew, he wrote for other Gentiles and wanted to show that Jesus came to save everyone, Jew and Gentile alike.

4. St. John, Christ's beloved disciple, wrote his Gospel towards the end of his life, to testify that Jesus Christ is TRUE GOD.
Before the 15th century when printing was invented, the Bible was reproduced by copying in longhand. We should be very grateful to the monks and nuns of ancient times who labored lovingly, making manuscript copies of old documents that had come down from earliest times. Without this loving care, we would not have our Holy Bible today.

9. Divine Tradition

What is THE SOURCE of our faith?

The one source of our faith is Jesus Christ. Everything that He said and did is the foundation of Christianity. He is the full revelation of His Father.

How have the truths of Jesus Christ been preserved for us?

The truths of Jesus Christ have been preserved for us in the Bible and in Tradition. But these must not be considered as completely separate sources of revelation. They are very intimately connected. The Bible, and especially the New Testament, contains the Tradition of the early Church about Jesus Christ. These truths were written down in order that man might have some inspired basis for knowing what to believe. "But these are written that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing you may have life in his name" (John 20:31).

Is the Bible alone, then, sufficient for men?

In the second Epistle of St. Peter we read: "In these epistles (i.e., of St. Paul) there are certain things difficult to understand, which the unlearned and the un-
THE HOLY SCRIPTURE AT THE II VATICAN ECUMENICAL COUNCIL

Every morning after Mass, and immediately before the bishops’ discussion started, the procession and enthronization of the book of the Holy Gospels took place. Usually an archbishop would carry the book between two other prelates and two acolytes with lighted candles. While they moved from the entrance of the basilica to the altar, where Mass had just been offered, the bishops standing at their places, sang together the Apostles’ Creed (The “Credo”). While the Gospels passed in front of the bishops, they bowed their heads. The bishops remained standing till the book was placed upon the altar between two lighted candles. At the end of the session, the procession was renewed taking away the Gospels’ book.

Can the Church show a greater respect and veneration for the Gospels which represent the message of Christ?

stable distort, just as they do the rest of the Scriptures also, to their own destruction” (2 Peter 3:16). From this it is clear that there is needed some help in understanding the Scriptures completely. This help is provided by the same Church which produced the Scriptures in the first place. Since she produced them, she alone knows the full meaning of their content.

What is TRADITION?

Tradition is the authoritative teaching of the Church concerning the truths of Jesus Christ. Unlike the Scriptures, Tradition is not confined to the first century. The successors of the Apostles continued to teach the truths of Christianity, making them clearer and more explicit, and adapting them to the changing conditions of man throughout history.

Thus, when men arose and attacked some truth about Christianity, the Church clearly defined that truth so that no one would be misled. This was Tradition working in the Church.

Tradition continues in the Church even today. When the Holy Father defines a dogma of the faith, he is not creating a new truth, but he is making clear a truth that was contained in the deposit of faith given us by Jesus Christ. And so Tradition is a living force in the Church. Without it the truths contained in the Bible could possibly be misunderstood.
Before printing was invented about 1450, books could be reproduced only by making manuscript copies on parchment or sheepskin. A complete Bible cost a fortune, because of the time and expense necessary for copying. Copyists made mistakes, or abbreviations which others misunderstood. The illustration shows manuscripts in Hebrew, Greek, and Latin, the languages oftenest used in early Bible copies. They give an idea of the difficulties before the invention of printing.

10. The Church and Divine Revelation

How did Christ intend His truths to be brought to man?

It was mainly by the preaching and teaching of the Apostles and their successors that He wanted His truths brought to all mankind. Our Lord said, “Go, make disciples of all nations.” “Preach the Gospel to every creature.” “He that hears you hears me.” And the Apostles “...went forth and preached everywhere, while the Lord worked with them” (Mark 16:20).

Is not the Bible at all important, then?

1. It would have been possible for the Church to bring the truths of Jesus Christ to all mankind without the Bible. In fact, in the first years of Christianity the Church did make many Christians without the New Testament at all. It was not completed until the end of the first century, and by that time there were already many Christians who knew nothing at all about it.

2. Even today it is possible for many people to learn about Jesus Christ without reading the Scriptures. There are many who are unable to read for various reasons, but they can still learn about Our Lord from the missionaries who preach to them.

3. Even though this is all true, we know that God did want to give us the inspired Scriptures. Just from this fact alone we... know that the Bible is very important. It contains God's own words, written down by men whom He chose, and containing the basic truths of our faith. The Bible is very important, therefore, because God gave it to us and because of what it contains.

What is the ATTITUDE of the Catholic Church to the Bible?

1. The Catholic Church accepts the Bible as the word of God. Because of this she gives it the highest respect, and has always tried to preserve it from being lost or corrupted in any way. The Church has always encouraged the translation of the Bible into the various languages of man, and she has encouraged the faithful to read the Bible every day.

Unfortunately, it was believed by many in the past that the Catholic Church kept the Bible from the people. On the contrary, she was always interested in translating it into the languages of the people. For example, we know that a good part of the Bible was translated into the language of Northern England in the eighth century, even though there were relatively few people who spoke that language. And before 1500 there already existed at least sixteen Catholic translations of the complete Bible in Germany alone.

2. But the Church also believes that the Bible must be understood correctly. There must be some means of determining the right meaning of the text. Otherwise we could never be completely sure of what the meaning is. The teaching power of the Church guarantees us this proper interpretation.

3. Therefore, it is ultimately the Church who must be the guardian of divine revelation. While the Bible is an excellent means of learning about Our Lord and of growing in love of Him, we still need the living voice of the Church to guide us and keep us from error. Before His Ascension into heaven, Our Lord said to the Apostles, "All power in heaven and on earth has been given to me. Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you, and behold, I am with you all days, even unto the consummation of the world" (Matt. 28:18-20).

FATHERS OF THE CHURCH

All the truths of Divine Tradition now have found their way into books. From the first Christian centuries the practices and doctrines of Tradition were preserved by saintly teachers whom we call Fathers of the Church. They were disciples of the Apostles, contemporaries of those disciples, or disciples of the disciples. These holy and learned men instructed the Church in the years of its first growth.

Chief among the Fathers of the first six centuries (date is of death) are: Saint Clement of Rome (99), Saint Ignatius of Antioch (107), Saint Polycarp (155), Saint Justin, Martyr (165), Saint Irenaeus (202), Saint Cyprian (258), Saint Dionysius (265), Saint Gregory Thaumaturgus (270), Saint Optatus (372), Saint Martin of Tours (397), Saint Gregory of Nyssa (398), Saint Epiphanius (403), Saint Celestine I (432), Saint Vincent of Lerins (450), and Saint Cae carius of Arles (542).

DOCTORS OF THE CHURCH

Besides the writings of the Fathers, the truths of Divine Tradition may be found chiefly in: (a) writings of the Doctors of the Church; (b) decrees of Popes and Church councils; and (c) the liturgy of the Church as found in the Missal and rituals.

We call "Doctors of the Church" those ecclesiastical writers, noted for learning and holiness of life, who have by Church authority been proclaimed with that title, and whose feasts have been extended to the whole Western Church. Among the Fathers of the Church, these are honored as Doctors: Saints Hilary (368), Athanasius (379), Ephraem (378), Basil the Great (379), Cyril of Jerusalem (386), Gregory Nazianzen (389), Ambrose (397), John Chrysostom (407), Jerome (420), Augustine (430), Cyril of Alexandria (444), Peter Chrysologus (450), Leo the Great (461), and Gregory the Great (604).
A good concrete illustration of the Blessed Trinity is an equilateral triangle. Such a triangle has three sides equal in every way, and yet distinct from each other. There are three sides, but only one triangle. As we see in this illustration, each Divine Person is different from the other two, but all three are God. Each one is God, distinct from the two others, and yet one with them. The three Persons are equal in every way, with one nature and one substance: three Divine Persons, but only one God.

11. One God in Three Persons

Is there ONLY ONE GOD?

Yes, there is only one God.

"I am the first and I am the last; there is no God but me" (Is. 44:6). There can be only one God, because only one can be supreme, all-powerful, and independent of all.

HOW MANY PERSONS are there in God?

In God there are three Divine Persons—the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit.

1. In speaking of the "Persons" in God, we do not use the term in exactly the same way we use it when speaking of people. We use it only for lack of a word to show our meaning better.

In speaking of a man as a "person," we mean that he is an intelligent being, acting individually for himself. The acts he performs belong to him and he is responsible for them—he himself, not his tongue, nor his mind, nor his whole body even, but the whole of himself.

We speak of three "Persons" in God because to each belongs something we cannot attribute to any other: His distinct origin.

From all eternity the Father begets the Son, and the Son proceeds from the Father. From all eternity the Father and Son breathe forth the Holy Spirit, and He proceeds from Them, as from one Source.

What do we mean by the Blessed Trinity?

By the Blessed Trinity we mean one and the same God in three divine Persons.

1. The Father is God and the First Person of the Blessed Trinity. Omnipotence, and especially the work of creation, is attributed to God the Father.
God the Father could have created millions of beings instead of you yourself; but He chose you out of a love wholly undeserved, saying, “With age-old love I have loved you” (Jer. 31:3). Let us then cry in thanksgiving, “Abba, Father!” (Rom. 8:15). Let us show our gratitude by avoiding all that could displease God the Father, by trying to please Him with virtue, by trying for greater perfection, in obedience to that injunction of Our Lord’s: “You therefore are to be perfect, even as your heavenly Father is perfect” (Matt. 5:48).

2. The Son is God and the Second Person of the Blessed Trinity. To God the Son we owe our redemption from sin and eternal death; by His death He gave us life.

For us God the Son debased Himself, taking the form of a servant, . . . “becoming obedient to death, even to death on a cross” (Phil. 2:8). In Holy Communion we are united with Him, for He Himself said: “He who eats my flesh, and drinks my blood, abides in me and I in him” (John 6:57). In return we should be “other Christs,” and, as the Apostle urged, “walk even as He walked.”

3. The Holy Spirit is God and the Third Person of the Blessed Trinity. He manifests Himself in us particularly in our sanctification. The word “Ghost” applied to the Third Person also means “Spirit.”

At our Baptism God the Holy Spirit purifies us from all sin and fills our souls with divine grace, so that we become truly children of God, sons and heirs, and co-heirs with Jesus Christ. By Baptism we become living temples of the Holy Spirit: “Or do you not know that your members are the temple of the Holy Spirit, who is in you?” (1 Cor. 6:19).

In return for such benefits we should make our body the instrument for the glory of God, keeping it from all stain of sin, adorning it with virtues. “Glorify God and bear him in your body” (1 Cor. 6:20). Let us keep our souls a sanctuary for the Holy Spirit, that God may be happy to dwell in us.

Are the THREE DIVINE PERSONS really DISTINCT from one another?

The three Divine Persons are really distinct from one another.

“So there is one Father, not three Fathers; one Son, not three Sons; one Holy Spirit, not three Holy Spirits. And in this Trinity nothing is afar or after, nothing is greater or less; but the whole three Persons are co-eternal together, and co-equal. So that in all things, as is aforesaid, the unity in Trinity, and the Trinity in unity is to be worshipped.” (From the Athanasian Creed.)

1. This is the simplest way by which the distinct origin of each Divine Person has been explained: God is a spirit, and the first act of a Spirit is to know and understand.

God, knowing Himself from all eternity, brings forth the knowledge of Himself, His own image. This was not a mere thought, as our knowledge of ourselves would be, but a Living Person, of the same substance and one with the Father. This is God the Son. Thus the Father “begets” the Son, the Divine Word, the Wisdom of the Father.

“In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God; and the Word was God” (John 1:1).

2 God the Father, seeing His own Image in the Son, loves the Son; and God the Son loves the Father from all eternity. Each loves the other, because each sees in the other the Infinity of the Godhead, the beauty of Divinity, the Supreme Truth of God. The two Persons loving each other do not just have a thought, as human beings would have, but from Their mutual love is breathed forth, as it were, a Living Person, one with Them, and of Their own substance. This is God the Holy Spirit. Thus the Holy Spirit, the Spirit of Love, “proceeds” from the Father and the Son.

“But when the Advocate has come, whom I will send you from the Father, the Spirit of truth who proceed from the Father, he will bear witness concerning me” (John 15:26).

3. But we are not to suppose that once God the Father begot the Son and now no longer does so, nor that once the love of the Father and the Son for each other breathed forth the Holy Spirit, but now no longer does. These truths are eternal, everlasting.

God the Father eternally knows Himself, and continues to know Himself, and thus continues to bring forth the Son. God the Father and God the Son continue to love each other, and their delight in each other continues to bring forth the Spirit of Love, God the Holy Spirit. In a similar way, fire has light and color. As long as there is fire, it continues to produce light. As long as there is fire with light, there is produced color. But all three exist at one and the same time.

4. In this imperfect way we vaguely see that God must necessarily be three Divine Persons, because only in that way can God with His Divine Knowledge and Will be complete in Himself.

Our Lord Jesus Christ spoke to us of the Blessed Trinity when before the Ascension He said to His Apostles: “Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit” (Matt. 28:19).
"And the Catholic Faith is this, that we worship one God in Trinity, and Trinity in unity. Neither confounding the Persons, nor dividing the Substance... But the Godhead of the Father, of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit is one, the glory equal, the majesty co-eternal. The Father is made of none, neither created, nor begotten. The Son is of the Father alone: not made, nor created, but begotten. The Holy Spirit is of the Father and the Son: not made, nor created, nor begotten, but proceeding... And in this Trinity nothing is afore or after, nothing is greater or less, but the whole three Persons are co-eternal together, and co-equal" (From the Athanasian Creed).

12. Unity of the Blessed Trinity

Are the THREE DIVINE PERSONS perfectly EQUAL to one another?

The three divine Persons are perfectly equal to one another, because all are one and the same God.

"Such as the Father is, such is the Son, and such is the Holy Spirit. The Father Uncreated, the Son Uncreated, and the Holy Spirit Uncreated. The Father Infinite, the Son Infinite, and the Holy Spirit Infinite. The Father Eternal, the Son Eternal, and the Holy Spirit Eternal, and yet they are not Three Eternals but One Eternal. As also there are not Three Uncreated, nor Three Infinite, but One Uncreated, and One Infinite. (The Athanasian Creed.)

All three Persons are equal in every way, equal in power and glory. The attributes and external works of God are common to all three Persons. However, in human speech we attribute certain works to each Person.

Thus we attribute to the Father the works of creation, to the Son the work of redemption, and to the Holy Spirit the work of sanctification. In reality these works belong equally to all three.

How are the three divine Persons, though really distinct from one another, ONE AND THE SAME GOD?

The three divine Persons, though really distinct from one another, are one and the same God because all have one and the same divine nature.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Unity of the Blessed Trinity

1. Each of the divine Persons is God.

"So the Father is God, the Son is God, and the Holy Spirit is God. And yet they are not three Gods, but one God. For, like as we are compelled by Christian truth to acknowledge every Person by Himself to be God and Lord, so are we forbidden by the Catholic Religion to say, there be three Gods or three Lords." (From the Athanasian Creed.)

2. There are three Persons, but only ONE Being. The Father is neither the Son nor the Holy Spirit. The Son is neither the Father nor the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit is neither the Father nor the Son.

It was the Son Who became man and died for us, not the Father or the Holy Spirit. But when we receive God the Son in Holy Communion, we also spiritually receive God the Father and God the Holy Spirit. The Blessed Trinity then dwells in us as in a Temple.

Can we fully understand how the three divine Persons, though really distinct from one another, are one and the same God?

We cannot fully understand how the three divine Persons, though really distinct from one another, are one and the same God, because this is a supernatural mystery.

1. A supernatural mystery is a truth which we cannot fully understand, but which we firmly believe because we have God's word for it. A supernatural mystery is above reason, but not contrary to it. No man can explain a mystery; neither can anyone know it unless it is revealed by God. To understand a mystery, a finite mind would have to comprehend the infinite.

It is not unreasonable to believe in a supernatural mystery. There are many natural mysteries around us that no one has yet been able to explain, yet we believe them: electricity, magnetism, force, and many of the processes of life.

2. The doctrine of the Blessed Trinity is a strict mystery; that is, we cannot learn it from reason, nor understand it completely, even after it has been revealed to us.

The doctrine contains two truths our reason cannot fully understand: (1) that there is only one God; and (2) that each of the three Persons is God. We can understand each of these truths separately, but not when taken together.

3. The mystery of the Blessed Trinity is not a contradiction. We do not say that there are three gods in one God, nor that the three divine Persons are one Person.

We only say that there are three Persons in one God, that is, three Persons, and one nature or essence. Somewhat similarly, the soul of man has will, understanding, and memory, but it is only one soul.

WHY DO WE BELIEVE in the mystery of the Blessed Trinity?

We believe in the mystery of the Blessed Trinity because God Himself revealed it to us.

It would be foolish to refuse to believe just because we cannot understand; that would be like a blind man who refuses to believe there is a sun, because he cannot see it. Is God limited because we are?

1. The mystery of the Trinity was only revealed in the New Testament period. Therefore we would not expect to find references to it in the Old Testament.

God had to prepare His people gradually for the revelation of His truths.

2. Our Lord Jesus Christ revealed the mystery. He said:

"Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit" (Matt. 28:19).

"But when the Advocate has come, whom I will send you from the Father, the Spirit of truth who proceeds from the Father, he will bear witness concerning me" (John 15:26).

3. The Blessed Trinity manifested Itself at the baptism of Jesus Christ.

God the Father spoke from the heavens; God the Son was baptized; God the Holy Spirit descended in visible form, in the form of a dove.

WHEN DO WE PROFESS OUR FAITH in the Blessed Trinity?

We profess our faith in the Blessed Trinity especially when we make the sign of the cross.

1. We also honor the Blessed Trinity every time we say the doxology or "prayer of praise": "Glory be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Spirit. As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be world without end."

The Feast of the Blessed Trinity, called Trinity Sunday, is kept on the first Sunday after Pentecost.

2. All the sacraments are administered in the name of the Blessed Trinity.

On our death-bed the Church through the priest will comfort us with the words: "Even though he hath sinned, he hath not denied the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit."
God is almighty. He can make anything from nothing, by a mere act of His divine will. It was thus that He created the heavens and earth and everything that is in them. Man can make many wonderful things, but he must make them out of something. He must use the things God created. Before he can make a stone house, he must have stone, cement, brick, etc. But God needs nothing to make anything. Only God could create the very first thing or matter in the universe.

13. Creation

What do we mean when we say that GOD is the CREATOR of HEAVEN and EARTH?

When we say that God is the Creator of heaven and earth, we mean that He made all things from nothing by His almighty power.

"All things were made through him, and without him was made nothing" (John 1:3) "For in him were created all things in the heavens and on earth, things visible and things invisible" (Col. 1:16).

1. In the beginning God alone lived. Then out of nothing, by His almighty power, He created heaven and earth, and all things in heaven and on earth. Only God can create; that is, He alone can make something out of nothing. Time began with this creation. Before it there was only eternity.

"Before the mountains were begotten and the earth and the world were brought forth, from everlasting to everlasting you are God" (Ps. 89:2).

2. God created heaven and earth, and everything in heaven and earth. By this is meant everything which is not God. "Heaven" refers to the angels and their abode; and "earth" to all the material universe, including the earth, stars, planets, and all things and beings in them.

God created everything by an act of His will. "He spoke, and it was made; he commanded, and it stood forth" (Ps. 32:9).

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
What does the BIBLE tell us ABOUT the CREATION of the WORLD?

The story of the creation of the world is contained in the first chapter and the first three verses of the second chapter of the Book of Genesis. This story was written by a Hebrew author who wished to tell his readers in the simplest way possible that God made everything.

Since he was teaching an important truth in story form he had to give it movement and a certain logical order. Therefore, he chose the framework of a seven-day week, with six days of work and one of rest. This was the way in which the Israelites led their lives and they could best understand the work of creation when told in this form. Also, it shows that God's work is an orderly work. Creation was not the result of chaotic confusion.

1. Since this seven-fold division of God's activity is an artificial division, it follows that the assignment of the various works to the various days must also be artificial. What the author wanted to emphasize was that everything came ultimately from God.

2. Some of the important truths that are contained in this story of creation are the following:

   We can notice, as part of this logical or artificial division, that the first three days are devoted to the various parts of the universe, and the last three days to the beings that inhabit those parts.

   a) The one God, an absolute Lord, has created all things and is utterly distinct from them. "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth" (Gen. 1:1).

   b) God's will is all-powerful. He has only to speak and the elements of the universe appear and are organized. "God said, 'Let there be light,' and there was light" (Gen. 1:3).

3. MAN is the supreme good and goal of creation. He bears God's image and thereby surpasses all the other works of creation. "God created man in his image. In the image of God he created him" (Gen. 1:27).

   Because of this superiority of man he is to have dominion over all the animals "... let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, the birds of the air, the cattle, over all the wild animals and every creature that crawls on the earth" (Gen. 1:26).

4. The rhythm of man's earthly life is to be that of the seven-day week with its one day of rest. By describing God as resting on the seventh day the author teaches that the Lord has sanctified the Sabbath. The Lord has made holy the work of man and all his leisure. "God blessed the seventh day and made it holy because on it he rested from all his work of creation" (Gen. 2:3).

   It can also be added that the author's attention to all the details of creation throughout the account teaches us that God is interested in all the details of our daily existence.

IS THERE NO CONTRADICTION BETWEEN the account in the book of GENESIS, AND the latest discoveries of SCIENCE, concerning THE ORIGIN OF MATTER?

No, there is not the least contradiction between the account in the book of Genesis, and the latest discoveries of science, concerning the origin of matter.

An apparent contradiction arises through the mistake of uninformed persons, who forget that the Church reads the Bible bearing in mind the principal object of the sacred writers.

1. In writing the account of the creation, the sacred writer under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, wished to impress upon the Jews (for whom he was writing) that there is but one God, and that He created the entire universe, living and lifeless.

   At that time the Jews were surrounded by idolatrous peoples who believed in the existence of many gods, and worshipped all kinds of creatures, even the sun, moon, plants, animals, and images.

2. In pursuing his aim, the sacred writer used the form that was most effective, under the circumstances, to convey his meaning. It is a popular form: that is, it relates historical events in popular expression and order.

   The words used, while in themselves not scientific terms, are in conformity with ordinary speech, and understandable by ordinary people. In the same way today we say, “The sun rises in the east,” even when we know through the investigations of science that the sun does not “rise” at all. Events are set down in an order not necessarily scientific, but suited to the understanding of a primitive people, and therefore of all mankind. We must remember that the sacred writer was not aiming to teach physics or anthropology, but Faith.
As a practical demonstration that there is no contradiction between Divine Revelation and Science, we here list some of the thousands of scientists who through the ages have been practising members of the Catholic Church and at the same time outstanding in Science. These men not only found no conflict between science and religion, but became more firm in their faith as they delved deeper into science. As Alguè, S. J., a priest, invented the barocyclometer, to detect approach of cyclones.

Ampère was founder of the science of electrodynamics, and investigator of the laws of electro-magnetism.

Becquerel, Antoine César, was the founder of electrochemistry.

Becquerel, Antoine Henri, was the discoverer of radio-activity.

Binet, mathematician and astronomer, set forth the principle, “Binet’s Theorem.”

Braille invented the Braille system for the blind.

Campani, an astronomer, was an expert in the building of telescopes.

Carrel, Nobel prize winner in medicine and physiology, is renowned for his work in surgical technique.

Cassiodorus, a priest, invented the watch.

Castelli, a monk, authority on hydraulics, first studied the “velocity of efflux.”

Cesalpino, a Papal physician, was the first to construct a system of botany.

Clavius, a Jesuit, introduced the use of the decimal point.

Colombo discovered the pulmonary circulation of the blood.

Copernicus, a canon, expounded the Copernican system.

Coulomb established the fundamental laws of static electricity.

De Chauliac, a Papal physician, was the father of modern surgery.

De Vico, a priest, discovered six comets.

Descartes founded analytical geometry.

Dumas invented a method of ascertaining vapor densities.

Endlicher, botanist and historian, established a new system of classifying plants.

Eustachio, for whom the Eustachian tube was named, was one of the founders of modern anatomy.

Fabricius discovered the valvular system of the veins.

Fallopian, for whom the Fallopian tube was named, was an eminent physiologist.

Fizeau was the first to determine experimentally the velocity of light.

Foucault invented the first practical electric arc lamp; he refuted the corpuscular theory of light; he invented the gyroscope.

Fraunhofer was initiator of spectrum analysis; he established laws of diffraction.

Fresnel contributed more to the science of optics than any other man.

Galilei, a great astronomer, is the father of experimental science.

Marconi, one of the greatest scientists of our time, declared: “Science alone is unable to explain many things, and most of all, the greatest of mysteries—the mystery of our existence. I believe, not only as a Catholic, but also as scientist.” We do not include here the names of Catholics preeminent in navigation, architecture, art, music or literature, limiting ourselves to natural and physical science (See list on page 140).

Galvani, one of the pioneers of electricity, was also an anatomist and physiologist.

Goja, father of scientific navigation, contributed to the development of the mariner’s compass.

Gramme invented the Gramme dynamo.

Gutenberg invented printing.

Herzog contributed much toward finding a cure for infantile paralysis.

Holland invented the first practical submarine.

Kircher, a priest, made the first definite statement of the germ theory of disease, and was the inventor of the magic lantern.

Lacordaire, an entomologist, was the foremost authority on beetles.

Laennec invented the stethoscope.

Lancisi, a Papal physician, was the father of clinical medicine.

Lateille was pioneer in entomology.

Lavoisier is called Father of Modern Chemistry.

LeVerrier discovered the planet Neptune.

Malpighi, a Papal physician, was a botanist, and the father of comparative physiology.

Marconi’s place in radio is unsurpassed.

Mariotte discovered Mariotte’s law of gases.

Mendel, a monk, first established the laws of heredity, which gave the final blow to the theory of natural selection.

Morgagni was the founder of modern pathology.

Muller was the greatest biologist of the 19th century, founder of modern physiology.

Pascal demonstrated practically that a column of air has weight.

Pasteur, called the “Father of Bacteriology,” and inventor of bio-therapeutics, was the leading scientist of the 19th century.

Picard, a priest, was the first to measure accurately a degree of the meridian.

Regiomontanus (Johann Müller), a Bishop and Papal astronomer, was the father of modern astronomy.

Scheiner, a priest, invented the pantograph, and made a telescope that permitted the first systematic investigation of sun spots.

Secchi invented the meteorograph.

Steno (Stensen), a Bishop, was the father of geology.

Theodoric, a Bishop, discovered anaesthesia in the 19th century.

Torricelli invented the barometer.

Vesalius was the founder of modern anatomical science.

Volta invented the first complete galvanic battery; the “volt” is named after him.

14. Revelation and Science

Do Revelation and Science CONTRADICTION EACH OTHER?

No; Revelation and Science do not, and cannot contradict each other, for both are of God.

1. There may at times be an apparent conflict between faith and science; but this is only apparent, and never real. God cannot contradict Himself. He cannot lead us into error.

True Science is the handmaid of Religion. Science and the scientific method are means of arriving at the truth, and Religion is Truth. The greatest scientists have been Christians; a majority of outstanding leaders in science were Catholics, and many were priests. Only the shallow dabbler in science absurdly pretend that there is a conflict. The apparent conflicts arise from false interpretations, as when one takes for scientific truth what is false or not proved, or accepts as a doctrine of faith something not taught by the Church.

2. There can never be a real conflict between Revelation and Science, because they deal with entirely different spheres. Revelation is concerned with Faith and spiritual things; physical Science is concerned only with material things.

The Bible's purpose is to teach salvation; but people make the mistake of considering it a treatise on Science. St. Thomas and St. Augustine taught that when the Bible describes some phenomenon of nature, it sets it down in terms of its appearances.

3. No scientific experiment or theory can dispense with the necessity of a Creator. Unless His existence is accepted, we can never explain: (a) the origin of matter, even the most elementary; (b) the origin of motion; (c) the origin of the very first living organism, and of the spiritual soul of man; and (d) the origin of the order and law so apparent in the universe.

What are the difficulties found by some scientists in the Biblical account of the creation?

The difficulties found by some scientists in the Biblical account of the Creation are connected with the order or sequence of events followed in the Book of Genesis.

1. If we study the proper interpretation, even these difficulties will be found not to exist.

The account in the Book of Genesis is in logical, not chronological, order. The writer groups together similar works of creation, for the easier understanding of a primitive people.

2. The Church has not made any positive definition of the way in which the Biblical account of Creation is to be interpreted.

Catholics are free to accept the interpretation that they prefer so long as they also accept the fact taught: that God created the whole universe and everything in it.

3. Neither Revelation nor Science gives a definite answer to the question concerning the age of the world. Geologists assert that long periods of time were necessary for the formation of the various strata of the earth's surface. Astronomers assert that some stars are a million light-years from the earth.

A Catholic is free to hold on this point whatever he believes is a sound and scientific conclusion. The estimates of scientists vary.
Whoever we are, wherever we are, each of us has always a guardian angel at our side. He sees everything we do: both good and evil. We should always be very careful not to offend or hurt him. We should often thank him for his love and care. We should ask him to intercede with God for us in our necessities. We should pray to him often, especially in temptation or danger.

15. The Angels

Which are THE CHIEF CREATURES OF GOD?

The chief creatures of God are angels and men.

1. God created angels and men for His own external glory. Their creation was a reflection of His wisdom and greatness. By reason alone we cannot know that angels exist. However, reason indicates that in the orderly sequence of creatures from the lowest to the highest, there would be a greater gap between man and God, did not the angels exist.

2. God created angels and men for their good and happiness. They find their happiness in their union with God. God did not create angels or men for His own happiness He is perfectly happy in Himself alone.

What are ANGELS?

Angels are created spirits, without bodies, having understanding and free will.

Angels are spiritual beings superior to man and inferior to God; this is of faith. We do not know the number of angels, but we can infer from Holy Scripture that their number is very great.

1. Before the creation of man, God created hosts of angels. They are pure spirits, without bodies, in contrast to men, who have both body and spirit.

When angels or devils appear to men, they assume human form or some other visible shape. Thus the angels that appeared to the Blessed Virgin and to Zachary assumed human form.

2. Even demons are pure spirits. They were angels before they became devils.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Even the devils do service to God, since God always turns the attacks of the devil to show forth more brightly His own glory.

WHAT GIFTS did God bestow on the angels when He created them?

When God created the angels He bestowed on them great wisdom, power, and holiness.

1. Angels are the most excellent beings created by God. They are nobler in nature than men. They know more, and have greater power. Of all God’s creatures, angels resemble Him most.

We can imply the knowledge of the angels from the words of Our Lord: "But of that day (the day of Judgment) and hour no one knows, not even the angels of heaven, but the Father only" (Matt. 24:36). The power of angels was shown in Egypt when one destroyed all the first-born of the Egyptians; another angel destroyed the hosts of the Assyrian King, for blaspheming God.

2. The angels were not created equal. They rank according to the amount of gifts given, and the work assigned to them.

In the Bible nine choirs of angels are mentioned: seraphim, cherubim, Thrones, Dominations, Virtues, Powers, Principalities, Archangels, and angels.

Did all the angels remain faithful to God?

Not all the angels remained faithful to God; some of them sinned.

1. God gave free will to the angels, as He did to men. He put them to a test, in order to make them earn the happiness of heaven. We do not know the nature of this test.

2. In this trial, many angels using their free will, refused to submit themselves to God; for this serious sin they were punished.

"For God did not spare the angels when they sinned, but dragged them down by infernal ropes" (2 Pet. 2:4). Wherever the devils were later permitted to go, they had in a way their hell with them, for they were forever deprived of the love of God.

What HAPPENED to the ANGELS who remained FAITHFUL to God?

The angels who remained faithful to God entered into the eternal happiness of heaven, and these are called good angels.

"See that you do not despise one of these little ones; for I tell you, their angels in heaven always behold the face of my Father" (Matt. 18:10).

The good angels behold the face of God continually, praise and glorify Him, and are perfectly happy in His presence.

Angels are commonly represented with wings to show the speed with which they pass from place to place. They are also shown as small children to show their innocence and perpetual youth. They have harps, to indicate their perpetual praise of God, and lilies, to symbolize their perfect purity.

How do the good ANGELS HELP US?

The good angels help us by praying for us, by acting as messengers from God to us, and by serving as our guardian angels.

"For to the angels He has given command about you, that they guard you in all your ways. Upon their hands they shall bear you up, lest you dash your foot against a stone" (Ps. 90:11-12).

1. The good angels are God’s messengers and often reveal God’s will to man.

The angel Raphael accompanied Tobias on his journey. The angel Gabriel was sent to the Blessed Virgin Mary at the Annunciation. Angels appeared to the shepherds at the Nativity. An angel was sent to St. Joseph after the departure of the Magi, and after the death of Herod. Angels appeared to the women at Christ’s sepulchre, and to Mary Magdalen.

2. Certain angels have special charge of nations, communities, churches, etc. Our Lord Himself several times spoke of angels, especially the guardian angels.

How do our GUARDIAN angels help us?

Our guardian angels help us by praying for us, by protecting us from harm, and by inspiring us to do good.

1. Our guardian angels are given special care of us, watching over each from birth to death.

We should always love and pray to our Guardian Angel who never leaves our side. The Church celebrates the feast of the Guardian Angels on October 2.

2. Our guardian angels put good thoughts into our minds, moving our will to what is good. They protect us in dangers of soul and body. They offer our prayers and good works to God. They pray for us. They help us in our work and needs.

For instance, angels kept Daniel safe in the lions’ den, and the three young men in the fiery furnace. We often hear of little children meeting with accidents and escaping unhurt. But the chief work of our guardian angels is to keep us safe from the devil.
It was the archangel Michael who led the good angels: "And there was a great battle in heaven; Michael and his angels battled with the dragon, and the dragon fought and his angels. And they did not prevail, neither was their place found any more in heaven" (Ap. 12:7, 8).

16. The Devils; Temptation

What happened to the ANGELS who did NOT remain FAITHFUL to God?

The angels who did not remain faithful to God were cast into hell, and these are called bad angels, or devils.

"Depart from me, accursed ones, into the everlastings which was prepared for the devil and his angels" (Matt. 25:41).

1. We also call them demons or fallen angels. Led by the most excellent of the angels created by God, Lucifer or Satan, the bad angels refused to obey God when He tested them. Their choice was final, and God cast them at once into hell.

"How have you fallen from the heavens, O Lucifer... You said in your heart: 'Above the stars of God I will set my throne' " (Is. 14:12). Jesus said, "I was watching Satan fall as lightning from heaven" (Luke 10:18).

2. God did not create devils, but glorious angels. The rebel angels turned themselves into devils by their sin.

By one grave sin these angels of light were condemned to hell for all eternity. We should draw a lesson from this and determine never to sin.

What is the CHIEF WAY in which the bad angels try to HARM US?

The chief way in which the bad angels try to harm us is by tempting us to sin.

1. The bad angels tempt man and try to draw him away from God. Often the devil appears as an angel of light, and we are tempted by evil which appears good. Under this guise the devil is most dangerous.

"Be sober, be watchful! For your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, goes about seeking someone to devour" (1 Pet. 5:8-9).

2. Without God's permission, the devil can do us no harm. God sometimes permits the devil to tempt just men, to cleanse them from imperfections.

Our Lord Himself was tempted by the devil. God permitted Job to be harmed bodily by the devil. Saint Anthony, Saint Teresa, and many other saints suffered from the temptations of the evil one. But these temptations only drive the just to greater love of God. "Is not man's life on earth a drudgery" (Job 7:1).

3. Sometimes devils are permitted to enter the body of a man, exercising power over his faculties; this is called diabolic...
"possession." At other times devils torment one from without; and this state is called diabolic "obsession."

When God permits diabolic obsession or possession, it is to show in some way His glory, or to punish sin, convert sinners, or provide some means for the practice of virtue.

4. In cases of diabolic possession or obsession, the aid of the Church should be sought; for the Church received from Christ the power of exorcism. This is the act of driving out or warding off evil spirits.

It is only with the permission of his bishop that a priest is permitted to exorcise evil spirits.

5. The Church forbids Catholics to have anything to do with spiritism. This is calling up the spirits of the dead.

Some manifestations are spirit-rapping, table-lifting, slate-writing, apparitions, communications through mediums in a state of trance. Most of the spiritist seances are fraudulent, but sometimes the devil manifests himself. God can permit the souls of the dead to return to earth. But there is no indication that He permits Himself to obey mediums. The devil may sometimes impersonate the spirits of the dead. Satan is old and skillful in deceit, and can assume the appearance of an angel of light.

Do all temptations COME from the BAD ANGELS?

Some temptations come from the bad angels; but other temptations come from ourselves and from the persons and things about us.

1. This is what we mean when we say that temptations come to us from the flesh, the world, and the devil.

The evil inclinations of our weak and corrupted nature tempt us to sin. The world, with its sinful wants and vanities, tempts us to sin. The devil goes about continually tempting us, making use of both our nature and the world for his evil purposes.

2. In itself, temptation is not a sin. It becomes sinful only when: (a) we bring it upon ourselves by carelessness or over-confidence; (b) we play with, take pleasure in, or yield to it.

The greatest saints have often been most strongly tempted. Our Lord even permitted Himself to be tempted. Thus we see that temptation is not a sin, because we are not responsible for it.

3. God permits us to be tempted in order to try us, to let us win an eternal reward.

"Because you were acceptable to God, it was necessary that temptation should prove you" (Tob. 12:13).

Temptations serve to keep us humble. God permits all mankind to have temptations, but never temptation beyond their strength to resist. "God is faithful and will not permit you to be tempted beyond your strength" (Cor. 10:13).

4. The stronger the temptation, the greater the graces God gives for its conquest.

The conquest by the saints of wicked temptations have made them greater saints. Christ Himself was tempted by the devil, to gluttony, to avarice, and to pride. He wanted to show us that by resisting we may rise to greater love of God.

CAN we ALWAYS RESIST temptations?

We can always resist temptations, because no temptation can force us into sin, and God will always help us if we ask Him.

The length of time during which a temptation persists does not make it sinful, if we continue resisting it. A temptation may attack us all our lives, but as long as we fight it, or pay no attention to it, as long as we do not yield, we commit no sin. We have not been conquered, and God will reward us for the good fight.

1. No temptation can do us harm if we obey God's laws and keep away from sin.

If we resist, temptation will flee from us.

Our lot for all eternity depends entirely on ourselves. God votes for heaven; the devil votes for hell. The deciding vote is ours. Shall we vote for heaven or for hell? "Resist the devil, and he will flee from you" (James 4:7).

2. When assailed by temptation, one must at once resist. It is easier to conquer temptation at the beginning than later on, just as a fire is easier to put out at the outset.

Since nothing can be done without divine grace, one must pray. One must imitate the Apostles who had recourse to Jesus when a storm arose. Let him say at once, "Lord, make haste to help me!"

3. Some remedies against temptation are:

(a) Watchfulness and prayer.

"Watch and pray, that you may not enter into temptation" (Matt. 26:41). Avoid idleness, keeping always occupied, either by work, or by wholesome recreation. If evil thoughts enter the mind, think of other things, in this way ignoring the temptation.

(b) Frequent Confession and Holy Mass with Communion.

(c) Devotion to the Blessed Virgin and the Guardian Angels.
The Book of Genesis describes the creation of the first man and the first woman in these words: "Then the Lord God formed man out of the dust of the ground and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and man became a living being." "The Lord cast the man into a deep sleep and, while he slept, took one of his ribs and closed up its place with flesh. And the rib which the Lord God took from the man, he made into a woman, and brought her to him" (Gen. 2:7, 21, 22).

17. An Image of God

What is MAN?

Man is a creature composed of body and soul, and made to the image and likeness of God.

We read in the Bible, "God said, 'Let us make mankind in our image and likeness; and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, the birds of the air, the cattle, over all the wild animals and every creature that crawls on the earth'" (Gen. 1:26).

1. It is possible that the body of man may have evolved from a lower form. But the soul, which is immaterial, could not have evolved. It was created directly by God. It is in his soul that man can be said to be in the image and likeness of God.

We should always reverence our likeness to God, trying to perfect it by making our soul as holy as possible. Once the enemies of a king tried to make his son do something wrong. But the youth proudly and resolutely answered, "No! I am the son of the king!"

By Baptism man becomes the adopted son of God, Who is infinitely higher than any earthly king. His soul is like his Father in Heaven.

2. The soul of man is different from the soul of brute animals. Animals have senses and instinct, but neither reason nor free will. Free will is that power of the soul to choose whether to act or not to act.

If a horse has not eaten for a day, and you put some hay before him, he will eat, because his instinct moves him to do so. But a hungry man may fast for days, and still refuse to eat however hungry he may be, if he wills not to eat. The difference between man's free will and animal instinct is that a man can say "No" to himself.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
3. The soul and the body are not loosely connected parts of man; they are united in a substantial union. The soul is not located in any particular member of the body, but is whole and entire in each part.

Is this LIKENESS TO GOD in the body or IN THE SOUL?

This likeness to God is chiefly in the soul.

1. Like God, man’s soul is an immortal spirit, with understanding and free will. Some deny the existence of the soul, because it cannot be seen; yet the same people would not deny the existence of human reason, even if this cannot be seen, either.

Some claim that man has two souls, one good and one evil, striving for mastery. But the struggle that we often experience comes from only one soul with different tendencies arising from the fact of our being made of both body and soul, partly material and partly spiritual. In a living person, the soul should not be considered apart from the body; their union is much closer than the relation between a musician and his instrument at the hour of a concert.

2. Through his two faculties of the soul, understanding and free will, man obtains dominion over the material world, as God possesses power over the entire universe.

As God said before creating man: “Let them have dominion over...every creature...on the earth (Gen. 1:26). Through his likeness to God, man has the power to know the true, the good, the beautiful, so far even as to know the Source of all truth, goodness, and beauty, God himself.

HOW can we PROVE that the SOUL of man is IMMORTAL?

We can prove that the soul of man is immortal, because man’s acts of intelligence are spiritual; therefore, his soul must be a spiritual being, not dependent on matter, and hence not subject to decay or death.

If even matter cannot totally disappear, however small the particle, how can the soul of man, of a far higher order, be thought to suffer extinction?

1. Man has mind and will. He can reflect, reason, plan for the future, make judgments, remember. These prove his soul spiritual. Such a soul cannot die as the body does.

Man longs for an ideal state of perfect happiness, such happiness as is impossible to attain on earth. This universal longing must have been placed in men’s souls by God Himself; it is a desire for the infinite happiness of a union with the Creator. If, therefore, man’s soul were not immortal, he would have no chance to realize his dream of bliss, and God would be cruel in implanting the longing for it in his breast.

2. There have been many instances of the dead appearing to the living. In the Gospel, Moses and Elias appeared on Mount Thabor to Christ and three of His Apostles. At Christ’s death, many who were dead rose and appeared in Jerusalem.

The Blessed Virgin has through the centuries continued to appear to men; such instances are almost innumerable. Saints have also returned to earth to comfort or instruct the living; even souls in purgatory have returned, to beg for prayers. We must, however, be very careful about believing in particular instances of appearances by the dead; the devil can and often does use this instrumentality to trick the gullible.

Is BELIEF in the IMMORTALITY of the soul UNIVERSAL?

Yes, belief in the immortality of the soul and a life after death is universal among mankind, including the most primitive peoples.

The Jews of the Old Testament did not have the revelation of eternal life as we know it from Christian revelation. But they did believe in some kind of an existence after death. They did not develop this notion because God had not yet revealed the fullness of the truth to them, and they could not accept the pagan notions of the after-life. The Greeks and Romans believed in Tartarus and Elysium, places for the dead. Other nations have different cults to the dead, especially during their burial ceremonies. Such cults would be meaningless if those who took part in them not have an idea of another life for departed souls.

1. If the soul were not immortal, the wicked who commit evil all their lives would go unpunished. The just who suffer continually on earth would not receive any reward. This would be injustice impossible to the perfect justice of God.

If even man, imperfect as he is, can see innumerable examples of injustice in life, could not God? Would He not have a way of correcting such injustice? And if so, since it cannot be corrected in this life, there must be another, where immortal souls go to obtain perfect justice.

2. Holy Scripture, the Word of God, teaches that the soul is immortal.

Our Lord Himself said to the good thief, “This day thou shalt be with me in Paradise” (Luke 23:43). “And do not be afraid of those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul” (Matt. 10:28). “He is not the God of the dead, but of the living” (Matt. 22:32).
Our first parents were perfectly happy in Paradise. If they had not sinned, they would never have died or suffered from sickness and sorrow.

When the time came for their leaving the earth, they would have been taken body and soul to Heaven.

18. Adam and Eve: Our First Parents

Who were the FIRST MAN and WOMAN?

The first man and woman were Adam and Eve, the first parents of the whole human race.

1. In the Bible the first man's name is called Adam. This is a Hebrew name coming from the Hebrew word for “ground.” It was given by the author to the first man to indicate that there are material elements in man and that he is mortal by nature.

The first woman's name is called Eve. This comes from a Hebrew word meaning “life,” and indicates that she was the mother of all the living, i.e., of all human beings.

2. Therefore, the Bible teaches us that these two were our first parents. All of mankind makes up one great family.

Sacred Scripture says that before the creation of Adam “there was no man to till the soil” (Gen. 2:5); and that Eve was the “mother of all the living” (Gen. 3:20). Legends of many races tell of an original happiness, and of a flood.

(a) All men have common bodily characteristics.

The beat of the pulse, the temperature of the body, the physical structure, and even such faculties as the sense of smell, of sight, of hearing—all these vary little among different races. Differences are results of variations in climate, food, ways of living, and opportunity.

(b) Emotionally and intellectually all races are the same.

Researches have discovered a universal sameness in ideas of right and wrong; there is a universal moral code, even among the most primitive of tribes. For example, all men consider wrong the murder of those who are not enemies, cruelty to children, incest, and irreverence. If the moral code were the result of fear of reprisal, why was not stealing considered wrong when committed against an enemy? Science suggests the origin of mankind from only one pair of ancestors; Religion declares it.
WHAT was the CHIEF GIFT BESTOWED on Adam and Eve BY GOD?

The chief gift bestowed on Adam and Eve by God was sanctifying grace, which made them children of God and gave them the right to heaven.

1. God created Adam and Eve in the state of innocence and holiness. This made them pleasing to God, and full of love for Him. It made them children of God, and therefore heirs of heaven. This state of innocence we term "sanctifying grace."

"With wisdom and knowledge he (The Lord) fills them; good and evil he shows them." "He has set before them knowledge, a law of life as their inheritance"; "His majestic glory their eyes beheld, his glorious voice their ears heard" (Eccl, or Sir 17:6, 9, 11).

2. God's abiding grace made Adam and Eve so happy that their happiness almost equalled that of the angels.

"You have made him little less than angels, and crowned him with glory and honor" (Ps. 8:6).

What OTHER GIFTS were BESTOWED on Adam and Eve by GOD?

The other gifts bestowed on Adam and Eve by God were happiness in the Garden of Paradise, great knowledge, control of the passions by reason, and freedom from suffering and death.

1. The garden in which God put Adam and Eve was intended by the author to indicate all the divine blessings which they shared as a result of their friendship with God.

One of these blessings, symbolized by the tree of life, was the gift of immortality. Although man, by his very nature, is mortal, God preserved our first parents from death because of His great love for them and their closeness to Him.

2. God also gave Adam and Eve infused knowledge; that is, without experience or study they knew all that full-grown persons needed to fulfill the purpose of their creation, and as educators of men.

Adam knew the indissolubility of marriage; his insight helped him give suitable names to the animals.

3. God blessed Adam and Eve with a freedom from subjection to their lower appetites, such as impurity, drunkenness, etc.

They had no inclination to evil; they felt no shame even though they were naked in Paradise.

4. Lastly, God gave Adam and Eve freedom from bodily disease and death.

Adam and Eve were created immortal, and were made free from all subjection to sickness, which is the prelude to death. Had they been faithful to God, they would never have died, nor suffered disease.

Did our FIRST PARENTS HAVE any OBLIGATIONS towards GOD?

Yes, our first parents had to acknowledge God as their Lord and Creator. Despite their happiness and privileges which God had given them, they were still only creatures.

1. In the story of the sin of our first parents, the sacred author has indicated man's obligations to God by telling of the tree of knowledge of good and evil, which Adam and Eve were forbidden to eat. The purpose behind this was to show that man could not do as he pleased.

God wanted Adam as head and representative of the human race to merit heaven. This meant that he must not seek to be like God; he must recognize his creaturehood. In order to get this important truth across to his readers, the Hebrew author has told the story of the tree of knowledge.

2. If Adam and Eve had been faithful to God, they would have passed without disease and without bodily death from their earthly paradise to heaven, God's home, where they would see Him face to face.

All the children of Adam, the entire human race, would have been born as Adam had been created, in a state of friendship with God, and with all his gifts. If one had sinned, he would have been punished by God, but not being the head of the entire human race, he would not have passed on the stain to his descendants. Everybody would then have suffered for his own sins alone.

Did ADAM and EVE REMAIN FAITHFUL to God?

No, Adam and Eve, tempted by the devil, and moved by pride, wished to be like God Himself. This was their sin of disobedience.

The author indicates this when he says that they ate of the forbidden fruit (Gen. 3:1-13).
Although there are some points of similarity between the skeletons of man and the ape, the differences are numerous and fundamental. As one scientist remarked, evolutionists might as well claim that man descended from any other form of life, because differences between man and the ape are as important as between man and other forms.

19. Evolution and the Bible

HOW DID THE BODY of the first man ORIGINATE?

It would seem, according to the Bible, that the body of the first man was made by God from the dust of the earth. “Then the Lord God formed man out of the dust of the ground” (Gen. 2:7).

We must understand these words as the sacred author intended them. He was not a scientist, and he was not writing for scientists. He was writing for simple people who could understand important truths only if they were presented in a simple story form.

This story teaches us two truths: (a) God created man, just as He created everything else. The author is not interested in how man was created. (b) Man is mortal by nature. This is indicated by the material elements in man, “dust of the ground.”

What is the THEORY of EVOLUTION?

Evolution is a theory concerning the origin and development of plants, animals, and man.

1. There are many variations of the theory, but basically it holds that life began with the simplest forms, then developed into more complex forms, until at last the most complex form, man, was evolved.

It is no longer common for the evolutionists to teach that man is descended from the ape. Actually, there are so many basic differences bet-between man and ape that there can be no question of a direct relationship. However, there are also so many bodily resemblances between the two that the possibility of a common heritage must be admitted.

2. No true scientist today would say that the evolutionist theory has been absolutely proved, in the sense that a precise scientific description can be given of the processes of man’s formation from a sub-human ancestor. No “missing link” has been found. However, most scientists today, arguing from the wealth of evidence that connects man’s bodily organism with the brute animals and from the actual development in the bodily structure of man himself, accept the theory as a working hypothesis.

3. As stated above, the Bible teaches us nothing about the manner in which man’s body was formed. It teaches only that God is responsible for man’s creation. Therefore, whether the theory of evolution is proved or not, the teaching of the Bible will remain unchanged.

The Church has never made an infallible definition regarding the evolution of man’s body. In his Encyclical, Humani Generis, of 1950 Pope Pius XII stated that research can freely be made on the subject of the origin of the human body from pre-existent living matter. He cautioned, at the same time, that the arguments on both sides must be examined with great care and moderation. The theory, or hypothesis, must not be confused with scientifically established facts.

What is the ORIGIN of the HUMAN SOUL?

God directly creates every human soul out of nothing.

1. This truth is not directly stated in Genesis since those ancient authors did not conceive of the human soul as we do today. However, they knew that man was utterly distinct from brute animals. They knew, too, that this distinction was based on the fact that man was made in the image of God (Gen. 1:26-27). And they attributed this to the creative will of God. Therefore, we can say that, if the author had had our concept of the soul, he would have said that man’s soul was directly created by God.

Pius XII, in the Encyclical quoted above, reaffirmed the traditional Catholic faith when he said that we are obliged to hold that souls are immediately created by God.

2. Man’s soul is not produced from some other soul or matter. It is spiritual and simple. It did not exist before the person lived. It did not come to exist after he was already alive. Man’s life is due to his soul. As soon as the soul leaves the body, life ceases.

The investigations of scientists have discovered a singular universality and sameness in ideas of right and wrong, a moral code, in all races and peoples, however primitive. These are universally looked upon as wrong: the wanton murder of one not an enemy stealing from one’s own group, maltreatment of children, irreverence, incest, adultery. If this attitude resulted from fear of reprisal, why is not murder considered wrong when against an enemy? Why has incest always been regarded as wrong, when primitive men surely could have no idea of the evils of inbreeding? One must conclude that this universal conscience comes from One Source.

3. Man’s soul is not derived from his parents. Only his body is derived from them. There is no possible “evolution” of the soul, for it is a spiritual substance, not subject to the laws of physical nature, and could not possibly be developed from a lower or material form of life.

Manifestations of the soul, like cleverness, talent, traits of character, etc., by which children resemble their parents, are due to the attributes of the body that they derived from their parents, or to training in the family. If one holds a colored glass to the light the reflection will have the color of the glass. But the glass did not make the sun whose reflection is cast. Is even the mind a product of evolution? The most primitive man is capable of abstract reasoning. The most intelligent beasts cannot think in concepts.

HOW MANY CENTURIES were there FROM ADAM TO CHRIST?

The Church has never given a decision, and the question may possibly never be answered.

1. The Bible teaches nothing directly on this matter. The line of patriarchs which it gives, with their ages, was intended principally to show that there is a connection between Abraham, with whom public revelation begins, and the first man, whose sin made that history necessary.

The ages of the patriarchs, as given in the Bible, are symbolic, not real.

2. Some Catholic theologians state that the age of man may be stretched to ten, or one hundred thousand years or even longer. Neither scientists nor theologians have come to a definite solution.
20. Original Sin

WHAT HAPPENED to Adam and Eve on ACCOUNT of their SIN?

On account of their sin Adam and Eve lost sanctifying grace, the right to heaven, and their special gifts; they became subject to death, to suffering, and to a strong inclination to evil. The loss of all these gifts is indicated by the author when he says that they were driven from the Garden of Paradise.

“In the sweat of your brow you shall eat bread, till you return to the ground, since out of it you were taken; for dust you are and unto dust you shall return” (Gen. 3:19).

1. Adam and Eve immediately lost God’s abiding grace and friendship, their holiness and innocence: they lost sanctifying grace and therefore the right to heaven, to see God.

2. It might be asked how one sin could have brought about such terrible punishments. It must be remembered, first of all, the first man enjoyed every divine blessing, and in particular a special intimacy with God Himself. Therefore, man had every reason for remaining faithful to God. Moreover, his sin overturned the very order of creation. The creature man wished to be like the Creator God. The punishment given man served forcefully to remind him of his creaturehood.

Also, our preoccupation with hardship, suffering and death is conditioned by a kind of materialism. These things are as nothing compared to the loss of God’s love and friendship. And God did not exclude the possibility of regaining that friendship. He was still concerned about man. He still wanted man to love Him. And He does everything possible to bring man back to Him.
WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO US on account of the sin of Adam?

On account of the sin of Adam, we, his descendants, come into the world deprived of sanctifying grace and inherit his punishment, as we would have inherited his gifts had he been obedient to God.

"Therefore as through one man sin entered into the world and through sin death, and thus death has passed into all men'" (Rom. 5:12).

1. This sin in us is called original sin. It is the state in which every descendant of Adam comes into the world, totally deprived of grace, through inheriting the punishment, not of Adam's personal sin, but of his sin as head of the human race.

Original sin does not come to us from Eve, but from Adam alone, since God made him representative and head of the whole human race. Eve was punished for her disobedience, as Adam was, but did not pass on her guilt to all mankind. Our original sin comes from our first father.

2. Because of original sin, heaven was closed to all men until the death of Our Lord Jesus Christ. Our Lord instituted the sacrament of Baptism in order to restore to us the right to heaven that Adam had lost.

A person after baptism is in the state of grace and free from sin. If he dies immediately after baptism, even if he had committed sins, he goes straight to heaven. His sins and their punishment are all forgiven him.

What are the CHIEF PUNISHMENTS of ADAM which WE INHERIT through original sin?

The chief punishments of Adam which we inherit through original sin are: death, suffering, ignorance, and a strong inclination to sin.

1. By original sin we became subject to disease and death. This was part of the punishment God laid on Adam. "For the day you eat of it, you must die" (Gen. 2:17).

2. Our whole nature became inclined to evil. Our reason is in perpetual conflict with our passions.

Even after our souls are cleansed of original sin by baptism, the corruption of our nature and other punishments, such as sickness, evil inclinations, etc., remain. "The inclination of man's heart is evil from his youth" (Gen. 8:21). "The flesh lusts against the spirit, and the spirit against the flesh" (Gal. 5:17).

Is GOD UNJUST in PUNISHING US on account of the sin of Adam?

God is not unjust in punishing us on account of the sin of Adam, because original sin does not take away from us anything to which we have a strict right as human beings, but only the free gifts which God in His goodness would have bestowed on us if Adam had not sinned.

1. All mankind must suffer for the sin of Adam because he was the head and representative of the whole human family.

When Alfonso XIII of Spain was dethroned, his children lost their right to the throne through no fault of their own. So also the children of a rich man who goes bankrupt lose all the inheritance they hoped for, through no fault of theirs.

2. We should have shared in Adam's blessings of soul and body without any merit of our own, if he had not sinned. In the same way we share in his guilt.

Was any human person ever PRESERVED FROM ORIGINAL SIN?

The Blessed Virgin Mary was preserved from original sin in view of the merits of her Divine Son, and this privilege is called her Immaculate Conception.

"And when the angel had come to her, he said, 'Hail, full of grace, the Lord is with thee. Blessed are thou among women'" (Luke 1:28).

1. From the very first moment of her conception the Blessed Virgin was preserved from all stain of original sin. She was conceived and born without original sin.

God, having ordained that Mary was to be the Mother of His Son, could not permit her soul to lack for a single instant all those graces that would make her most pleasing to Him.

2. Our Blessed Mother's soul was created as pure and spotless as the soul of Eve. Where Eve committed sin and lost her spotlessness, our Mother Mary kept herself pure and spotless to the end of her life. We commemorate the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary on December 8.
What is ACTUAL SIN?

Actual sin is any wilful thought, desire, word, action, or omission forbidden by the law of God.

1. There are two general classes of sins: original and actual. Original sin is the kind of sin that we inherit from Adam. Actual sin is the kind of sin that we ourselves commit. In general, when we speak of "sin" we mean actual sin.

Sin is an offense against God, a violation of His commandments. To sin is to despise God, to disobey Him, to offend Him. One who sins takes the gifts that God has given, and uses them to insult Him.

2. The only human being who was created without sin, and never committed sin, was the Blessed Virgin; this was a special privilege bestowed on her because she was to be the Mother of our Saviour.

St. John says: "If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us" (1 John 1:8).

Christ permitted Himself to be tempted by the devil. After Our Lord's forty days' fast in the desert, the devil appeared to Him and tempted Him to gluttony, to pride, and to avarice. But Our Lord resisted the devil and sent him away. Then angels came to minister to Him. God wishes to show us that temptation, far from being a sin in itself, is a source of merit if we resist firmly. Then God will send us His blessings and consolations, and we shall be dearer to Him after our successful fight against temptation.

21. Actual Sin

IN WHAT WAY do we fall into sin?

We fall step by step from temptation into sin. The different steps at times follow each other rapidly and are accomplished in the twinkling of an eye.

1. Sin is not committed without temptation. First an evil thought comes into the mind. This in itself is not sinful; it is only a temptation.

A man may be in a jewelry store looking at some jewels. The salesman turns away to talk to someone else, leaving a precious diamond ring on the counter. The thought enters the man's mind that it would be easy for him to take the ring and walk away unnoticed. This is temptation, not sin.

2. If we do not immediately reject the thought, it awakens in the mind an affection or liking for it.

If the man in the above example does not resist and reject the thought, but plays with it, and becomes pleased with the idea, he thereby gives partial consent, and commits a slight sin.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
3. Next the thought is followed by an evil desire in which we take pleasure.

   If, still playing with the thought, the man wishes that he could take the diamond ring without being noticed, the consent is complete, and he commits a sin in his heart (interiorly).

4. The resolution to commit the sin when occasion presents itself follows. Then the exterior act is committed.

   Finally, the man glances to see if the salesman is still busy. Then he takes the ring and walks away with it. Thus the wish or desire has been translated into an exterior act. Even should the man be prevented from stealing, he is guilty of grave sin.

   Why is an exterior sin more evil than an interior sin?

   An exterior sin is more evil than an interior sin, because it is attended by worse consequences.

   1. An exterior sin often causes scandal, and is therefore more severely punished by God here on earth as well as after death.

      Drunkenness reduces the drunkard and his family to poverty and sickness. Impurity destroys the body, sometimes producing insanity. Murder often leads the culprit to the electric chair.

   2. And worse, an exterior sin increases the malice of the will, and destroys the sense of shame. The repetition of exterior sins forms the habit of sinning, and vice is formed. The conscience goes to sleep, and the sinner becomes so hardened that he no longer sees the evil and wickedness of his sin.

   Are all evil acts sinful?

   Not all evil acts are sinful; there may be times when such acts are not sinful, as:

   1. When we do not know that the act is sinful.

      Noe became intoxicated, but committed no sin, because he was not aware of the strength of the wine. So one might by mistake take poison and die, but he would not be guilty of suicide.

   2. When the act is done through no fault of our own.

      If one is not aware that a certain day is a day of abstinence, and eats meat, he commits no sin. Again, one might by pure accident and through no negligence on his part drop a loaded revolver. Even if it explodes and kills a person, he is not guilty of murder.

   3. When we do not consent to the evil.

      A stronger man may take our hand, and in spite of our refusal and protest force it to drop a lighted match into a gasoline tank. Even if there is an explosion and a whole town is set on fire, we are not guilty of arson. In the same way, as long as one does not consent to an evil thought, it remains a temptation, and he commits no sin.

   When are we guilty of sins which we ourselves do not commit?

   We are guilty of sins which we ourselves do not commit when we cooperate with another person's sins.

   1. We share in another's sin: (a) by counsel; (b) by command; (c) by consent; (d) by provocation; (e) by praise or flattery; (f) by silence; (g) by assistance; (h) by defense or concealment; and (i) by not punishing the evil done.

      Thus rulers, legislative leaders, parents, employers, teachers, superiors, owners of shows and theatres, editors, publishers, and others in a position of responsibility, may easily render themselves guilty of the sins of others. One who is to blame for another's sin is as guilty as if he had committed the sin himself.

   2. One who tempts or provokes another into sin is perhaps the more guilty of the two.

      Our Lord says: "But whoever causes one of these little ones who believe in me to sin, it were better for him to have a great millstone hung around his neck, and to be drowned in the depths of the sea" (Matt. 18:6).

   How many kinds of actual sin are there?

   There are two kinds of actual sin: mortal sin and venial sin.

   Another classification is: (a) sins of thought; (b) sins of desire; (c) sins of word; (d) sins of deed; (e) sins of omission.

   If we take pleasure in thinking proudly of ourselves, we sin by thought. If we cannot rest content because we envy somebody's clothes and wish we had them, we sin by desire. If we get angry and say angry words to someone, we sin by word. If we are so angry that we begin striking the person, we sin by deed. If we do not do what is our duty, such as going to Mass on Sunday, we sin by omission.

   We must remember that when we do not sin, it is only through the grace of God. "Let him who thinks he stands take heed lest he fall" (1 Cor. 10:12). A humble distrust of ourselves is a preservative against sin.

   "Know God better to love Him more"
My Catholic Faith

Mortal sin is the greatest evil in the world. It separates us from God. Because of our mortal sins, Jesus Christ suffered agonies and died on the cross. To strengthen our resolution not to commit sin, we should remember also that even a single mortal sin is enough to send us to hell.

22. Mortal Sin

What is MORTAL SIN?

Mortal sin is a grievous offense against the law of God.

1. Any wilful thought, desire, word, action or omission, in serious violation of God's law, is a mortal sin. Examples of mortal sin are blasphemy, wilful murder, adultery, arson, robbery, etc.

2. Mortal sin occurs as soon as God is no longer our final end in our thoughts, words, and actions.

Each mortal sin we commit is a three-fold insult to Almighty God: it insults Him by rebellion or disobedience, by ingratitude, and by contempt.

3. Circumstances of person, cause, time, place, means, object, and evil consequences enhance or decrease the guilt of the sin.

Why is THIS SIN called MORTAL?

This sin is called mortal, or deadly, because it deprives the sinner of sanctifying grace, the supernatural life of the soul.

1. Without sanctifying grace, the soul is displeasing to God, unclean, and can never behold Him or be with Him in heaven.

Without “sanctifying grace,” the soul is without God; and without God, the devil makes the soul his habitation. “Know then, and see, how evil and bitter is your forsaking the Lord, your God” (Jer. 2:19).

2. The sinner loses charity towards God and his fellow-men, and by the weakening of his will and the darkening of his intellect, is liable to fall into other mortal sins.

The devil cries to his subordinates, “God has forsaken him; pursue and seize him, for there is no one to rescue him” (Ps. 70:11).

3. Without sanctifying grace, the soul loses the friendship of God; and if an adult dies in that state, he will suffer the torments of the damned.

The word “mortal” comes from the Latin mors, which means death. St. John Chrysostom said, “Sinners are dead while they live, and the just live after they are dead.”

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
MORTAL SIN, besides depriving the sinner of sanctifying grace,

(a) makes the soul an enemy of God;
(b) takes away the merit of all its good actions;
(c) deprives it of the right to everlasting happiness in heaven; and
(d) makes it deserving of everlasting punishment in hell.

1. Man was made for God, and what an awful calamity it would be to become His enemy! It would be as if the food which was made to support and sustain man should all of a sudden turn to poison him instead.

Through mortal sin, the sinner becomes a stranger to divine love, and to the love of neighbor; his heart turns cold because he has put out the flame of charity by grave sin. His reason, a gift of God, is obscured, and he fails to perceive the things of God. Thus a sinner the more he sins, becomes more insensitive to evil; his will is finally so weakened that all conscience is lost, and he falls into greater and greater sins more and more easily.

"Adulterers, do you not know that the friendship of this world is enmity with God? Therefore, whatever wishes to be a friend of this world becomes an enemy of God" (Jas. 4:4).

2. During all the time that the sinner remains in mortal sin, all his good works do not help him to heaven: he earns no merits until he gives up his state of mortal sin.

As the Apostle says, "If I give my body to be burned and have not charity, I am nothing." One who falls into mortal sin may be compared to a merchant coming into his home port, laden with all kinds of treasures collected from abroad, upon which he has spent years of labor and incalculable wealth. Just as he enters the harbor his ship is torpedoed, and he saves nothing for all his trouble. In a similar manner, one who dies in mortal sin gains nothing, however numerous the good works he may in life have performed.

3. However numerous the merits previously earned by the sinner, however many his good works, if he dies with only one mortal sin on his soul he goes to hell forever.

Is this not something to be feared? It is because mortal sin presupposes a hatred of God. Let us be reasonable men, and consider the utter folly of selling our birthright, God and heaven, for the mess of pottage that is sin and its effects. "Then he will say to those on his left hand, 'Depart from me, accursed ones, into the everlasting fire'" (Matt. 25:41).

THREE THINGS are necessary to MAKE a sin MORTAL:

FIRST, the thought, desire, word, action, or omission must be seriously wrong or considered seriously wrong.—The matter must be grave; a slight act of vanity or impatience is not serious matter, but murder is.

SECOND, the sinner must be mindful of the serious wrong.—He must have full knowledge and reflection or attention, and know that what he does is grievous.

A man who steals a precious diamond ring in the belief that it is glass has not full knowledge. A man who throws a lighted match thoughtlessly aside may throw it into a gasoline tank and cause an explosion, but he has not full attention.

THIRD, the sinner must fully consent to it.—He must do it of his own free will, saying deliberately, "I will do this."

Therefore infants and idiots cannot commit mortal sin; they cannot fully realize what they do.

IS MORTAL SIN a great evil?

Mortal sin is a great evil, the greatest evil in the world, a greater evil than disease, or poverty, because it separates us from God.

1. It is a rebellion against and contempt of God, the blackest ingratitude towards Him.

Our heavenly Father gave us everything we have, and in return we offend Him. We desecrate His temple. "Do you not know that you are the temple of God and that the Spirit of God dwells in you?" (1 Cor. 3:16). By mortal sin a vile and insignificant creature offends and insults the infinite Creator.

2. It is like crucifying Christ again, "since they crucify again for themselves the Son of God and make him a mockery" (Heb. 6:6).

We can never fully realize the malice of mortal sin. We can get a small idea of it by remembering that God sent His own beloved Son to suffer untold agonies, to save us from its consequences.

3. Mortal sin must be a most appalling thing indeed to make a just and merciful God create hell for the everlasting punishment of the rebellious angels and of sinners who die with even only one mortal sin.

Even considering only its temporal penalties mortal sin is great folly. Upon it follows moral disquiet; the sinner loses the serenity and cheerfulness of the just soul. "The wicked are like the tossing sea, which cannot be calmed" (Is. 57:20).
We are prone to look upon venial sin as of no consequence, and to be careless about guarding against it, forgetting that it is second only in evil consequences to mortal sin. In Holy Scripture we see from many examples how God regards venial sin; even in this life He has punished it most severely. For only a slight doubt about God's mercy, because of the wickedness of his people, Moses was punished: he was not permitted to lead the Israelites into the Promised Land.

23. Venial Sin

What is VENIAL SIN?

Venial sin is a less serious offense against the law of God, which does not deprive the soul of sanctifying grace, and which can be pardoned even without sacramental confession.

1. A sin can be venial in two ways:

(a) When the evil done is not seriously wrong. If we sin against God in matters of slight importance, we commit venial sin.

Grumbling when told by your mother to open the window is not gravely wrong; it is a venial sin.

(b) When the evil done is seriously wrong, but the sinner sincerely believes it is only slightly wrong, or does it on the spur of the moment, without sufficient reflection, or without full consent of the will.

Saying an expression that has a very wicked meaning is seriously wrong, but if the person does not know its meaning, he is not guilty of a mortal sin. If one eats meat on a day of abstinence, thinking it only a slight sin to do so; or if one in a sudden outburst of anger insults a companion seriously, he commits a venial sin for lack of sufficient reflection and consent.

2. Examples of venial sin are impatience, slight faultfinding, lies that harm nobody.

The word "venial" comes from the Latin venialis, meaning easily pardonable. Even the most just of mortals falls into venial sin again and again. God permits this to keep us humble. The most imperfect of mortals attains a very high degree of perfection as soon as he can avoid all "deliberate" venial sin: as soon as he does not commit any sin deliberately, with full advertence and consent.

3. If a person is in the state of grace, venial sins are forgiven in many ways without necessity of confession.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Provided one has sorrow and a sincere resolution not to commit the sins again, they are forgiven not only by Confession, but also by Holy Communion, by acts of contrition, prayer, good works, etc.

4. A distinction exists between venial sins and imperfections. Imperfections are faults that arise from ignorance or weakness, not from a bad will.

For instance involuntary distractions in prayer, “white lies” told while telling a story or in exaggerations or jokes, bad manners that hurt no one much, are imperfections. We should, however, try to avoid all imperfections, for they are not praiseworthy, are often a cause of irritation to others, and make us accustomed to doing what is not correct, above all, displease God.

How does venial sin HARM US?

Venial sin harms us by making us less fervent in the service of God, by weakening our power to resist mortal sin, and by making us deserving of God’s punishments in this life or in purgatory.

1. Although venial sin is not a grievous offense against God, it is nevertheless a great moral evil, next alone to mortal sin.

It is like a drop of ink in a glassful of clear water; the ink, however little, takes away the clearness.

2. If often committed, venial sin weakens the will, lessens our power to resist evil, and makes it easier for us to fall into mortal sin.

“He who is faithful in a very little thing is faithful also in much; and he who is unjust in a very little thing is unjust also in much” (Luke 16:10).

3. Venial sin deprives us of many actual graces we need for resisting temptation.

When a mirror is dusty, it cannot reflect the image clearly; similarly the mirror of the soul, when dusty with venial sin, cannot reflect the light of grace and justice with all its splendor and brightness. May we expect God to bestow His blessings and graces in the same measure on the soul that is not as faithful in small things as on the one that is most careful to try to please Him even in the smallest things?

4. Venial sin deprives us of heaven for a time.

If we die with venial sins on our souls, or without fully satisfying for them, we have to expiate for them in purgatory.

5. A great desire not to offend God in the least is the best proof of love and loyalty towards our heavenly Father.

Holy Scripture shows many instances of God’s displeasure for venial sin, which He punishes severely even on earth. For her curiosity, Lot’s wife was turned into a pillar of salt. “But I tell you, that of every idle word men speak, they shall give account on the day of judgment” (Matt. 12:36).

How can we KEEP FROM committing sin?

We can keep from committing sin by praying and by receiving the sacraments; by remembering that God is always with us; by recalling that our bodies are temples of the Holy Spirit; by keeping occupied with work or play; by promptly resisting the sources of sin within us; by avoiding the near occasions of sin.

1. Prayer and the sacraments, especially the Sacrifice of the Mass with Holy Communion, protect us from sin. They are like a strong fortress against which the enemy strikes in vain, and within which the soul remains safe in the grace of God.

When the Apostles were in danger on the lake of Genessareth, they had recourse to prayer. We are ever in danger from sin while we live; let us build up around us a rampart of prayer. God will protect us, as He protected the Apostles; He will answer our prayer.

2. Even good people fall into sins, frequently because they forget God’s presence. Let us remember that the eye of God is always upon us, every single moment. Then, if we love Him, we would never sin, never insult His presence by sin.

If we had a distinguished personage before us, would we commit indecent acts? Would we steal, or use bad language? But is not God the most distinguished of all persons, and is He not always looking on us?

3. When we are in the state of grace, our body is the temple of the Holy Spirit.

God dwells in our body as Jesus Christ lives in the tabernacle. If we remember this always, we shall be greatly helped in avoiding sin.

4. The most practical way of avoiding sin is to keep occupied with work or play. Man must do something; if he does not do something good, he will do something evil.

A busy instrument cannot be used in doing mischief. Robbers will hesitate to enter a house where the occupants are busy. If we are occupied in doing good, we have no time to sit idly and wag our tongues in gossip.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Indiscriminate use of the radio and television by young or old is a pathetic disregard for good morals and artistic taste. Not only parents and guardians, but the entire family should be concerned over the programs that are watched and heard. Late evening programs are generally directed to the interest of adults. Children are too immature to watch such programs. It is the duty of parents that children are in bed where they should be when these programs are presented. We should consult the evaluation of television, radio and theatre offerings which our better critics make available to us in the Catholic Press.

24. Occasions and Sources of Sin

What are the NEAR OCCASIONS of sin?

The near occasions of sin are all persons, places, or things that may easily lead us into sin.

MOST COMMON OCCASIONS OF SIN:

1. Bad companions. One who provokes or leads us into sin is not our friend. We must stop going with that companion.

   One rotten apple in a basket of good apples quickly rots the rest. The same is true of human beings. Sin is a contagious disease. If we do not wish to be infected, we must go far away from it.

2. Dance halls. Not every dance is sinful. But many dances are occasions of sin; and public dances without the presence of respectable adults are extremely dangerous.

   A safe rule to follow is never to go to any place where you would be ashamed to take your virtuous mother or sister.

   In many dances, the women tend to dress with extravagance and immodesty, just to “follow the fashion.” Sometimes, too, dances are an occasion for the taking of liberties, due to late hours, and the spirit of unrestrained pleasure.

   These are very proximate occasions of sin, leading to intemperance, and worse evils.

   Those who frequent saloons are likely to be not only habitual drunks, but constant gamblers, who neglect their homes and duties, become involved in disputes, and finally end badly even in the temporal sense.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
4. Bad newspapers and magazines. These are no less dangerous because their wickedness is often not apparent, many hiding their evil under the guise of cleverness, information, science, art, etc.

   Bad periodicals gradually undermine faith and make one insensitive to evil. It is the duty of every Catholic to subscribe to a Catholic periodical, and never to favor a wicked press.

5. Bad books. Many novels are harmless; some are very helpful, but many are positively wicked. We must be very careful in the selection of the books we read. Poisonous food will only kill the body, but poisonous reading kills the soul.

   There are national book clubs under Catholic auspices that send members lists of books of merit according to literary standards, and not offensive to Catholic morals. We mention the following ones: "Catholic Book Club," "Maryknoll Book Club" and "Spiritual Book Associates" in New York City; "Catholic Children's Book Club" and "Catholic Digest Book Club" in St. Paul, Minn.; "Catholic Family Book Club" and "Catholic Know-Your-Bible Program" in Garden City; and "Catholic Youth Book Club" in Mineola, N. Y.; "Catholic Literary Foundation" in Milwaukee, Wis.; "Franciscan Book Club" and "Thomas More Book Club" in Chicago, Ill.

6. Motion Pictures, Radio and Television.

   Pope Pius XII taught that the modern media of communication—films, radio and television are "remarkable inventions of man's genius," but at the same time "gifts from God." As such they are good in themselves and intended by God to be useful to man.

   Today more than a few motion pictures are immoral and indecent. We must, therefore, choose only the good and avoid altogether objectionable films. To guide and assist us in this choice, the National Legion of Decency, working under the hierarchy, publishes moral ratings on current motion pictures. To ignore these ratings is to expose ourselves to moral danger.

   Once a year, on the Sunday following December 8th, feast of the Immaculate Conception, we renew the Legion of Decency Pledge to freely promote what is good and to oppose, especially by our example, what is bad in motion exhibition. Since the film industry supplies only what the public buys, the keeping of this Pledge is your ballot at the box-office for good films.

   HOW SHOULD WE ACT towards occasions of sin?

   We should never seek, and always try to avoid occasions of sin.

1. It is wrong voluntarily to seek the occasions of sin.

   "He who loves danger will perish in it" (Lirach. 3:25). However, those who by their calling or other necessity are continually exposed to such dangerous occasions, as priests, officials, doctors and others, must put their trust in God, Who will give them grace and protect them.

2. We must avoid occasions of sin as soon as we perceive them.

   If one goes to the theatre and sees that the play is an indecent play, he must stand up and leave.

What are the chief sources of actual sin?

   The chief sources of actual sin are: pride, covetousness, lust, anger, gluttony, envy, and sloth, and these are commonly called capital sins.

   They are called capital, from the Latin caput (which means head), because they are the heads or sources of all sins. Thus they originate sins of luxury, gossip, excessive ambition, etc.

1. They are called capital sins, not because they are the greatest sins in themselves, but because they are the chief reasons why men commit sin. They are the origin of every sin, all other sins arising from them as from their fountainhead.

2. These sins are called vices, because they produce permanent disorders in the soul. They are the seven fatal diseases of the soul, which end in death.

Does God PUNISH SIN?

   Yes, God punishes sin, partly in this life, but chiefly after death.

1. In this life sinners suffer from remorse of conscience, fear, and unhappiness. Their sin often brings upon them disease or death, the hatred and scorn of their fellow-men, and other temporal punishments. Even on earth, "the wages of sin is death."

2. The punishment of the sinner is fully meted out to him only after death. Then the unrepentant sinner is punished in hell. Justice is not always done in this world, where the wicked often prosper and the just are made to suffer.

   On earth, God rewards the sinner for whatever good he may do. It is only in the next life that the evil he does is given its full and just punishment.
25. Pride, Covetousness, Lust

What IS PRIDE?

Pride is an inordinate love of one's own excellence, an excessive self-esteem.

Our Lord is the best example of meekness and patience. Did He use His almighty power to punish those who did Him evil? For hours He hung meekly on the cross, until He died. Every day God is patient with sinners, giving them time to change their ways. God, the Supreme One, is not proud.

1. The proud man overestimates himself, and believes himself the source of his own excellence. The virtue of humility, which disposes us to acknowledge our limitations, is opposed to pride. (See pages 98-99.)

Some are proud of their appearance; others of their family, talents, position, money, and the virtues they imagine they possess. Even if we do have excellent abilities or possessions, we should not be proud of them, remembering that they all come from God. Instead, we should be humbly thankful, and see in what way we can make a return to God for such gifts. "Every proud man is an abomination to the Lord" (Prov. 16:5).

2. Pride may be called the mother of all vices, for most sins can be traced to it. From pride arise ambition, vanity, presumption, disobedience, hypocrisy, obstinacy in sin.

"For pride is the reservoir of sin, a source which runs over with vice; because of it God sends unheard-of afflictions and brings men to utter ruin. The roots of the proud God plucks up, to plant the humble in their place" (Eccl. 10:13, 15). Pride was the sin of our First Parents, who wanted to be as great as God. It was the sin of King Pharaoh; he was so proud that in spite of the miracles Moses worked, he refused to be convinced.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
3. The proud man tries to attract notice and praise, strives after honors, distinctions, and other worldly favors.

He is over-confident in himself, and despises the assistance of God. Pride was the sin of Lucifer. The proud man pretends to be greater than he is, and try by all manner of means to attract the praise of others, even using false humility to do so.

4. God hates pride, and punishes it severely. He often punishes secret pride by withdrawing His assistance from the proud man. And deprived of God’s aid, the proud man often falls into grievous sins leading to his humiliation.

“The thrones of the arrogant God overturns and brings men to utter ruin” (Eccl. 10:14). “God resists the proud” (1 Pet. 5:5). “Everyone who exalts himself shall be humbled” (Luke 14:11). Thus the proud King Herod was eaten up by worms and died.

5. If we, however, despise sin as beneath us, that is not pride, but a virtuous self-respect.

A decent regard for cleanliness and neatness is not vanity. The ambition to exceed in good things, as in studies, in order to make the best use of God’s gift, is to be commended. God wishes us to be His excellent children. (See pages 96-97.)

What is COVETOUSNESS?

Covetousness is the excessive love for, and seeking after, wealth and other worldly possessions.

1. Covetousness is also called avarice. A covetous person strives for more riches than he requires, and is never content, however much he already possesses.

2. From covetousness arise hard-heartedness towards the poor, lying, cheating, usury, defrauding laborers of wages, and other sins.

“Those who seek to become rich fall into temptation and a snare. . . . For covetousness is the root of all evils” (1 Tim. 6:9-10). It destroys faith, for the avaricious are so absorbed in money-getting that they have no time for their spiritual welfare.

3. To provide for one’s future and that of one’s family is praiseworthy. To avoid waste and extravagance is a virtue.

We meet with covetous persons among both rich and poor. Often among the rich there is money without avarice, and among the poor, avarice without money.

4. Liberality, which disposes us rightly to use worldly goods, is opposed to covetousness. (See page 97.)

The avaricious man is very foolish. He works hard all his life and becomes hated by men. His money is left to heirs who most probably ridicule his miserliness. “For when he (the avaricious man) dies, he shall take none of it; his wealth shall not follow him down” (Ps. 42:18).

WHAT IS LUST?

Lust is the inordinate seeking of the pleasure of the flesh.

1. The pleasure which this vice has as its object is at once so attractive and connatural to human nature as to excite keenly man’s desire and to lead him into the commission of many other disorders in the pursuit of it.

Of all vices, lust is most severely punished on earth. It was the cause of the Deluge. It was the cause for the destruction with fire and brimstone of Sodom and Gomorrah.

2. The consequences of lust are: On the part of the intellect: a) the blinding of the intellect; b) hastiness in judgment; c) complete lack of consideration; and d) inconstancy. On the part of the will: a) inordinate self-love; b) attachments to things of this earth; and c) forgetfulness of the life to come.

Amendment is very difficult, and the sinner falls into many other sins. Solomon, who yielded to lust, finally lost all his wisdom and turned to worship false gods.

3. The best remedy against lust is the avoidance of all occasions. Temptations against purity should not be combated directly by focusing the attention upon them, but rather indirectly, by engaging in work, seeking distractions, or changing one’s occupation.

The consequences of lust are seen in the case of Henry VIII. It was the cause of his apostasy, and his apostasy dragged an entire nation into similar apostasy. “For know this and understand, that no fornicator, or unclean person, or covetous one (for that is idolatry) has any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and God” (Ephes. 5:5). (See page 358.)

4. Sodomy, or sins against purity by persons of the same sex, is a form of lust.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Our Lord showed how hateful gluttony is in the parable of the rich man, Dives, and the poor Lazarus (1). Dives was so greedy that he would not even give scraps to Lazarus, who sat at his gate. But when Dives died, he went to hell, while Lazarus went to heaven. The brothers of Joseph (2) were so envious of him that they sold him to some merchants going to Egypt. God rebuked their sin by blessing Joseph in Egypt, and causing him to be in a position to help his envious brothers later.

26. Anger, Gluttony, Envy, Sloth

What is ANGER?

Anger is a strong feeling of displeasure, combined with a desire to inflict punishment on the offender.

1. An angry man loses his reason. In anger a man will do what he afterwards regrets. From anger arise hatred, revenge, quarreling, blasphemy, contumely, and murder. The virtues of patience and meekness are opposed to anger. (See pages 98-99.)

Anger, or wrath, is a temporary madness. A man with this vice flies into a rage at every little thing. He always puts the blame of his anger on others, and even when he is alone he gets angry. "Let every man be... slow to wrath. For the wrath of man does not work the justice of God" (Jas. 1:20).

2. Willful murder, one of the "sins that cry to heaven for vengeance," arises from anger.

When the first willful murder took place, and Cain killed his brother Abel, God said to Cain, "The voice of your brother's blood cries to me from the ground" (Gen. 5:10).

3. He who indulges in anger injures his health, becomes hated, incurs damnation.

Many men have had a stroke of paralysis brought on by anger; some have even died. If anger is so hurtful to the body, how much more to the soul! "Wrath and anger are hateful things, yet the sinner hugs them tight" (Eccli. 27:30).

4. When we feel ourselves becoming angry, we should never speak or act, but try to calm ourselves by prayer.

St. Francis de Sales said: "I have made an agreement with my tongue never to utter a word while my heart is excited." "Let every man be slow to speak and slow to wrath" (Jas. 1:19).
5. If we should be so unhappy as to have offended anyone by our anger, we should hasten to apologize. “Do not let the sun go down upon your anger” (Ephes. 4:26).

6. A just anger against sin and injustice is praiseworthy. We may hate the sin, but not the sinner.

Christ had this just wrath when He drove the sellers from the Temple. Holy Scripture says, “Be angry and do not sin” (Ephes. 4:26).

What is GLUTTONY?

Gluttony is an excessive desire for or indulgence in food or drink.

1. Gluttony is greediness, intemperance in eating and drinking. Of the gluttonous, St. Paul said that “their god is the belly” (Phil 3:19).

“We do not live to eat, but eat to live.” We must not take what is injurious to health, even if its taste is pleasing. We must have regular hours for our meals. We should not be too particular about food, eat what is set before us, and not get angry when a dish is not very appetizing.

2. Gluttony produces dullness of mind, laziness, and sensuality. The vice of drunkenness is a terrible evil, leading to worse sins. A man when drunk does more than lose his reason and make a fool of himself; he often becomes a source of grief and even of terror to his family. If reason is the chief difference between man and the beast, why should one extinguish it by drunkenness?

“The sensual man does not perceive the things that are of the Spirit of God” (1 Cor. 2:14). It is well for young people to abstain from drinking alcoholic beverages and smoking till after they are twenty years of age. If they do this, the likelihood is that they will not contract vice. (See page 91.)

What is ENVY?

Envy is a bitter feeling at the excellence or good fortune of those who are better or happier, with a desire to rob them of what they have.

1. Envy consists in discontent or anger at the success of another, as though it were evil to oneself. It also consists in rejoicing over another’s misfortune, as if it were a good to oneself.

Envy is against the commandment of God to love our neighbor. It is the mark of the petty mind and the hard heart. The devil envied Adam and Eve in Paradise; Cain envied Abel, whose offering was pleasing to God. Some are so envious that they even envy the holiness of others, but without any desire or attempt at imitation. This was the case with the Pharisees, and their envy led them to plot the death of Jesus Christ.

2. Envy leads to calumny, gossip, detraction, hatred, scandal, and other sins. An envious man looks on everything with malice; as a result his envy does not even make himself happy, but destroys his peace of heart.

The sons of Jacob were envious of their brother Joseph because he was the favorite son. Their envy led them to sell him into Egypt.

3. A form of envy, one of the greatest sins, is envy at another’s spiritual good. This is a most diabolical sin; it shows that the sinner has closed his heart against the charity of God, and instead houses God’s enemy, Satan. The virtue opposed to envy is charity, or brotherly love. (See page 99.)

What is SLOTH?

Sloth is the neglect of one’s duties, spiritual or temporal, through laziness.

1. The rule of the universe is activity; life and movement may be found in all nature. The slothful man is the exception; and he by his laziness goes against nature.

“Go to the ant, O sluggard, and study her ways, and learn wisdom” (Prov. 6:6). The slothful keep putting off doing anything till tomorrow, and tomorrow, and tomorrow, which often never comes.

2. Many complain of hard luck, but often misfortunes come from laziness. Sloth leads to many sins; idleness begets vice. The lazy neglect good works. The virtues of diligence and zeal are opposed to sloth. (See page 99.)

Even on earth, most rewards go only to the industrious and energetic. If man has no useful occupation, his natural activity turns to all kinds of mischief. A busy person avoids many temptations.

3. Spiritual sloth is called lukewarmness. It is also called tepidity.

The lukewarm person would like to have the rewards given by God, but will not move a finger to serve Him. As soon as it is necessary to exert himself, he shrinks from the effort. Great sinners have been known to become great saints, but the lukewarm, never. Holy Scripture says: “I would that thou wert cold or hot. But because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I am about to vomit thee out of my mouth” (Apoc. 3:15, 16).
Immediately after the Fall, God promised a Redeemer to Adam. He forgave man, although He had not forgiven the rebel angels. He was more merciful to man than to the angels. In making the promise, God spoke of the Blessed Virgin, who was to be the Saviour’s Mother.

27. The Promise of the Redeemer
(Second Article of the Apostles’ Creed)

DID GOD ABANDON MAN after Adam fell into sin?

God did not abandon man after Adam fell into sin, but promised to send into the world a Saviour to free man from sins and to reopen to him the gates of heaven.

The promise of ultimate victory for man over the power of evil was included in the condemnation of the “serpent,” the symbol of this evil power. The condemnation included these words, “I will put enmity between you and the woman, between your seed and her seed; He shall crush your head, and you shall lie in wait for his heel” (Gen. 3:15).

This passage is called the “First Gospel,” the first “good news” to a fallen mankind. The tempter’s victory was only a temporary one. Man would succeed in resisting the temptations of the devil frequently throughout the ages. But the devil would endure a crowning defeat through Him who would be, in a special way, the “seed of the woman,” Jesus Christ, the Son of God and the Son of Mary.

The human author of this passage did not realize the full significance of these words. But the divine Author who inspired him chose his words with care. That is why we, who know the fullness of the divine plan, can see in these words a reference to the redemption achieved by Jesus Christ.

Why did GOD WAIT THOUSANDS OF YEARS before sending the Redeemer?

Man had to be prepared gradually for such a tremendous act of salvation. This need is obvious when we consider that even today, two thousand years after Jesus Christ’s victory through His passion, death and resurrection, there are many who refuse to acknowledge that victory. It is evident that such a divine act could not have been understood by a people who were given to all kinds of idolatry, who did not even recognize the true God.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"

Even the Hebrew people, who did have the faith in the one true God, frequently fell away from that faith. In a world where the worship of many gods was the accepted practice it was not easy to retain the faith in one God. That is why God wanted to be sure that their faith in Him was firm and strong before He sent His divine Son among them.

During this long period of preparation the people learned more and more about their God and about His plan for man's salvation. By the time the Redeemer did come there were many who were looking eagerly for the "day of the Lord." We know that there was a great Messianic expectation among the Jews at the time of Jesus Christ.

How did GOD REVEAL HIS PLAN TO THE PEOPLE of the Old Testament?

1. First of all He revealed Himself in a wonderful way at the Exodus from Egypt. By His delivery of the Hebrew people from the power of the Pharaoh, and by His preservation of them during the wandering in the desert, He showed them that He was a saving God. In response to these saving acts of God the people, under Moses, dedicated themselves wholly to Him at Mt. Sinai. There they were constituted the people of God.

In the light of this redemption and self-revelation of God, they now understood the meaning of God's intervention at the time of the patriarchs. They now realized that God had chosen Abraham to be the father of this new people of God. "I will make a great nation of you, I will bless you, and make your name great, so that you shall be a blessing. . . . In you shall all the nations of the earth be blessed" (Gen. 12:2-3).

2. All throughout their history the Israelites looked back on their salvation by God from the slavery in Egypt as an infallible sign of God's loving kindness and of His fidelity to His promises. And so they began to look forward to the day when His divine purpose would be fulfilled perfectly.

"The days are coming, says the Lord, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Jude . . . all, from the least to greatest, shall know me, says the Lord, for I will forgive their evil doing and remember their sin no more" (Jer. 31:31, 34).

3. Through the prophets it was revealed to Israel that this divine intervention would be accomplished through an individual, one specially sent by God to establish peace and justice on earth. During the period of monarchy he was described by the prophets as a king of the Davidic line, who would rule over all the nations (Ps. 2). This king would also be a "priest forever, according to the order of Melchisedec" (Ps. 109:4).

The prophet Isaiah tried to convince the people of his time that God was with them and that they should put their trust in Him. As a sign of His presence among them He announced the birth of the royal child, "The virgin shall be with child, and bear a son, and shall name him Emmanuel" (Is. 7:14), and would "sit upon the throne of David," Jeremiah, too, disgusted with the wickedness of the Israelite kings, predicted that God would one day "raise up a righteous shoot to David; as king he shall reign and govern wisely, he shall do what is just and right in the land" (Jer. 23:5).

4. When Jerusalem fell and the people were driven into exile they realized that they were suffering for their sins. Then they began to understand that all sin must be expiated by suffering. Now the descriptions of the One who was to come show Him as a suffering servant of God. "Spurned and avoided by men, a man of suffering, accustomed to infirmity . . . he was pierced for our offenses, crushed for our sins . . . by his stripes we were healed" (Is. 53:3-5).

Thus did almighty God prepare His people gradually, through history, for a clearer understanding of His plan, purifying the Messianic idea of its earthly notions and paving the way for the acceptance of the Savor.

Who is the SAVIOR of ALL MEN?

The Savior of all men is Jesus Christ.

The four Gospels, and especially that of St. Matthew, show us that Jesus of Nazareth did fulfill all the prophecies of the Old Testament. But we must not think of Jesus as simply a composite of all the prophecies. He is the culminating point in a long history of revelation, a revelation that gathers meaning as it develops. Therefore, although He included in His person all the essential points of the prophecies of the Old Testament, He also surpasses them and gives them a richness of meaning that the human authors of old could not have intended.

Thus, He is a king, but a king who reigns in the hearts and souls of those who are of the truth and hear His voice. "My kingdom is not of this world" (John 18:36-37). He is a priest, but not one who offers the blood of goats and calves, but His own blood. He is the son of God, not in some adopted way as was David, but in a true and perfect sense. "No one has at any time seen God. The only-begotten Son, who is in the bosom of the Father, he has revealed him" (John 1:18).

Jesus Christ, therefore, and He alone, has perfectly crushed the head of the "serpent." He has gained the victory, through His passion, death and resurrection, over sin and the power of evil.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Throughout the centuries God sent prophets to predict different events and facts concerning the promised Saviour. Among the most important prophets were Jeremia, Isaia, Daniel, and Ezechiel. Daniel predicted the exact time of the birth of the Redeemer. He said His kingdom would have no end, and would embrace all kingdoms. Isoia prophesied that the Messias would be born of a virgin, would be both God and Man, and would die patiently and willingly like a lamb for our sins.

28. The God-Man
(Second Article of the Apostles' Creed)

What is the CHIEF TEACHING of the Catholic Church ABOUT JESUS CHRIST?

The chief teaching of the Catholic Church about Jesus Christ is that He is GOD made MAN.

1. Christ Himself said that He is God. The Jews understood His claim literally, and He was condemned to death for blasphemy, for making Himself the Son of God.

   And the high priest said to him, 'I adjure thee by the living God that thou tell us whether thou art the Christ, the Son of God. Jesus said to him, "Thou hast said it"' (Matt. 26:63). "I and the Father are one" (John 10:30).

2. Christ proved His claims by wonderful miracles, by prophecies, by His knowledge of all things, and by the holiness of His life.

These miracles Christ worked in His own name, not as His followers did, who worked in the name of God. He simply said: "I will, be thou made clean" (Matt. 8:3).

Christ Himself appealed to His miracles as a testimony of the truth of His doctrines and divinity, saying: "If you are not willing to believe me, believe the works" (John 10:38). Christ foretold future events. Among other things, He predicted His passion, death, and resurrection, the treason of Judas and the perpetuity of His Church.

3. The Apostles, the followers of Christ Himself, plainly taught that Christ is God, and died in testimony of their faith.

St. Paul writes: "In Him (Christ) dwells all the fullness of the God-head bodily." St. Thomas openly professed the divinity of Christ when he said: "My Lord and my God." St. Peter said: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God."
4. The Church teaches that Jesus Christ is God. Its teachings have spread throughout all nations, in spite of untold obstacles.

The Church has grown by the simplest of means, its spread ever accompanied by wonderful miracles, by which God designs to show forth the truth of the Church. The doctrine of the divinity of Christ is the foundation of the Christian religion.

5. Even the enemies of the Catholic Church have admitted their belief in the divinity of Jesus Christ.

Napoleon, about to die, said: "I know men, but Jesus Christ was more than man. My men deserted me in the field when I was there leading them. Christ's army has been faithful for centuries. A Leader who has an army which functions though He is dead is not man."

WHY IS Jesus Christ GOD?

Jesus Christ is God because He is the only Son of God, having the same divine nature as His Father.

"And they all said, 'Art thou, then, the Son of God?' He answered, 'You yourselves say that I am.' And they said, 'What further need have we of witness? For we have heard it ourselves from his own mouth' " (Luke 22:70-71).

1. Man after the Fall was unable to regain of himself his former holiness. He became like a sick man who could not arise from bed. He needed Someone to raise him up. Since the sin he had committed had been an offense against an Infinite God, the atonement needed had to be by an Infinite One, the Son of God Himself. "God so loved the world that he gave his only-begotten Son" (John 3:16).

2. Christ is called the "Word." Just as the thought in our minds finds expression in a word, so the Son of God dwelling in the bosom of His Father was shown to the world when the Word became man.

"In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God... The Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us" (John 1:1, 14).

WHY IS Jesus Christ MAN?

Jesus Christ is man, because He is the Son of the Blessed Virgin, and has a body and soul like ours.

1. The birth of Jesus Christ is a fact of history. He was born of Mary, who was espoused to a carpenter named Joseph, who lived in Nazareth of Galilee.

2. Jesus Christ is true man, because He has a body and soul like ours. He derived His human nature from His mother.

History tells us of Jesus Christ, Who preached in and about Jerusalem over nineteen hundred years ago. Many records tell of His appearance, of His words, of His actions, of His teachings. Nobody doubted that Jesus Christ was a Man, for He could be seen and touched like other men.

How can we prove that THE RELIGION God has REVEALED THROUGH CHRIST is WORTHY of BELIEF?

We can prove that the religion God has revealed through Christ is worthy of belief, because:

1. Jesus Christ, announcing Himself as the true Son of God, whose coming was foretold by the prophets, preached doctrines which He said all must believe.

If Christ is God, then the religion He established is true, and the Church He founded is the true Church. We can believe everything He says, even without understanding it, because God cannot err.

If Jesus Christ were not God, then Christianity would be a farce, and the sooner it were done away with the better. If Christ were not God, then He were an impostor who, by claiming divinity, had led billions into error for almost 2,000 years.

2. Christ worked wonderful miracles, which showed that the God of truth approved His teachings.

"But when John had heard in prison of the works of Christ, he sent two of his disciples to say to him, 'Art thou he who is to come, or shall we look for another?' And Jesus answering said to them, 'Go and report to John what you have heard and seen: the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead rise, the poor have the gospel preached to them' " (Matt. 11:2-5).

(a) Christ performed miracles on inanimate objects, as when He changed water into wine, calmed the storm, multiplied loaves.

(b) He healed in an instant the sick, the blind, the lame. He expelled devils.

(c) He raised the dead to life; as the daughter of Jairus, the son of the widow of Nain, and Lazarus. Even His enemies acknowledged His miracles. The Pharisees planned to kill Lazarus, because the Jews believed in Jesus as a result of the miracle.

(d) He worked miracles on His own Person, as in the Transfiguration, Resurrection, and Ascension.
Our Lord Jesus Christ is true God and true Man. As God, He is equal with the Father and the Holy Ghost: He is infinite, almighty, eternal. As man He has a body and soul like ours. Jesus Christ has two natures which cannot be separated, but which are distinct: the human, and the divine. But He is only one Person—the Divine Person. Jesus Christ is not a human Person.

29. Our Lord Jesus Christ

Is Jesus Christ more than ONE PERSON?

No, Jesus Christ is only one Person; and that Person is the second Person of the Blessed Trinity.

Throughout the Gospels we can read about Jesus Christ as only one Person,—eating, sleeping, talking, and dying, as only one Person.

1. A “person” is a being that is intelligent and free, and responsible for his actions. We attribute to him whatever good or evil he does in the use of his human powers, because he owns or controls those powers.

I am a human person, and everything I do is done by a human person. But Christ is a Divine Person, since He is God. Whatever Jesus Christ did while He was on earth was of infinite dignity, since it was the work of a Divine Person.

2. Jesus Christ is Our Lord, the Son of God, the Second Person of the Blessed Trinity, true God and true Man. We call Him “Our Lord” because as God He is Lord and Master of all.

Christ is our Creator, Redeemer, Lawgiver, Teacher, and Judge. All these we mean when we say Our Lord. St. Paul says: “He is the Blessed and only Sovereign, the King of kings and Lord of lords . . . to whom be honor and everlasting dominion. Amen” (1 Tim. 6:15, 16).

3. There is only one Person, the Divine Person, in Jesus Christ. Jesus Christ is not a human person. Everything in Him even as Man is divine and worthy of adoration.

When we adore the Sacred Heart, or the Precious Blood, we do not adore mere flesh, but the flesh united to the divinity. In Christ the human and the divine are inseparable.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
How many NATURES has Jesus Christ?

Jesus Christ has two natures: the nature of God and the nature of man.

1. A “nature” is a substance that is complete in itself as a source of activity. It differs from “person” in that while “person” determines who an individual is (Peter, Paul, etc.), “nature” determines what an individual is and can do.

In Jesus Christ Our Lord, there are two natures: His divine and His human nature. Therefore He was God the Son all the time He was God the Son.

2. Because of His Divine nature, Christ is truly God; because of His human nature, He is truly man. In His Divine nature, He is the Second Person of the Blessed Trinity, God the Son, the Eternal Word. He took His human nature from His Mother.

It was to the Blessed Virgin that the Archangel Gabriel announced: “And behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb and shalt bring forth a son: and thou shalt call his name Jesus. He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Most High” (Luke 1:32).

Therefore Jesus Christ is both God and man; He has both Divine and human powers; He has knowledge, can will and act as God and as man. For example, with His human nature, Jesus worked, ate, spoke, felt pain. But it was His divine nature that enabled Him to become transfigured, walk on the waters, raise the dead.

3. These two natures were united in a Divine Person Jesus Christ, the God-Man. They were intimately united, but they remained distinct. Neither was absorbed by the other. The union of the divine and human natures in Christ is called the hypostatic union.

Christ is true God and true man; this is why we call Him God-Man. Beings obtain their nature from their origin; for this reason a child has a human nature, from its human parents. Jesus Christ, the Second Person of the Blessed Trinity, has His origin from God the Father, and hence He has a divine nature; moreover, as man He was born of the Blessed Virgin Mary, and thus has a human nature. This is why Christ often referred to Himself indiscriminately as “Son of God” or “Son of Man.”

4. As a consequence of these two natures, Christ had also two wills.

We can see this very clearly in His prayer in the Garden of Olives before His Passion. He said: “Nevertheless, not My will, but Thine be done.” He was referring to His human will, for His divine will was surely the same as His Father’s.

What does the NAME JESUS mean?

The name Jesus means Saviour or Redeemer.

1. Our Lord is called Jesus because He came to save men from sin, and to open the doors of heaven to them.

Before the birth of Our Lord, an angel appeared to St. Joseph and said: “Thou shalt call His name Jesus” (Matt. 1:21). The angel Gabriel had spoken the same words to Mary. “After eight days were accomplished, that the child should be circumcised, His name was called Jesus” (Luke 2:21).

2. We should say the name of Our Lord with great reverence. We should bow our head every time we utter it.

“In the name of Jesus every knee shall bow, of those that are in heaven, on earth, and under the earth” (Phil. 2:10). The symbol His is composed of the first three letters of the name Jesus in Greek.

What does the name “CHRIST” mean?

The name Christ means “The Anointed One.”

1. “Christ” is a Greek word, with the same meaning as “Messias.” In the Old Law it was the custom to anoint with oil prophets, high priests, and kings.

Our Lord is the greatest of the Prophets. He is the High Priest Who offers Himself. He is the King of angels and men. Therefore it is fitting that we shall call Him Christ. He truly is the Anointed One.

2. We are called Christians because we are disciples of Christ. We believe in His teachings, and obey His commandments. The followers of Christ were first called Christians at Antioch.

3. Jesus Christ was announced to the world through many types. By “types” we mean persons or actions which strongly suggested or foreshadowed Christ. “Types” do not tell us everything about the reality; but for lack of the reality, types are a good substitute, to give some idea of what is to come.

Some of the types of Jesus Christ were: the gentle and just Abel, who was murdered by his brother; Noe, who alone persevered and saved the human race from extinction by his justice; Isaac, who willingly carried the wood on which he was to have been sacrificed; Joseph, who was sold for a few pieces of silver, but later saved his brethren from death; Moses, who freed the Jews from slavery and led them to the Promised Land; David, who was born poor, did great deeds for his people, and became King.
"Now in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God to a town of Galilee called Nazareth, to a virgin betrothed to a man named Joseph, of the house of David, and the virgin's name was Mary. And when the angel had come to her, he said, 'Hail, full of grace, the Lord is with thee. Blessed art thou among women.' When she had seen him she was troubled at his word, and kept pondering what manner of greeting this might be. And the angel said to her, Do not be afraid, Mary, for thou hast found grace with God. And behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb and shalt bring forth a son; and thou shalt call his name Jesus'" (Luke 1:26-31).

30. The Incarnation
(Third Article of the Apostles' Creed.)

What is meant by the INCARNATION?

By the Incarnation is meant that the Son of God, retaining His Divine nature, took to Himself a human nature, that is, a body and soul like ours.

1. The Incarnation is the greatest act of humility possible. By it the Son of God, eternal, almighty, infinite, voluntarily took upon Himself human nature with its weaknesses. He united to Himself a human body that would feel sickness and pain, and a human soul that would cause Him agony.

Incarnation means "becoming flesh." Thus the Son of God took a human body and soul and united it to His divine Person. Without ceasing to be God, the Second Person of the Blessed Trinity became man at the same time. The divine nature of Christ is from all eternity. Only His human nature began at the Incarnation, when the Son of God became man.

2. By virtue of the Incarnation Jesus Christ came to earth. This is a mystery which we can never fully understand, but must be content to honor and adore.

"The Word was made flesh and dwelt among us" (John 1:14). Christ as man was like us in all things except sin. He could not sin, because He is God. But in all other things He was like us: he had a human body, a human soul, a human will. Can we understand this with our reason? Hardly. As St. John Chrysostom said: "I know that the Son of God became man, but how, I do not know," God, Who produced the universe from nothing, also caused the Incarnation.
How was the Son of God MADE MAN?

The Son of God was conceived and made man by the power of the Holy Spirit, in the womb of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The Three Persons of God cooperated in the Incarnation, but only the Second Person took on flesh; only He took to Himself a human nature.

1. The Incarnation is peculiarly the work of the Blessed Trinity. They formed a human soul and a human body, and these they united to the Second Person of the Blessed Trinity; the result was Our Lord Jesus Christ, God-Man.

To the power of the Holy Spirit we attribute the Incarnation, because the Third Person of the Blessed Trinity peculiarly expresses the Spirit of Love: and the Incarnation is the supreme example of God’s love for men.

2. It was fitting that God the Son should become incarnate, rather than the Father or the Holy Spirit; for the Son proceeds from the Father, and could be sent by Him.

God the Son then could, as the fruit of His Redemption, send God the Holy Spirit. Thus through the Son of God we became adopted sons of God.

When was the Son of God CONCEIVED and MADE MAN?

The Son of God was conceived and made man on the Annunciation Day, the day on which the Angel Gabriel announced to the Blessed Virgin Mary that she was to be the Mother of God.

1. In Nazareth of Galilee lived the Blessed Virgin Mary. One day the Angel Gabriel appeared to her and said: “Hail, full of grace, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women” (Luke 1:28).

Mary was surprised. The angel said: “Do not be afraid, Mary, for thou hast found grace with God. And behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and shalt bring forth a Son: and thou shalt call His name Jesus.” This event is called the Annunciation, commemorated by a feast on March 25.

2. Mary knew that the angel was sent by God. She answered: “Behold the handmaid of the Lord: be it done to me according to thy word” (Luke 1:38).

At these words of the Blessed Virgin, Jesus Christ became man in her womb, and the Incarnation was accomplished: the Son of God became man.

3. The mystery of the Incarnation is commemorated daily by the Angelus, a prayer said by Catholics morning, noon, and night, at the ringing of the Angelus bell.

During the Easter time the prayer Regina Coeli (Queen of Heaven) is substituted for the Angelus. Those who prefer may simply recite five Hail Marys instead of the Angelus or the Regina Coeli. The same indulgence is gained. (See page 420.) The Angelus was formerly recited kneeling, except from Saturday noon to Sunday evening inclusive. Now it is recited according to one’s convenience. The Regina Coeli is always recited standing.

Did Jesus Christ have HUMAN PARENTS?

Jesus Christ had a human mother, the Blessed Virgin Mary, but He had no human father.

1. The Blessed Virgin was Christ’s mother according to His human nature, not according to His divine nature.

However the Blessed Virgin is truly the Mother of God, because the humanity and divinity of her Son are inseparable. In a similar way we call our parents mother and father, although they only gave us our body, and not our soul.

2. Christ had no human father. The Blessed Virgin remained a virgin all her life. The conception of Our Lord is a great miracle and a mystery that we cannot understand. We can only accept it as true on the word of God, Who is almighty.

St. Joseph was the legal spouse of Mary, but both of them preserved their virginity, consecrating it to God. They always lived together as brother and sister. St. Joseph was only the guardian or foster-father of Our Lord.

3. We should honor and love Saint Joseph. Holy Scripture calls him a just man. He was a most pure man; and this is why God selected him as the virgin spouse of Mary, to care for her and the Child Jesus.

Jesus loved St. Joseph, and obeyed his slightest wish. Mary even called Joseph the father of Jesus.

4. At the time of the Annunciation, Saint Joseph and Mary were living in Nazareth of Galilee. He was a carpenter. It appears that he died before the beginning of Christ’s public life.

The memory of Saint Joseph has been venerated especially since the 12th century. In 1870 Pope Pius IX declared Saint Joseph Patron of the universal Church. He is also patron of a happy death. We should invoke his protection often. His feast, kept on March 19, has been celebrated since the 15th century. The feast of St. Joseph the Worker is celebrated on May 1st.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
"And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn. And there were shepherds in the same district living in the fields and keeping watch over their flock by night. And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them and the glory of God shone round about them, and they feared exceedingly. And the angel said to them, Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which shall be to all the people; for there has been born to you today in the town of David a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord." (Luke 2:7-11).

31. The Nativity

WHEN WAS CHRIST BORN?

Christ was born of the Blessed Virgin Mary on Christmas Day, in Bethlehem, more than nineteen hundred years ago.

1. When Jesus Christ was born, the Jews were no longer independent. In 64 B.C. Pompey reduced their kingdom and subjected it to Rome.

   In the year 40 B.C. Herod the Great was made king of the Jews by the Roman Emperor. He was totally subject to Rome. After his death the kingdom was divided among his sons. But in 6 A.D. Archelaus, who ruled the southern part, was deposed, and the Roman procurators began to direct this part of the Jewish nation.

2. Today we reckon dates from the birth of Christ. This has been the continuous custom since the time of Charlemagne, although many rulers from the 5th century had adopted the practice.

   However, there is an error of some four to six years. It is a matter of historical fact, that Christ was born 7-5 B.C. An error in the calculation of dates in later centuries produced this anomaly.

3. Bethlehem is a little town in Judea, near the city of Jerusalem. Joseph and Mary went there in obedience to the Emperor at Rome, who had commanded all his subjects to register in the towns of their ancestors.

   Joseph and Mary were both descended from King David, whose city was Bethlehem; this is why they went to register there. They tried to find a place to stay in even for only a night, but could find refuge nowhere. And so they sought shelter in a poor stable; there Jesus was born.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
4. Jesus was born in a stable, a poor place. He preferred poverty and humiliation in order to suffer more for us.

FEAST OF CHRISTMAS

5. The Church celebrates the Nativity on December 25. The feast is called Christmas. On this day every priest is granted the privilege of saying three Masses: one in commemoration of Christ's eternal birth from God the Father; another in remembrance of His temporal birth of the Blessed Virgin Mary; and a third to recall His spiritual birth in the hearts of the faithful.

The word "Christmas" comes from Christ and Mass. The feast is so called because on that day the Mass commemorating the birth of Christ is said.

6. The story of the shepherds at the crib is told by St. Luke; the story of the Magi by St. Matthew.

The shepherds represented the poor. The Magi represented the rich. All offered gifts to the Infant Jesus. Our Lord does not look at the price of our gifts, but at the purity of our hearts.

The Church commemorates the adoration of the Magi on the Feast of the Epiphany, January 6. "Epiphany" means manifestation. In the persons of the Magi, who were not Jews, Our Lord was manifested to all nations of the earth, who were at the time lost in paganism. With the Magi we are called to the Truth; the Old Testament was ended, and the world had entered upon a new Covenant with God. And if, like the Magi, we offer Jesus Christ the gold of our love, the myrrh of self-sacrifice, and the incense of our prayers, we too shall be united with God.

7. Many churches and homes set up a crib at Christmas. This custom, although of very ancient origin, was popularized by St. Francis of Assisi.

In the year 1223, he visited Pope Honorius III and sought approval of his plans to make a scenic representation of the Nativity. Having obtained the Pope's consent, Francis left Rome, and arrived at Greccio on Christmas Eve. There in the church he constructed a crib, grouping around it images of the Blessed Virgin and St. Joseph, of the shepherds, the ox, and the ass. At the midnight Mass St. Francis acted as deacon. After singing the words of the Gospel, "And they laid Him in a manger," he knelt down to meditate on the great gift of the Incarnation. And people around saw in his arms a Child, surrounded by a most brilliant light.

Since then the devotion to the crib has spread far and wide. The crib remains in church until the octave day of the Epiphany. At the proper time the images of the Three Kings and their retinue are added, making a daily advance towards the crib.

Most homes also set up a decorated Christmas tree. The boxes of Christmas gifts should remind us of the great Gift that God sent us.

Santa Claus, the jolly and beloved distributor of Christmas gifts, is an American adoption of St. Nicholas, Bishop of Myra, of the fourth century. This Saint is popular in Germany, Switzerland, and the Netherlands, where he is made the secret pursuer of gifts to children on December 6, his feast day. The custom was brought to New York by the Dutch, quickly spread throughout the United States, and became absorbed into the Christmas celebration.

INCIDENTS IN OUR LORD'S LIFE closely connected with the Nativity.

The following incidents in Our Lord's life were closely connected with the Nativity: the Circumcision, the Presentation, and the flight to Egypt.

1. The Child received the name Jesus when He was eight days old. He was circumcised, according to the custom of the Jews. At the Circumcision Jesus began His role of Mediator between God and man, shedding His blood for the first time for us.

"Thou shalt call his name Jesus for he shall save his people from their sins" (Matt. 1:21).

"Therefore God . . . has bestowed upon him the name that is above every name, so that at the name of Jesus, every knee should bend, of those in heaven, on earth, and under the earth" (Phil. 2:9,10).

"If you ask the Father anything in my name, he will give it to you" (John 16:23). The Circumcision took place on the Octave of Christmas, that is, 8 days after Jesus' birth. On this feast we also celebrate New Year's Day.

2. When Jesus was forty days old, His Mother presented Him in the Temple at Jerusalem. In imitation, though the rite is essentially different, mothers today after childbirth seek the blessing of the Church in a thanksgiving ceremony called "churching."

The feast of the Presentation is celebrated on February 2. It is also called the Purification of the Blessed Virgin, or Candlemas Day. On this day candles are blessed and carried in procession, in memory of the words of holy Simeon, when Jesus was presented in the Temple. He said Our Lord was "a Light of revelation to the Gentiles."

3. Mary and Joseph took the Child Jesus to Egypt to save Him from King Herod, who wanted to kill Him.

An angel appeared to Joseph and told him to take the Child Jesus and His mother away to Egypt. They stayed in Egypt until the death of King Herod. Then an angel appeared to Joseph and bade him return to the land of the Jews.
After the finding in the Temple, Jesus returned with Mary and Joseph to Nazareth. There He lived with them, doing all He could to help His Mother and St. Joseph in their work. Jesus, God Himself, obeyed mortals, because He wanted to set us an example. He lived a life of obedience, humility, and poverty in Nazareth till He was about thirty years old. This hidden life teaches us, among other things, the value in the eyes of God, of prayer, humility and obedience.

32. The Hidden Life of Jesus Christ

How may the life of Jesus Christ BE DIVIDED?

The life of Jesus Christ may be divided into three parts: His childhood, to the time when He was twelve years old; His hidden life, to the time when He started His teachings; and His public life, to the time of His death.

1. After the murder of the Holy Innocents, the Child Jesus lived in Egypt with His mother and St. Joseph until the death of Herod, then returned with them to the Holy Land.

An angel appeared to Joseph and said, “Arise, and take the Child and His Mother, and go into the land of Israel” (Matt. 2:20).

2. The Holy Family lived in Nazareth. From there, every year Mary and Joseph went to worship at the Temple of Jerusalem. When Jesus was twelve years old, He went along with His parents to celebrate the Passover at Jerusalem. Then Mary and Joseph left the city to return to Nazareth, but Jesus remained behind without their knowledge.

“But thinking that he was in the caravan, they had come a day’s journey before it occurred to them to look for him among their relatives and acquaintances. And not finding him, they returned to Jerusalem in search of him” (Luke 2:44-45).
We can only imagine the anguish of Mary and Joseph upon having lost Jesus, most precious to them, the Child that had been entrusted to their care. And what was their joy when after three days' search they found Him in the Temple, in the midst of the wise men there, hearing and questioning them! Mary told how great had been her grief when she said, "Behold, thy father and I have been seeking thee sorrowing" (Luke 2:48). But Jesus replied, "How is it that you sought me? Did you not know that I must be about my Father's business?" (Luke 2:49).

Jesus dearly loved Mary and Joseph, but He did not hesitate to cause them pain and part from them, in order to obey His heavenly Father's will. In imitation of Him, many young people leave home and their dear parents, to enter the priesthood or a religious congregation, to serve God completely.

3. Some non-Catholic interpreters insist that Jesus had brothers, that He was not the only Son of Mary. Those spoken of in the Gospels as the "brethren" of our Lord (Matt. 13:55), were His blood relatives; it was the practice among the Jews to call near relatives "brethren."

So Abraham called his nephew Lot in this manner: "Let there be no quarrel between me and thee, . . . for we are brethren" (Gen. 13:8). As St. John Chrysostom wrote, Our Lord on the cross would not have needed to commend His Mother to His Apostle John, if she had had other children.

HOW LONG DID the hidden life of Jesus Christ LAST?

The hidden life of Jesus Christ lasted from His return to Nazareth at the age of twelve until He began His public ministry at the age of about thirty. "Thirty" is a round number in St. Luke's gospel. It is only approximate. Jesus was probably at least thirty-three years old when He began His public life.

1. Of this part of Christ's life all we directly read from Holy Scripture are two statements: "And He went down with them, and came to Nazareth, and was subject to them. . . . And Jesus advanced in wisdom and age and grace before God and men" (Luke 2:51, 52). In these two sentences is contained the history of the hidden life of Jesus Christ, the God-Man.

In the Temple, at the early age of twelve, Jesus had proved His wisdom before the doctors of the law. As St. Luke writes, "And all who were listening to him were amazed at his understanding and his answers" (Luke 2:47). But did He continue after this unusual and favorable beginning; did He stay on to preach His doctrine? No; instead, He meekly followed His parents as a young child of that age, and went to live with them in obscurity in Nazareth.

2. The actions of Jesus Christ are intended for us as examples and instructions, as much as His words. As He said, "I have given you an example, that as I have done to you, so you also should do" (John 13:15). The hidden life of Jesus is for us a perfect model of humility, poverty and obedience.

By His hidden life Jesus Christ teaches us to learn holiness and wisdom before we presume to teach others. He teaches us, by living in obscurity, to fight against our vanity, which makes us desire to be doing only what seems great and important, which makes us desire to be praised and noticed. By His hidden life Our Lord teaches us to subdue our pride, to live day after day without impatience or complaint, unknown to the world, and even despised, if that is the will of God for us; then we shall have true peace of heart. And so Jesus said, "Learn from me, for I am meek and humble of heart" (Matt. 11:29). For long years of obscurity in Nazareth, He was just "a carpenter's son."

3. The hidden life of Jesus Christ is for us a perfect model of obedience: "And He was subject to them." The God of all created things, almighty and infinite, was subject to two poor and unknown mortals. He obeyed them in all things, promptly, constantly, cheerfully, and with great love.

Let us model our obedience on this perfect pattern. Let us obey our superiors as representatives of God, giving them due respect and prompt obedience. When our parents command us, and we go about doing what they want, but with murmuring and without spirit, is that the obedience that the Child Jesus gave in Nazareth? When we have to do some unpleasant or difficult task, let us imitate Jesus in His very words: "Yes, Father, for such was thy good pleasure" (Matt. 11:26).

In this way our obedience will be like that of Jesus, supernatural; we shall obey human beings for the love of God; we shall really be obeying God Himself, in the persons of those He has placed over us. By the example of His hidden life our Lord set the principle for the religious life, particularly for that in contemplative orders.

4. Jesus "advanced in wisdom and grace before God and men." Although He possessed all wisdom and grace from the first moment of His mortal life, He manifested them only gradually and in a way that was in keeping with His years.

We can obtain much merit before God without doing any striking actions, by merely being humble and obedient in the place of life in which it has pleased God to put us. If Christ the Son of God, God Himself, was content to be humble, poor, and unknown, to do common tasks day by day for the greater part of His earthly life, is there any reason why we should be ever trying to exalt ourselves, to attract admiration, ever to feed our vanity?
Our Lord spent the three years of His public life teaching, healing the sick, working miracles to prove His mission and Divinity. One of His most wonderful miracles was the raising of Lazarus.

Lazarus had been dead and buried four days. But Jesus went to the sepulchre and ordered the stone closing it to be taken away. Then He cried: "Lazarus, come forth!" And Lazarus came forth from the grave. Because of this miracle, the Pharisees became more envious, and even planned to kill Lazarus, so as to make it appear that Jesus had not raised him from the dead.

33. The Public Life of Jesus Christ

WHEN DID CHRIST BEGIN His public life?

Christ began His public life when He was about thirty years old.

1. After spending long years in obscurity and humble toil, Jesus Christ next entered upon a period of activity, going about and teaching publicly. He left His home in Nazareth, and began His public life by an act of great humility: His baptism at the hands of St. John the Baptist in the river Jordan.

St. John lived a life of very rigorous penance in the desert, preparing himself for his role of forerunner or precursor of the Saviour. About two years before Christ started His public life, John the Baptist went out of the desert, and began to preach penance; he baptized in the Jordan all those who believed in his teachings and wished to begin a new life.

St. John the Baptist was the forerunner or precursor of Christ. He spoke to the people of the coming Messias, and pointed Jesus out to them as the "Lamb of God." He was put to death by Herod, because he reproved the ruler for his immoral life.

Jesus came to John to be baptized; immediately afterwards, as Our Lord came out of the river, the Holy Spirit came down upon Him in the form of a dove, and a Voice from heaven was heard saying: "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased" (Matt. 3:17).

2. After His baptism, Jesus went into the desert, where He fasted forty days and forty nights. This teaches us to look upon baptism as a call to penance, and to prepare for all kinds of activity by mortification and prayer.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The forty days of Lent are intended to commemorate the forty days' fast of Our Lord. Lent lasts from Ash Wednesday till midnight of Holy Saturday.

3. After Our Lord's long fast, the devil was permitted to tempt Him. Christ rebuked the devil, and angels came to minister to Him.

From this temptation of Our Lord we know that a temptation is not sinful. As long as we resist the devil, we are pleasing to God, however strong may be the temptation that assails us. "God is faithful and will not permit you to be tempted beyond your strength, but with the temptation will also give you a way out that you may be able to bear it" (1 Cor. 10:13).

WHAT WORK did JESUS CHRIST PERFORM in the course of HIS PUBLIC MINISTRY?

During the course of His public ministry Christ went about preaching, teaching, and doing good.

1. Among the important miracles of the Lord the following can be mentioned. His first miracle was the changing of water into wine at a marriage-feast in Cana. This was done at the request of His Mother, although, as He told her, His time had not yet come. He also cured many people of their infirmities including the ruler's son, Peter's mother-in-law, the daughter of Jairus, the ten lepers, the man born blind, and many others. He even raised the dead to life, as in the cases of the widow's son at Naim and Lazarus, the brother of Martha and Mary.

Thus, when the disciples of John the Baptist came to Our Lord to find out who He was, He identified Himself in this way. "Go and report to John what you have heard and seen; the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead rise, the poor have the gospel preached to them" (Matt. 11:4-5).

2. Jesus also went about teaching the people. In the Sermon of the Mount He summarized His teachings; it is the law of love taking the place of the law of fear. Frequently He taught in the form of parables, comparing what He wanted to teach with common things with which the people were familiar.

Among His parables were: the sower and the seed, the mustard seed, the pearl of great price, the unmerciful servant, the Good Shepherd, the lost sheep, the prodigal son, Dives and Lazarus, the Pharisee and the publican, the laborers in the vineyard.

3. Jesus also took care during the time of His public ministry to prepare His Apostles for their future mission of carrying the "good news" of salvation to the ends of the earth. He chose twelve who were with Him continually. He promised the primacy over all to one of them, Peter. And at the Last Supper with these twelve Apostles He instituted the Holy Eucharist, giving them also the power to change bread and wine into His Body and Blood as He himself had just done.

Our Lord worked many miracles. Since a miracle can be worked only by the power of God, and God will not grant a miracle in favor of a false doctrine, the many miracles of Our Divine Lord show that the truths He preached were the message of God to mankind.

4. As we read the four Gospels we can notice the effect that the words and deeds of Jesus had on those who witnessed them. Many came to know Him and love Him more and more. Others, especially some of the Pharisees, came to envy His popularity and to hate Him. Finally this hatred grew so strong that it led to the condemnation of Jesus to death. But the love of the others was stronger than the hatred of the few. And the mission of Jesus was continued after His death and resurrection.

What was CHRIST'S AIM in His public ministry?

Christ's aim in His public life was to teach what God requires all to believe and practice, so that all may enter the kingdom of heaven.

1. For this purpose Christ instituted seven sacraments for the sanctification of mankind. By His twelve chosen Apostles He established His Church, which was to carry on His work after His death, to continue teaching what He had openly and publicly taught.

He spoke to large crowds, sometimes numbering four or five thousand people, as when He multiplied the loaves and fishes. Christ taught in the simplest manner, so that all might understand without difficulty. He used plain, homely words. He often used signs and parables, and illustrated His meaning by examples from nature and common life.

2. In the doctrines He taught, a leading idea is: "Seek first the kingdom of God.

He taught a new rule of faith, and gave new commandments. He taught the precept of love, even for our enemies. He revealed certain mysteries: such as those of the Blessed Trinity, of His own divinity, of the Last Judgment.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
After the Last Supper, Jesus went with His Apostles to the Garden of Gethsemani. And going a little further, He fell upon His face, praying: "Father, if it is possible, let this cup pass away from Me; yet not as I will, but as Thou willest" (Matt. 26:39).

After praying three times the same prayer, Jesus said to His disciples: "Behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of Man will be betrayed into the hands of sinners. Rise, let us go. Behold, he who betrays Me is at hand" (Matt. 26:45-46). Judas had come.

34. The Passion
( Fourth Article of the Apostles' Creed)

WHAT important EVENTS MARKED THE END of Our Lord's public life?

The following events marked the end of Our Lord's public life: His solemn entry into Jerusalem, the Last Supper He ate with His Apostles, and finally, His passion and death.

1. Jesus Christ entered Jerusalem in triumph, riding on an ass, with children waving palms and singing.

The Church commemorates the entrance into Jerusalem on Palm Sunday. On that day palms are blessed, and there is a procession, in memory of the palms that the joyous people waved at the entrance into Jerusalem of Our Lord.

2. On the Thursday evening after His entry into Jerusalem, Jesus ate the Paschal Supper with His Apostles. We call it the Last Supper, for it was the last meal He ate before His death.

The Jews celebrated the feast of the Passover in memory of their deliverance from Egypt. They had been saved by the blood of the paschal lamb.

3. During the Supper, Our Lord washed the feet of the Apostles. He did this to teach us humility.

In commemoration, the celebrant of Holy Thursday Mass today washes the feet of twelve men, after the Gospel.

4. After the washing of feet, Our Lord instituted the Blessed Eucharist, offered the first Mass, and gave His Apostles their first Holy Communion.

What is meant by THE REDEMPTION?

By the Redemption is meant that Jesus Christ, as Redeemer of the whole human race, offered His sufferings and death to God as a fitting sacrifice in satisfaction for the sins of men, and regained for them the right to be children of God and heirs of heaven. A redeemer is one who pays in order to get back something lost.

1. No creature could, of himself, make satisfaction for sin. Sin offends an infinite God, and therefore would need infinite satisfaction. Therefore Something Infinite, Jesus Christ, had to offer that satisfaction.

Jesus Christ suffered and died as man; as God He could neither suffer nor die. He suffered crucifyingly in order to make full reparation for sin, and to impress on us the great evil of sin. Even only one sin is so abominable to God that not all the deluges and fires can wipe off the stain. Only the blood of God Himself can do so. "The Lord laid upon him the guilt of us all" (Is. 53:6).

2. Christ died for all men, without exception. He is the Redeemer of all men. Not all men are saved because not all accept the graces which Christ merited for us by His death. Many do not believe in Him. Of those who believe, many lead sinful lives.

"Christ also loved us and delivered himself up for us, an offering and a sacrifice to God" (Eph. 5:2). We can never realize fully that God died for us. We can never repay Him in this life or the next. The only way we can show our appreciation is to live according to His will.

THE CHIEF SUFFERINGS OF CHRIST

The chief sufferings of Christ were His bitter agony of soul, His bloody sweat, His cruel scourging, His crowning with thorns, His crucifixion, and His death on the cross.

Christ had often foretold His Passion. "For he was teaching his disciples, and saying to them, 'The Son of Man is to be betrayed into the hands of men, and they will kill him; and having killed, he will rise again on the third day.'" Again: "Behold we are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man will be betrayed to the chief priests and the Scribes; and they will condemn him to death, and will deliver him to the Gentiles" (Mark 9:30. 10:33).

In the Garden of Olives

1. From the Last Supper, Christ went with His Apostles to the Garden of Olives to pray. There He was overwhelmed with sorrow and agony, so that He sweated blood.

Our Lord looked forward to His agony, saying to His Apostles, "That the world may know that I love the Father, and that I do as the Father has commanded me. Arise, let us go from here" (John 14:31). In the Garden, Jesus felt so sad at the sins of men and at what would befall Him that He said, "My soul is sorrowful, even unto death" (Matt. 26:38). To His Father. He cried out in pain, "Father, if thou art willing, remove this cup from me; yet not my will, but thine, be done" (Luke 22:42). In agony, "his sweat became as drops of blood, running down upon the ground" (Luke 22:44).

Betrayed by Judas

2. Jesus Christ was betrayed by Judas, seized by soldiers, led before the high priest Caiphas, and condemned to death.

"And the soldiers, placing a crown of thorns, put it upon his head, and arrayed him in a purple cloak. And they kept coming to him and saying, 'Hail, King of the Jews!' and striking him. Jesus, wearing the crown of thorns and the purple cloak, was brought before the people. Pilate said to them, 'Behold the man!'" (John 19:2-5).

Delivered to be Crucified

5. At last, fearing that if he did not permit Jesus to be put to death the high priest and leaders would accuse him before Caesar, Pilate gave in to their insistence and delivered Jesus to them to be crucified.

Christ was made to carry His cross through the streets of Jerusalem to Mount Calvary. He was nailed to the cross about noon, dying three hours afterwards, crucified between two thieves.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
During Holy Week the Church lives again the passion and death of Christ. On the first day, Palm Sunday, the solemn entry of Jesus into Jerusalem is celebrated by the blessing of palms (1), followed by a solemn procession. At the Mass of this day, as on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday, the story of the Passion (3) from each Evangelist is read.

On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of Holy Week the Tenebrae are celebrated: the fifteen candles are put out one by one, to symbolize the flight of the disciples (2), and the death of Our Lord. On Holy Thursday morning a pontifical Mass is celebrated, in cathedrals only; at this the holy oils (4) are blessed. Commemorating the Last Supper at which the Holy Eucharist and the Priesthood were instituted, Holy Thursday Mass takes place in the evening, with the washing of feet (5) to commemorate Christ’s washing of the Apostles’ feet.

At the Good Friday service, emphasis is given to the veneration of the cross (6). Holy Saturday services are held at night, beginning with the blessing of the new fire (7); from this the Paschal candle is lighted (9), a reminder of Christ, Light of the world. The five grains of incense imbedded in the candle remind us of His wounds.

Four Lessons (10) are read; the baptismal water is blessed and taken to the font (8). The Mass commemorates Our Lord’s glorious Resurrection (11).

35. Calvary

WHEN did Christ die?

Christ died on Good Friday.

During the three hours that Christ suffered on the cross, He spoke seven times. We call these the “seven words”:

1. “Father, forgive them, for they do not know what they are doing” (Luke 23:34).
2. “Amen, I say to thee, this day thou shalt be with me in paradise” (Luke 23:43).
3. “Woman, behold thy son....Behold thy mother” (John 19:26-27).
4. “My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?” (Matt. 27:46).
5. “I thirst” (John 19:28).
6. “It is consummated” (John 19:30).
7. “Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit” (Luke 23:46).

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
WHERE did Christ die?

Christ died on Golgotha, a hill also called Calvary, outside the city of Jerusalem.

St. Augustine says that on the cross Our Lord bent His head to kiss us, extended His arms to embrace us, and opened His heart to love us. How thankful we should be to Christ for His love! “He humbled himself, becoming obedient to death, even to death on a cross” (Phil. 2:8).

WHAT TOOK PLACE at the death of Christ?

At the death of Christ the sun was darkened, the earth quaked, the veil of the Temple was rent, the rocks split, and many of the dead arose and appeared in Jerusalem.

1. The veil of the Temple, concealing the Holy of Holies, tore marking the end of the Jewish religion as the true religion. This Jewish religion had been a figure of the True Church, and when the Church was established, was no longer needed: type and figures had to give way to reality.

2. We must not, however, make the mistake of thinking that Christianity ended the moral laws—laws regarding good and evil—that were taught by the Jewish religion. Christ came not to destroy, but to perfect, the Old Law.

The authority of the Temple and its officers was now placed in the Church established by Christ, in the hands of His Apostles. The ceremonial laws of the Jews relating to worship were abolished.

3. The Church commemorates the passion and death of Christ on Good Friday. The solemn afternoon service consists of four parts, the veneration of the cross being the chief feature. All may receive Communion.

4. After His death, Our Lord’s body was taken down from the cross and laid in the grave which belonged to Joseph of Arimathea. Then His disciples rolled up a great stone to close the tomb.

The chief priests and the Pharisees went in a body to Pilate, saying, “Sir, we have remembered how that deceiver said, while he was yet alive, ‘After three days I will rise again.’ Give orders, therefore, that the sepulchre be guarded until the third day, or else his disciples may come and steal him away.” Pilate said to them, “You have a guard; go, guard it as well as you know how.” So they went and made the sepulchre secure, sealing the stone, and setting the guard (Matt. 27:63-66).

WHAT DID WE LEARN from the sufferings and death of Christ?

From the sufferings and death of Christ we learn God’s love for man and the evil of sin, for which God, who is all just, demands such great satisfaction.

1. It was not necessary for Jesus to suffer so intensely in order to redeem all men. As His merits are infinite, He could have wiped away the sins of a thousand worlds by shedding one drop of His Blood. But He chose to suffer agonies because He loves us.

“Greater love than this no one has, that one lay down his life for his friends” (John 15:13). “I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd lays down his life for his sheep ... I am the good shepherd; and I know mine and mine know me. ... and I lay down my life for my sheep” (John 10:11-15).

2. From the Passion of Christ we learn the evil that sin is, and the hatred that God bears it. We learn the necessity of satisfying for the malice and wickedness that is sin. Sin must be a horrible thing, to make Jesus Christ the God-man suffer so much.

By Christ’s obedience He atoned for Adam’s disobedience, for He was obedient unto death, “He was pierced for our offenses; he was crushed for our sins” (Is. 53:5).

3. The sufferings of Christ, in addition, serve as an example for us, to strengthen us under trials.

Christ gave us an example of patience and strength. If we receive trials, we should accept them with resignation, in imitation of Our Lord, Who suffered so willingly for our sake. We can never have as much suffering as He did.

Churches are built in the form of a cross because within the sacrifice of the cross is reenacted. Within them we remember easily the events that took place that day long ago, when Jesus Christ, Son of God, for love of us suffered and died on the Cross.

Church spires lead us to “seek those things that are above” (Col. 3:1); they are surmounted by a cross, the symbol of our salvation; their bells call us to prayer, communion with God. The church interior is divided into three parts: the porch, where in former times those preparing for baptism and the penitents knelt; the nave, which is the central and main portion, for those attending the Holy Sacrifice; and the choir or sanctuary reserved for the offering of the Holy Mass and other sacred functions, and separated from the nave by the communion rail.

“KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE”
"Now late in the night of the Sabbath, as it began to dawn towards the first day of the week, Mary Magdalene and the other Mary came to see the sepulchre. And behold, there was a great earthquake; for an angel of the Lord came down from heaven, and drawing near rolled back the stone, and sat upon it. His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment like snow. And for fear of him the guards were terrified, and became like dead men. But the angel spoke and said to the women, 'Do not be afraid; for I know that you seek Jesus, who was crucified. He is not here, for he has risen even as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord was laid' " (Matt. 28:1-7).

36. The Resurrection
(Fifth Article of the Apostles' Creed.)

What do we mean when we say in the Apostles' Creed that CHRIST DESCENDED INTO HELL?

We mean that, after He died, the soul of Christ descended into a place or state of rest, called limbo, where the souls of the just were waiting for Him.

1. Christ did not go to the hell of the damned, but to the "hell" of the just. In Holy Scripture, it was called "Abraham's bosom." St. Peter called it "a prison." We call it limbo.

Among the souls in limbo were Adam, Eve, Abel, Noe, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph, David, Isaias, Daniel, Job, Tobias, St. Joseph, and St. John the Baptist. They went to heaven at Our Lord's entrance upon His Ascension.

2. Christ went to limbo to announce to the souls waiting there the joyful news that He had reopened heaven to mankind.

"He was brought to life in the spirit, in which also he went and preached to those spirits that were in prison" (1 Pet. 3:19). The souls in limbo could not go to heaven, which had been closed by Adam's sin. It was only reopened to man by the death of Our Lord, by the Redemption. The souls in limbo did not suffer pain, but they longed for heaven.

3. While His soul was in limbo, Christ's body was in the holy sepulchre. When man dies, his soul is separated from the body. When Jesus died, His body and soul were separated, but His divinity remained united to both body and soul.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Christ's body did not corrupt in the tomb. It was in the holy sepulchre from Friday evening when He was buried, to Sunday morning, when He arose from the grave. This is why we say Christ rose on the third day, although He was in the grave for only three incomplete days.

WHEN did CHRIST RISE from the dead?

Christ rose from the dead, glorious and immortal, on Easter Sunday, the third day after His death.

1. Christ had often foretold His resurrection.

He said of His own body: "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up" (John 2:19). Before entering Jerusalem He said to His Apostles that He would be put to death and "rise again on the third day" (Matt. 20:19). On the night of the Last Supper He said: "But after I have risen, I will go before you into Galilee" (Matt. 26:32).

2. Even His enemies knew that He had predicted His resurrection. This is why they obtained Pilate's permission to seal the sepulchre and set guards to watch it.

They said to Pilate: "Sir, we have remembered how that deceiver said, while he was yet alive, 'After three days I will rise again'" (Matt. 27:63).

3. Christ really arose from the dead. For forty days He appeared to many. He conversed, walked, and even ate with them. He spent much time instructing the Apostles.

One of His most important appearances was to five hundred disciples on a mountain in Galilee, when He gave the Apostles the command to go forth into the world and teach. The Evangelists have recorded nine apparitions; but it is evident from their writings (for example, Acts 1:3) that there were other and unrecorded occasions when Christ appeared. Countless of Christ's followers laid down their lives in testimony of the truth of the resurrection. "During forty days appearing to them, and speaking of the kingdom of God" (Acts 1:3).

4. Today the entire Christendom celebrates Easter Sunday in memory of the Resurrection. It is the Feast of feasts, commemorating the completion of our redemption by Christ.

Easter is celebrated on the first Sunday following the first full moon of spring; the feast therefore is moveable, and can fall between March 22 and April 25. The Paschal season lasts till Trinity Sunday; till then the joyous alleluia resounds.

What was the PURPOSE OF the RESURRECTION?

The Resurrection of Jesus Christ was an essential part of the act of salvation. The death of Jesus and His Resurrection together constitute the mystery of redemption. The one cannot be understood without the other.

1. We often think of the passion and death of Jesus Christ as alone constituting the act of redemption. But at St. Paul tells us, "...if Christ has not risen...you are still in your sins" (1 Cor. 15:17). Therefore His death alone did not save us.

2. The passion and death of Jesus was the supreme expression of His love and obedience to His Father. It was truly a victory over sin and the power of the devil. But by His resurrection He was constituted the Son of God in power, justifying those who believed in Him. "...if we believe in Him who raised Jesus our Lord from the dead, who was delivered up for our sins, and rose again for our justification" (Rom. 4:24-25).

3. When we are baptized as Christians we share in this total work of redemption. In Baptism we also rise to a new life in Jesus Christ.

"Do you not know that all we who have been baptized into Jesus Christ have been baptized into His death? For we were buried with Him by means of Baptism into death, in order that, just as Christ has arisen from the dead through the glory of the Father, so we also may walk in newness of life. For if we have been united with Him in the likeness of His death, we shall be so in the likeness of His resurrection also" (Rom. 6:3-5).

Will ALL MEN RISE from the dead?

All men will rise from the dead, but only those who have been faithful to Christ will share in His glory.

1. Like Christ, we, too, shall rise from the dead on the Last Day, and our bodies will be reunited with our souls. "He who raised up Jesus will raise us up also with Jesus" (2 Cor. 4:14).

2. Those who have been faithful to Christ will be rewarded with the glory of heaven; those that have been unfaithful will be punished in the depths of hell. The rewards are given only to the faithful.
On Mount Olivet, a hill outside Jerusalem, forty days after His Resurrection, Our Lord spoke to the disciples, telling them how the Holy Ghost would descend upon them. "And when He had said this, He was lifted up before their eyes, and a cloud took him out of their sight. And while they were gazing up to heaven as he went, behold, two men stood by them in white garments, and said to them, 'Men of Galilee, why do you stand looking up to heaven? This Jesus who has been taken from you into heaven, will come in the same way as you have seen him going up to heaven' " (Acts 1:9-11).

37. The Ascension
(Sixth Article of the Apostles' Creed.)

When did Christ ASCEND into heaven?

Christ ascended, body and soul, into heaven on Ascension day, forty days after His Resurrection.

1. The Ascension took place from the Mount of Olives. Christ's Apostles and disciples were present. It was full daylight.

He gave His followers His last instructions. Then He raised His hands and blessed them. He told them to preach the Gospel to all nations, and promised to be with them to the end of the world.

2. While all looked on, He was raised up, by His own power, and a cloud received Him out of their sight. "As he blessed them... he was carried up into heaven" (Luke 24:51).

3. The disciples returned to Jerusalem with great joy. Their Master had returned to heaven in glory, and His arrival there had opened to His followers the heavenly gates.

Christ the King had earned for men infinite grace, and had gone home to prepare a place for men in heaven (John 14:16; 2 Cor. 1:7). We celebrate the feast of the Ascension forty days after Easter, on Ascension Thursday.

Why did Christ REMAIN ON EARTH, forty days after His Resurrection?

Christ remained on earth forty days after His Resurrection to prove that He had truly risen from the dead, and to complete the instruction of the Apostles.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
1. Christ’s resurrection is an undoubted fact on which rests the Christian faith.

St. Paul says: "If Christ has not risen, vain then is our preaching, vain too is your faith" (1 Cor. 15:14). And according to St. John, an eyewitness: "Many other signs also Jesus worked in the sight of his disciples, which are not written in this book. But these are written, that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God" (John 20:30-31).

2. In the first place, Christ really died. His death was witnessed by many, both friends and enemies. It was proved by the soldier who plunged his spear into His side. It was communicated officially to Pilate. His bones were not broken, because He was found already dead. His Mother and disciples would never have buried Him had they suspected the least chance of life.

Some unbelievers urge that Christ was dead only in appearance and after an interval recovered from His swoon and left the grave. The loss of blood following the scourging alone would have been enough to cause death, not to mention the wounds He received on the cross.

3. In the second place, Christ really came to life. On the first Easter morning He appeared to Mary Magdalen and the other women who sought Him at the sepulchre. Then He appeared to Peter. In the evening He walked with two disciples on the road to Emmaus. At night He appeared to the assembled Apostles.

Nor were these witnesses easily deceived. The Apostles did not at first believe the women who told them the Lord had risen. They would not even believe their own senses, thinking the risen Saviour was a ghost. Christ had to call for something to eat, to prove that He was not a ghost. St. Thomas refused to believe the other ten Apostles, who had seen Christ first. He only believed when Our Lord appeared to him and bade him touch His wounds.

4. The Jews bribed the guards to say that while they were asleep, the disciples had stolen the body of Christ.

Such an act was made impossible by Christ’s enemies themselves. They had sealed and guarded the tomb. “So they went and made the sepulchre secure, sealing the stone, and setting the guard” (Matt. 27:66). Even supposing the guards to have fallen asleep, the great stone which covered the sepulchre could not have been moved without waking some at least of the guards. Finally, it is a remarkable circumstance that the guards were not punished for this breach of duty.

What do we mean when we say that CHRIST SITS AT THE RIGHT HAND OF GOD, the Father Almighty?

When we say that Christ sits at the right hand of God, the Father Almighty, we mean that Our Lord as God is equal to the Father, and that as man He shares above all the saints in the glory of His Father, and exercises for all eternity the supreme authority of a King over all creatures.

1. Christ as God is equal to the Father in all things. But even as man Christ is only next to God.

He is above all the angels and saints. To sit at the right hand of anybody is a mark of honor from that person. “Sit at My right hand, till I make your enemies your footstool” (Ps. 109:1).

2. Christ ascended into heaven in order:

(a) To enter into the glory He had merited.
(b) To send down the Holy Spirit on His Church.
(c) To be our intercessor with the Father.
(d) To prepare a place for us in heaven.

What do we mean when we say that Christ will come FROM THENCE TO JUDGE THE LIVING AND THE DEAD?

We mean that on the last day Our Lord will come to pronounce a sentence of eternal reward or of eternal punishment on every one who has ever lived in this world. (See pages 172-175.)

1. Jesus Christ will be our Supreme Judge because He is “king of kings and Lord of lords” (Apoc. 17:14).

“For the Son of Man is to come with his angels in the glory of his Father and then he will render to everyone according to his conduct” (Matt. 16:27).

2. Christ’s teaching has changed the face of the earth. One poor young man, teaching for three years in the hills and valleys of Galilee, and dying a shameful death, has brought light, love, peace, and hope into men’s lives, even the lowliest.

Before Christ the world was the abode of sin and vice, idolatry, polygamy, divorce, and slavery. However, the world today, although reformed by Christianity, is far from perfect. This is because many refuse to obey the teachings of Christ. It is our duty to make Christ better known and loved, so that all may “seek first the kingdom of God.”

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
"And when the days of Pentecost were drawing to a close, they were all together in one place. And suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a violent wind coming, and it filled the whole house where they were sitting.

And there appeared to them parted tongues as of fire, which settled upon each of them. And they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and began to speak in foreign tongues, even as the Holy Spirit prompted them to speak" (Acts 2:1-4).

38. The Holy Spirit
(Eighth Article of the Apostles' Creed.)

Who is THE HOLY SPIRIT?

The Holy Spirit is God and the Third Person of the Blessed Trinity.

One of the most solemn occasions was when He charged the Apostles: "Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit" (Matt. 28:19).

2. On certain occasions, the Holy Spirit appeared in visible form. When Christ was baptized by John the Baptist, the Holy Spirit appeared in the form of a dove. On Pentecost, the Holy Spirit descended with a mighty rushing wind, and rested over the Apostles in the form of tongues of fire.

These signs are symbolic of the action of the Holy Spirit. The form of a dove symbolizes the gentleness with which the Holy Spirit works in our souls. The rush of wind represents the strengthening of the will. The fire represents zeal, fervor, and the illumination of the mind.

3. The Holy Spirit PROCEEDS from the Father and the Son. (See page 31.)

This does not mean that the Holy Spirit began to exist later in time than the Father and the Son. He proceeded from them from all eternity; He is to them as warmth is to fire, existing and proceeding at the same time. There can be no fire without warmth; if there were an eternal fire, there would be an eternal warmth. So since there are the eternal Father and Son, there is the eternal Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit is the eternal, mutual love that the Father and Son bear each other; but instead of being mere feeling, He is a Person, a Being, God.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
4. The Holy Spirit is EQUAL to the Father and the Son, because He is God.

True God as the Father and the Son are, the Holy Spirit is eternal, all-knowing, almighty. The Third Person is called Holy Spirit, from the Latin word spiritus, a breath. Other names used to refer to the Holy Spirit are: Holy Ghost, Advocate, Paraclete, Consoler, Comforter, Substantial Love, Spirit of Truth, etc.

WHAT DOES the Holy Spirit do for the SALVATION OF MANKIND?

The Holy Spirit DWELLS in the Church as the source of its life, and sanctifies souls through the gift of grace.

1. Although all Divine works depend on all Three Persons, we attribute the work of sanctification to God the Holy Spirit, because He is the oneness of love of the Father and the Son, and the sanctification of man by grace reveals that boundless love.

"Do you not know that you are the temple of God and that the Spirit of God dwells in you?" (1 Cor. 3:16).

2. After Baptism, we have the Holy Spirit in our hearts and He remains with us as long as we have no mortal sin on our souls. This is the gift of "sanctifying grace."

3. The Holy Spirit is the SOURCE of the life of the Church. He consoles, guides, and imparts strength to it, as Christ promised.

"The Church was filled with the consolation of the Holy Spirit" (Acts 9:31).

WHEN WAS the dwelling of the Holy Spirit FIRST VISIBLY MANIFESTED in the Church?

The dwelling of the Holy Spirit in the Church was first visibly manifested on Pentecost Sunday, when He came down upon the Apostles in the form of tongues of fire.

After the Ascension, the Apostles together with the Blessed Virgin and disciples, men and women, numbering about 120 persons gathered in the Cenacle, the upper room in Jerusalem where the Last Supper had been taken. There they spent the time in prayer, awaiting the fulfillment of Our Lord's promise: "Wait here in the city, until you are clothed with power from on high" (Luke 24:49).

1. Jesus had promised to send the Holy Spirit to the Apostles. He said at the Last Supper: "It is expedient for you that I depart. For if I do not go, the Advocate will not come to you; but if I go, I will send him to you" (John 16:7). On Pentecost, ten days after the Ascension, the Holy Spirit descended on the Apostles and disciples.

On Pentecost three thousand members were baptized after the preaching of St. Peter. Many believed, because the Apostles had the "gift of tongues"; that is, they spoke in one language, but those of different races who listened heard what was said in their own different languages.

2. We celebrate the descent of the Holy Spirit today as Pentecost Sunday, ten days after Ascension Thursday, fifty days after Easter. Pentecost means fiftieth.

The nine days in the Cenacle while the Apostles and disciples waited for the coming of the Holy Spirit were spent in prayer, the "first novena" in the Church. "All these with one mind continued steadfastly in prayer with the women and Mary, the mother of Jesus" (Acts 1:14). In imitation of that first novena, it is our custom today to make novenas especially in preparation for great feasts. We also make novenas of petition or thanksgiving.

HOW LONG will the Holy Spirit DWELL in the Church?

The Holy Spirit will dwell in the Church until the end of time.

"I will ask the Father and he will give you another Advocate to dwell with you forever, the Spirit of truth" (John 14:16-17).

1. The Holy Spirit watches over the Church, protecting it from destruction. From the beginning the Church spread very rapidly. At the death of the Apostles, in spite of persecutions, it was known in all parts of the then civilized world. Thence it has spread to the ends of the earth.

2. The Holy Spirit gave testimony of Christ, and strengthened the Apostles to give testimony of Christ.

Our Lord said, "But when the Advocate has come, whom I will send you from the Father, the Spirit of truth who proceeds from the Father, he will bear witness concerning me. And you also bear witness" (John 15:26, 27). After the coming of the Holy Spirit, the Apostles gave testimony of Christ by going in many parts of the world (Acts 1:8), preaching and suffering for Christ, meeting death joyfully (Acts 5:41; Rom. 8:18), saying, "I can do all things in him who strengthens me."
A soul in the state of grace is very beautiful in the sight of God. Then we are friends and children of God and heirs of heaven; then we are like the very angels. We must always try to avoid sin. But when the soul has lost the grace of God by mortal sin, nothing on earth can be uglier in God’s sight. If we are so careful about our personal appearance before mortals, how much more should we be careful about the appearance of our immortal soul, that God may be pleased with us.

39. Sanctifying Grace

What is GRACE?

Grace is a supernatural gift of God bestowed on us through the merits of Jesus Christ for our salvation.

“And he said: “This is why I said to you, “No one can come to me unless he is enabled to do so by my Father”’” (John 6:66).

1. Grace is a favor, a free gift, granted to us though we have no claim to it. God grants us graces because He is good, not because we deserve them. God grants us graces for the sake of His Son, Who died on the cross to earn for us these graces; we men can never merit these graces.

“All have sinned and have need of the glory of God. They are justified freely by his grace through the redemption which is in Christ” (Rom. 3:23-24).

2. The Holy Spirit dispenses the graces of God merited by Our Lord Jesus Christ; He bestows and perfects what is already earned.

Christ has not ceased to act. He sanctifies us through the Spirit, whom He “sends” or “gives” us together with His Father.

3. The supernatural is that which is beyond natural powers. It is of two kinds:

(a) When the fact is beyond natural powers in the manner of occurrence: as when a blind man instantly can see; and

(b) When the fact fundamentally and entirely surpasses all powers of the natural order: as when God imparts a part of His life to man through the gift of sanctifying grace.

4. The assistance of the Holy Spirit is necessary. Without the help of the graces that He dispenses, with merely natural powers, we cannot do the least work to merit salvation. Without God, we are nothing.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
In order to reach heaven, we need God's grace; so we say with the Apostle: "Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think anything, as from ourselves, but our sufficiency is from God" (2 Cor. 3:5).

5. There are two kinds of grace: sanctifying grace and actual grace.

What is sanctifying GRACE?

Sanctifying grace is that grace which confers on our souls a new life, that is, a sharing in the life of God Himself.

1. By sanctifying grace, our souls are made holy and pleasing to God. It is an abiding or permanent grace, which we gain by baptism, and lose only by mortal sin.

By Adam's sin all mankind lost the friendship of God; that is, we are born in original sin, without sanctifying grace. Our Lord's death won back sanctifying grace for us; it is granted freely at Baptism.

2. A soul to whom God grants "sanctifying grace" receives not merely a gift from God, but God Himself. He receives a new life, a new nature.

St. Paul refers to this acquisition of sanctifying grace as the putting off of the old man and the putting on of the new. It is as if an old and worn man were suddenly to become a handsome young man full of the vigor of life. The beauty of a soul in the state of sanctifying grace is too great for human eyes to bear. As a child said, when asked how his soul would look immediately after his confirmation, if it could be photographed, "Why, it would look like God!"

What are THE CHIEF EFFECTS of sanctifying grace?

First, it makes us holy and pleasing to God.—When we are in possession of sanctifying grace, we are free from mortal sin; the two cannot dwell together.

However, although free from mortal sin, we do not, with sanctifying grace, become free from the remains of sin. So even saints feel the human inclination to sin, against which the struggle is lifelong, and from which we should gain merit. This human frailty is imbedded in our flesh, and is present in our souls as a result of original sin.

Sanctifying grace, however, although it does not cure us of the weakness of the flesh, strengthens our will, so that for us the war against sin becomes easier.

Second, it makes us adopted children of God.—With sanctifying grace, the Holy Spirit enters our soul; we are led by His Spirit, and are therefore His children: "For whoever are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God" (Rom. 8:14).

"Now you have not received a spirit of bondage so as to be again in fear, but you have received a spirit of adoption as sons, by virtue of which we cry, 'Abba! Father!' The Spirit himself gives testimony to our spirit that we are sons of God" (Rom. 8:15-16).

Third, it makes us temples of the Holy Spirit.—Sanctifying grace brings the Holy Spirit to dwell in us as in a temple. St. Paul says, "For you are the temple of the Living God" (2 Cor. 6:16).

Fourth, it gives us the right to heaven.—When we are in sanctifying grace, we are inspired to do good works. The Holy Spirit does not sleep within us, but expands our heart with His grace, and urges our will to do good. And as we are adopted children of God, such actions become meritorious for heaven.

If we are children of God, we are at the same time heirs, and therefore have a right to His Kingdom. "We are the sons of God. But if we are sons, we are heirs also; heirs indeed of God, and joint heirs with Christ" (Rom. 8:16-17).

WHY is sanctifying grace NECESSARY FOR SALVATION?

Sanctifying grace is necessary for salvation because it is the supernatural life, which alone enables us to attain the supernatural happiness of heaven.

The presence of God in the soul gives it life. When the Holy Spirit is dwelling in the soul, it is enabled to know and love God, to do supernatural works. Speaking of the "gift of God", Our Lord said it "shall become in him a fountain of water, springing up unto life everlasting" (John 4:14). Without sanctifying grace, the soul is without God; and without God, the soul becomes the devil's.

One cannot gain any merit for heaven as long as he is not in sanctifying grace, what is termed "in the state of grace." For without sanctifying grace one is an enemy of God, and cannot enter His kingdom.

Mortal sin makes the soul displeasing to God, and thus deprives it of sanctifying grace.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The case of Soul of Tarsus is one of the most wonderful instances of cooperation with God's grace. Soul of Tarsus was one of the most active persecutors of the early Christians. On the way to Damascus to arrest Christians, Soul was struck down by a brilliant light, and heard a voice say: "Soul, why dost thou persecute me?" Soul asked, "Who art thou, Lord?" And Jesus answered, "I am Jesus, whom thou art persecuting." From then on he turned his back on his former life, and belonged completely to Christ, till as the incomparable Apostle Paul he was martyred in Rome.

40. Actual Grace

What is ACTUAL GRACE?
Actual grace is a supernatural help of God which enlightens our mind and strengthens our will to do good and to avoid evil.

By actual grace the Holy Ghost shows us the emptiness in ourselves of earthly things. He makes us see our own sins, and the true goal of life. By it we can perform a virtuous act or reject a temptation.

1. Actual grace is transient; that is, it is given to us only when we need it, to perform a good act, or to overcome a temptation.

An example of the wonderful action of the Holy Spirit in enlightening the mind and strengthening the will is the First Pentecost. Before the descent of the Holy Spirit, the Apostles were ignorant and afraid; after His descent, His grace made them wise and fearless men, going forth to preach Christ everywhere, ready to die for their faith.

2. God gives us always sufficient grace to be saved. A true Christian should view his whole life in the light of grace. All God's gifts granted for man's salvation are graces.

A good family, a good education,—these are graces. But even sickness and hardships are God's graces, and may be the steps by which to ascend to heaven. And God grants graces to protect us against temptation, never suffering us to be tempted beyond our strength.

Is actual grace NECESSARY FOR ALL who have attained the use of reason?

Actual grace is necessary for all who have attained the use of reason, because without it we cannot long resist the power of temptation, nor perform other actions which merit a reward in heaven.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
1. We all need actual grace. Sinners need it to rise from sin. The just need it to persevere in good. Without grace, we fall into sin.

Herod was offered actual grace when he heard of the birth of the Messias from the three wise men; but Herod rejected the grace, and added to his sins.

2. Grace is given to all men, although not in equal amounts. Some receive more, some less. Some ordinary graces are granted to all men; certain extraordinary graces are granted to chosen ones.

God is free to bestow His gifts as He likes. The Blessed Virgin received more than other mortals. Christians receive more than pagans. Those in the state of grace are likely to receive more than those in the state of mortal sin. In a way, our graces depend also on our dispositions.

What are the PRINCIPAL WAYS of OBTAINING GRACE?

The principal ways of obtaining grace are prayer and the sacraments, especially the Holy Eucharist.

The sacraments of Baptism and Penance give grace to those not possessing it; the other sacraments increase grace in those already in the state of grace.

1. Actual grace is obtained by good works. It is especially obtained by the use of means offered by the Church, such as offering Mass, listening to sermons, etc., and receiving the sacraments, particularly the Holy Eucharist, which contains God, the Source of Grace.

Although we cannot merit grace by our good works, still our good works can beg God for us, to give us grace. Good works are necessary, for God will not save us without our cooperation.

2. Actual grace is made to act through various means: through sermons, reading of good books, illness and death, advice of superiors and friends, good example, etc.

The first converts at Pentecost were moved by the preaching of the Apostles. St. Ignatius of Loyola was moved by the reading of the lives of the saints; St. Francis of Assisi, during an illness: St. Francis Borgia, upon seeing the corpse of Queen Isabella.

CAN WE RESIST the grace of God?

We can resist the grace of God, for our will is free, and God does not force us to accept His grace.

1. Grace does not force us. It leaves us free to choose between good and evil. The Holy Ghost guides and enlightens, but we can still close our eyes to His grace. If we cooperate, we gain other graces.

As Christ said, "For to him who has shall be given, and he shall have abundance" (Matt. 13:12). He who persists in rejecting the gift of God's grace and refuses to be converted will die in his sin and will be forever excluded from the sight of God. "From him who does not have, even that which he seems to have shall be taken away. But as for the unprofitable servant, cast him forth into the darkness outside, where there will be the weeping, and the gnashing of teeth" (Matt. 25:29-30).

2. We should be on the lookout for the graces of God, ready to accept them as soon as they are offered. The action of the Holy Spirit on the individual soul is not continuous in particular graces; we must be ready when He comes with special gifts.

Some receive only one summons to the banquet. In the desert, the Israelites who rose late found the manna melted away. There are times of special grace for the Christian, such as Lent, a retreat, etc.

How can we make our MOST ORDINARY ACTIONS merit a heavenly reward?

We can make our most ordinary actions merit a heavenly reward by doing them for the love of God, and by keeping ourselves in the state of grace.

1. God grants us the right to a heavenly reward for the most ordinary good actions in the supernatural order, provided we are in the state of grace. God does not ask us to do extraordinary things. If we do the most ordinary tasks of the day, like cooking, studying, doing small chores, carpentry work, sewing, and such, in a spirit of love and obedience to Him, our acts will deserve merit before God's eyes.

All God wants is our love; and this we can give in the most ordinary daily actions. "Whether you eat or drink, or whatever else you do, do all to the glory of God."

2. By mortal sin one loses the merit he has gained from his good actions. It is necessary that he regain that state of grace before he can regain that merit.

To regain God's friendship, we must be sorry for our sins, make a good confession, and resolve never to displease Him again. Then He will give us back the gift of His grace and love, and the merit of all our good works.
Faith is the foundation of all virtue, for by it God makes Himself known to men. As St. Paul says, “Now faith is the substance of things to be hoped for, the evidence of things that are not seen... And without faith it is impossible to please God.” (Heb. 11:1, 6). It is this supernatural faith that the Canaanite woman proved, when she persevered in begging Jesus to cure her daughter. Having tested her, He said, “O woman, great is thy faith. Let it be done to thee as thou wilt” (Matt. 15:28).

41. The Theological Virtues

The chief supernatural powers that are bestowed on our souls with sanctifying grace are:

a) The Three Theological Virtues, and
b) THE SEVEN GIFTS.

1. Good qualities or inclinations, whether natural or supernatural, are generally referred to as “virtues.” Virtue is a habit that inclines us to whatever is good.

A single good act does not constitute virtue. For instance, one does not have the virtue of faith if one believes in Christ only once a week.

2. Supernatural virtues enter the soul with sanctifying grace, imparted by the Holy Ghost in the Sacraments of Baptism and Penance. With sanctifying grace the soul acquires the supernatural light of faith and hope, and burns with the fire of charity.

These virtues render us capable of being good and doing good for the love and service of God, to act for instead of against Him.

We are not to suppose however that sanctifying grace makes us perfect in the practice of virtue. It gives us the power and the inclination to be good and do good, but to have perfection we must frequently exercise our virtues. We are given the power, but if we do not use it, it remains dormant; similarly, we are given legs to use for walking, but if we refuse to walk, the power is dormant. Virtue is a habit acquired by repeated good acts.

3. Natural virtue enables us to perform good natural acts; it deals directly with things human. Supernatural virtue enables us to perform good acts from a supernatural motive, for the glory of God.

If we are temperate in food and drink because we wish to preserve our health, we have a natural virtue; we act according to reason.
4. Natural virtues compared to supernatural ones are like a photograph compared to the living original. It is only supernatural virtues that will profit us unto life everlasting, since it is only those whose object and life is God.

If we are temperate in food or drink because in that way we hope to be more pleasing to God and obey His precepts, we act from supernatural virtue.

What are THE THREE THEOLOGICAL VIRTUES?

The three theological virtues are faith, hope, and charity.

1. These virtues are called theological, from the Greek term theos (meaning God), because their object is God.

An appropriate symbol for the theological virtues is a living tree. Faith is the root, hope the trunk, and charity the fruit. The root and trunk are valueless if they do not find completion in the fruit. The common symbols depicting these three virtues are: the cross for faith, the anchor for hope, and the burning heart for charity.

2. He who possesses these three virtues has all other virtues in some degree. Without them, he cannot possess any other supernatural virtue nor reach heaven.

We should make acts of these virtues every day. We can say very briefly; "O my God, I believe in Thee, I hope in Thee, I love Thee. To Thee be honor, praise, and glory forever."

What is FAITH?

Faith is the virtue by which we firmly believe all the truths God has revealed, on the word of God revealing them, Who can neither deceive nor be deceived.

"Faith is the substance of things to be hoped for, the evidence of things that are not seen" (Heb. 11:1). "Blessed are they who have not seen, and yet have believed" (John 20:29).

1. Faith is belief in a truth on the word of another, though that truth be not fully understood.

In a trial, the judge believes the testimony of a witness known to be an honest man. When a fact is so obvious as "it is dark at midnight," no belief is needed; that is known and fully understood.

2. Divine faith is belief in a truth or mystery known only because God revealed it. It is grace that helps us to attain faith and to persevere in it, to take God’s word for whatever He has revealed.

Faith is supernatural because we cannot by ourselves acquire it. It is a gift of God. It is, however, increased by prayer and continual exercise; the apostles prayed to the Lord, "Increase our faith" (Luke 17:5).

3. Without faith, it is impossible to be saved. Our faith must be firm and complete; that is, both certain and all-encompassing.

We must not cease praying for increase of faith, for it is necessary for salvation. "Without faith, it is impossible to please God" (Heb. 11:6). "He that does not believe shall be condemned" (Mark 16:16). If we are doubtful on any matters of faith, considering opposite viewpoints as possibly true, then we deny God’s authority.

What is HOPE?

Hope is the virtue by which we firmly trust that God, Who is all-powerful and faithful to His promises, will in His mercy give us eternal happiness and the means to obtain it.

1. God promised to give man eternal life, and the means to obtain it. In this promise is our hope.

"He who takes refuge in me shall inherit the land, and possess my holy mountain" (Is. 57:13).

2. Hope is necessary for salvation. Our hope must be firmly founded in God, Who promised to give us the means for salvation.

Such firm hope, however, would not exclude reasonable fear of the loss of our soul. Very often we fall far short of the proper use of the means of salvation granted us.

What is CHARITY?

Charity is the virtue by which we love God above all things for His own sake, and our neighbor as ourselves, for the love of God.

1. Charity is the queen of virtues. It unites God and man perfectly in love. It also unites man and man, for the love of God.

To love God above all things, we must be willing to renounce all created things rather than offend Him by sin. We should often speak to God in acts of love, opening our hearts to Him.

2. In heaven faith and hope will cease; for we cannot need faith for what we already know; nor can we desire what we already possess. But for all eternity we shall have charity; we can love God forever.
Before the descent of the Holy Spirit, the Apostles were of good will, but they were weak and fearful. When Jesus was taken prisoner, they all fled. Fearful for his life, St. Peter denied Christ three times. After receiving the Holy Spirit, the Apostles were filled with courage and readiness to die for the Faith. When in Rome, St. Peter, the first Pope, was condemned to death, he was crucified with his head downwards, as he requested, deeming himself unworthy to die in the same position of Our Lord.

42. Gifts and Fruits of the Holy Spirit

Which are THE SEVEN GIFTS OF THE HOLY SPIRIT?

The seven gifts of the Holy Spirit are: wisdom, understanding, counsel, fortitude, knowledge, piety, and fear of the Lord.

The gifts are infused in our souls with sanctifying grace. With God the Holy Spirit come sanctifying grace, and inseparably, His gifts.

1. Wisdom is that gift by which we recognize the emptiness of earthly things. By it we come to regard God and spiritual things as of the highest good.

The best example of the effects of the gifts of the Holy Spirit are the Apostles, who after receiving the Holy Spirit became penetrated with His graces.

2. Understanding is that gift by which we are enabled to recognize the true Catholic teaching, and to detect false doctrines.

Before they received the Holy Spirit, the Apostles were inconstant and weak. But Christ promised them the gift of counsel, saying: "Do not be anxious how or wherewith you shall defend yourselves, or what you shall say, for the Holy Spirit will teach you" (Luke 12:11).

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
4. FORTITUDE is the gift by which we are strengthened under trials, to do God’s will.

Before the descent of the Holy Spirit, the Apostles were of good will, but they were weak and fearful. For instance, when Jesus was taken prisoner, they all fled. St. John Nepomucene chose to be tortured, and finally cast into the river, rather than break the seal of the confessional.

5. The gift of KNOWLEDGE enables us to grasp the teaching of the Church, to know God and Jesus Christ Whom He sent.

Before the advent of the Holy Spirit, the Apostles were ignorant men who did not care for intellectual pursuits; neither were they expert in holiness or the things of God. The saintly Cure d’Ars had made but little study, yet his sermons were so remarkable that even Bishops were eager to listen.

6. PIETY is that gift by which we love God as our Father, ever striving to do His will.

Before the coming of the Holy Spirit, the Apostles loved Jesus, but more for their own sakes rather than His, more for the reward He promised than for love of Him. But after Pentecost, what a change! They were ready to suffer death just because they loved Jesus and wished to declare Him everywhere.

7. The FEAR OF THE LORD makes us dread sin as the greatest of all evils, and enables us to quell fear of man and human respect.

Eleazer, the old Jewish scribe, chose death rather than offend God by eating, or even pretending to eat, forbidden meats (2 Mach. 6).

8. Besides these seven gifts, the Holy Spirit also grants certain extraordinary gifts, which are given only on rare occasions and to selected persons. Such extraordinary graces are granted principally not for the benefit of the recipient, but of others. They were common during the early days of the Church, and helped in its rapid spread. Among them are the gift of tongues, of miracles, of visions, and of prophecy. The Apostles received the gift of tongues on Pentecost, so that although they spoke to a crowd of different nationalities and languages, everybody understood what was said.

The Apostles also possessed the gift of miracles, curing the sick, driving out evil spirits, raising the dead to life. Many saints have been blessed with the gift of miracles.

How do THE GIFTS OF THE HOLY SPIRIT HELP US?

The gifts of the Holy Spirit help us by making us more alert to discern and more ready to do the will of God.

1. If we look with discerning eyes, we can see how the gifts of the Holy Spirit have greatly helped the world at large.

As the psalmist said: “When you send forth your spirit, they (God’s creatures) are created, and you renew the face of the earth” (Ps. 103:30).

2. The operations of the Holy Spirit were easily discernible among the early Christians.

“And they continued steadfastly in the teaching of the apostles and in the communion of the breaking of the bread and in the prayers. And...many wonders also and signs were done by means of the apostles” (Acts 2:42-43).

3. The difference between the virtues and the gifts of the Holy Spirit consists in this: the virtues enable us to do what our reason directs; the gifts make us follow the inspirations of the Holy Spirit.

4. Some of the effects in us of the gifts of the Holy Spirit are the fruits of the Holy Spirit and the beatitudes.

The Twelve Fruits of the Holy Spirit are:

- Charity, joy, peace, patience, benignity, goodness, long-suffering, mildness, faith, modesty, continency, and chastity.

1. These twelve fruits give us grace to perform good works under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit. They make us happy and contented, and help us to be pleasing to both God and man.

With the fruits of the Holy Spirit it becomes easier for us to persevere in the union with God by the practice of virtue; our heart inclines with charity towards God and our neighbor, and finds it almost natural to be detached from the world.

2. With the gift of sanctifying grace and its accompanying theological virtues, gifts of the Holy Spirit, and their effects, the Christian soul may be said to possess sanctity, to be in the state of Christian perfection.

Sanctity is the fervent surrender of one’s self to God and the practice of virtue. It does not require extraordinary works. The Blessed Mother of God, the most holy of mortals, who called herself “the handmaid of the Lord,” never performed any extraordinary works to excite worldly admiration. “Love is the fulfilling of the law.”
In our every day life we are called upon to make countless decisions involving right or wrong. The sight of a church can remind us of the moral virtues—prudence, justice, fortitude, and temperance—which dispose us to treat persons and things according to the will of God.

43. Moral Virtues

ARE THERE ANY OTHER VIRTUES besides the theological virtues of faith, hope, and charity?

Besides the theological virtues of faith, hope and charity, there are other virtues, called MORAL VIRTUES.

1. These virtues are called "moral virtues" because they dispose us to lead moral, or good lives, by aiding us to treat persons and things in the right way, that is, according to the will of God. Moral virtues are opposed to the capital sins.

For example, humility is opposed to pride; liberality is opposed to avarice; chastity is opposed to lust; meekness and patience are opposed to anger; temperance is opposed to gluttony; brotherly love is opposed to envy; and zeal and diligence in what is good are opposed to sloth.

2. Moral virtues differ from the theological ones in that their immediate object is not God Himself, but the right order of our actions and passions according to reason.

Moral virtues are those of the perfect man (supernaturalized in a Christian); the theological virtues are those proper to men whom grace has raised to the status of children of God; the latter are of a higher order, but require the former.

Which are the CHIEF MORAL VIRTUES?

The chief moral virtues are prudence, justice, fortitude, and temperance; these are called cardinal virtues.

All other moral virtues spring from the cardinal virtues. These are called cardinal from cardo, the Latin word for hinge, because all our moral actions turn on them as a door turns upon its hinges. All other moral virtues depend on them.
PRUDENCE, JUSTICE, FORTITUDE, and TEMPERANCE dispose us to lead good lives, as indicated below:

1. PRUDENCE disposes us in all circumstances to form right judgments about what we must do or not do. It teaches us when and how to act in matters relating to our eternal salvation. Prudence perfects the intelligence, which is the power of forming judgments; for this virtue, knowledge and experience are important.

   Prudence shows us how to leave earthly things in order to earn riches for eternity. It is the eye of the soul, for it tells us what is good and what is evil. It is like a compass that directs our course in life. It is opposed to worldly wisdom. "Be prudent therefore and watchful in prayers" (1 Pet. 4:7). Prudence is a virtue of the understanding.

2. JUSTICE disposes us to give everyone what belongs to him. It teaches us to give what is due to God and to man. It makes us willing to live according to the commandments. Justice perfects the will and safeguards the rights of man: his right to life, freedom, honor, good name, sanctity of the home, and external possessions.

   The just man is an upright man. He gives to every one his due: he gives God worship; the authorities, obedience; his subordinates, rewards and punishments; and his equals, brotherly love. "Render to all men whatever is their due; tribute to whom tribute is due; taxes to whom taxes are due; fear to whom fear is due; honor to whom honor is due" (Rom. 13:7).

3. FORTITUDE disposes us to do what is good in spite of any difficulty. It gives us strength to do good and avoid evil in spite of all obstacles and afflictions.

   We possess fortitude when we are not hindered by ridicule, threats, or persecution from doing what is right; when we are ready, if necessary, to suffer death. The greatest fortitude is shown by bearing great suffering rather than undertaking great works. No saint was ever a coward. The martyrs had fortitude.

4. TEMPERANCE disposes us to control our desires and to use rightly the things which please our senses. It regulates our judgment and passions, so that we may make use of temporal things only in so far as they are necessary for our eternal salvation. We have temperance when we eat and drink only what is necessary to sustain life, preserve health, and fulfill our duties.

   We should strive to be like St. Francis of Sales, who said: "I desire very little, and that little I desire but little." However, temperance does not consist in refusing or denying ourselves what is necessary, thus unfitting ourselves for good works.

SOME OTHER MORAL VIRTUES

1. FILIAL PIETY and PATRIOTISM, which dispose us to honor, love, and respect our parents and our country. It is, however, no virtue but a sin if we are so prejudiced in favor of our parents that we find no good in others; or if we are so "patriotic" that we see no good in other nations.

   The division and mutual antagonisms of nations and peoples in which certain ones profess to find themselves as "superior" can certainly not please God; from them come war and revenge. God is Father of all nations and peoples, without exception.

2. OBEDIENCE, which disposes us to do the will of our superiors. Obedience consists not only in doing what is commanded by our superior, but in being willing to do what is commanded. One who grumbles and murmurs while doing what his mother asks him to do is not obedient.

   Obedience is a virtue only when one subjects his will to that of another for God's sake, not for material or natural motives. Christ is the model of obedience, for He obeyed completely and lovingly, even to the death of the Cross.

3. VERACITY, which disposes us to tell the truth.

   We should always be truthful, as children of God, Who is Truth itself. Veracity, however, does not require us to reveal secrets, or to reply to questions about which the questioner has no right to ask. In cases such as these, we should either remain silent, or return an evasive answer. "Wherefore, put away lying, and speak truth each one with his neighbor, because we are members of one another" (Eph. 4:25).

4. PATIENCE, which disposes us to bear up under trials and difficulties.

   In sickness and ill fortune, in the difficulties of our occupations, in our weaknesses, let us have serenity of mind, for the love of God: "And bear fruit in patience" (Luke 8:15). "Be patient in tribulation, persevering in prayer" (Rom. 12:12).

   Besides these, there are many other moral virtues. Religion is the highest moral virtue, since it disposes us to offer to God the worship that is due Him.

   Religion is classed under the virtue of justice.
At a very early age St. Agnes had such a high regard for the virtue of chastity that she vowed her virginity to God. The Roman authorities, who were persecuting the infant Church, tried to make this child offer incense to the idols, but she refused. Seeing her firmness, the persecutors tried to win her by flattery. She was only thirteen years old, beautiful and wealthy; they offered to marry her to the son of a high official in Rome. But she answered that she was consecrated to her Heavenly Bridegroom. She suffered torture and meekly laid her head on the execution block.

44. Humility, Liberality, Chastity

What is HUMILITY?

Humility is that moral virtue which disposes us to appreciate and acknowledge our true position with respect to God and our fellowmen.

Jesus Christ often praised and recommended humility. "Unless you turn, and become like little children, you will not enter into the kingdom of heaven" (Matt. 18:3). He always answered the prayers of the humble, as of the centurion (Matt. 8:11). "If any man wishes to be first, he shall be last of all, and servant of all" (Mark 9:34).

1. The humble man acknowledges God as the source of all the excellent things he may possess. He recognizes his limitations, his own nothingness, and the uselessness of all earthly things without God.

2. The humble man knows that earthly things are of value only if they lead us to God. His detachment from all things worldly frees him from all human fear.

3. The humble man has his best model in the Son of God Himself, Jesus Christ, Who humbled Himself out of love for men.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
“Learn from me, for I am meek and humble of heart” (Matt. 11:29). The Son of God humbled Himself when He came down to earth as man. He came as a poor man, in the eyes of the world, the son of a carpenter. His companions were simple fishermen. He associated with the humble, even with sinners. At the Last Supper He washed the feet of His apostles.

4. Our Lord continually urged us to humility; as when He said, “He who is greatest among you shall be your servant” (Matt. 23:11).

In the parable of the Pharisee and the Publican, Christ exalted humility; as also He did when, taking a little child, He said, “Whoever, therefore, humbles himself as this little child, he is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven” (Matt. 18:4).

5. Humility is opposed both to pride and to excessive and affected self-abjection.

To be humble, a man does not need to belittle his abilities. St. Thomas Aquinas says: “That a person should recognize and appreciate his own good qualities is not sin.” (See pages 58-59.)

What is LIBERALITY?

Liberality is that moral virtue, related to the cardinal virtue of justice, which finds expression in generosity towards our fellowmen, disposing us to use material goods rightly.

1. Ordinarily the term is taken with reference to “material goods,” but in a broader sense it also is with respect to “spiritual and intellectual gifts.”

Our Lord said, in urging us to do works of mercy, that what is given to the poor is given to Him. Liberality does not depend on the amount given, but in the spirit. A poor man can be very liberal; whereas a rich man who gives millions, but does so only in order to get praised does not have the virtue of generosity.

2. Liberality is opposed to covetousness.

With liberality we become willing for the love of God to help out those in material need. This virtue does not depend on the value of the gift, but in the goodness of the heart with which it is given.

What is CHASTITY?

Chastity is that moral virtue which disposes us to be pure in soul and body.

Those who keep themselves pure in soul and body are like angels on earth. It was the chaste Apostle John to whom Christ gave the privilege of leaning on His breast at the Last Supper; it was to him that He entrusted His Virgin Mother.

1. Chastity, opposed to lust, disposes us to preserve the mind and body from everything that is impure. Chastity is purity. It is termed the angelic virtue, because it makes men resemble the angels in heaven.

Chastity gives health to the soul and light to the understanding; it aids wisdom and develops strength of character. Judith, a weak woman, had the courage to go into the enemy camp, and returned with the head of Holofernes; of her Holy Scripture says, “Thou hast done manfully and thy heart hath been strengthened, because thou hast loved chastity” (Judith 15:11). Thousands of martyrs died in defense of this virtue of holy chastity.

2. For the unmarried, chastity forbids indulgence of the sexual appetite; for the married, it regulates the use of that appetite in accordance with the dictates of right reason. It is wrong to suppose that chastity is not a virtue for the married. God requires chastity from everyone, in all states of life. A chaste marriage is the basis of the Christian family.

Not all saints are virgins. God requires chastity to be practiced by all, in accordance with the state of life that each has embraced. It may be either absolute (for the unmarried), or relative (for the married).

3. The mere knowledge of facts does not destroy our chastity. It is wilful consent and yielding to impurity that sullies chastity of mind and body.

Jesus Christ, Our Lady, St. Joseph, and other saints surely knew the facts of sex; but such knowledge did not spoil their spotless chastity.

4. Let us be careful of the company we keep, and avoid all occasions of sin to preserve virtue of chastity. Let us form the habit of temperance in all things, so as to strengthen our self-control. We should often have recourse to prayer and the sacraments, receiving these frequently. “Walk in the Spirit, and you will not fulfill the lusts of the flesh” (Gal. 5:16). (See page 59.)

Let us have a special devotion to the Blessed Virgin, and ask her daily to preserve us in chastity. The following prayer has in many cases been found efficacious in imploring the Blessed Virgin to preserve one’s chastity:

“My Queen! my Mother! I give thee all myself, and, to show my devotion to thee, I consecrate to thee my eyes, my ears, my mouth, my heart, my entire self. Wherefore O loving Mother, as I am thine own, keep me, defend me as thy property and possession” (300 days Ind. Rac. 340).
As an example of true zeal and brotherly love, we have the Apostle of the Indies, the Patron of Catholic Missions, St. Francis Xavier. Born of a noble family of Navarre, a descendent of kings, he was brought up for a career of earthly power and glory. But he met St. Ignatius, and decided to become a soldier for Christ. Inflamed with zeal and brotherly love, wishing only to reap rich harvest for God, he went through India, Molay, and Japan planting the seed of the Faith.

45. Meekness, Abstinence, Zeal, Brotherly Love

What is MEKENESS?

Meekness is that moral virtue which disposes us to control anger when offended, and resentment when rebuked.

Meekness however must be distinguished from pusillanimity, which is weakness of spirit, and cowardliness.

1. Meekness is patience between man and man. It is related to the cardinal virtue of temperance, and is opposed to the sin of anger. The patient man keeps calm in the midst of the vicissitudes of life; he preserves his cheerfulness for the love of God. Our Lord himself requests us to “Learn from me, for I am meek.”

2. We must endure with serenity all trials, not merely a part of them, in order to be truly patient.

For instance, some are patient with sickness, but keep lamenting their being a burden to others on its account. Some are patient with others, but have no patience with themselves: for example, they feel irritated if they fall back into old sins. Such persons are not truly patient and meek; they show traces of pride, believing themselves too good to relapse into old sins. “Through many tribulations we must enter the kingdom of God” (Acts 14:21).
3. The patient and meek man shows no anger when wrong is done him. He is a peacemaker at heart. However, although we should forgive and forget wrongs for the sake of peace, we must not give in to sin just to avoid opposing others; this would be sinful. Let us keep the peace with all when there is no good reason to break it; this should be our policy.

Our Lord is the best example of meekness and patience. Did He use His almighty power to punish those who did Him evil? For hours He hung meekly on the cross, until He died. Every day God is patient with sinners, giving them time to change their ways.

4. The meek man is master of his own self; he has self-control, and will find it easy to control others. He has peace of mind, and will attain heaven, the home of the meek of heart. (See pages 60-61.)

Let us gaze at Jesus Crucified; He is the supreme example of meekness, the Lamb of God: “And I was as a meek lamb, that is carried to be a victim” (Jer. 11:19). Indeed, “Blessed are the meek, for they shall possess the earth” (Matt. 5:4)—the land of the hearts of their fellowmen. As St. Francis de Sales practically said, “One catches more flies with an ounce of honey than with tons of vinegar.”

What is ABSTINENCE?

Abstinence is that moral virtue, related to the cardinal virtue of temperance, which keeps within bounds use of pleasure in foods or drink.

This general sense is to be understood a different from the particularized sense of “abstinence” during certain days, such as Fridays.

1. A temperate man eats only what he needs, does not fully satisfy his appetite, and is not dainty about the kind of food he eats. The virtue of abstinence is opposed to the sin of gluttony.

One who is moderate in eating will be moderate also in many other things, and will escape numerous evils and sins. He always remembers the words of Our Lord: “Not by bread alone does man live.”

2. Temperance is a boon to both soul and body. It improves the health and strengthens the mind. It increases holiness, and aids towards the attainment of eternal life with God.

A temperate man is like a person who travels light. He can move quickly and reach his destination, heaven, more easily.

What VIRTUES are OPPOSED to SLOTH?

The virtues of DILIGENCE and ZEAL are opposed to sloth.

1. From the days of Adam work has been laid as an obligation on men. God said to Adam: “In the sweat of your brow you shall eat bread, till you return to the ground, since out of it you were taken” (Gen. 3:19).

All men must work, whether mentally or bodily. The Apostle said: If any man will not work, neither let him eat” (2 Thess. 3:10). Our Lord worked all His life, and chose working people for His Mother and foster-father. Assiduity in labor is a shield against temptation, for thieves do not break into a house full of busy people.

2. In opposition to spiritual sloth, we have zeal. It consists in fervor for our salvation and for that of others, out of love of God. It manifests itself in the propagation of the faith, the sanctification of souls, and making God better known.

The zealous man talks to God as often as he can in prayer; he does not forget his religious duties. He loses no opportunity in doing good works, and cheerfully makes sacrifices for the love of God. All his works and sufferings he offers to God, for his own salvation as well as for that of others.

What is BROTHERLY LOVE?

Brotherly love is charity towards our fellowmen, our brothers in Christ.

Our Lord said: “This is my commandment, that you love one another, as I have loved you” (John 15:12). And St. John exhorts: “Beloved, let us love one another, for love is from God... He who does not love does not know God; for God is love” (1 John 4:7-8).

Love and envy cannot live in the same heart. Our Lord says: “By this shall all men know that you are my disciples, if you have love one for another” (John 13:35); and He commands: “Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, and pray for those who persecute you” (Mat. 5:44).

If God commands us to love even our enemies, how much more should we love those who have done us no harm, and avoid envying them? Let us remember that the mark of the Christian is love for his fellow-men; all that we do to others, whether for good or ill, we really do to Our Lord Jesus Christ. Therefore, when we feel the temptation to envy, let us banish it at once by praying for the person, and try our best to do all the good we can to him. In this way we follow Christ our Master.
"And seeing the crowds, he went up the mountain. And when he was seated, his disciples came to him. And opening his mouth he taught them." THE EIGHT BEATITUDES (Matt. 5:1-10), thus called, because their practice will bring us happiness on earth as well as in heaven.

46. The Eight Beatitudes

1. "Blessed ARE THE POOR IN SPIRIT, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven."

(a) The poor in spirit are those who, however great their wealth, dignity, learning, etc., acknowledge that in God's sight they are poor, and realize that their riches come from God. They are detached in heart and mind from worldly possessions, for love of God. Even in this life they are at peace, a foretaste of heaven.

Thus a rich man may in fact be poor in spirit, if he is not attached to his wealth, but spends it freely for good causes, and is willing to be parted from it at God's will.

On the other hand a poor man is not truly poor in spirit, if he is not resigned to his poverty, but envies the rich, if he is poor against his will, or prides himself on some quality of his.

(b) In general, the poor in this world's goods are also "the poor in spirit." They are saved from temptations into which the wealthy fall. This is one reason for seeking poverty voluntarily, according to Christ's counsel.

Our Lord often emphasized the difficulty of salvation when one is rich: "But woe to you rich! for you are now having your comfort" (Luke 6:24). "If thou wilt be perfect, go, sell what thou hast and give to the poor... and come, follow me" (Matt. 19:21). "With difficulty will a rich man enter into the kingdom of heaven" (Matt. 19:23).

(c) We are, however, expected to be industrious. Pauperism which is the result of laziness is not a virtue. Beggary which can be avoided is not beneficial either to the individual or to the society in general. Each one is obliged to provide for himself and for those dependent on him.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
2. "Blessed are THE MEEK, for they shall possess the earth."

The meek are those who bear patiently all the contradictions of life, looking upon them as happening through God's will or by His permission. They master their anger, impatience, or desires for revenge.

The meek man does not get angry or curse or seek revenge. He forgives his enemies, and even wins them by gentle words. The meek shall have peace of heart and peace of life, loved and respected by all, and at death will "possess the earth" of the living, heaven.

3. "Blessed are THEY WHO MOURN, for they shall be comforted."

Here the reference is to spiritual sorrow, grief for sin, one's own sins or the sins of others. It includes a longing amidst the sorrows of life for the joys and peace of heaven.

Mourning for sin is not sadness, for it is not incompatible with spiritual joy. Those who are most penitent feel most gladness upon their release from sin. But to sinners who do not mourn, these words of Our Lord should bring salutary fear: "Woe to you who laugh now, for you shall mourn and weep" (Luke 6:25).

4. "Blessed are THEY WHO hunger and THIRST FOR JUSTICE, for they shall be satisfied."

This refers to those who ardently desire the things of God, truth and perfect virtue, as well as to those who try to become better, more humble and pure, more closely united with God.

Spiritual hunger and thirst is the craving for growth in holiness, a desire to be more pleasing to God, to make daily progress in doing His will.

5. "Blessed are THE MERCIFUL, for they shall obtain mercy."

The merciful are those who practice the works of mercy, corporal and spiritual, who help others not from human or natural motives simply, but from supernatural ones, from faith, from love of God.

To such people, Christ at the day of judgment will say: "Come, blessed of my Father, take possession of the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world; for I was hungry and you gave me to eat; I was thirsty and you gave me to drink; I was a stranger, and you took me in . . ." (Matt. 25:34-35).

6. "Blessed are THE PURE OF HEART, for they shall see God."

Only those who are not in habitual sin are clean of heart, and possess virtue. They will be rewarded with the vision of God in heaven; and even on earth by the great light given them.

There are several degrees of purity of heart: to the first degree belong those who are free from mortal sin; to the second belong those who are free from deliberate venial sin and all affection for sin; to the third degree belong those who are free from the least ill-regulated affection; to the fourth belong those who are free from the almost imperceptible stains that delay a soul's entrance into God's home; and to the last degree belong those Christians of such purity of life and thought, of such perfection of zeal and intention, that they habitually live for God alone, that they are perfectly united with Him, so that when they close their eyes in death they will fly straight into the Heart of God.

7. "Blessed are THE PEACEMAKERS, for they shall be called the children of God."

Men who love peace and preserve it in themselves and among others are beloved by God.

We should also try to reconcile those who are not on good terms with each other. This is a superior degree of the second beatitude.

8. "Blessed are they WHO SUFFER PERSECUTION FOR JUSTICE' SAKE, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven."

Those are blessed who suffer for Christ, religion, or some Christian virtue. They will receive an eternal reward.

Those who faithfully observe the entire law of God and defend the cause of His Church, procure His glory and save souls. In this world those who are active in preserving the rights of the Church are often ridiculed and persecuted; they will be especially blessed.

Our Lord preached the Eight Beatitudes in the Sermon on the Mount. In this sermon He taught something new in the world. Where people had always striven for riches, honors, and pleasures, Christ praised the poor, the humble, the suffering.

If we practice faithfully the doctrine of the eight beatitudes, we shall find the true path of perfection and be happy besides on earth.

The Beatitudes contain in substance the law of God and all evangelical perfection.
My Catholic Faith

From among His disciples Our Lord chose twelve Apostles, and gave them special training. He sent them forth to teach His doctrines, saying, "As the Father has sent me, I also send you."

The Apostles were the foundation of the True Church. Christ gave them all power and authority, saying, "He who hears you hears me; he who rejects you rejects me."

47. Foundation of the Church
(Ninth Article of the Apostles' Creed)

What is the CHURCH?
The Church is the congregation of all baptized persons united in the same true faith, the same sacrifice, and the same sacraments, under the authority of the Sovereign Pontiff and the bishops in communion with him.

1. Even considering it only as a visible society, the Church is a perfect religious body. All members are subject to the same religious authority, possess identical religious doctrines, and make use of the same means of grace, the sacraments.

The Bible refers to the Church as the Body of Christ, as a sheepfold, as the kingdom of God, as the kingdom of heaven.

2. A person becomes a member of the Church upon receiving Baptism.

The priests, with their bishops, and the Pope, compose the "teaching Church," the body termed the hierarchy. The faithful compose the "hearing Church." On each of these divisions are laid powers and duties.

WHO FOUNDED THE CHURCH?
Jesus Christ founded the Church.

1. All history, religious and non-religious, including the Bible, clearly proves that Jesus Christ founded a Church. After teaching publicly what He required all to believe and practice, thereby announcing the main doctrines of His Church, Christ gathered a number of disciples. From them He chose twelve, to whom He gave special instruction and training.

The term "a kingdom," by which Our Lord used to refer to His Church, implies organized authority.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
And He said to the special men He had chosen, "You have not chosen me, but I have chosen you" (John 15:16). He did not teach the disciples for themselves alone, but to be the foundation of His Church. God came to save disciples, but all men.

2. After training the disciples and Apostles to form the organization of His Church, Christ chose Simon Peter, and made him the Chief Simon, whose name Christ changed to Peter, was the Head of the Church. After the Resurrection He said to Peter: "Feed my lambs... feed my sheep” (John 21:15:17).

3. Christ completed the founding of His Church just before His Ascension, when He said to His Apostles, "Go into the whole world, and preach the Gospel, to every creature" (Mark 16:15).

"He who believes and is baptized shall be saved, but he who does not believe shall be condemned" (Mark 16:16). God is just; He would not have threatened condemnation to unbelievers unless He had furnished the means whereby they could believe. His Church is this means: all men must join it.

4. Finally, Christ promised to remain for all time in the Church He had founded, saying, "Behold, I am with you all days, even unto the consummation of the world" (Matt. 28:20).

If the death of Our Lord were to do good only to a few persons then living in Judea, its merits would have been very limited. But it could do good to future generations only if there were an organization with authority to carry on His teachings and preserve them from all change. This is His Church.

5. After Pentecost Sunday, the Apostles began to carry out their mission. Through them and their successors, this mission of making disciples of all nations continues and will continue to the end of the world.

On the first Pentecost about three thousand were received into the Church after St. Peter's sermon. They were the first members converted and baptized since the Ascension of Our Lord.

Did Christ establish MANY CHURCHES?

Christ established only one Church, to continue till the end of time.

1. As God is one, He established one Church, which He commanded all men to obey and to follow in the way of salvation.

God is essentially one. He is Truth itself. How can He say to one group of men that there are three Persons in one God, and to another that there is only one Person? How can He say to one body that the Holy Eucharist is Himself, and to another that It is mere bread? God cannot contradict Himself. "He who hears you hears me” (Luke 10:16). "There shall be one fold and one shepherd" (John 10:16).

2. Christ never referred to His Churches, but to His Church. Christ chose only one Head for His Church. Peter could not have been the Head of conflicting churches.

Christ said: "And I say to thee, thou are Peter, and upon this rock I will build My Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it" (Matt. 16:18). Christ did not say: "Upon this rock I will build My Churches." It was clearly not His intention to establish various conflicting churches.

3. Christ, even in His prayers, spoke of unity among His followers. There would evidently be no unity if He had founded many different churches.

Immediately before His passion, He prayed: "Yet not for these only do I pray, but for those also who through their word are to believe in me, that all may be one, even as thou, Father, in me and I in thee; that they also may be one in us, that the world may believe that thou hast sent me" (John 17:20-21).

How can we prove that Christ established a church WHICH ALL ARE OBLIGED TO JOIN?

We can prove that Christ established a Church which all are obliged to join, because:

1. He gathered about Him a group of disciples, and called it His Church.

"And you shall be witnesses for me in Jerusalem and in all Judea and Samaria and even to the very ends of the earth" (Act 1:8).

2. He promised that this Church of His would last until the end of time.

"Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you" (Matt. 28:19-20). "For as often as you shall eat this bread and drink of the cup, you proclaim the death of the Lord, until he comes" (1 Cor. 11:26).

3. He declared that all men must believe and be baptized (that is, join His Church), in order to be saved. (See pages 104:105.)

"Amen, amen, I say to thee, unless a man be born again of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God" (John 3:5).
Our Lord Jesus Christ commanded His Apostles to establish the Church all over the world; that was His express command. The Apostles and their successors, the Bishops, have complied with this command, this mission of the Church to continue Christ's teaching and to apply the fruits of His Sacrifice to all men. In the process many have suffered martyrdom for their mission. St. Ignatius, Bishop of Antioch, one of the Apostolic Fathers, received the crown of martyrdom in the second century under Trajan; he was thrown to the wild beasts in the Amphitheatre during the public games.

48. Mission of the Church

Why did JESUS CHRIST found the Church?

Jesus Christ founded the Church to bring all men to eternal salvation.

"For the grace of God our Saviour has appeared to all men, instructing us, in order that, rejecting ungodliness and worldly lusts, we may live temperately and justly and piously in this world" (Tit. 2:11-12).

1. Our Lord Jesus Christ established the Church in order to lead men to heaven by:

(a) Continuing His teaching and example; and

(b) Applying the fruits of His Sacrifice on the cross to all men until the end of the world.

Our Lord gave to the Church a three-fold office: the office of teacher, the office of priest or sanctifier, and the office of pastor or ruler. By these offices Christ intended His Church to accomplish the purpose for which He founded it.

2. The Church founded by Christ was a visible organization, with the Apostles as superiors and rulers. From the very beginning they exercised their authority and powers. They did not advise; they directed, as superiors, and decided, as judges.

Thus St. Paul excommunicated the sinful Corinthian; and he commanded the Hebrews: "Obey your superiors, and be subject to them" (Heb. 13:17).

How is the CHURCH enabled TO LEAD men TO SALVATION?

The Church is enabled to lead men to salvation by the indwelling of the Holy Spirit, Who gives it life.

1. God the Father and God the Son sent the Holy Spirit to dwell in the Church.

On the feast of Pentecost, we celebrate a mystery which is forever renewed in the Church and in our souls: the mystery of the indwelling of God, the reign of the law of love which succeeded the law of bondage and fear (Rom. 8:15).

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
2. The Holy Spirit guides the rulers of the Church, especially the Pope, and helps them in their duties.

Before the descent of the Holy Spirit, the Apostles had been timid and afraid. After His coming they went forth to teach, whatever hardships came; they remembered and understood all the teachings of Christ.

3. The Holy Spirit preserves the Church from all error in its teaching; in times of danger, He raises up able defenders of its doctrines.

St. Athanasius defended the Church in the time of the Arian heretics; Pope Gregory VII, during a period of great disorder; St. Dominic, during the time of the Albigenses; and St. Ignatius of Loyola, after the Protestant outbreak.

4. The Holy Spirit raises up saints in the Church throughout all generations.

The members of the Church strive to imitate its Divine Founder, and in all countries and all times it has produced saints, canonized and uncanonized, martyrs, confessors, hidden souls that burn with the love of God and their fellowmen.

What does THE INDWELLING OF THE HOLY SPIRIT enable the Church to do?

The indwelling of the Holy Spirit enables the Church to teach, to sanctify, and to rule the faithful in the name of Christ.

"But when he, the Spirit of truth, has come, he will teach you all the truth" (John 16:13-14).

1. The Church must teach, otherwise men would not know the sacred truths taught by Christ. The Church must sanctify, bringing grace, otherwise men could not be saved. And the Church must rule, because Christ founded it as a society, which must have authority.

The Holy Spirit came down upon the Apostles to enlighten, strengthen, and sanctify them, so that they could preach the Gospel and spread the Church all over the world. "Guard the good trust through the Holy Spirit, Who dwells in us" (2 Tim. 1:14).

2. The power to sanctify is the power of orders; the power to teach and to rule is the power of jurisdiction.

With these powers—as can easily be seen in the Gospels—Christ gave His Apostles, and those who were to follow them, the power to bind and loose, to baptize, to forgive sin, to offer Holy Mass.

WHAT IS MEANT by teaching, sanctifying and ruling IN THE NAME OF CHRIST?

The words "in the name of Christ" here mean "by the mandate and with the power of Christ" Who remains forever the invisible Head of the Church.

The will of Christ is fully expressed in the commission He gave to His Apostles: "Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them... teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you" (Matt. 28:19).

1. During His public life Christ was a teacher, making His doctrines clear, as in the sermon on the mount. He appointed the Church to teach, saying: "Go into the whole world and preach the gospel to every creature" (Mark 16:15).

Today the Church continues to teach what He taught, by preaching, by deciding controversies, by condemning wrong teaching.

2. During life Christ dispensed the means of grace, as when He forgave Mary Magdalene, and when He gave His flesh and blood at the Last Supper. He appointed the Church to continue this office, to sanctify the faithful by administering the means of grace.

The Church had power to forgive sins when He said: "Whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven them" (John 20:23). It had power to offer Mass when, after instituting the Holy Eucharist at the Last Supper, He said: "Do this in remembrance of me" (1 Cor. 11:24-25). Today the Church exercises the priestly office in offering Mass, forgiving sins, administering the sacraments, etc.

3. Christ was the Good Shepherd, the pastor and ruler of men. He gave commandments, sent His disciples on missions, instructed them, and reproved the Pharisees. He appointed the Church to rule, with authority, saying: "He who rejects you rejects me" (Luke 10:16). And "Whatever you bind on earth shall be bound also in heaven" (Matt. 18:18).

The Church exercises this office by laying down precepts for all to observe, by reproving and correcting, by binding and loosing. Without this pastoral office and the corresponding duty of the faithful to obey, it would be impossible for the Church to keep going.

"Take heed to yourselves and to the whole flock in which the Holy Spirit has placed you as bishops, to rule the Church of God, which He has purchased with His own blood" (Acts 20:28).
Apostolicity of Catholic Doctrines

PRIMACY OF PETER

Our Lord Jesus Christ made Peter the head of the Apostles and conferred upon him the power of ruling His Church: "You are Peter, and upon this rock (Peter means rock) I will build my Church....I will give you the keys of the kingdom of heaven" (Matt. 16:18-19). "Strengthen your brethren" (Luke 22:32). "Feed my lambs," "Feed my sheep" (John 21:15, 17).

INFAILIBLE TEACHING AUTHORITY

Our Lord conferred upon Peter and the other Apostles the power of teaching His doctrine exempt from error. "When you heard and received from us the word of God, you welcomed it not as the word of men, but, as it truly is, the word of God" (1 Thess. 2:13).

The Catholic Church alone, of all the Christian churches, proclaims the prerogative of infallibility in her teachings. United with the Holy See, her ministers preach with authority, and the faithful receive with implicit confidence what the Church teaches, because of Christ's promise to be with her all days, protecting her from error.

CONFIRMATION

Every Catholic Bishop, as a successor of the Apostles, likewise imposes hands on baptized persons in the Sacrament of Confirmation, by which they receive the Holy Spirit.

No Protestant denomination including the Episcopalians, recognizes Confirmation as a Sacrament.

POWER OF FORGIVING SINS

The bishops and priests of the Catholic Church, as the inheritors of Apostolic prerogatives, exercise the ministry of reconciliation, and forgive sins in the name of Christ.

The Apostles were empowered by our Savour to forgive sins: "Whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven them" (John 20:23). "God," says St. Paul, "hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation" (2 Cor. 5:19).

No Protestant Church teaches with infallible authority or even claims to possess it. The ministers advance opinions as embodying their private interpretation of the Bible. Their hearers are expected to draw their own conclusions from the Bible. Hence the many differences among them.

THE HOLY EUCHARIST

The Catholic Church teaches, with our Lord and His Apostles, that the Eucharist is truly and indeed the Body and Blood of Jesus Christ under the appearances of bread and wine.

Most Protestant churches condemn the doctrine of the Real Presence as idolatrous, and say that, partaking of the communion, we receive only a memorial of Christ.

ANOINTING OF THE SICK

Regarding the sick, St. James gave this instruction: "Is any one among you sick? Let him bring in the presbyters of the Church, and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord" (James 5:14).

Catholic priests anoint the sick in the Sacrament of Anointing of the Sick. If a man is sick among us he is careful to call in the priest that he may anoint him with oil in the name of the Lord.

No such sacrament as that of anointing the sick is practiced by any Protestant denomination, notwithstanding the Apostle's injunction.

UNBREAKABLE MARRIAGE BOND

Of marriage our Saviour said: "Whoever puts away his wife and marries another, commits adultery against her; and if the wife puts away her husband, and marries another, she commits adultery" (Mark 10:11, 12). And again St. Paul said: "To those who are married, not I, but the Lord commands that a wife is not to depart from her husband, and if she departs, that she is to remain unmarried...And let not a husband put away his wife" (1 Cor. 7:10, 11).

In compliance with the command of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Catholic Church forbids the husband and wife to separate from one another; or, if they separate, neither of them can marry again during the life of the other. There can be no lawful divorce.

The Protestant churches, as is well known, have so far relaxed this law of the Gospel as to allow divorced persons to remarry during the lifetime of those they have divorced.
49. The Apostles: First Bishops of the Church

TO WHOM DID CHRIST GIVE THE POWER to teach, to sanctify, and to rule the members of His Church?

Christ gave the power to teach, to sanctify, and to rule the members of His Church to the Apostles, the first bishops of the Church.

1. St. Peter was the first Head and the first Pope. After a miraculous escape from prison in Jerusalem, he founded his See in Antioch; here the followers of Christ were first called Christians. Peter made frequent missionary journeys through Judea, Samaria, Galilee, Asia Minor, and probably even Greece. He finally fixed his See at Rome.

St. Peter had a leading role at the Council of the Apostles in Jerusalem in the year 50 A.D. At the same time that St. Paul was beheaded, St. Peter was crucified head downwards, on Vatican Hill, Rome, 67 A.D.

2. St. John, the Beloved Disciple, lived at Ephesus and governed the Church in Asia Minor. In the time of Trajan he was thrown into a caldron of boiling oil, but was miraculously preserved. Later he was banished to Patmos, where he had the revelations which we call the Apocalypse. He died at the age of about 100 years, the last of the Apostles, and the only one who did not die a martyr’s death. He left his Gospel and Epistles.

3. St. James the Greater. St. John’s brother, labored in Judea, and according to tradition, travelled as far as Spain. He was the first of the Apostles to be martyred, being beheaded in Jerusalem in the year 44, by Herod Agrippa.

4. St. Matthew preached among the Ethiopians, Persians, and Parthians, and was martyred in Parthia. He wrote the first of the four Gospels.

5. St. James the Less was Bishop of Jerusalem. He was cast down from the pinnacle of the Temple in 63 A.D. He left one Epistle.

6. St. Andrew, St. Peter’s brother, preached along the lower Danube, and was crucified in Greece.

7. St. Thomas preached in Persia, Medea, and went as far as India. He was martyred in India, pierced with a lance at the command of the king.

8. St. Philip preached in Phrygia and Scythia, and was crucified at Hierapolis.

9. St. Bartholomew preached in India, Arabia, and Assyria. He was flayed and crucified in Armenia.

10. St. Simon preached in North Africa, and was martyred in Persia.

11. St. Jude preached in Syria, and was martyred in Persia. He wrote the “Catholic Epistle”.

12. St. Matthias, chosen to take the place of Judas, preached in Ethiopia, and was martyred in Sebasteopolis.

13. St. Paul was converted miraculously (Acts 9) in the year 34. He of all the Apostles labored the most abundantly. He wrote many Epistles.

He is called the Apostle of the Gentiles, because he carried the Gospel to the pagan world. He travelled extensively and successively to Seleucia, Cyprus, Asia Minor, Phrygia, Galatia, Macedonia, Thessalonica, Athens, Corinth, Miletus, and finally Rome. From Rome he went to Spain and the East, then returned to Rome, where he was martyred in 67 A.D.

Did Christ intend that THIS POWER should be EXERCISED BY THE APOSTLES ALONE?

No, Christ intended that this power should be exercised also by their successors, the bishops of the Church.

1. The Apostles first preached in Judea on the very first Christian Pentecost. Then they dispersed throughout the different countries of the then known world. Everywhere they preached, baptized, and ruled the Christian communities. They were the first bishops of the Church. “As the Father has sent me, I also send you” (John 20:21).

2. The Apostles chose men to assist them, imparting to them greater or less powers. Before leaving a place, they chose a successor with full powers (Acts 14:22).

Those who received only a small part of the powers of the Apostles were called deacons. Those given greater power were the priests. Those appointed successors to rule in the place of the Apostles were the bishops.

3. Christ had given the Apostles full powers to choose successors, when He gave them the powers His Father had given Him (John 20:21).

It was the command of Christ that the Apostles should have successors to continue the Church, which He said would last till the end of the world. (Matt. 28:20). Without successors to the Apostles, the Church would have no rulers, and being unorganized would never have lasted.
When Our Lord said to Peter, "And I will give thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven," He clearly meant: "I will give you supreme authority over My Church. You shall be My representative." The true test of loyalty to Christ is not only to believe in Him and warship Him, but to honor and obey the representatives He has chosen. Our Lord chose St. Peter as His Vicar.

It is rebellion against Christ to say to Him: "I will worship You, but I will not recognize Your representative." This is what Christians do, who deny the authority of the successor of Peter.

50. The Primacy of Peter

Did Christ give SPECIAL POWER in His Church to any one of the APOSTLES?

Christ gave special power in His Church to Peter, by making him the head of the Apostles and the chief teacher and ruler of the entire Church.

1. When Simon, led by his brother Andrew, first met Christ, Our Lord said to him: "Thou art Simon, the son of John; thou shalt be called Cephas" (John 1:42).

Christ spoke in Aramaic, and the original Cephas, or "Kepha" means stone or rock, which we interpret Peter.

2. When, at Caesarea Philippi, Peter made the memorable confession of faith in the name of the Apostles: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God," Christ promised to make Peter the head of His Church (Matt. 16:17-20).

In reply Our Lord said: "Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-Jona, for flesh and blood has not revealed this to thee, but my Father in heaven. And I say to thee, thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. And I will give thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven; and whatever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven, and whatever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven."

(a) Our Lord changed Simon's name to Peter, which means Rock.

Our Lord had a special purpose for changing Simon's name, as the word Kepha was never used as proper name then. As stones are the foundations of buildings, Peter was to be the foundation for Christ's Church.

(b) Our Lord promised to Peter the keys of the kingdom of heaven. In ancient as well as modern times, keys are a symbol of authority. He who lawfully carries the key to a building has the right himself of entering and of admitting or excluding others.

Our Lord said to all the Apostles, "Receive the Holy Spirit, whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven them; and whose sins you shall retain, they are retained" (John 20:23). But to Peter alone did Our Lord address these words: "I will give thee the keys to the kingdom of heaven."
CHRIST, after the Resurrection, fulfilled His promise, and APPOINTED PETER HEAD OF THE CHURCH (John 21:15-17):

On the Lake of Gennesareth, Jesus said to Simon Peter, “Simon, son of John, dost thou love me more than these do?” He said to him, “Yes, Lord, thou knowest that I love thee.” He said to him, “Feed my lambs.” He said to him a second time, “Simon, son of John, dost thou love me?” He said to him, “Yes, Lord, thou knowest that I love thee.” He said to him, “Feed my lambs.” A third time he said to him, “Simon, son of John, dost thou love me?” Peter was grieved because he said to him for the third time, “Dost thou love me?” And he said to Him, “Lord, thou knowest all things, thou knowest that I love thee.” He said to him, “Feed my sheep.”

The sheep of Christ are those who submit to Him, the Good Shepherd (John 10:14). Never did Christ say to any other Apostle: Feed My whole flock. As the shepherd is responsible for the flock, he is given authority comparable to his responsibility.

1. By this Christ ENTRUSTED TO PETER the whole flock, thus making him the head shepherd. The “lambs” (the weak and tender portion of the flock) are the laity, and the “sheep” (those that nourish the lambs) are the pastors, bishops and priests.

2. Christ also CONFERRED ON PETER special marks of distinction not conferred on the other Apostles. He gave him a new name. He chose him as a companion on the most solemn occasions. After the Resurrection, He appeared to Peter first, before showing Himself to the other Apostles.

The Lord said: “Simon... I have prayed for thee that thy faith may not fail; and do thou, when once thou hast turned again, strengthen thy brethren” (Luke 22:31-32).

3. As with every well-regulated society, the Church needed a visible head: Christ APPOINTED ST. PETER visible head of the Church. The city has its mayor, the state its governor, the nation its President. At the head of every government is a president or king. Even in the family, the father is the head. Every corporation has a head.

The Church is a visible society: that is, it is composed of human beings. It needs a head as well as any other organization. Christ is always its invisible Head, but it needs a visible head to take His place among men.

PETER EXERCISED HIS PRIMACY

1. Peter’s name always stands first in the lists of Apostles; Iscariot’s is always last.

St. Matthew even calls Peter the “first Apostle.” But he was neither first in age nor in election, for Our Lord had called Andrew, his elder brother, before him. He must therefore have been first in honor and authority.

2. It was Peter that proposed the election of another to take the place of Judas.

In obedience to Peter’s advice, the Apostles put forward two among the disciples to choose from; and after praying, they chose Matthias (Acts 1:21-26).

3. It was Peter that preached the first sermon on the day of Pentecost.

The Holy Spirit had descended on the Apostles; they spoke so that each person present (and there were many nationalities in the crowd) heard his own language being spoken. The people were amazed; and Peter spoke (Acts 2:14-36).

4. It was Peter that admitted the first converts from Judaism (Acts 2:38-41), as well as from paganism (Acts 10:5-8).

“And he (Peter) ordered them (the Gentiles) baptized in the name of Jesus Christ” (Acts 10:48). This was a thing unheard of, that the Jews, “of the Faith”, should consort with “heathen”; but Peter broke all bonds.

5. Peter worked the first miracle. He gave a man lame from birth the power to walk (Acts 3:6-8).

6. Peter meted out the first punishment.

Ananias (and later his wife Sapphira) had lied and cheated; and having been rebuked by Peter, fell down dead (Acts 5:1-6).

7. Peter cast out the heretic Simon Magus.

Simon had wanted to purchase the power of the Apostles of bringing down the Holy Spirit on those to whom they laid hands (Acts 8:19-20).

9. In the first Council at Jerusalem, there was much disputing, but when Peter spoke, all submitted (Acts 15:7-12).

"After a long debate, Peter got up and said,... ‘But we believe that we are saved through the grace of the Lord Jesus’... Then the whole meeting quieted down” (Acts 15:7, 11-12).

10. After his conversion, St. Paul presented himself to Peter (Gal. 1:18).

11. Of the early churches established by the Apostles, the Church of Rome was the highest in rank. It was the See of Peter.
51. Marks of the True Church

How do we know which is THE ONE TRUE CHURCH established by Christ?

We know which is the one true Church established by Christ, by the marks provided by Him to recognize His Church.

We know which is the one true Church established by Christ, by the marks of the true Church.

1. By the marks of the Church we mean certain clear signs by which all men can recognize it as the true Church founded by Jesus Christ.

A “mark” is a sign by which something may be distinguished from all others of the same kind. By its marks we can recognize the True Church as the one founded by Jesus Christ, distinguishing it from all other churches, however similar, founded by men who had no authority from God to found a church.

2. It is important that we know which is the Church established by Christ, in order that we may obey it, as God commands. Then shall we also be certain what to believe and do in order to be saved.

We must distinguish the True Church from other churches, because there are imitations of the Church founded by Christ.

3. The True Church must be that which Christ personally founded, and the Apostles propagated. It must have existed continuously since the time of Christ. It must teach in their entirety all the doctrines commanded by the Divine Founder while He was still on earth; and all its members must profess those fundamental doctrines.

4. The True Church must be a visible organization, discernable and discoverable, evidently existing, with clear marks or signs distinguishing it as the Church of Christ.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Our Lord before His Ascension made the necessary provision so that all men might from thenceforth recognize the Church which He established, and which He commanded all to join.

THE CHIEF MARKS OF THE CHURCH:

One, Holy, Catholic, Apostolic

ONE

1. Christ intended His Church to be One; therefore the True Church must be One. Its members must be united in doctrine, in worship, and in government.

Christ said: “If a kingdom is divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand” (Mark 3:24). “There shall be one fold and one shepherd” (John 10:16). “Holy Father, keep in thy name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one even as we are” (John 17:11).

HOLY

2. Christ intended His Church to be Holy; therefore the True Church must be Holy. It must teach a holy doctrine in faith and morals, because its Founder is holy. It must provide the means for its members to lead a holy life.

Christ prayed for His Apostles: “Sanctify them in truth. Thy word is truth. Even as thou hast sent me into the world, so also have sent them into the world. And for them I sanctify myself, that they also may be sanctified in truth” (John 17:17-19).

“We are warning you, therefore, in the words of the divine scripture, to beware of false prophets, who come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly are ravenous wolves. By their words you will know them. Do men gather grapes from thorns, or figs from thistles? Even so, every good tree bears good fruit, but the bad tree bears bad fruit...Therefore, by their fruits you will know them” (Matt. 7:15-17, 20).

Christ promised His Church the gift of miracles, a sign of holiness: “Amen, amen, I say to you, he who believes in me, the works that I do he also shall do, and greater than these he shall do” (John 14:12).

CATHOLIC

3. Christ intended His Church to be universal, that is, catholic; and therefore the True Church must be Universal, or Catholic. It must be for all peoples of every nation and for all times and teach the same faith everywhere.

Christ commanded His disciples: “Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations” (Matt. 28:19). “Go into the whole world, and preach the Gospel to every creature” (Mark 16:15). “You shall be witnesses for me...even to the very ends of the earth” (Acts 1:8). “And the gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in the whole world, for a witness to all nations; and then will come the end” (Matt. 24:14).

APOSTOLIC

4. Christ intended His Church to be propagated by His Apostles; and therefore the True Church must be Apostolic. It must be the Church propagated by the Apostles. Its rulers must derive their office and authority by lawful succession from the Apostles. It must hold intact the doctrine and traditions of the Apostles, to whom Christ gave authority to teach.

It was Christ Himself, and no one else, Who chose His Apostles and disciples, and commanded them to teach His doctrines to all the world. To Simon He said: “And I say to thee, thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it” (Matt. 16:18).

St. Paul says: “Even if we or an angel from heaven should preach a Gospel to you other than that which we have preached to you, let him be anathema” (Gal. 1:8). St. Paul himself refers to the Church as “built upon the foundation of the Apostles” (Eph. 2:20).

We prove that

THE ONLY TRUE CHURCH OF CHRIST is the Catholic Church, because:

1. Only the Catholic Church possesses the marks of the Church established by Christ: that is, unity, holiness, catholicity, and apostolicity. (See pages 112-113.)

As a matter of fact, only the Catholic Church claims to have all these four marks of the True Church, the marks so evidently set by Christ.

2. Only the Catholic Church throughout its history gives evidence of miraculous strength, permanence, and unchangeableness in its doctrine, thus showing the world that it is under the special protection of God.

3. Only the Catholic Church has proved itself indestructible for almost two thousand years, against every variety and number of formidable enemies.

4. Only the Catholic Church suffered from persecution and outside attacks, and from schism and heresy within its ranks, yet still lives after 2,000 years.

5. Only the Catholic Church has proved itself an exception to the law of decay and death. It has watched the birth and decay of every government on earth for almost two thousand years. In spite of corruption and persecution, in spite of the combined forces of error and evil, after every attack, the Catholic Church rises as the Bride of Christ, ever fresh and fair.

There are about 200 different Protestant bodies existing in the United States alone. In the above list there are a few of the best-known. All of them were started after the year 1500.

It is well known that many Protestants, at the hour of death, return to the Catholic Church. But what Catholic at that hour has ever denied his religion to seek admission into a conflicting church?

52. The One True Church

How do we know that no other church but the Catholic Church IS THE TRUE CHurch OF CHRIST?

We know that no other church but the Catholic Church is the true Church of Christ, because no other church has these four marks: no other church is one, holy, catholic, and apostolic.

Truth cannot change; the constantly changing doctrines of non-Catholic churches cannot be true.

ONE

1. All other Christian churches lack essential unity: they are not ONE. They differ in doctrine, in worship, in government. There are hundreds of Christian denominations, each different from the rest. They do not or cannot agree, and keep dividing and sub-dividing year by year.

(a) These churches, founded by human beings after Christ's Ascension, differ in even the essentials of faith. In trying to accommodate themselves to the changing conditions of the times, they have made changes in doctrine, with no authorization from the Founder of Christianity.

Outside the Catholic Church there is generally no recognition of authority in spiritual matters. No organization has been blessed with infallibility except the Catholic Church. In fact no other church even attempts to claim infallibility. In religious matters, non-Catholic churches recognize no spiritual authority except their own judgment; and this, as we all know, can easily lead to error.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
(b) Non-Catholic churches vary in practice as well as in doctrine. IN WORSHIP they are guided more by personal conviction and interpretation than by strict belief in the truths given to the world by Christ.

Realizing the great handicap of disunity, efforts have been or are being made by various groups of churches to organize. General councils and conferences of different bodies have been held; but there is no vital result for unity. This is of course because, though agreement may be general concerning matters such as social work, beneficent societies, and the like, no agreement can be found in the essentials of faith and doctrine. This is the result of free interpretation of the Bible, and the repudiation of Peter's successor, Vicar of Christ.

(c) Neither do non-Catholic denominations have unity in GOVERNMENT. They recognize no superior authority vested in one who is vicar of Jesus Christ. They call themselves Christian, but reject the authority conferred by the Son of God on the Pope, direct successor of St. Peter.

Some recognize the temporal ruler as their spiritual head. Others have ministers whom they call bishops, deacons, elders. The majority reject such titles.

HOLY

2. The denominations are not holy in the same way or degree as the Catholic Church (See page 115). Among their followers there are, no doubt, many upright and saintly people, but this is due, not to what is Protestant or schismatic in their religion, but to the elements of the Catholic religion which they have preserved.

All Christians venerate and meditate the Gospel; many have a deep devotion to Our Lord. The Orientals have the sacrifice of the Mass and all the Catholic sacraments. The Protestants have retained at least valid baptism. All these are effective means of grace and holiness.

The Protestants, however, have rejected some of the Christian means of holiness: most of the sacraments, traditional asceticism, religious life with the "evangelical counsels." On some points, as birth-control and divorce, they have relaxed the law of God.

CATHOLIC

3. No denomination is catholic, or universal. These non-Catholic churches are everywhere, but are different everywhere.

A regional or national Church cannot be the true Church, since it cannot teach all nations, as Christ commanded. The Church of England cannot be the universal Church. Its very name declares it a national and not the universal or true Church.

APOSTOLIC

4. No Protestant denomination is apostolic. The Protestant churches are some 1500 years later than the Church founded on the Rock of Peter.

Not even their teachings come down from the Apostles. Their ministers cannot trace their succession from the Apostles. Not one teaches all the doctrines of the Apostles. How then could they be the Church founded by Christ?

Are not ALL RELIGIONS THE SAME?

No; for truth and error are not the same; faith and unbelief are not the same.

1. God is not divided. He revealed only one religion. We either believe that religion, or do not believe it. There is no middle way, "He who is not with me is against me" (Matt. 12:30).

Anything that is not the whole truth is not truth. Christ said: "I am the way, and the truth, and the life. No man comes to the Father but through me" (John 14:6).

No one will assert that glass is as good as diamonds nor that brass is as good as gold. No one claims that an imitation is just as good as the authentic thing. More unreasonable then would it be to claim that a religion established by a man is as good as that founded by the Incarnate God.

2. From the very beginning of mankind there has been one true religion. From Adam to the coming of Christ this religion was preserved by the patriarchs, prophets, and others chosen by God to keep the knowledge of the promised Redeemer intact.

Before the coming of Christ, this true religion was kept by the Jews, the "chosen people." All other nations had degenerated and worshipped idols, false gods. In spite of the imperfections of the old religion preserved among the Jews, it was always the true religion, the one true religion. It foreshadowed the coming of the perfect religion, that established by the Son of God, Jesus Christ, Who then abrogated the Jewish Faith, the Old Law, in favor of the New Faith, the New Law.

3. It is absurd to suppose that God does not care whether men denounce His Son as an imposter and blasphemer, or worship Him as God.

Why should Christ, and after Him the Apostles, and after them a long line of believers, have suffered so much and resisted persecution so firmly, if it were of no importance what a man believed? The Apostle said, "There is no other name under heaven given to men, whereby we must be saved" (Acts 4:12).
The Catholic Church is One, because it has one Divine Founder, God Himself, Who cannot be divided. All its members hear and obey the voice of their Shepherd.

The Catholic Church is Holy, because it imitates its Holy Founder, the Incarnate Son of God. Its members strive for holiness, aided by divine sacraments instituted by Christ Himself.

53. The Catholic Church: Unity and Holiness

Why is the Catholic Church ONE?

The Catholic Church is one because all its members, according to the will of Christ, profess the same faith, have the same sacrifice and sacraments, and are united under one and the same visible head, the Pope.

1. They have unity in doctrine, worship, and government. They have “One Lord, one Faith, one Baptism.” There has never been any other society, religion, or government whose members are so closely united.

“If a kingdom is divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand” (Mark 3:24). “Holy Father, keep in thy name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one even as we are” (John 17:11).

2. There are about 550 million Catholics united in doctrine. This unity is evident and admitted by all. All Catholics everywhere believe each and every article of faith proclaimed by the Church. Wherever a Catholic goes throughout the world, he will find his home in the Catholic Church. There he will find his brethren in Christ all believing as he does. If he deliberately denies even one article of faith of the Church, he ceases to belong to it.

International Eucharistic Congresses, held in different countries, in different parts of the world, every fourth year, are a good proof of the unity of the Church. In such Congresses the faithful from all nations,—African, American, Australian, Chinese, English, Filipino, French, German, Indian, Irish, Japanese, Russian, Spaniard,—one and all bow down in adoration of Our Lord Jesus Christ in the most Holy Eucharist.

3. All Catholics today hold the same faith that Catholics in the past held.
4. The Catholic Church is one in worship. All members make use of the same Holy Sacrament of the Mass, and receive the same sacraments. Although rites vary, the essentials of worship laid down by Christ form the foundation of all. Certain ceremonies have been and are appointed by the Church, to show more clearly in outward form the spiritual significance of whatever act is being done, and to increase the devotion of those who are present or take part in the religious acts. Such ceremonies are according to special conditions of the different countries and regions and adapted to modern conveniences. These regulations are like those for new church edifices, ornament and illumination of churches, music, language, holydays of obligation, fast and abstinence laws, time for services, etc., etc.

   The ritual varies in various places, certain ancient rituals from the early days of the Church being preserved. The change of ritual and ceremonies does not change the substance of the religious act, which is preserved in its entirety.

5. All Catholics are united in government.

   Everywhere the faithful obey their pastors, the pastors obey the bishops, and the bishops obey the Pope. The Catholic Church is truly "one fold and one Shepherd."

Why is the Catholic Church HOLY?

The Catholic Church is holy because it was founded by Jesus Christ, who is all-holy, and because it teaches, according to the will of Christ, holy doctrines, and provides the means of leading a holy life, thereby giving holy members to every age. St. Peter called the Christians of his time "a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation" (1 Pet. 2:9).

1. The Founder of the Catholic Church, Jesus Christ, is holy. The Church exhorts its children to imitate its Divine Founder.

   No founder of any other church is as holy as Jesus Christ, Son of God.

   2. The Catholic Church teaches the highest and holiest doctrine ever presented to any people, a standard of perfection. The same precepts delivered to Moses on Mount Sinai, the same warnings uttered by the prophets in Judea, the same sublime lessons taught by Our Lord: these the Church teaches from year to year.

   The Church teaches its children to know, love, and serve God, and thus to become saints. It urges on them the truth: "What does it profit a man, if he gain the whole world, but suffer the loss of his own soul?" (Matt. 16:26). It exhorts them to imitate Christ.

3. The Catholic Church provides powerful means for holiness, in prayer and the Sacraments. By the Sacraments a Catholic receives abundant graces. One who is faithful in the reception of the Sacraments will never fail to live a righteous life.

   Every Catholic is obliged to say his morning and night prayers, and to resort to prayer in every necessity and temptation, as well as to prayer of Thanksgiving. He is required under pain of sin to hear Mass on Sundays and holydays of obligation.

4. The Catholic Church produces holy members in its saints and martyrs. In every age and country the Church is the Mother of saints, martyrs, confessors, and holy men and women who live in Christ. Unfortunately, not all Catholics live up to the teachings of the Church; that will be their condemnation.

   We must remember that even among the Apostles there was one Judas. Our Lord taught in the parable of the wheat and the cockle that the good and the bad will grow up side by side in His Church.

5. The Catholic Church still has the gift of miracles. Christ promised His Church the gift of miracles, a sign of holiness. "He who believes in me, the works that I do, he also shall do; and greater than these he shall do" (John 14:12).

   Each holy soul proposed for canonization must have worked two miracles before beatification, and two more before canonization. We constantly read of miracles at Lourdes and other shrines. The cures at Lourdes are declared genuine by a board of physicians, many of whom are non-Catholic.

6. The Catholic Church carries on numberless works of holiness. It is the great Mother of Mercy and Charity to the helpless.

   It instructs children in school, cares for the poor, the sick, the lepers, the deaf, blind, dumb, the old, the orphaned and abandoned. It engages in all kinds of missionary and charitable activity.
The apostolicity of the Church receives additional proof from the fact that today it still administers the very same seven sacraments administered by the Apostles. Non-Catholic churches have abandoned most of the sacraments, but the Catholic Church preserves and administers them all. Among the sacraments thus preserved are (1) Confirmation, and (2) Extreme Unction. St. Peter and St. John administered the first (Acts 8:14-17). St. James wrote about the second (Jas. 5:14, 15).

54. The Catholic Church: Catholicity and Apostolicity

Why is the Catholic Church CATHOLIC or UNIVERSAL?

The Catholic Church is catholic or universal because, destined to last for all time, it never fails to fulfill the divine commandment to teach all nations all the truths revealed by God.

"You shall receive power when the Holy Spirit comes upon you, and you shall be witnesses for me in Jerusalem and in all Judea and Samaria and even to the very ends of the earth" (Acts 1:8).

1. The very name of the Church is Catholic, that is, universal. Even its critics admit that it is catholic. It has existed in all ages since the time of Christ, and teaches all peoples of every nation the same faith.

It was St. Ignatius (50-107 A.D.) appointed Bishop of Antioch by Saint Peter, who first used the Greek word Katholicos, meaning "universal," when referring to the Church founded by Christ; this he did in order to distinguish the True Church, already being preached throughout the world, from heretical churches that had arisen.

In the fourth century certain sectarians protested against the True Church, yet still called themselves Christians. And so Catholics began to call themselves "Catholic." In that same century St. Augustine said: "All heretics wish to call themselves Catholics; yet if you ask any of them to direct you to a Catholic church, he will not direct you to his own!"

2. Wherever we go, whether in Europe, America, Africa, Asia, or Australia, we shall find the Catholic Church established. Everywhere it teaches the same doctrines taught in the United States; everywhere it is ruled by the same Head recognized in the United States: the Pope.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
When we say the Church is "Catholic" or universal, we understand that wherever it exists it must have the mark of unity. Otherwise it would not be the same body, but many separate bodies. Some heretical churches have branches in different countries, but they are really different bodies, because they change doctrines under different conditions.

3. The Church everywhere teaches all the doctrines that Christ commanded His Apostles to teach.

In the Catholic Church is fulfilled the prophecy of Malachi: "From the rising of the sun, even to its setting, my name is great among the nations; and everywhere they bring sacrifice to my name, and a pure offering; for great is my name among the nations, says the Lord of hosts" (Mal. 1:11).

4. The True Church must be so organized that it can admit all men into its communion. Christ founded the Church for all men, and died for all men. The Catholic Church is indeed to be found all over the world, ministering to all races and peoples, to all classes of the population, poor or rich, wise or ignorant, saint or sinner. The Catholic Church is truly the Church for Everyman.

Many denominations are national; in Germany the Kaiser used to be the head of the Lutheran Church; in Russia the Czar used to be head of the Russian Church. The Queen of England is head of the Anglican Church.

Why is the Catholic Church APOSTOLIC?

The Catholic Church is apostolic because it was founded by Christ on the Apostles, and, according to His divine will, has always been governed by their lawful successors.

Apostolicity is easily proved by the facts of history. If a church cannot trace back its history lawfully in an unbroken line step by step to the Apostles, it is not the True Church.

1. The present Pope is the DIRECT SUCCESSOR of St. Peter.

He is the lawful successor of the Pope who preceded him; and thus each Pope lawfully succeeded the one before him, until we reach St. Peter, the first Pope, chosen by Christ Himself.

2. All the sees founded by the Apostles perished or were interrupted, except the See of Peter alone. Where Peter is, there is the True Church founded by Our Lord.

Those denominations that broke away from the Church thus lost their connection with the Apostles. They were all begun by individuals who could never have had any authority from either Christ or the Apostles. Most of them came some 1500 years too late.

3. Non-Catholic denominations claim that they did not begin new churches, but merely "reformed" the old one. In answer we ask, Did the True Church exist at the time of the founding of these new churches, or not?

If it did not, then Christ’s promise to be with His Church always had failed; His Church had died, and no human reform could possibly have resurrected it. If it did exist, then those who invented new doctrines were not reforming it, but founding new churches.

4. In the same way, the Church derives all its holy orders, doctrines, and mission from the Apostles. It is "built upon the foundation of the Apostles," of which Christ is the corner-stone (Eph. 2:20). It holds intact the doctrine and traditions of the Apostles, to whom Christ gave authority to teach.

St. Paul says: "Even if we or an angel from heaven should preach a gospel to you other than that which we have preached to you, let him be anathema!" (Gal. 1:8). A church which at any time denies an apostolic doctrine, ceases to be apostolic. It becomes a dead branch broken off from the parent vine which is Christ Himself: "I am the vine: you are the branches" (John 15:5).

CATHOLICS DO NOT BELIEVE:

That the Pope is God and can do no wrong;
That anybody or anything may be worshipped or adored besides the True God;
That the Blessed Virgin is equal to God;
That images may be worshipped;
That indulgences give permission to commit sin;
That a Mass can be bought;
That forgiveness of sin can be bought;
That sin can be forgiven without true sorrow;
That scapulars, medals, crucifixes, and other sacramentals can give graces without proper dispositions on the part of the user;
That non-Catholics will all be damned;
That all Catholics will go to heaven;
That the Bible is the only rule of faith;
That anybody may interpret the Bible;
That Our Lord Jesus Christ established many Churches;
That outward piety is profitable without charity of the spirit;
That all religions are the same.
55. The Living Church

A SHORT SUMMARY of the
HISTORY OF THE CHURCH for the almost two thousand years of its existence

The following is a brief summary:

1. THE FIRST 400 YEARS. The Apostles dispersed to different countries in order to carry out Christ's command to teach. The Apostles baptized, preached, and ruled in various countries to which they were sent. They appointed bishops and priests to rule and minister to the faithful.

In spite of sufferings and persecutions they persevered, until finally they sealed their faith by martyrdom. Peter and Paul were especially interested in the conversion of the Roman Empire, the mightiest and also most wicked empire of ancient days.

The morals of the Romans were extremely debased; the evil was spreading from the Imperial City of Rome throughout the vast empire. In Rome alone some 50,000 different "gods" and "goddesses" were worshipped, many of them for their very immorality. So close was the union of the pagan religion and the empire that to attack the religion was to be considered a traitor to Rome. For this reason the full force of the empire was set against the new religion of the Christians. But the Fisherman did not falter. Peter battled with all his might. He and Paul were both martyred; but others rose to continue the battle for Christ, which lasted for nearly 300 years.

Persecution followed upon persecution, numbering ten unsurpassed in ferocity. The severest were those under Nero (64-68) and Diocletian (303-905). The latter condemned to death some two million Christians. But the more they were persecuted, the faster they increased. Tertullian says: "The blood of martyrs is the seed of Christianity."

At last, in 313 A.D., the banners of Christianity were flung out in victory; peace was granted by the Edict of Milan. Later, Constantine the Great made Christianity the State religion (324 A.D.). He was led to this step when he conquered in battle after seeing in the heavens a luminous cross with the words In hoc signo vinces (In this sign thou shalt conquer). His saintly mother, St. Helena, had also a great influence on his conversion.
2. THE SECOND 400 YEARS. Before sixty years had passed after the Edict of Milan, hordes of barbarian Huns, Goths, Vandals, and Visigoths, numbering millions, started moving from the north into the civilized European countries. City after city surrendered until Rome itself was taken, and the darkness of barbarism covered the continent. But the missionaries and teachers of the Church mingled with the barbarians, returned with them to their countries, and brought light once more out of darkness.

St. Patrick was sent to Ireland, and converted that nation to Christianity. St. Augustine in England and St. Boniface in Germany changed those nations into followers of the cross of Christ. The idol-worshipping Franks followed their king Clovis into the Christian fold. At the end of four centuries, the cruel and savage barbarians of Italy, Spain, France, Germany, England, and Ireland were Christians, civilized, progressive, settled in peaceful cities, building churches, carrying on trade.

3. THE THIRD 400 YEARS. In the seventh century Mohammed had begun to propagate his doctrines among the Arabian tribes. His was a conversion by the sword: a great part of Asia, North Africa, Spain, and the islands of the Mediterranean were overrun and conquered to Mohammed’s Allah. At last Mohammedanism broke into France.

In a memorable nine-day battle in 732 A. D., the French Christians under Charles Martel defeated the Mohammedans at Tours, and thus stopped their incursions into France. But in the next century the Mohammedans entered and sacked Rome itself, even St. Peter’s. However, the Church carried on and finally repelled the invader.

The fall of Jerusalem into the hands of the Mohammedans in the eleventh century gave impetus to the Crusades, during which Christian armies went to free the Holy Places from the infidels. There were seven Crusades in all, from 1095 A. D. to 1254 A. D. Among the outstanding leaders we may mention: Godfrey de Bouillon, Frederick Barbarossa, Richard the Lionhearted, and St. Louis of France.

4. THE FOURTH 400 YEARS. The Christian rulers of Europe, upon becoming more powerful, began to look with envy on the Pope’s authority, and to encroach upon it. Although the Crusades had had good effects, too much interest in material preparations caused a relaxation in spiritual life. Heresy often attacked the Church; Berengarius denied the Real Presence. There followed the Greek schism, the Albigensian heresy, and the heresies of Wycliff and Huss, who denied the authority of the Church. Finally, in the sixteenth century, the general laxness and spirit of revolt culminated in open defiance against Church authority, and the Protestant Revolt swept Europe.

At the time the Church was, no doubt, in great need of reform. This largely explains the success of the would-be “Reformers” whose revolt broke up the unity of Christendom. The first and most powerful was the German Augustinian monk, Martin Luther, who in 1517 made an open attack on the doctrine of Indulgences. He soon broke with the Church authorities, declaring that there was no authority but Scripture—Scripture interpreted as he understood it. He gained many followers; some were sincerely seeking a more evangelical religion; others were attracted to the new “freedom” proclaimed by Luther; German nationalism welcomed emancipation from Rome, while many princes sided with the new religion for political motives.

Revolt spread from Germany to other countries. In Switzerland John Calvin followed in Luther’s footsteps, and began Calvinism. In Scotland John Knox was the propagator of Protestantism. In England, Henry VIII’s desire to change wives was the immediate cause for the establishment of the Anglican Church. Denmark, Holland, Norway, and Sweden were driven into Protestantism by their rulers.

But out of the pains of the Protestant revolt, the Church came forth stronger and purified. In the meantime, newly discovered countries were converted. The Portuguese and Spaniards were the pioneers in this missionary enterprise. The discoveries of new lands, to which Catholic missionaries went, resulted in the gain of more millions for the Church than had been lost in Protestantism.

5. THE LAST 400 YEARS. Many in Europe returned to the Church; more were gained in the Americas. Protestantism has continued to antagonize the Church; the secularism bred from the spirit of laxity and revolt is another enemy. Open warfare goes on in Russia and satellite countries. Still the Church continues to grow, the greatest single religious body in history.

Missionaries of Mother Church can be found in the most remote portions of the globe, working patiently to bring souls to Christ. At present there are about 35,000 priests, 15,000 lay brothers, and 70,000 Sisters working in the foreign missions. The missions are supervised and supported by the Societies for the Propagation of the Faith and the Holy Childhood (see pages 408-409).

At present the Church has a membership of nearly 550,000,000 in all parts of the world. They are under the direction of some 450,000 priests, 2,500 Prelates, and one Head, the Pope. They form the greatest body having a single religious faith. The different Protestant denominations number about 225,000,000 all together. The Eastern Orthodox total about 135,000,000.
56. The Catholic Eastern Church

What is the Catholic Eastern Church?

It is that part of the Catholic Church in the East which, although using liturgies and rites (ceremonies) different from the Western Catholic Church centered in Rome, has in common the same doctrines, the same faith and morals and recognizes the Pope, the Patriarch of the West, as the supreme head of the Church. Thus, the Eastern Catholic Church is part of the one true Church founded by our Lord Jesus Christ.

This is how the division took place. The Catholic Church had its beginnings in Palestine, whence it spread to other regions of the world. Certain sees in large cities became leading centers of Christian life and missionary activity. In the EAST: Alexandria, Antioch, Jerusalem and Constantinople. In the WEST: Rome. These missionary centers exerted great influence on the spread and practice of Christian belief in general, and on forms of worship in particular. The result was that the usages of these various centers were adopted as norms within their spheres of influence. Thus were developed and diffused the differences in rites and forms of worship, laws and customs, all of which were rooted in the essentials of the Christian faith.

In the first centuries of Christianity these different rites remained in the territories around each center, but when the East-West division of the Roman Empire took place, there was also an East-West division within the Church. This division, however, did not break the unity of the Church. There was the one Supreme Head, the Successor of St. Peter, Bishop of Rome; there was the same faith and morals, but with different rites, forms and ceremonies of worship.

When the Eastern Empire ceased to exist, followed by persecutions and the emigration of many of the faithful to other countries, the result was that the Eastern Catholics, with their separated brethren, the Eastern Orthodox Christians (separated, because they stopped recognizing the jurisdiction of the Pope), spread all over the world.
There are approximately 12,000,000 Eastern Rite Catholics and 130,000,000 Eastern Orthodox throughout the world.

In the United States most of the Eastern Rite Catholics belong to one of the three major groups:

a) The Byzantine Rite Apostolic Archeparchy of Philadelphia with about 800,000 faithful, 124 parishes, 183 priests, 188 sisters, and a seminary with 75 candidates.

b) The Ukrainian Catholic Eparchy of Stamford with about 90,000 faithful, 56 parishes, 103 priests, 65 sisters, and a seminary with 40 candidates.

c) The Byzantine Rite Exarchate of Pittsburgh with about 225,000 faithful, 190 parishes, 232 priests, and a seminary with 100 candidates.

d) Besides the above, there are: Armenian Rite: 3,000 faithful; Caldeans: 1,000; Italo-Greeks: 10,000; Maronites: 125,000; Melkites: 50,000; Romanians: 8,000; Russians: 1,000; Syrians: 5,000; and others: 25,000.

In Canada the Eastern Catholic Rites have the Metropolitan See in Winnipeg with the three suffragan dioceses or eparchies: Edmonton, Saskatoon, and Toronto. These dioceses now include one archbishop, 3 bishops, 266 priests, 557 parishes and about 2,000,000 faithful.

WHO is then AN EASTERN CATHOLIC, and WHO IS A WESTERN?

An Eastern Catholic is one who, besides recognizing the Pope as the Supreme Pontiff, is subject to one of the Eastern patriarchs and follows the approved liturgy, laws and customs of an Eastern Rite Church.

A Western Catholic is one who is also subject to the Pope, but follows the approved liturgy, laws and customs of the Latin Rite.

A person belongs to the rite in which he is baptized. With permission of the Holy See, persons may change their rite. The obligation of hearing Mass may be fulfilled, and Holy Communion may be received in any approved rite.

USAGES of the Catholic Eastern Byzantine Rite, the largest of the various Eastern Rites:

CHURCHES. Nearly all their churches are modelled on the Basilica of the Holy Wisdom (Hagia Sophia) in Constantinople built in 537. Upon entering into one of these churches one is attracted by the multitude of images and paintings of angels and saints, reminiscences of their victory over Iconoclasm (See next page).

LANGUAGE. Greek, the language of Constantinople, was the tongue of all Catholics, even in Rome, for the first three hundred years after the Apostles. Latin, being the spoken language in Rome, was later adopted for the Western Rite. Thus for the first eight hundred years of Christianity the Mass, administration of sacraments and blessings were in the spoken language of the people. When newly-formed languages began to replace the spoken Latin, in the Western Rite, the Mass continued to be celebrated in Latin. Till this day, wherever Byzantine missionaries go, they adopt the spoken idiom of the people for use in divine services.

THE CLERGY. In some Eastern Rites men may be priests whether they are married or not. This was the custom in the first centuries of the Church. The bishops, however, should be celibates. At present most of the Eastern Catholic Rites do not accept candidates for the priesthood who are married, or who wish to marry later.

THE MASS. The liturgy and ceremonies of the Mass of all Eastern Rites center, as do the Western Rite, on the consecration of bread and wine by the repetition of the words of Christ at the Last Supper. These ceremonies included religious instruction and readings of the Sacred Scripture before the consecration; different prayers after the consecration, especially that of “Our Father,” and the receiving of Holy Communion under the forms of both bread and wine.

The celebration of the Mass in the Eastern Rites is rather long—somewhat like the high masses of the Western Rite, because several parts are sung. The Offertory Procession is never omitted, the words of consecration are sung aloud by the priest and the people answer, singing: Amen. As the priest raises the Sacred Species in solemn offering, he sings: “Thine of Thine Own we offer unto Thee in behalf of all and for all.”

Conclusion: It is indeed a great satisfaction for a Catholic, child of Mother Church, to witness the different rites of the one true Church of Christ, flourishing and multiplying. The Church thus becomes like a colorful garden with beautiful flowers of all kinds exhaling the fragrance of their prayers and hymns, of their virtues and sacrifices as an incense of perpetual adoration to the most loving of Fathers, “Our Father Who is in Heaven.”
Did Christ intend that the special power of chief teacher and ruler of the entire Church should be exercised by Peter alone?

Christ did not intend that the special power of chief teacher and ruler of the entire Church should be exercised by Peter alone, but intended that this power should be passed down to his successor, the Pope, Bishop of Rome, who is the Vicar of Christ on earth, and the visible Head of the Church.

1. Before leaving this world, Jesus said to His Apostles: “Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations... Behold, I am with you all days, even unto the consummation of the world” (Matt. 28:19-20). The mission of the Apostolic College, together with Christ’s special assistance, is to last till the end of the world—which means that the Apostles will transmit their apostolic office to their successors, But the head of the Apostolic College is Peter. His function as the visible head of the Church, as the supreme teacher and the centre of unity was not meant only for the beginning of the Church; Christ knew it would become even more necessary with the expansion of the Church. It will, therefore, be handed on by Peter to his successors.

2. Tradition has it that Peter was for a time bishop of Antioch. It is certain that later he went to Rome. There Peter fixed his residence, and there, as Bishop of Rome, he died a martyr’s death. His function and powers passed on to his successor.

Thus the Bishop of Rome, the lawful successor of St. Peter, is what Peter was, Vicar of Christ and visible head of the Church. Christ is the true and invisible
Head of the Church. But its visible head is the Bishop of Rome, our Holy Father the Pope, because he is the successor of St. Peter.

No one but the Bishop of Rome has ever claimed supreme authority over the whole Church. Therefore, either he is St. Peter’s successor, or St. Peter has no successor, and the promise of Christ had failed.

HAS THE BISHOP OF ROME ALWAYS BEEN LOOKED UPON as the Head of the Church?

Yes, the Bishop of Rome has from Apostolic times been looked upon as the universal head of the Church.

1. From earliest times the titles “high priest” and “bishop of bishops” have been given to the Bishop of Rome. Appeals were made to him, and disputes were settled by him.

The third successor of St. Peter was Pope St. Clement. A dispute in the Church at Corinth was referred to him for decision. He wrote letters of remonstrance and admonition to the Corinthians, and they submitted to his correction. At that time, very near Corinth the Apostle John was still living. Why did the Corinthians, instead of appealing to faraway Rome and Clement, not refer their troubles to the Apostle John, Bishop of Ephesus? Evidently because Rome’s authority was universal, while that of Ephesus was local.

2. There were numerous cases of appeal throughout the long history of the Church; all were referred to Rome.

PONTIFICAL DECORATIONS

The Holy See confers various titles, orders, decorations, and other honors on certain persons, usually lay people, who in some special manner have distinguished themselves in furthering the well-being of humanity and of the Church. They are listed here in the order of importance.

The Supreme Order of Christ was started by Pope John XXII in 1319. Today it is the supreme pontifical Order of knighthood, conferred only on very rare occasions.

The Order of the Golden Spur follows the Order of Christ as a pontifical decoration. It has one class, of 100 knights, and is awarded only to those who have furthered the cause of the Church by outstanding deeds. It is bestowed also to non-Catholics.

The Order of Pius IX has four classes, Knights of the Grand Golden Collar, Knights of the Grand Cross, Commanders, and Knights. It is awarded also to non-Catholics.

The Order of St. Gregory the Great was founded by Pope Gregory XVI in 1831. It has two divisions, civil and military, each of which is divided into three classes: Knights of the Grand Cross, Commanders, and Knights.

The Order of St. Sylvester, instituted in 1841, like the Order of St. Gregory, has three classes of knights.

The Order of the Holy Sepulchre is considered one of the oldest of pontifical honors; it is today highly prized in Europe. It has been bestowed on kings and nobles, on heads of republics, on persons outstanding in arts, letters, and sciences, on those who in special manner have served the Church. Unlike other orders, this is bestowed besides on clerics and women.

The medal “Pro Ecclesia et Pontifice” was instituted by Leo XIII, that great “Pope of the Workingman”, in 1888. It is awarded in recognition of special services to the Church and the Pope. The “Benemerenti” medal was instituted in 1839 by Gregory XVI, of two classes, civil and military, in recognition of outstanding daring or courage.
58. Powers of the Pope

What are the chief powers of the Pope?

The Pope has supreme and complete power and jurisdiction to decide questions of faith and morals and to arrange the discipline of the universal Church.

1. The power of the Pope extends over every single church, every single bishop and pastor, every one of the faithful.

He may appoint and depose bishops, call councils, make and unmakel laws, send missionaries, confer distinctions, privileges, and dispensations, and reserve sins to his own tribunal.

2. The Pope is the supreme judge; to him belongs the last appeal in all cases.

The Pope is the “teacher of all Christians,” the “chief shepherd of the shepherds and their flocks.” The word “Pope” is derived from the Latin term papa, which means “Father”.

3. The Pope is independent of every temporal sovereign and of every spiritual power. He is responsible only to God.

What is the temporal power of the Pope?

The temporal power of the Pope is his power to rule an independent state as sovereign, free and independent from other earthly sovereigns.

The vastness of the Church and the greatness of its responsibilities towards its millions of members require that it should be able to communicate with them unhampered by any national government, free of foreign interference.

1. When Constantine the Great was converted at the beginning of the fourth century, he gave large grants of money and lands to the Church. Emperors who succeeded him added to the grants.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
2. In the year 327 Constantine moved the seat of his Empire to Constantinople. Rome was abandoned to itself, and became the prey of successive hordes of barbarians.

The Roman people came to look up to the Popes as their only governors and protectors. In fact it was Pope Leo the Great who saved Rome from Attila the “Scourge of God,” and from General the Vandal. Thus abandoned by the emperors, little by little the people of Central Italy became bound more strongly to the Popes.

3. In 754 the Lombards invaded Italy and threatened Rome. The Pope appealed urgently to the Emperor in Constantinople, but he was indifferent, neglectful, and did nothing.

In this emergency, the Pope crossed the Alps and appealed to Pepin, the Frankish king, to protect the people in Italy from the Lombards. Upon defeating the Lombards, King Pepin granted the conquered provinces to the Pope. In 774 Charlemagne, the successor of Pepin, confirmed the grant, and donated additional provinces to the Pope. These possessions, called the States of the Church, the Popes held till 1859.

4. In 1859 all the States of the Church, except Rome, were seized by the armies of Victor Emmanuel II, leader of the movement for the unification of Italy.

In 1870 Rome itself was taken, and made capital of Italy, and the Pope became virtually a prisoner in his own palace.

5. In 1929 the Lateran Treaty signed between the Holy See and the crown of Italy recognized the Pope’s temporal power and his sovereignty over the City of the Vatican, by a formal concordat between the Pope and the crown of Italy.

The City of the Vatican is the smallest sovereign state in the world. At the time of the signing of the Lateran Treaty, it had a population of 532, only 250 of whom were resident. It is almost entirely enclosed by high walls, and comprises 110 acres.

What exclusive privileges does the Bishop of Rome enjoy, to signify his supremacy as Head of the Church?

The Bishop of Rome enjoys the following exclusive privileges:

1. He has precedence of jurisdiction and honor over all other bishops.

The Bishop of Rome’s jurisdiction extends over all Christendom. He is first in both authority and honor.

2. He enjoys the exclusive titles of: Pope, Sovereign Pontiff, Roman Pontiff, Holy Father, His Holiness, Vicar of Christ, Father of Christendom. But he calls himself the “Servant of the Servants of God.”

Because of the words of Our Lord to Peter: “Blessed art thou,” we address the Pope Beatissime Pater (Most Holy Father) The office is called the See of Peter, Holy See, or Apostolic See, or the Chair of Peter. The Pope is called from his see, the Pope of Rome, and the Catholic Church under him is often called the Roman Catholic Church.

3. He assumes a new name upon his election, as St. Peter was given a new name by Our Lord. From the tenth century, it has been the custom to choose the name from those of previous Popes, St. Peter’s being excepted out of reverence.

He wears the tiara, a triple crown, the symbol of his preeminence in the threefold office of Teacher, Priest, and Pastor. He wears a casock of white silk, uses white silk shoes, and a crosier mounted by a cross. He issues medals, confers knighthood. He sends ambassadors. He has a gold-and-white standard.

The College of Cardinals is the Senate of the Pope. As principal advisers and helpers, the cardinals assist the Holy Father in the government of the Church. After the Supreme Pontiff, the cardinals have the highest dignity in our Holy Mother Church.

CONSISTORIES are assemblies of cardinals presided over by the Pope. There are three kinds: (1) secret, with only the Pope and cardinals present; (2) public, attended by other prelates and lay spectators; (3) semi-public, attended by bishops and patriarchs. At the secret consistory, the Pope delivers an allocution on religious and moral conditions throughout the world; sometimes seeks the opinion of the cardinals on the creation of new cardinals, gives the cardinal’s ring, appoints bishops, arch-bishops and patriarchs, makes ecclesiastical transfers, divides or unites dioceses, and asks for a vote on a proposed canonization. At the public consistory, the Pope bestows the red hat, hears the causes of beatifications and canonizations. At the semi-public consistory the propriety of a proposed canonization is decided.

59. The Roman Curia

What is the ROMAN CURIA?

The Roman Curia is the core of the government of the Church. The Holy Father possesses complete and absolute power over the government of the Church; but it is not possible for him to exercise his authority personally and directly over every detail in the world-wide Church. A great deal of the jurisdiction has been delegated to the Roman Curia, which at present consists of:

(A) Twelve Sacred Congregations;
(B) Three Tribunals;
(C) Five Offices.

In general terms, the Congregations exercise administrative and executive power; the Tribunals, judicial power; and the Offices, ministerial duties.

Almost all the heads of these bodies in the Roman Curia are cardinals. Because of the importance of the Congregations of the Holy Office, Consistorial and Oriental Church, the Holy Father himself is the Prefect or Head.

THE TWELVE SACRED CONGREGATIONS

1. The Supreme Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office guards Catholic doctrine in faith and morals; handles matters concerning the Pauline privilege, the marriage impediments of disparity of cult and mixed religion and may grant dispensations of these impediments; examines and condemns books and publications dangerous to faith and morals, and gives permission for reading them; is concerned over dogmatic doctrine of indulgences, new prayers and devotions. In criminal cases it has jurisdiction especially over delicts against faith, such as apostasy, heresy, schism, profanation of the Eucharist. Unlike other Congregations it has judicial as well as administrative powers. Matters are handled under the seal of the strictest secrecy.

2. The Sacred Congregation of the Consistorial prepares the agenda for discussion at the papal consistory, which the College of Cardinals with the Pope deliberate on important matters. Through this Congregation the Pope nominates bishops and other high officials, after inquiring into their qualifications; it forms new dioceses and ecclesiastical provinces which are not under the Congregations De Propaganda and Oriental Church; watches over the fulfillments of obligations binding diocesan ordinaries, examinations of quinquennial reports, and of apostolic visitations.

3. The Sacred Congregation for the Oriental Church exercises over the dioceses, bishops, the clergy, religious, and the faithful of the Oriental Rites all the powers which the Congregations of the Consistorial, Council, Religious and Seminaries do over those of the Western Rite.

4. The Sacred Congregation of Sacramental Discipline looks after the external regulations of the sacraments and celebration of the Eucharistic issuing decrees and granting dispensations; has exclusive competence over legitimation of birth; judges over the obligation of holy orders and validity of sacred orders and matrimony.

5. The Sacred Congregation of the Council supervises the discipline of the clergy and faithful, regulates catechetical instruction and observance of Christian obligations, cathedral chapters and parishes, Catholic Action, confessions and pious associations; reviews the acts of councils and episcopal conferences and looks after the administration of ecclesiastical property.

6. The Sacred Congregation of Religious has authority over every aspect of religious life related to religious orders and congregations, religious groups living in common, third orders and secular institutes, their obligations, rights and privileges, dispensations, property, etc., etc. In some particular matters, religious are also under other Congregations as for studies under the S.C. of Seminaries and Universities.

7. The Sacred Congregation De Propaganda Fide in mission territories has jurisdiction over dioceses, Vicariates, Apostolic Prefectures, the bishops and clergy, religious as missionaries, seminaries even those out of mission territories, colleges, schools and educational institutions, administration of property, with the exception of matters concerning jurisdiction of the S.C. of the Holy Office, Rites and Oriental Church. The Pontifical Societies for the Propagation of the Faith, Holy Infancy, St. Peter the Apostles and the Pious Union of the Clergy are under the direction of this Congregation.

8. The Sacred Congregation of Rites has competence over all rites and ceremonies of the Western Church so far as they refer to the Sacrifice of the Mass, administration of the Sacraments, to divine worship in general. It also handles the causes of beatification and canonization of saints and everything appertaining to sacred relics.

9. The Sacred Congregation of Ceremonial supervises the liturgical and non-liturgical ceremonies of the Roman Curia. It is in charge of the ceremonies in the chapel and palace of the Sovereign Pontiff, and of those carried out by Cardinals. It settles questions of precedence among Cardinals, prelates and diplomatic representatives.

10. The Sacred Congregation for Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs has the task to erect and divide dioceses and appoint bishops in those cases in which it is necessary to deal with civil governments, as also to discuss matters which the Sovereign Pontiff may turn over to the Cardinal Secretary of State, especially those dealing with civil laws, concordats, or other agreements entered into between the Holy See and different countries.

11. The Sacred Congregation of Seminaries and Universities supervises—with the exception of those under the Congregations De Propaganda and Oriental Church—all seminaries, Catholic universities or faculties, and over all educational institutions dependent on ecclesiastical authority. It also directs the Pontifical Work for Priestly Vocations.

12. The Sacred Congregation of the Basilica of St. Peter looks after the administration of the assets of the Basilica and of its upkeep.

THE THREE TRIBUNALS OF THE CURIA

I. The Sacred Apostolic Penitentiary judges all cases involving conscience, whether sacramental or not; grants faculties, dispensations and absolutions; and decides all cases concerning the granting and use of indulgences, outside of the rights of the Holy Office on the subject of dogmatic doctrine.

II. The Supreme Tribunal of the Apostolic Signature is the Supreme Court of the Roman Curia. It has charge of all appeals, and settles all cases regarding jurisdiction of inferior tribunals, in a particular manner cases in connection with the S. Roman Rota.
III. The Sacred Roman Rota is a Tribunal of Appeal for all ecclesiastical cases which the Roman Curia is competent and which are not reserved to other jurisdictions; it is also the Tribunal of Appeal for the State of the Vatican City as well as Tribunal of First Instance in cases which are reserved to the Holy See. It is well known by its decisions in marriage cases. Attached to this Tribunal is the Rota "Studium" (Study) intended for the training of future advocates, judges, promoters and defenders of the bond in ecclesiastical courts.

THE FIVE OFFICES OF THE ROMAN CURIA

(a) The Apostolic Chancery draws up and despatches the Decretal Letters of Canonization, and the Pontifical Bulls dealing with appointments, erection of new dioceses and other affairs of major importance, on instructions from the Congregations, or by personal order of the Pope.

(b) The Apostolic Datary takes care of the appointments of candidates to non-consistorial benefices reserved to the Holy See, and their due taxation.

(c) The Apostolic Camera has charge, under the presidency of the Cardinal Camerlengo of Holy Roman Church, over all temporal goods and rights of the Holy See, especially when the See is vacant. It corresponds to the Treasure of the Church. Its head, the Camerlengo assumes the regency upon the death of a Pope, and makes arrangements for the election.

(d) The Secretariat of State handles the affairs between the Holy See and civil powers and many others among them the conferring of the various pontifical decorations. Today the Secretariat of State is obviously the outstanding department of the Roman Curia. The Cardinal-Secretary of State may be said to be the Prime Minister of the Pope.

(e) The Secretariat of Briefs to Princess and that of Latin Letters although are two distinct offices, for practical purposes they work as one unit. They transcribe into Latin all acts of the Pope that he endorses to them.

PERMANENT PONTIFICAL COMMISSIONS

(a) For Biblical Studies—promoting the progress of Biblical studies

(b) For the Authentic Interpretation of the Code of Canon Law

(c) For the Codification of Oriental Canon Law

(d) "Abbay of St. Jerome" For the Revision and Emendation of the "Vulgate"

(e) Of Historical Sciences

(f) For the Ecclesiastical Archives of Italy

(g) Of Sacred Archeology

(h) For Sacred Art in Italy

(i) For Motion Pictures, Radio and Television, affiliated to the Secretariat of State of His Holiness

(j) For Latin America to study the fundamental problems of Catholic life in Latin America in a unified manner favoring close collaboration with the Congregations of the Roman Curia and the Latin-American Episcopal Council and its Secretariat General

(k) For the Sanctuary of Pompei

(l) For the Preservation of the Faith and for the Erection of New Churches in Rome

(m) For the Protection of the Historical and Artistic Monuments of the Holy See

(n) Heraldic Commission for the Pontifical Court

(o) Pontifical Relief Organization

THE PAPAL ELECTIONS

When the Dean of the College of Cardinals publicly announces the death of the Pope, all the cardinals throughout the world are convoked to a solemn conclave, for the election of a new Supreme Pontiff. The conclave is held within fifteen to eighteen days after the death of the Holy Father.

If all the cardinals are present on the fifteenth day after the death of the Pope, then the conclave begins. If not all the cardinals are present, the conclave is postponed until the eighteenth day. Then the cardinals, after celebrating Holy Mass, gather in the Sistine Chapel, for the elections. And until they have made a choice, they remain in seclusion within a part of the Vatican, reserved for them.

Any male Catholic of whatever country or race, even a layman, may be elected Pope. Should a layman be chosen, he would have to be ordained priest and consecrated bishop, before he may assume the duties of his office. To be validly the Supreme Pontiff, the elected one is required to accept the office. The Pope is elected for life; however, if he wishes, he may resign, and a new Pope would then be elected.

The voting by the cardinals is done on specially-printed ballots. A two-thirds majority plus one is required to elect. Two ballots are taken every morning and evening until a selection is made. As long as no choice is made, the ballots are burned with damp straw; the heavy black smoke coming out from the chimney is a sign to the public usually assembled in the plaza outside that no decision has been reached. But when a candidate receives a two-thirds majority plus one, then he is elected, and the ballots are burned without the damp straw. Light smoke issuing from the chimney notifies the eager public that they have a new Holy Father.
The Church is a closely organized and united society, including the hierarchy and the faithful. All members render loving obedience to the infallible Vicar of Christ, who rules as a good Shepherd.

60. The Hierarchy

Who are the members of the Hierarchy?

The members of the Hierarchy or the ruling powers of the Church are: The Pope Supreme Pontiff, cardinals, patriarchs, archbishops, bishops, prelates or abbots "nullius," apostolic administrators, vicars apostolic, prefects apostolic, and ecclesiastical superiors of missions "sui juris."

1. The hierarchy is the orderly disposition of the ranks and orders of the clergy with "ordinary jurisdiction," the "teaching Church," the ruling body, an army of leaders under its head, the Vicar of Christ, having care and control of the holy and sacred things of the Church.

2. Persons become members of the hierarchy in two different ways: by the power of orders, and by the power of jurisdiction.

The power of orders is given by the sacrament of Holy Orders. It is the power to sanctify, a permanent spiritual power that no earthly authority can take away. The power of jurisdiction is given by a superior, to enable a subject to exercise his spiritual authority lawfully. This power may be limited and revoked by legitimate authority.

How do the members of the hierarchy differ in their power of orders?

The members of the hierarchy are divided into three classes with different power of orders: deacons, priests, and bishops.

This order of rank and power has been in force in the Church from the time of the Apostles. These three classes were foreshadowed in the high priest, priests, and Levites of the Old Law. They also had counterparts in Our Lord, the Apostles, and the disciples. Our Lord gave full powers to the twelve Apostles, but only limited power to the disciples.

1. DEACONS can baptize, preach, and give Holy Communion. The Apostles ordained the first deacons.

2. PRIESTS have higher orders than deacons. They can offer the holy sacrifice of the Mass, and forgive sins in the sacrament of Penance. They can administer all sacraments except those of Confirmation and Holy Orders.
Priests with special faculties may administer Confirmation; in the Catholic Eastern Rites priests administer Confirmation immediately after Baptism. The priests were prefigured in the seventy-two disciples of Our Lord. The word "priest" is derived from the Greek presbyter, which means the "elder," a term used by the first converted Jews. A priest is addressed "Father."

3. BISHOPS have full power of orders; they are the successors of the Apostles. A bishop administers all the sacraments; he alone administers Holy Orders. He consecrates holy oils, churches, chalices, etc.

Archbishops, primates, patriarchs, and even the Pope himself have no fuller power of orders than a bishop of a missionary diocese.

How do the members of the hierarchy differ in the power of jurisdiction?

The members of the hierarchy differ in the power of jurisdiction according to the extension and importance of the territory or office given to govern.

1. In organization the Church is like a vast army; the Pope, its visible head, is commander-in-chief of this army. He has jurisdiction and supreme and sovereign power and authority over the entire Church. He is formally addressed "Your Holiness."

2. Cardinals, appointed by the Pope, are his principal advisors and assistants in the government of the Church. Till December 1959 they were limited to seventy; at present there is no limitation to their number. Together they form the Apostolic or Sacred College of Cardinals, the senate of the Church. Assemblies of cardinals presided over by the Pope are called "consistories." The College of Cardinals in a solemn concilium elect a new Pope when the See falls vacant.

Some of the cardinals stationed in Rome are heads of the various congregations and offices of the Roman Curia, while nearly all residing outside of Rome are patriarchs and archbishops of important dioceses the world over. A cardinal is addressed "Your Eminence."

3. Patriarch is a bishop who holds the highest rank after the Pope, in jurisdiction.

4. An archbishop is the head of an archdiocese; a bishop of a diocese; an abbot or prelate "nullius" of an abbacy or prelature separated from any diocese; an apostolic visitor is usually a temporary head of a vacant jurisdiction a vicar apostolic—all ways a bishop—is head of a vicariate; a prefect apostolic—not a bishop—of a prefecture; and an ecclesiastical superior of a mission "sui juris"—an independent although small territory. Archbishops and bishops are entitled "Most Reverend," and formally addressed "Your Excellency;" the other prelates not bishops are entitled "Right" or "Very Reverend Monsignor" or "Father."

5. Legates, nuncios, internuncios, and apostolic delegates are representatives of the Holy Father. Having ordinary or extraordinary jurisdiction from the Supreme Pontiff, they are members of the hierarchy. A legate, usually a cardinal, is sent for extraordinary occasions, as to preside at a Plenary Council, an International Eucharistic Congress, or some special function. A nuncio is the highest diplomatic representative of the Pope. His ranking is equivalent to that of an ambassador extraordinary. Today nuncios are the deans of the diplomatic corps accredited to their respective nations. An internuncio is equivalent to a minister plenipotentiary. An apostolic Delegate is a papal representative without diplomatic status. These various papal representatives serve as intermediaries between the Holy See and the hierarchy of the country where they are stationed. In the United States there is an Apostolic Delegate. Besides the ordinary powers of jurisdiction he has an apostolic delegate, the Holy See has delegated to him extraordinary powers. He ranks first among all the archbishops and bishops of the country, with the exception of the cardinals.

6. Titular archbishops and bishops are those who hold the title of a see that formerly existed. Usually they do not have but delegated jurisdiction. Auxiliary and coadjutor bishops are titular bishops appointed to assist a residential bishop; the coadjutor is given the right of succession to the residential.

Pastors and priests, although they belong to the hierarchy in the power of orders, are not prelates in the strict sense of the term, for they have a very limited jurisdiction in the external forum of ruling the Church.

7. Honorary prelates are those with a title, but without jurisdiction. They are given the honor as a distinction for their works and zeal in promoting the welfare of the Church. The title of archbishop given to a bishop is called "ad personam." The titles of protonotary apostolic, "domestic prelate," and "papal chamberlain" are given to priests for the same reasons. The first two are entitled "Right Reverend Monsignor" and the last, "Very Reverend Monsignor."

61. A Residential Bishop

Who is a Residential Bishop?

A residential bishop (ordinary of the place—the diocesan bishop) is a member of the hierarchy with full powers of orders. A true successor and continuator of the ordinary mission of the Apostles, who rules in the name of Christ an organized territory, called a diocese or see, assigned to him by the Pope.

1. A residential bishop, therefore, is in his territory, by divine right, the ordinary TEACHER of the Catholic faith, the legislator, judge of first instance, and shepherd of the faithful in union with and dependence on the Pope (Canons 334-335).

Pope Pius XII, on May 31, 1954, speaking to bishops, said: "Christ our Lord entrusted the truth which He had brought from heaven to the Apostles, and through them to their successors." "Besides the lawful successors of the Apostles, namely, the Roman Pontiff for the universal Church, and the bishops for the faithful entrusted to their care, there are no other teachers divinely constituted in the Church of Christ." Later (in the "Magnificat Dominum") the Pontiff said: "In the ordinary providence of God, the faithful normally learn the Church's teachings on matters of faith and morals, not directly from the Holy See, but rather through their own bishops and those delegated by the bishops."

2. A residential bishop is the SHEPHERD of his flock. He appoints and supervises parish priests to help him. He provides for the education and training of candidates for the priesthood, and the religious education of his flock, and he gives faculties to priests to preach and hear confessions. He sees that the temporal possessions of his diocese are properly administered and taken care of.

As the Pope is the successor of St. Peter, so the other bishops are the direct successors of the other Apostles. To them Our Lord spoke: "He who hears you, hears me."

3. The residential bishop in governing his diocese, is assisted by a number of "canons" or "diocesan consultors." In important matters he consults them. He may have a vicar general or an episcopal delegate to represent him. Together with the bishop these men are termed "ordinaries," that is, they have not only delegated, but ordinary jurisdiction in certain matters. In large dioceses there may be an auxiliary bishop.

4. One of the duties of a residential bishop is to protect the faith and morals of members of the Church, regarding books and other publications. He exercises this duty by requiring the examination of certain types of publications to find out if they contain anything contrary to faith and morals. This is done by an ecclesiastical censor delegated by the bishop. After the examination he may give the "Nihil obstat" ("Nothing—contrary to faith and morals—stands in the way for its publication"). Upon this recommendation, the bishop gives "The Imprimatur" ("It may be published"). If a residential bishop himself should publish a book, it is obvious that he does not require an Imprimatur.

Archbishops wear a pallium, a white strip of wool, on their shoulders, as a symbol of gentleness. They act as first judges of appeal from a decision of their suffragan bishops.

5. The bishop is appointed by the Pope and receives his jurisdiction from him. Once every five years, in person or if incapacitated, through a delegate, he gives a report to the Holy Father on the conditions of his diocese.

The Pope addresses a bishop Brother, because as bishops they have the same rank. Bishops wear a mitre, and carry a crozier as a sign of their office of a shepherd. They wear a pectoral cross. They have a ring, as a symbol of their union with their diocese. The faithful kiss it in token of obedience and respect.

WHO ASSIST the bishop IN THE CARE OF SOULS?

The priests, especially parish priests, assist the bishop in the care of souls.

Parish priests receive their orders and jurisdiction from the bishop, and are bound to carry out his commands. In the parish the parish priest represents the bishop, and no one may, without the bishop's or his consent, exercise spiritual functions there such as administering the sacrament of matrimony, baptizing, preaching, burying, etc.

A vicar forane (called also urban or rural dean) is a parish priest having supervisory power in the name of the bishop over neighboring parishes. Parish priests of large parishes have priests helping them, called curates or assistants.

(See pages 350-353 for Dignity and Duties of Priests").
The National Catholic Welfare Conference (NCWC) is the executive arm of the Catholic Bishops of the United States, organized with the approbation of the Holy See. Its purpose is to promote the common interest on the national level.
62. The National Catholic Welfare Conference

What is the National Catholic Welfare Conference?

The National Catholic Welfare Conference—NCWC—is a voluntary organization of the cardinals, archbishops and bishops of the United States, centered at Washington, D.C., with the purpose of unifying, coordinating, and organizing the Catholics of the country in carrying out the social mission of the Church for the reconstruction of the Christian society. It represents the Hierarchy in matters that are of common interest on the national level.

a) The NCWC has the approval of the Holy See.

b) Every bishop of the Church in the United States and its territories and possessions whether residential or titular, has active and passive voice in the Conference.

c) The NCWC is not a "council" or a "legislative body" in the sense of the Canon Law of the Church.

d) The resolutions of the bishops at the meetings of the NCWC do not have the force of law. Every bishop may or may not make use of any service offered by the Conference through its Departments, Committees, general secretary, and staff officers at the National Headquarters, 1312 Massachusetts Ave., Washington 5, D.C.

e) The NCWC is incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia.

1. The NCWC provides a remarkable leadership for the promotion of social justice, education, a Catholic press, and coordinated lay action. In a certain sense, the NCWC is the nerve center of the Church in America.

The NCWC particularly aims at the participation of the laity in the work of the Church, building up and strengthening the Kingdom of Christ; for surely the laity forms part of the Mystical Body of Christ.

2. The NCWC is national storehouse, clearing-house, and powerhouse; to fulfill its purpose it uses chiefly the press, the radio, television, conferences, and forums. The NCWC does not aim to create new organizations; its purpose is to help, strengthen, and unify those already existing.

The NCWC collects information and puts it out in printed form; it gives advice and field service connected with the work of the various divisions.

3. The NCWC is administered by a board composed of ten archbishops and bishops elected at the annual meeting of the Hierarchy of the United States to serve for the term of one year. No elected bishop shall be eligible to serve more than five consecutive terms, but he may be again eligible for election after one year out of office. The U.S. cardinals are members of the Administrative Board by virtue of their dignity.

An annual report is made to the Holy See. No official action of the Conference as a whole can be taken without authorization from the Administrative Board. At the annual general meeting of the bishops, the administrative bishops give detailed reports, and obtain authorization for their work.

4. The Active Executive Secretary of the Executive Department is also the General Secretary of the NCWC. He not only directs the multiple activities of the different divisions in his department, but also supervises and coordinates the work of the other units of the Conference, sends the departmental reports and all information about the work of the headquarters staff to the episcopal administrative board members.

Through the General Secretary the departmental reports and all information about the work of the headquarters staff are regularly sent to the administrative board members.

5. The chart on the opposite page shows the organization of the NCWC:

(A) The General Body of Bishops

(B) The "Administrative Board" with its ten bishops: The Chairman of the "Executive" Department; the Treasurer; the Secretary; and the seven Chairmen of the Departments

(D) Episcopal Committees: American Board of Catholic Missions; C. on the Propagation of the Faith; Special C. to promote the Pope's Peace Plan; C. for the Spanish Speaking; Episcopal C. for Migrant Workers; C. on the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine; C. to complete the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception; C. on Motion Pictures, Radio and Television; C. on National Office for Decent Literature; C. for Montezuma Seminary; C. on Vocations; Pontifical C. for the North American College at Rome; Episcopal C. for the American College at Louvain; Liturgical Commission.

(E) Three "Services" under the Administrative Board: Bishops' Welfare Emergency and Relief Committee; Catholic Relief Services-NCWC; National Catholic Community Service.
"I am the good shepherd, and I know mine and mine know me, even as the Father knows me and I know the Father; and I lay down my life for my sheep. And other sheep I have that are not of this fold. Them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice, and there shall be one fold and one shepherd" (John 10:14-16).

All those not baptized are sheep of Christ that have not yet heard His voice. They must also be brought into the Church. Protestants are sheep that have left the fold of Christ. They must return to the Church, if they would hear the voice of Christ, the Good Shepherd, Who lovingly calls them to His True Church.

63. The Laity

Who are THE LAITY of the Church?

The laity of the Church are all its members who do not belong to the clerical or to the religious state.

1. All members of the Church, whether clerical, religious, or lay, are termed "the faithful." After Baptism we join the ranks.

The laity must remember that they are part of the Church. They must understand that when anyone speaks of the "Church" they are included, as we include the heart and mind of a man with his soul when we speak of him. The Church is you and I.

2. The clerical state includes all priests and aspirants to the priesthood who have received tonsure. Students of seminaries are aspirants to the priesthood.

"TONSURE" is the rite by which a layman is initiated into the clerical state. The bishop, or any delegated prelate, cuts the candidate's hair in some prescribed form, and invests him with a surplice.

3. The religious state includes men and women who embrace a community life, and make the vows of poverty, chastity, obedience. Aspirants, postulants, and novices are preparing to embrace the religious state.

Do CATHOLIC SINNERS continue to BELONG TO THE CHURCH? —Yes.

1. Unless one cuts himself off by heresy, apostasy, or excommunication, a Catholic sinner continues to be a member of the Church. Those in mortal sin remain united by faith and hope, but not by charity.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The Church presents us with the ideal, and provides the means to reach that ideal, inviting and urging us, feeding and shepherding the flock. But the Church does not guarantee salvation for all the faithful; because among its doctrines the freedom of the will is as fundamental as the divine authority of the Church.

HOW can THE LAITY HELP the Church IN the CARE OF SOULS?

The laity can help the Church in the care of souls by leading lives that will reflect credit on the Church, and by cooperating with their bishops and priests, especially through Catholic Action.

“Even so let your light shine before men, in order that they may see your good works and give glory to your Father in heaven” (Matthew 5:16).

1. A good Catholic makes serious efforts to save his soul. He keeps the commandments of God and the Church. He receives the sacraments. He strives for Christian perfection according to his state of life.

Therefore, he must know his religion. He must not be ignorant of Christian doctrine, for by it he learns how to save his soul. By it he learns what to believe, and what to do.

2. A good Catholic obeys his ecclesiastical superiors in spiritual matters, and gives them due respect. He sees in his lawful superiors Christ’s representatives on earth.

He is loyal to the Church in word and deed. He does not make derogatory remarks about it. Even if his priests may have faults, he tries his best not to bring them and the Church into contempt. If the faults are public and grievous, he may bring the matter to the attention of lawful authority, but always with great prudence.

3. According to his means, he contributes towards the support of the Church.

The Church needs support as much as the civil government. It cannot subsist on air. Religion makes no progress where Catholics are so indifferent as to begrudge their material support.

4. A good Catholic has before him a wide scope of activity if he wishes to participate in the work of the Church; there are no barriers between man and God.

Should a Catholic be moved by a spirit of reform, he need not cut himself off from the Church by seeking to institute such reforms. He busies himself within the Fold of the Church, taking active steps to attain the reform he desires. For always there is need of reform in practices and current conditions, though never in fundamental doctrine.
ORGANIZATION OF CATHOLIC ACTION

The diagram above outlines a complete plan of Catholic Action organization in accordance with the traditions of Pope Pius XI. The Holy Father did not intend organization to be accomplished in exactly this manner; his instructions were only directive.

In general, Catholic Action in our country is thus organized: in every parish the pastor is the center and director of all Catholic activities. However, it is evident that the hierarchy, by means of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, aims to coordinate the activities of the different religious organizations, into a united Catholic Action.

64. Catholic Action

What is CATHOLIC ACTION?

Catholic Action is the active participation of the laity in the apostolate of the Church under the guidance of the hierarchy.

The National Catholic Welfare Conference (See page 132) does not change one fundamental fact: that in each diocese all organizations and activities are dependent on and responsible to the bishop.

1. Catholic Action is the service and apostolate of the laity, approved by the episcopate. There is no Catholic Action without episcopal approval.

In two manners the laity participates in the apostolate of the hierarchy: (a) Catholic Action in the strict sense: the laity participates by a special episcopal mandate; (b) Catholic Action in the broad sense: all lay activity for the good of the Church that has the approval of the hierarchy.

2. Catholic Action is religion in action, the result of a living faith. It implies, therefore, personal sanctification, although not directly aimed at it. From this personal sanctification arise works for the salvation of our neighbor, works that make lay apostles of members of Catholic Action.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"

The love of God that fills the heart of a faithful Catholic will impel him to join in the work of converting the world to Christ; it will urge him to contribute his help in all the ways he can in the lay state. "So let your light shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father Who is in heaven."

3. Catholic Action therefore makes of the layman a soldier of Christ, a co-missionary of the priesthood. At present the activities are channeled through the National Council of Men, the National Council of Women, and the National Catholic Youth Council. These Councils are really federations, made up of existing lay religious organizations affiliated to make one whole.

In the old days when Christianity was new in a pagan world, the laity labored with the Apostles in making Christ known and loved. Today the need for the laity's help is as urgent as at the beginning. There are not enough priests; and even if there were, many places, such as mines, offices, and factories would not be easy for a priest to enter in, to win souls to Christ.

In what ways can THE LAITY PARTICIPATE ACTIVELY in the apostolate of the Church?

When they arouse the interest of non-Catholics in the Catholic faith; promote high standards in the press, motion pictures, radio and television; participate in the work of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine; take part in the activities of Catholic societies and organizations; represent, under proper direction, the Church's position in speaking and writing; and go as lay missionaries to foreign lands.

1. Catholic Action is concerned with the home, because the home makes or unmakes the individual and nation. Catholic Action is exercised there when the members do all they can to keep the family united and happy, one in the service of God.

   Efforts should be made to make the home a joyful place to stay in, so that the members may find their home the most interesting place to go to. Every home should be consecrated to the Sacred Heart of Jesus. Only good books and newspapers must be admitted into the Catholic home.

2. Catholic Action is concerned with the school, which influences the minds and hearts of the young so deeply. Many modern parents think they have done their duty when they send their children to school; and so the school must be particularly active in Catholic Action to form those within its walls.

   Even during school days, then, the pupils should promote Catholic Action in their homes, with their companions, in their school activities, etc.

3. Catholic Action is concerned with the social life of the nation; it is social action, for it strives towards the greatest good of society. It achieves Christian order for society, by developing integrity of morals, purity of domestic life, practice of charity.

   In a word, Catholic Action leads to the peace and prosperity of society as a means towards the attainment of its final purpose of establishing the kingdom of Christ. How great can be the effect in social life of the good example of Catholic young men and young women living according to the principles of their religion! They can prove the truth that it is not necessary to sin in order to have fun. They can give effective example in their dress, speech, and general behaviour. How great the evil, then, of their example when Catholic young men and young women show themselves immodest, hard-hearted, and cheap in their behavior.

   In business, the proprietor must be just to all under him, pay a living wage, and be absolutely honest in his dealings with customers and others.

4. Catholic Action is concerned with the civil life; however, it is above and beyond partisan politics. It does not engage in political squabbles, except when Marxist or other totalitarian political parties directly attack the Church and its existence, as in Italy in 1948. Further, Pope Pius XII and Pope John XXIII have proscribed Catholic membership either in Communist or Socialist political parties.

   Catholic Action is for a supernatural end, but it cannot be divorced from civil society, since it is concerned with souls who are members of the civil society. It permits what the Church permits; each member may belong to whatever lawful political party he may choose, provided he acts according to Christian principles. The voter must vote only for honest, patriotic and capable officials, who support the moral order.

5. There is variety in the works of Catholic Action, and in the means it uses to effect its ends. This variety is according to necessities of time and place.

   One place may demand the teaching of catechism; another, the support of the parochial school; another, the defense of the Church's rights against unjust and unlawful impositions of civil officials; another, vigilance over the press, the moving pictures, and television; another, the education of the working classes. In many places, all or most of these necessities, with others, ought to be met. This is why an organization of well-trained laity is imperative.
Once the Pharisees asked Our Lord: “Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar or not?” Our Lord asked for a coin and then inquired, “Whose image and inscription does it bear?” They answered, “Caesar’s.” And Our Lord said: “Render, therefore, to Caesar the things that are Caesar’s, and to God the things that are God’s.”

Thus we are taught to give both the State and the Church what is due to each, in accordance with the end that each pursues.

65. Church and State

What are the SPHERES of the Church and of the State?

The spheres of the Church and of the State are defined and dictated by each one’s respective purpose.

Both the Church and the State derive their just powers from God. All rights and duties on earth come to us ultimately from God through the Divine Law, either natural or positive. As Leo XIII said, “The Almighty has appointed the charge of the human race between two powers, the ecclesiastical and the civil, the one being set over divine, the other over human things.”

1. The Church is a complete and perfect spiritual society whose purpose is to sanctify men and lead them to eternal happiness with God in heaven. In spiritual matters, therefore, it has absolute and exclusive powers.

The sphere of the Church is the supernatural and eternal; it includes everything relating to spiritual and moral affairs, matters affecting man’s eternal salvation: for example, the worship of God, preaching of the Gospel, decision of what is morally right and morally wrong, government of its members, safeguarding of such rights as will endanger their eternal welfare, education of the clergy and religious education of its members.

2. The State is also a society, but its purpose is limited to the promotion of man’s temporal welfare. In purely temporal and political matters, the State is supreme. The Church does not prefer one form of civil government to another, provided it does not conflict with Catholic teaching.

The sphere of the State includes such purely temporal matters as a choice of a form of government, the development of agriculture, industries and trade, collection of taxes, safeguarding of certain civil and political rights (such as the right of suffrage, of bearing arms, etc.), the enforcement of law and order, etc.

3. Both Church and State were established for the good of men. Separation, if advisable, should never mean the antagonism of the State against the Church.
Man and the State, even in the realm of politics and temporal matters, are under God's law, both revealed and natural, the Law that is above all mankind, of whatever race. Man has no right to make his own laws without regard for the law of God. “It is the Church, not the State, that is to be man's guide to heaven.” (Leo XIII). The State is even bound to protect the Church in the exercise of its functions; this is because the State must protect the rights of its citizens, and of these rights the religious ones are of utmost importance.

4. Although primarily concerned with spiritual matters, the Church evidently is entitled to certain temporal aids, in order to be able to pursue its mission effectively.

5. The State, as representing the collective will of the people, cannot be made god, as is done in communism and fascism.

What is the CONTRIBUTION of the Catholic Church to American democracy?

In general we may say that the fundamentals of American democracy were derived from traditional thought and philosophy. The American concept of God-given inalienable rights and limited government is based in the Judaeo-Christian tradition, and is most congenial to Catholicism and the natural law.

1. The philosophical principles of the Declaration of Independence show such a remarkable similarity to traditional Catholic philosophy as to have been derived from it. Most particularly have these principles been inherited from two outstanding Catholic theologians, St. Thomas Aquinas (1225-1274) and St. Robert Bellarmine (1542-1621). These principles are inflexible against Communism as well as Plutocracy, State Socialism as well as extreme Individualism.

Some principles so derived are: the equality of man in nature and essence, the function of government to care for the common good, the consent of the governed as a requirement for power of rulers, the right of people to change governments through free elections with secret ballot.

2. Not only did our democracy get rooted in Catholic principles; today Catholic thought continues to nourish that democracy.

For this reason the Church insists on the sanctity of marriage, of the family; the Church instructs her children in loyalty to the State.

3. In the founding of our Republic, Catholic aid also came into the realm of deeds. Many Catholics took part in the war for independence not only by actual fighting, but by contributing money, services, and other resources. And we must not forget that France, a Catholic nation, sent four fleets, besides money and soldiers. Poland and Spain, Catholic countries, also gave aid.

Well did our First President say to Catholics: “I presume that your fellow citizens . . . will not forget the patriotic part you took in the accomplishment of our Revolution and the establishment of our government.”

What should be the attitude of the Catholic citizen toward the State?

The Catholic citizen is bound in conscience to obey the State, provided faith and morals are not endangered thereby.

1. The State is not the master, but the servant, of the citizens. The inherent rights of individuals, and particularly of parents, cannot be usurped by the State.

For instance, parents, not the State, have the natural right to educate their children. Taxes which they pay to the state for public education and education welfare benefits (G.I. Bill of Rights, National Defense Education Act, federal loans for dormitories, etc.) should be used in such a way as not to discriminate against parents choosing to send their children to private or parochial schools.

2. After the Revolution, for a considerable period, Catholic schools together with schools of other denominations received government support. Then gradually, laws were passed forbidding such support.

However, Catholic hospitals may receive construction grants under the terms of the Hill-Burton Law. Children of our schools benefit under the National School Lunch Act of 1946, and may now be provided with bus transportation. Our colleges may secure loans for dormitories at favorable interest rates under legislation adopted by the Housing and Home Finance Agency. The G.I. Bill of Rights, authorizing the extension of educational facilities to veterans does not discriminate with respect to schools. We Catholics do not want any special privileges or advantages which are not available to every other citizen. But we do want full equality for ourselves as for everybody else that the Constitution guarantees, and we want for our children any and every privilege enjoyed by other American boys and girls.

3. Political democracy should not be construed as meaning that the majority is necessarily always right, or that truth lies with the majority. In the United States Constitution, the Supreme Court, which is not elective, may declare unconstitutional the will of the majority. The idea here is that God-given inalienable rights can be set aside neither by a dictator, an oligarchy, or a majority.

66. Services of the Church to the State

Of what benefit is the Church to the State? The Church contributes to the integrity of the State, for it upholds the government, directs its members to obey just laws, prevents crimes, incites to the practice of civic virtues, encourages to noble endeavour, and unites different nations in one brotherhood.

1. There is no better citizen than a good Catholic. He obeys the State because his religion teaches him that all lawful authority comes from God. Who can be a more law-abiding citizen than one who looks upon civil officials as superiors that God Himself bids him obey? Plutarch says that religion is a better protection for a city than its walls.

2. The Church teaches its children to make sacrifices for the common good. Thus it trains unselfish, thrifty, and industrious members of the State. A man with no religion seldom makes a good citizen. He is liable to try always to get as much as he can even at the expense of others. A man without religion generally ends without any morality whatever.

The prisons are in general peopled, not by practising members of the Church, but by people who neglected religion.

3. The Church not only prevents crimes, but incites to works of charity.

It teaches the merit of works of mercy. From its teachings bud forth orphanages, schools, hospitals, social service, etc.

4. The greatest statesmen and patriots have recognized the necessity of religion in the State. Without religion among its citizens, the State would soon collapse. The Catholic Church teaches the best religion, the one taught by God Himself.

Washington said: “Of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable supports. In vain would that man claim the tribute of patriotism who should labor to subvert these great pillars of human happiness, these firmest props of the duties of men and citizens.” Napoleon himself confessed that no nation could endure without religion.
5. By a common profession of faith, a common membership in the same body, and by the commandment of charity, the Church binds different nations in one brotherhood, the brotherhood of men, children of one God. Such a feeling of brotherhood would help greatly towards eliminating sectional and racial prejudices and strife.

Is it not a historical fact that national quarrels and wars have increased since the division of Christendom into sects? Today the term “brotherhood of men” seems to be a mere figure of speech in which most people have no faith.

What has the Church actually accomplished for the State during the over nineteen hundred years of its existence?

The history of all civilized nations gives ample testimony to the valuable services of the Church to civil government during a period of over nineteen hundred years.

1. The greatest accomplishment of the Church was the Christianization of Europe. From thence we have derived whatever we today call “civilization.” If we compare the truly Christian civilization with pagan life and culture, we can see the greatness of the service the Church has rendered the State.

Ignorance and immorality are usually partners; for this reason the Church eagerly promotes culture. The Church looks upon the world as coming from the hand of God; therefore the Church is interested in science.

2. The Church has always striven to provide schools for the education of the young; it founded great universities.

From the very beginning, the missions, parishes, monasteries, and cathedrals had schools. No less than 80 universities were built in the days when the Pope was supreme in Christendom; of these many still exist, though under different control. The encouragement given by the Popes advanced education, medicine, surgery, literature, chemistry, mathematics, and other sciences. Numerous religious orders and congregations have from earliest times devoted themselves to education. The Church, through its school system, also makes an important contribution to the education of many citizens in the state.

3. The Church preserved the great works of ancient heathen philosophers and historians, saving them from destruction for future ages.

In the Middle Ages, before the invention of printing, monks patiently and carefully copied and transcribed the ancient works. Their zeal for learning built up great libraries and museums. The most profound and prolific authors were Catholic.

4. So great a patron of art and architecture is the Church that a saying became current: “There is no art outside the Catholic Church.” Practically all the world’s classic painters have been members of the Church, and were supported in their work by the Popes. We need only mention Raphael, da Vinci, and Michelangelo.

To this day thousands of tourists every year gaze in wonder at the great cathedrals of the Middle Ages, which stand unsurpassed. The Popes encouraged musicians like Palestrina, Plain chant, or Gregorian music, comes to us from St. Ambrose and St. Gregory the Great. The noblest musical works are products of the genius of sons of the Church, of whom we need mention only Gounod, Haydn, Mozart, Verdi.

5. Priests and monks, not to mention lay members of the Church, have contributed some of the greatest discoveries to human knowledge.

In physical science, the deacon Gioja contributed to the development of the compass; the Jesuit Kircher experimented with the first burning glass; the canon Copernicus taught his famous system; the Hieronymite Cavaliere worked out the components of white light; the Jesuit Secchi made fruitful studies concerning sunspots; the Franciscan Berthold Schwarz discovered gunpowder. Other scientific works by priests and monks: the Dominican Spina “is attributed by some with the invention of convex spectacles;” the Benedictine Ponce de Leon invented a method of teaching deaf-mutes; the Dominican Francis of Vitoria is acknowledged the founder of international law; the Franciscan Fortunatus of Brescia made pioneer studies in the field of morphology; the Prenmonstratensian Divish erected the first lightning rod at Prenditz, Moravia, in 1754. Pope Gregory XIII reformed the calendar.

6. The Church helped establish free and stable governments; it civilized the barbarians. Through the Benedictines, Cistercians, and Trappists, it reclaimed whole tracts of waste lands. The Church cared for the poor, the sick, the orphaned, the old and helpless. It opened hospitals, ransomed captives, and freed slaves. Pope Innocent III is known as “Father of Hospitals.”

Who but the Church insisted on the dignity of the soul of even the poorest slave in an age when class distinctions were rampant? Who but the Church rescued woman from degradation, and formed that beautiful institution, the Christian family? The Church stood for the liberties of the people against the encroachments of tyrants. It has ever stood for the poor against the oppressions of the rich. It has stood for the maintenance of authority against the violence of rebellious subjects. The whole history of Christian civilization has the mark of the Church.

What are THE CHIEF ATTRIBUTES of the Catholic Church?

The chief attributes of the Catholic Church are authority, infallibility, and indefectibility. These attributes are qualities or characteristics perfecting the nature of the Church.

What is meant by THE AUTHORITY of the Catholic Church?

By the authority of the Catholic Church, it is meant that the Pope and the bishops, as the lawful successors of the Apostles, have power from Christ Himself to teach, to sanctify, and to govern the faithful in spiritual matters.

Authority is the power one person has over another, such that he can exact obedience justly. Thus rulers have authority over subjects; parents over their children; teachers, over pupils.

1. Christ appointed the Church to teach whatever He taught: "Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations, . . . teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you" (Matt. 28:19-20). Christ taught, as in the Sermon on the Mount.

2. Christ appointed the Church to sanctify the faithful, by administering the means of grace to its members.

Christ dispensed the means of grace, as when He forgave Mary Magdalen, gave His flesh and blood at the Last Supper, and blessed little children.

3. Christ appointed the Church to govern with authority and jurisdiction.

Christ was the pastor or ruler of men. He gave commandments, sent the disciples on missions, instructed them, reproved the Pharisees.

Did CHRIST GIVE the Church FULL AUTHORITY?

Christ gave the Church full authority and power, saying, "As the Father has sent me, I also send you" (John 20:21).

Christ, upon leaving the earth, gave to His Church full power and authority to carry on His work. "He who hears you, hears me; and he who rejects you, rejects me" (Luke 10:16). Christ Himself, however, remains invisibly present and active through His Spirit.

1. The authority of the Church is not restricted to matters of doctrine and belief, but to whatever is necessary for the good of the Church and its members.

Thus the Church lays down laws concerning fast and abstinence, Sundays and holydays of obligation, worship, and administration of the sacraments.

2. The members of the Church must observe whatever laws and regulations it makes. Authority in some form is necessary for every organization; without it members could not be directed to their common purpose.

3. Every society lays down rules for its members. Those who do not wish to keep them are excluded from it. Without authority the Church could not fulfill its divine purpose.

The denominations that broke from the unity of the Church denied its authority. Having no head to obey, they split and resplit into hundreds of denominations.

HOW does THE CHURCH EXERCISE HER AUTHORITY to teach, to sanctify, and to govern the faithful?

The Church exercises her authority to teach, to sanctify, and to govern the faithful by various means, among them being:

1. TEACHING by the Decrees of the Ecumenical Councils and of the various Congregations of the Roman Curia, and of the respective bishops in their dioceses. Priests teach and preach by mandate of the bishop.

Today the Church teaches by preaching, by deciding controversies, and by condemning wrong teaching.

Parish churches have sermons in the Masses of Sundays and holydays of obligation. Every Catholic school prescribes the study of religion in every class. Every parish holds catechetical classes.

2. SANCTIFYING by the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, by the sacraments, by blessings, and by special devotions held in the churches.

The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, instituted by Our Lord Himself, is the great act of worship of the Church, the source of grace to sanctify the faithful. The sacraments are means of grace by which we obtain help to become more holy children of God.

3. GOVERNING by the Commandments of the Church, Canon Law and other regulations issued from time to time as need arises, and from the general control by bishops in the dioceses.

In her capacity as ruler, the Church makes regulations forbidding what is dangerous or sinful, as when she warns us against the reading of dangerous books and magazines.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The Church cannot teach error, because it was founded by Christ, God Himself. He sent forth His Apostles with full powers to preach His Gospel. He said: "As the Father has sent me, I also send you" (John 20:21). "I will ask the Father and he will give you another Advocate to dwell with you forever. . . . But the Advocate, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, he will teach you all things, and bring to your mind whatever I have said to you" (John 14:16, 26).

68. Infallibility of the Church

What is meant by THE INFALLIBILITY of the Catholic Church?

By the infallibility of the Catholic Church is meant that the Church, by the special assistance of the Holy Spirit, cannot err when it teaches or believes a doctrine of faith or morals.

Christ promised: "All power in heaven and on earth has been given to me. Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations . . . teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you; and behold, I am with you all days, even unto the consummation of the world" (Matt. 28:20). If Christ is with the Church all days, it cannot err in teaching; it cannot lead men away from God.

1. "Infallibility" is often distorted by enemies of the Church to mean "impeccability," and therefore derided. Infallibility is freedom from error; impeccability is freedom from sin.

In an institution established by God for the salvation of men, error in doctrine is unthinkable.

Every teacher in the Church, from the Pope down to the humblest priest, like all of the faithful, is capable of falling into sin. But the Holy Spirit cannot permit anything less than the true doctrine to be taught in the solemn definitions of the Church.

2. Jesus Christ promised to preserve the Church from error. If His prediction and promises were false, then He would not be God, since God cannot lie. Christ said: "Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build My Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." If therefore the Church falls into error, the gates of hell certainly would prevail against it.

Christ promised: "I will ask the Father, and he shall give you another Advocate to dwell with you forever. . . . He will teach you all the truth" (John 14). If the Church can err, then the Holy Ghost cannot abide in it and Christ has failed to keep His promise—a thing absolutely impossible.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
3. A doctrine of faith is something we must believe in order to be saved. A doctrine of morals is something we must do in order to be saved.

For example, we must believe the doctrine of the Blessed Trinity: that there are Three Divine Persons in One God. We must believe that Jesus Christ is God. We must believe in the Blessed Virgin Mary’s immaculate conception.

Of things we must do are these: we must go to Mass on Sundays and holydays of obligation; we must fast and abstain when our bishops so order; we must receive Holy Communion at least once a year. We must obey the Ten Commandments.

4. Jesus Christ commanded all men to listen to and obey the Church, under pain of damnation. If His Church can teach error, then He is responsible for the error, by commanding all to obey.

Jesus sent forth His Apostles with full powers to preach His Gospel: “As the Father hath sent Me, I also send you.”—“Make disciples of all nations, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you.”—“Preach the Gospel to every creature.”

(a) Christ said: “He who believes and is baptized shall be saved; but he who does not believe shall be condemned” (Mark 16:16). A just God could not command men under penalty of damnation to believe what is false. So the teaching of the Church must be infallibly true.

He said: “You shall be witnesses for me in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and Samaria, and even to the very ends of the earth” (Acts 1:8). Since it was physically impossible for the Apostles to preach to the whole world, the mission must have been intended also for their successors to the end of time, our Catholic Bishops and priests.

(b) Christ said: “If he refuse to hear even the Church, let him be to thee as the heathen and the publican” (Matt. 18:17). “He who hears you hears me; and he who rejects you rejects me; and he who rejects me rejects him who sent me” (Luke 10:16).

He said, “And whoever does not receive you, or listen to your words—go forth outside that house or town, and shake off the dust from your feet. Amen I say to you, it will be more tolerable for the land of Sodom and Gomorrah in the day of judgment than for that town” (Matt. 10:14-16).

5. No Christian denies that the Apostles were infallible. In fact, in the first century, they were the only authority in the Church. The Bible was not completed till the end of that century, not within reach of all.

But God loves the Christians of today as much as He did the primitive Christians. We have as much need of unerring teachers as they. The Apostolic Church of the 36th century must therefore be as infallible as the Church of the Apostles.

6. An infallible Bible is no use without an infallible interpreter. History has proved this, in the multiplication of the innumerable denominations that deny the infallibility of the Church. By infallibility, the faithful know exactly what to believe and what to do in order that they may be pleasing to God and save their souls.

It is a great blessing that there is one voice crying out in unerring tones: “Thus says the Lord.”

Has THE CHURCH in fact proved itself INFAILLIBLE?

It is a historical fact that the Catholic Church, from the twentieth century back to the first, has not once ceased to teach a doctrine on faith or morals previously held, and with the same interpretation; the Church has proved itself infallible.

1. It is a historical fact that not one Pope, whatever he was in his private life, has ever attempted to define a doctrine that is erroneous.

“The Scribes and the Pharisees have sat on the chair of Moses. All things, therefore, that they command you, observe and do. But do not act according to their works.” By obeying the Pope, every Christian can live as Christ commanded, in any age.

2. True, some high rulers of the Church have gravely sinned. In the long line of Popes the vast majority led virtuous lives. Many of them are honored as Saints and martyrs. There are charges against only five or six Popes. Most of them are calumnies or exaggerations. But even if the charges were true, they prove nothing against infallibility.

Of the Sovereign Pontiffs that have succeeded Peter, 84 are canonized Saints, of whom 32 were martyrs. However holy the Pope, he regularly goes to confession to a priest. No Pope ever considers himself above the laws of the Church and of God.

3. The Church cannot change its teachings on faith and morals. But it may restate the doctrines more clearly and completely. Year after year the Church proclaims the same unchanging doctrines. Her doctrines need no reform, for they are of Divine origin, the work of the Incarnate God.
Since the time of Christ, from the first council of the Apostles in Jerusalem in the year 50, to the present II Vatican Council 1962-1963, there have been held in all twenty-one general or ecumenical councils.

The above photograph was taken on October 12th, 1962. His Holiness Pope John XXIII, presiding from the main altar, is delivering his first message to the Fathers of the Council.

69. Sphere of Infallibility

When does the Church teach INFALLIBLY?

The Church teaches infallibly when it defines, through the Pope alone, as the teacher of all Christians, or through the Pope and the bishops, a doctrine of faith or morals to be held by all the faithful.

The Church, as the representative of Jesus Christ on earth, is infallible, and speaks with His own words: “This is why I was born, and why I have come into the world, to bear witness to the truth” (John 18:37).

1. When the Church makes an infallible pronouncement, we are not to suppose that a new doctrine is being introduced. For instance, when the Holy Father defined the Blessed Virgin’s Immaculate Conception and her Assumption as articles of faith, the infallible definition in each case was not a proclamation of a new doctrine, but was merely an announcement of an article of faith true from the very beginning, and publicly defined only in order to make the dogma clear to all and to be believed as part of the deposit of faith left to the Church.

Another example is the definition of the Holy Father’s infallibility, made in 1870 by the Vatican Council. The dogma was true from the very beginning, and had been universally held. But as in recent times many objections were being made against it, the Bishops in the Vatican Council thought it best, in order to make clear the stand of the Church, to make an infallible definition.

2. The Church makes infallible pronouncements on doctrines of faith and morals, on their interpretation, on the Bible and Tradition, and the interpretation of any part or parts of these.

The Church also pronounces on the truth or falsity of opinions, teachings, customs, etc., with relation to fundamental doctrines. Another subject on which the Church makes infallible declarations is in the canonization of Saints.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
When does THE Church Teach infallibly THROUGH THE POPE ALONE?

The Church teaches infallibly when it states, through the Pope alone, that he speaks officially (ex-cathedra) as the Supreme Head, for the entire universal Church.

As the Pope has authority over the Church, he could not err in his official teaching without leading the Church into error. As Our Lord said to Peter, the first Pope: "I have prayed for thee, that thy faith may not fail; and do thou, when once thou hast turned again, strengthen thy brethren" (Luke 22:31-32).

In order to speak infallibly, the Pope must speak ex-cathedra, or officially, under the following conditions:

1. He must pronounce himself on a subject of faith or morals. Infallibility is restricted to questions regarding faith and morals. The Church pronounces on natural sciences and on legislation only when the perversity of men makes of them instruments for opposing revealed truths.

If the Pope should make judgments on mathematics or civil governments, he is as liable to error as any other man with the same experience. Letters to kings and other rulers are not infallible pronouncements. However, when the Pope does not solemnly define a truth, for example, in his Encyclical Letters, we are bound to listen attentively to his words since they are taught with the ordinary authority of the Roman Pontiff.

2. He must speak as the Vicar of Christ, in his office as Pope, and to the whole Church, to all the faithful throughout the world. In his capacity as private teacher, he is as any other teacher of the Church.

Should the Pope, like Benedict XIV, write a treatise on Canon Law, his book would be written in a private capacity, and liable to error, just as the books of other theologians.

3. He must make clear by certain words his intention to speak ex-cathedra, that is, to make use of his supreme authority. These words are most often used: "We proclaim," "We define," etc.

From the earliest days of the Church, the infallibility of the Pope has been acknowledged. In the year 417 the Holy See condemned the Pelagian errors; St. Augustine cried out the famous words. "Rome has spoken; the cause is ended!" The council of Florence in 1439 called the Pope "the Father and Teacher of Christians."

When does the Church teach infallibly THROUGH THE POPE AND THE BISHOPS?

The Church teaches infallibly through the Pope and the bishops when convened in a general (or ecumenical) council.

1. A General Council is an assembly convened by the Pope, of all the bishops of the world, and others entitled to vote. It represents the teaching body of the Church, and must be infallible.

In the year 50 the Apostles held the first General Council in Jerusalem. Its decisions were proclaimed as coming from God, the final decree beginning with these words: "For the Holy Spirit and we have decided to lay no further burden upon you" (Acts 15:28).

2. Over a General Council, the Pope or his legate presides; a representative number of bishops and others entitled to vote, such as cardinals, abbots, and generals of certain religious orders, must be present. Upon confirmation by the Pope, a General Council's decrees are binding on all Christians.

There is no appeal from the Pope to a General Council.

3. A unanimous vote is not necessary for an infallible decision of a general council; a great majority is sufficient.

The most notable of the General Councils so far held following the Council of Jerusalem have been: (1) the Council of Nicea, in the year 325, which pronounced against the heresy of Arius; (2) the Council of Ephesus, in the year 425, which declared Mary the Mother of God; (3) the Council of Nicea, in 787, which declared the veneration of images as lawful and profitable; (4) the Council of Trent, 1545-1563, which declared against the heresies of Luther; (5) the Council of the Vatican, 1870, which defined as an article of faith the doctrine of the infallibility of the Pope.

4. The Church teaches infallibly through the Pope and the bishops when convened in a general council, or in the unanimous teaching of all the bishops throughout the world. Therefore their voice must be infallible, otherwise the universal Church would be led into error. For the same reason as above, the daily ordinary uniform teaching of the Church in every place in the whole world is infallibly true, "Go into the whole world and preach the gospel to every creature" (Mark 16:15).
The Catholic Church will endure to the end of time, for it is founded on a rock. The powers of evil will beat in vain against it. They will break themselves and perish, but the Church will remain, indefectible.

The testimony of almost two thousand years proves the perpetuity of the Church. Nothing that malice and envy could invent; nothing that the world, the flesh, and the devil could do have been left untried in the past 1900 years. Still the Church is with us, exactly as Christ founded it, and stronger than ever.

70. Indefectibility of the Church

What is meant by THE INDEFECTIBILITY of the Catholic Church?

By the indefectibility of the Catholic Church is meant that the Church, as Christ founded it, will last until the end of time.

The Archangel Gabriel announced to Mary that Christ “shall be king over the house of Jacob forever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end” (Luke 1:32-33).

1. Christ meant His Church to endure to the end of the world. It is to be indestructible and unchanging—to possess indefectibility. Christ, God Himself, could scarcely have come, and with such incredible pain and labor have founded a Church which would die with the Apostles.

He came to save all men. Those to live in future ages needed salvation as much as the people of Apostolic times.

2. Christ said to Peter: “Upon this rock I will build my Church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it” (Matt. 16:18). By the “gates of hell,” He meant all the power of the devil—all kinds of attacks, physical violence as well as false teaching.

Christ promises here that the Church would be assailed always, but never overcome. This promise of Our Lord has been proved for almost 2000 years by the facts of history. Not one of the persecutors of the Church has prevailed over it. On the contrary, many of them have come to a fearful end. There will always be Popes, bishops, and laity, to compose the Church; the truths taught by Our Lord will always be found in His Church.

3. After telling His Apostles to teach all nations, Christ said: “Behold, I am with you all days, even unto the consummation of the world” (Matt. 28:20).
As the Apostles were not to live to the end of the world, Christ was addressing them as representatives of a perpetual Church.

4. The Apostles themselves understood Christ to mean that His Church should endure. After organizing Christian communities, they appointed successors in their place, to live after them and carry on the Church.

The Apostles instructed these successors to ordain in turn other bishops and priests. All these acts were to assure the perpetuity of the Church.

5. Christ intended the Church to remain as He founded it, to preserve the whole of what He taught, and the shining marks which He gave it in the beginning. If the Church lost any of the qualities that God gave it, it could not be said to be indefectible, because it would not be the same institution. Indefectibility implies unchangeability.

Our Lord promised to abide by the Church, to assist it, and to send the Holy Spirit to remain in it. God does not change: “Behold, I am with you all days, even unto the consummation of the world” (Matt. 28:20).

6. Because of its indefectibility the truths revealed by God will always be taught in the Catholic Church. St. Ambrose said: “The Church is like the moon; it may wane, but never be destroyed; it may be darkened, but it can never disappear.”

St. Anselm said that the bark of the Church may be swept by the waves, but it can never sink, because Christ is there. When the Church is in greatest need, Christ comes to its help by miracles, or by raising up saintly men to strengthen and purify it. It is the bark of Peter; when the storm threatens to sink it, the Lord awakens from His sleep, and commands the winds and the waves into calm: “Peace; be still!”

Has the Catholic Church actually PROVED ITSELF INDEFFECTIBLE?

The Catholic Church has, throughout its long history, proved itself indefectible, against all kinds of attack from within and without, against every persecution and every heresy and schism.

As its Founder was persecuted, so the Catholic Church has been and ever will be persecuted. “You will be brought before governors and kings for my sake” (Matt. 10:16). “And you will be hated by all for my name’s sake” (Matt. 10:22). “No disciple is above his teacher, nor is the servant above his master” (Matt. 10:24).

“They will deliver you up to councils, and you will be beaten in the synagogues” (Mark 13:9). “They will arrest you, and persecute you” (Luke 21:12).

1. The Church survived three hundred years of incredible persecution under pagan Rome. Of the 33 Popes that ruled before the Edict of Milan, 30 died as martyrs. That mighty Empire, with its colossal strength, before whose standards the nations quailed, could not kill the infant Church or stop its progress. In a short time the Popes were ruling where the imperial Caesars had issued edicts against the Christian Church.

The Roman Empire waged ten fierce persecutions against the Church, but could not destroy it. In the year 313 the Emperor Constantine was converted, and granted the Church freedom by the Edict of Milan. (See page 118.)

2. Then for two centuries hordes of barbarians swept upon civilized Europe, destroying the old Roman Empire. The Church not only survived, but converted and civilized the barbarians.

God’s ever-watchful providence brought about the conversion of the Frankish king Clovis, with a great number of his warriors. This was the beginning of the firm establishment of the Church in the Frankish kingdom, although missionaries had gone there from the first century. In the eighth century St. Boniface converted Middle and Northern Germany, until then the home of violent paganism.

3. For nine centuries Mohammedanism threatened to conquer Europe. It was the Church under the Popes that urged the nations to unite. In the sixteenth century the menace was removed.

Today several Muslim countries have diplomatic representatives at the Vatican.

4. Not only non-Christians, but its own rebellious children have persecuted the Church. From the beginning heresy has attacked it from within. And still the Church lives greater than ever, changeless, indefectible. (See page 119.)

The long history of the Catholic Church is attended by schism and heresy, but each attack has only strengthened it. It has continued to live and spread in spite of everything and everybody.

5. The Church is the Bride of Christ, cast into prison, starved, thrown to the beasts, trampled underfoot, hacked, tortured, crucified, and burned. But this fair Bride emerges from it all in the bloom and freshness of youth, serene, calm, immortal.
Christ said: “As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself unless it remain on the vine, so neither can you unless you abide in me. I am the vine, you are the branches. He who abides in me, and I in him, he bears much fruit; for without me you can do nothing. If anyone does not abide in me, he shall be cast outside as the branch and wither; and they shall gather them up and cast them into the fire, and they shall burn” (John 15:4-6).

Time has continually proved the truth of what Christ predicted about schisms and their divisions. This is the reason for the fact that they change so often and finally disappear: they are branches broken from the tree, and must wither as He said.

71. Salvation and the Catholic Church

What do we mean when we say, “Outside the Church there is no salvation?”

When we say, “Outside the Church there is no salvation,” we mean that Christ made the Catholic Church a necessary means of salvation and commanded all to enter it, so that a person must be connected with the Church in some way to be saved.

1. All are obliged to belong to the Catholic Church in order to be saved. Christ said: “Amen, amen, I say to thee, unless a man be born again of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God” (John 3:5).

The Catholic Church is founded on the Apostles, to whom Our Lord gave the commission to baptize; by Baptism one is made a member of the Church. If then Baptism is indispensable, the Church (one and universal) must be indispensable.

2. Christ did not die for a part of, but for all mankind. He did not leave His legacy the Church for the benefit of a few, but for all. Our Lord said: “He who hears you hears me; and he who rejects you rejects me” (Luke 10:16).

Since God commanded all to be members of His Church, those who deliberately disobey His command will not be saved. Whoever, through his own fault, remains outside of the Catholic Church, will be lost eternally.
3. One who, knowing the Catholic Church to be the true one, leaves it or does not join it because he wants to make a good marriage, to advance his business, or for some other worldly motive, will not be saved. He is a willful and malicious unbeliever.

One who belongs to another church and has doubts about the truth or falsity of his own church, but takes no pains to find out the truth will not be saved. "If you do not believe that I am he, you will die in your sin" (John 8:24).

4. It is not enough to belong to the Church. We must also live up to our beliefs, otherwise our membership will only work to our greater condemnation. Only those Catholics who live according to the teachings of the Church will be saved.

5. Catholics who have committed grave sins such as murder, arson, adultery, etc., are still members of the Church. As long as a Catholic does not deny a doctrine of the Catholic faith, or is not excommunicated, he is a member of the Church.

Catholics guilty of mortal sin are deprived of sanctifying grace, the life of the soul. Nevertheless they remain members, and have the privilege of receiving the sacraments to wash away their sins. Christ Himself predicted that in the Church there would be bad people with the good, cockle among the wheat. Mother Church is a good mother that patiently awaits the return of her sinful children, and does not exclude them from her gifts.

6. An excommunicate is one who has been deprived of the rights of membership in the Church for some serious sin against faith. He is excluded from the sacraments, from Catholic burial, and from being prayed for in the public prayers of the Church. In order to become once more a member of good standing in the Church, an excommunicate has to obtain the absolution of the bishop.

Catholics who join Masonry, or marry before a non-Catholic minister, are automatically excommunicated, if they knew the serious nature of their action.

How can persons who are not members of the Catholic Church be saved?

Persons who are not members of the Catholic Church can be saved if, through no fault of their own they do not know that the Catholic Church is the true Church, but they love God and try to do His will, for in this way they are connected with the Church by desire.

1. God condemns no man except for grave sin. Therefore He will not condemn those who through no fault of their own are unaware of His command to belong to the True Church, provided they serve Him faithfully according to their conscience, have a sincere desire to do His will in all things, and therefore implicitly wish to become members of His Church. They are members of the Church, in desire.

A baptized Protestant, of Protestant parents, lives all his life a Protestant without ever having a doubt that he is in the wrong. Before death he makes an act of perfect contrition for the sins he has committed. Such a man will be saved, for he dies in the state of grace.

2. It is possible for one that has never even heard of Jesus Christ to be saved, for God "wishes all men to be saved and to come to the knowledge of the truth" (1 Tim. 2:4) and "Christ died for all" (2 Cor. 5:15). In order that such a one may be saved, it is required that he observe the natural law; with the help of God, everyone having the use of reason can do that.

Whoever then obeys the natural law will be enlightened by God, at some time in his life, with the grace with which he can make an act of Divine faith. If he makes good use of this grace and firmly believes whatever God has revealed, he will receive the further graces with which he can make the acts of hope, repentance, and charity that must precede before God will bestow on his soul sanctifying grace, with which he can merit eternal life.

3. The fact that it is possible for those outside the Church to be saved should not make us lose sight of the great disadvantages they are under, as compared with Catholics who live in the full light of Divine revelation. Such persons have not the infallible Church to guide them in what they are to believe and do in order to serve God. They have to live without the Sacraments, Holy Mass, and Holy Communion, and the other countless sources of grace which the Church supplies for the sanctification of its children, those professed Catholics who are members of the body of the visible Church.

These disadvantages should make us Catholics realize more fully the many reasons we have for humbly thanking God for the priceless blessings we have received without any claim or merit of our own. They should also spur us on to give Him a more worthy service, and help spread our Faith.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The Catholic Church is the only Church which traces her origin back to Christ; all other Churches were established by men. The vertical lines indicate the centuries of the Christian era. The horizontal lines represent some of the larger religious denominations that have risen during the past 19 centuries indicating the respective dates of origin, and ceasing when they disappeared. The width of the line shows the approximate size of the denomination.

While the term "Protestantism" had its origin at the Diet of Speyer in Germany in 1529, the first manifestation of the movement occurred when Martin Luther nailed his theses to the doors of the church of Wittenberg on October 31, 1517. All the other Protestant Churches were also started by human founders since that time. Contrast the divine origin of the Catholic Church with the human origin of all the other churches.

72. Schism and Heresy

What is SCHISM; and what is HERESY?

Schism is the refusal to submit to the authority of the Pope; heresy is the formal denial or doubt by a baptized person of any revealed truth of the Catholic Faith.

Apostasy is the total rejection of his Faith by a baptized Christian. With heresy and schism, and supported by persecution, it has caused divisions in the True Church, and the rise of other churches.

1. Christ predicted divisions in the Church, and the rise of other churches. From the time of the Apostles new denominations have sprung up, and have divided and subdivided, to form other denominations. With other churches that are non-Christian, the Christian denominations have opposed the Apostolic Church.

"For false Christs and false prophets will arise, and will show great signs and wonders, so as to lead astray, if possible, even the elect" (Matt. 24:24).

2. After some time, separated as it is from the authority of the Pope, a schismatical church is likely to be led into errors in doctrine. Today schismatical Orthodox Churches do not accept the infallibility of the Pope.

Heretics assume the right, on their own independent authority, to choose their beliefs instead of accepting all, and only the truths revealed by God, and defined and taught by the infallible Church which Christ established.

Formal heretics are those who knowingly and obstinately deny the truths of the Catholic Church. Material heretics are those who deny truths because of ignorance rather than formal obstinacy.
Important SCHISMS and HERESIES

MONTANISM taught by Montanus of Phrygia in Asia, in 170. Proclaimed that the end of the world was approaching; proposed a rigorous code of morality.

GNOSTICISM was based on Platonic philosophy and claimed that reason was superior to faith and gave a deeper insight into the doctrines of Christianity.

ARIANISM by Arius (280-336), a priest who denied the divinity of Christ.

NESTORIANISM. Nestorius (451) a bishop, denied the real unity of the divine and human natures in the Divine Person of Christ. Therefore, what is said of Christ as Man could not also be said of Christ as God.

MONOPHYSITISM. Eutyches (373-454) taught that Christ has only a single composite nature, not two natures, divine and human.

MONOTHELISM. Severus of Antioch and Sergius, Patriarch of Constantinople (681), claimed that there was only one will, the divine will in Christ.

DONATISM taught by Donatus in Africa (254-257) held that Baptism and other sacraments, administered by heretics and sinners, were invalid.

ICONOCLASM or image-breaking was the result of an edict by Eastern Emperor Leo the Isaurian in 726, who asserted that the generation of images, pictures and relics was idolatrous.

BERENGARIUS (1000-1088) denied the doctrine of transubstantiation and the real presence of Christ in the Holy Eucharist.

JANSENISM. Cornelius Jansenius (1585-1638) taught that: human nature was corrupted by original sin; efficacious grace determined the will to do good; some are predestined to heaven and others to hell; Christ died only for the predestined. He advocated an extremely rigorous moral and ascetic code.

ERRORS related to the REFORMATION

JOHN WYCLIFF (c. 1320-1384), the "Morning Star" of the Reformation, argued 200 years before Martin Luther that the Bible alone is the sufficient rule of faith. He also denied the authority of the Pope and bishops, and the real presence of Christ in the Eucharist. Eighteen of his propositions were condemned by Pope Gregory XI in 1370.

ANABAPTISM, contending, among many other things, that baptism of infants was invalid.

ULRICH ZWINGLI (1481-1531) a priest in Switzerland, believed that the Bible was the only source of faith; abolished the Mass, Holy Eucharist and penance; denied indulgences; destroyed relics, altars, sacred vessels, and rejected clerical celibacy.

JOHN CALVIN (1509-1564) combined his own teachings with those of Luther and Zwingli. His distinctive belief was in the predestination of some persons to heaven and others to hell.

ANGLICANISM began by Henry VIII (1491-1547) proclaiming himself as head of the Church in England, but keeping the chief truths of the faith. During the reigns of Edward VI (1547-1553) and Elizabeth (1558-1603) other errors in doctrine were introduced. The rite of ordination to Holy Orders was changed with the result that Anglican orders were made null. The term Episcopal is associated with the Church of England because it is governed by Bishops.

Today the different PROTESTANT CHURCHES do not accept the same doctrines. The impression given is that they are uncertain as to which doctrines of Our Lord Jesus Christ they would believe or reject. Some do not believe in any more in the Blessed Trinity, in the virgin birth and divinity of Our Lord, while others do. Some reject the Apostles' and Nicene Creeds. Till recently—1920—they opposed contraception as a sin against the sixth Commandment of God; now they even endorse it.

EASTERN ORTHODOX CHURCHES

The separated Eastern or Orthodox Churches differ from the Catholic Eastern Churches in believing that the Pope is not infallible and that he does not have the primacy of jurisdiction, but only of honor, as the first among equals, that is, among the Patriarchs.

The Orthodox Churches which separated from Rome in 1054 have cooperated in two large attempts to gain reunion with Rome, but neither venture brought a permanent union. One attempt was made at II Council of Lyons in 1274; the other at the Council of Florence in 1438. At those doctrinal questions were discussed about the procession of the Holy Spirit, the Sacrifice of the Mass, Purgatory, and a number of other topics. In general, it appeared that these Churches were not heretical in their belief on these points. These matters would have to be viewed today in any attempt for reunion, but the greatest problem would most likely be the dogma of papal infallibility, defined in 1870.

We must keep in mind that not all the Orthodox Churches reject the same doctrines of the Catholic Church, this is why it is difficult to put in a group the differences of their churches with the Catholic Church. Some believe that the Blessed Virgin Mary was not free of original sin from the first moment of her conception, but was cleansed from it at the time of the Annunciation. Others believe she was. There is among the Orthodox deep devotion to the B.V. Mary. Some seem to jeopardize the doctrine of indulgences claiming that the absolution of the priest in the sacrament of penance remits all temporal punishment as well as the guilt of sin. In general they do not have the extensive cult of the Blessed Sacrament which exists in the Western Church, but this is explainable since in the beginnings of the Church the Eucharist was not kept in tabernacles as we do now, nor were there processions and benedictions. All the devotion to the Eucharist was concentrated in the Holy Mass.

On the other hand their fasts are more frequent, longer and more rigorous than those of the Western Church. Religious life is strictly monastic and contemplative.

PRAYER: United to the Holy Father, as the holding of the Ecumenical Council he has convocated to foster unity of all Christians has begun, let us pray: "Almighty, eternal God, be merciful and listen to our prayer that our beloved separated brethren Orthodox and Protestants may be with us, the Catholic and Apostolic Church, that all divisions may disappear and that there will be "one Shepherd" and "one Flock." Amen.
Upon Martin Luther's refusal to retract his declarations on the teachings of the Church, he was excommunicated.

But Luther proudly tore up the papal bull of excommunication, and burned it. The fire that incident started has not yet burned down.

73. Protestant Churches

Who are PROTESTANTS?

In general, Protestants are adherents of the religious organizations that broke off from the Catholic Church in the sixteenth century, or of any religious body formed from them.

1. The term “Protestant” was first adopted by those who protested against the decree of the second Diet of Speyer in 1529. Later the term was applied to all reformers, all opposing the doctrines of the Church.

Even today the term is included in the new formula of the Declaration of Faith that the ruler of England must make at the coronation, saying: “I declare that I am a faithful Protestant.”

2. In the sixteenth century the Protestant revolt took place, this beginning of a multitude of heresies, this sad event that has divided Christendom for centuries. In the year 1517 Martin Luther, an Augustinian monk of Erfurt, Germany, began combating the doctrines of the Church on original sin and justification. He took the occasion of disputes on indulgences to break openly with the Church.

The Pope commanded Luther to retract his teachings; upon his refusal, he was excommunicated, in 1520. His heretical teachings spread like wildfire over Germany, occasioning religious wars; peace came only with the Peace of Augsburg, in 1555.

(a) The Council of Trent met (1545-1563) to set forth in a clear manner the errors of the Protestants, by explaining the true doctrine of the Church on those points. At that time, religious training had relaxed; many did not know the true doctrines.

Among the errors of the different leaders of Protestantism were these: that there is no supreme teaching power in the Church; that temporal rulers have the right to interfere in ecclesiastical matters; that the Bible is the sole guide to faith; that every man should interpret the Bible according to his own mind; that faith is sufficient for salvation; that the priesthood does not imprint a special character on the soul of a man, and that everybody is or can be a priest, as a result; that Penance is not a sacrament, but a mere invention of the Church; that the Mass gives no special grace; that there is no purgatory, etc.

(b) In the beginning, Protestantism spread rapidly. Whole countries, led by their rulers, protested against the Church, and denied one or another of its doctrines. In Switzerland Zwingli and Calvin, and in England Henry VIII, about this time increased the defections from the Church. But soon there were other kinds of Protestantism, all with varying doctrines.

PROTESTANT DENOMINATIONS may be placed into three groups:

FIRST, those that require a church to be able to trace its origin to apostolic times. They believe in a priesthood established by Christ, and commanded to offer sacrifice and administer the sacraments. The High Church Episcopalians belong to this group.

Unfortunately the High Church Episcopalians deny a fact: their succession of bishops was cut when they separated from the Catholic Church, and so they have no valid orders. Hence they cannot have any sacraments except Baptism and Matrimony. The Anglican orders were declared invalid under Pope Leo XIII in 1896, after the question of their validity had been thoroughly examined.

SECOND, those that do not believe in the theory of "all religions are the same," but do not have an organized hierarchy. They insist on their own brand of Protestantism, requiring prospective members to study their doctrines. They consider Holy Scripture as the only rule of faith and of life. Some of them accept the Apostles' Creed, and teach justification by faith alone.

Lutherans, and some bodies of Methodist and Episcopal churches belong to this group.

THIRD, those that declare Christ their personal Saviour, and believe in Baptism as indispensable; although some bodies do not hold the latter doctrine. Every Christian, according to them, must be a member of some church, on account of the practical benefits from church membership, from organized religion. But, one church is just as good as another.

To this group most of the bodies of Baptists, Presbyterians, Disciples of Christ, and Congregationalists belong.

THE CHURCH FOR EVERYMAN

A partial list of literary people who in recent times have been converted into the Catholic Church in adult life. The Catholic Church is the Church for Everyman, whatever his race, color, economic condition, education,—for in the Church "there is not 'Gentile and Jew,' 'circumcised and uncircumcised'...'slave and freeman'; but Christ is all things and in all" (Col. 3:11). Christ came to redeem all men.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
What is ECUMENISM?

The word "ECUMENISM" was first used by Protestants in 1919 to designate the work for the union of the various churches or denominations.

Today more than ever before, the various Protestant denominations are feeling the need for unity. Definite work for unity (the "ecumenical movement") was given a decisive impulse by the international missionary conference of Edinburgh in 1910. It led to the formation of the WORLD COUNCIL OF CHURCHES (Amsterdam 1948), which at present (1969) counts some 200 member churches from 80 countries. It includes several Orthodox churches, among them that of Russia (admitted in December 1961).

However, not all the Protestant denominations are members of the World Council of Churches.

What should be the ATTITUDE OF CATHOLICS to those Christians who do not belong to the Catholic Church?

1. Catholics should first be keenly aware of the scandal of our divisions; the thought of it must make us suffer. The dissensions among Christians are the chief cause of the weakness of Christianity in the modern world and the greatest obstacle to its propagation among non-Christians.

This is why Our Lord Jesus Christ prayed so earnestly in His great "sacerdotal prayer" before His Passion: "Holy Father, keep in thy name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one even as we are one... As thou, Father, in me and I in thee, that they also may be one in us, that the world may believe that thou hast sent me" (John 17:11, 21).

2. We should feel kindly towards non-Catholics, be they Protestants or Orthodox. We should regard them, not as enemies, but as our separated brethren: brethren, because baptized into Jesus Christ; separated from us, generally through no fault of their own, but because of historical and theological reasons which have been aggravated over the years. They must therefore be considered as being in good faith.

This attitude requires overcoming a heavy heritage of ill feeling, hatred, prejudice and distrust, the memory of persecutions and cruel wars. In these sad divisions, no side can claim to be without fault.

Every unkind thought I keep about our separated brethren, every unkind word or action, perpetuates and deepens the division of Christendom.

3. At present the obstacles to the union of Protestant or even of Orthodox churches with the Catholic Church are indeed great. But all things are possible to God. Prayer for unity is a pressing duty of every Christian.

A special occasion for such prayer is the Unity Octave (January 18th to the 25th), which was approved by Benedict XV and is now kept by numerous Catholics and non-Catholics all over the world.

4. Catholics should above all try to give good example. Nothing is more effective in the eyes of non-Catholics than the exemplary lives led by good Catholics.

The more intensely all Christians try to live the Gospel, the closer they will come together. Most important is charity shown to all, non-Catholics as well as Catholics.

5. In talking with non-Catholics we should avoid discussions that only serve to increase bitterness. We should know our own faith well enough to present it clearly and honestly, and we should be aware also of the many basic truths that unite us all as Christians.

Among theologians also, the old polemical discussions are being replaced by "dialogue," that is to say, a friendly exchange in which each side endeavours to understand the position and doctrines of the other. This "irregular" approach does not mean that the Catholic waters down the truth, but he learns how to present it so that it will be better understood and more easily received.
In the castle of Fountainebleau Napoleon forced the Pope to give up the States of the Church, promising on annual income of two million francs. In the same castle Napoleon was himself later forced to sign on abdication and was promised a yearly income of the same amount. When the Pope excommunicated Napoleon, he answered that the words of an old

74b. The Gates of Hell

What was the end of the leaders of persecution?

Many of the leaders of persecution came to a bad end.

1. Of the first persecutors, several died violent deaths. The death of Judas is the type for his imitators. It is related that:

   Herod, the murderer of the Holy Innocents, died in unspeakable tortures.

   Herod, the murderer of James the Apostle, was devoured by worms.

2. Of the persecutors in Rome, Nero was deposed, and in despair stabbed himself.

   Domitian was assassinated.

   Hadrian became insane.

   Marcus Aurelius, despondent over the ingratitude of his only son, starved himself to death.

   Septimus Severus, whose life had been attempted by his only son, died in despair.

   Decius died miserably in a swamp, during a battle.

   Valerian was flayed alive by the Persians.

Maxentius was drowned in the Tiber.

Diocletian died from a loathsome disease.

Julian the Apostate was struck down by a lance on the field of battle, and died crying: "Galilean, Thou hast conquered!"

3. The case of Napoleon is instructive.

Drunk with power, Napoleon seized Rome in 1808, declaring himself the "successor of Charlemagne". He banished Cardinals and bishops, and carrying off Pope Pius VII, held him prisoner in Savona. Enemies of the Church exulted: "The Papacy is ended! The Emperor has devoured the Pope!" They forgot the divine promise to Peter: "The gates of hell shall not prevail!"; on that promise was based the ancient saying: "Who eats of the Pope dies like a beast." On the same day that Napoleon died in exile at St. Helena, Pope Pius VII was celebrating his own feast day in Rome.

4. Arius burst asunder during a triumphal procession. Voltaire died in despair. Truly history has shown the truth of the words of Holy Scripture: "It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God" (Heb. 10:31).
My Catholic Faith

St. Paul says: "He (Christ) is the head of His body, the Church" (Col. 1:18).

The Catholic Church is called the Mystical Body of Christ. St. Paul says: "He (Christ) is the head of His body, the Church" (Col. 1:18).

"We, the mony (the faithful), ore one body in Christ" (Rom. 12:5). The illustration represents Christ as the head of all the members of His Church.

75. The Mystical Body of Christ

WHY is the Catholic Church CALLED the Mystical Body of Christ?

The Catholic Church is called the Mystical Body of Christ, because its members are united by supernatural bonds with one another and with Christ, their Head, thus resembling the members and head of the living human body.

HOW ARE WE UNITED to the Mystical Body of Christ?

We are united by three spiritual bonds: a) a Liturgical bond (the reception of Baptism); b) a Symbolic bond (the profession of the Catholic faith); and c) a Hierarchical bond (obedience to the Church's rulers, and freedom from a penalty that would cast us out of the Church).

A baptized person separates himself from the Mystical Body of Christ either by heresy, apostasy or schism. A person is cast out of the Mystical Body of Christ when he is excommunicated. Any person who separates himself from the Church or is excommunicated can always return to the Church and the sacraments, if he repents of his sins and seeks absolution from the proper authorities.

1. In the Mystical Body, Christ as Head wills to be helped by His Body. Thus He rules the Church, but does so indirectly, through the hierarchy, human authority. In a similar manner the head of a living human being has need of the rest of the body.

2. Among the members of the Mystical Body of Christ there exists an interdependence; so that although each one has his own individual function, he does not live for himself alone, but for the entire Body. Every good he does perfects the Body, of which he is a part.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
How do the MEMBERS of the Communion of Saints HELP ONE ANOTHER?

The members of the "Communion of Saints" help one another by prayer and intercession, and by the merits of their good works.

1. Through the "communion of saints," the blessed in heaven can help those in purgatory and on earth by praying for them. The faithful on earth should honor the blessed in heaven and pray to them, because they are worthy of honor and as friends of God will help the faithful on earth.

   This is why we pray to the saints and angels that they may intercede for us before God, Whom they see face to face. "Rendering thanks to God the Father, who has made us worthy to share the lot of the saints in light" (Col. 1:12).

2. The souls in purgatory pray to the angels and saints, and pray for the living, but they cannot merit anything for themselves.

3. The faithful on earth, through the communion of saints, can relieve the sufferings of the souls in purgatory by prayer, fasting, and other good works, by indulgences, and by having Masses offered for them.

   St. Augustine says: "Prayer is the key by which we open the gates of heaven to the suffering souls." In the Memento after the consecration at every Mass, a special petition is made for the souls of the faithful departed. The poor souls cannot merit anything; they depend upon their brothers in Christ on earth and in heaven to help them attain their eternal home as soon as possible.

4. The faithful on earth as members of the Mystical Body of Christ, can help one another by practicing supernatural charity and, especially, by performing the spiritual and corporal works of mercy. (See pages 190-191.)

   St. Peter was freed from prison by the prayers of the faithful. St. Stephen's prayer obtained the conversion of St. Paul. The prayers of St. Morica led to the conversion of her son, St. Augustine. This is why today, on all occasions, Catholics ask for one another's prayers, and pray for those in need.

5. The doctrine of the "communion of saints" is one of the most consoling dogmas of the Church. When our loved ones die, they are not separated from us forever. Whether in heaven or purgatory, they still love us and pray for us.
What is meant in the Apostles' Creed by "THE FORGIVENESS OF SINS"?

By "the forgiveness of sins" in the Apostles' Creed is meant that God has given to the Church, through Jesus Christ, the power to forgive sins, no matter how great or how many they are, if sinners truly repent.

1. In the Old Law, sins were forgiven through the merits of the Redeemer that was to come. In the New Law they are forgiven through the merits of the Redeemer Who has come.

Pointing to Christ, St. John the Baptist said: "Behold the lamb of God, who takes away the sins of the world!"

2. We can obtain forgiveness of sin, because Christ the Redeemer merited forgiveness for us by His death. The Church has power to remit sins through the merits of Jesus Christ, "in whom we have our redemption, the remission of our sins" (Col. 1:14).

During life, Christ actually forgave sin. For example, He forgave Mary Magdalen, the paralytic, and the good thief. In curing the paralytic, He said, "But that you may know that the Son of Man has power on earth to forgive sins"—then He said to the paralytic—"Arise, take up thy pallet and go to thy house" (Matt. 9:6).

3. Christ gave to His Apostles and disciples and their successors power to forgive sins. He said: "Receive the Holy Spirit; whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven, and whose sins you shall retain, they are retained" (John 20:22-23).

This power to forgive sins was not given to the Apostles alone, since men of later ages would need forgiveness as much as men of Apostolic times. The power, therefore, must also remain in the successors of the Apostles.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
4. It is true, as the enemies of the Church assert, that man cannot forgive sins. Man, by his own individual power, can never forgive the smallest sin. But he can forgive all sins, with the power and authority God gave him, as minister of God, acting in God's place. Or is God limited because man is sinful? “These things I write to you in order that you may not sin. But if anyone sins, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the just” (1 John 2:1).

From the very beginning the Church has exercised this power, through the sacraments of Penance and Baptism, and even through Anointing of the Sick.

HOW MAY SINS BE REMITTED or forgiven?

Sins may be remitted or forgiven by various means, according to the kind and gravity of the sin: by Baptism, by Penance, and by good works.

1. Original sin is remitted through Baptism. When we are baptized, we become children of God, and heirs of heaven.

2. Actual sin is remitted by Baptism, by Penance, by Anointing of the Sick, and by good works. Such good works are: prayer, fasting, and alms-deeds.

Good works cannot remit grave or mortal sin; they can only dispose a person to the state of mind which leads him to the Sacrament of Penance.

3. The guilt of forgiven sins never returns. Once forgiven, a sin is forgiven forever. If after our sins have been forgiven we commit a new sin, or sins like the ones already forgiven, we are guilty of new sins.

A man tells five lies. He repents and confessing his sin, obtains forgiveness. After a month he tells five lies again. He is guilty of having told only five lies, not ten.

What is VICE?

Vice is a habit of sin formed by repeated acts of sin.

1. One who makes a practice of stealing has the vice of theft. One who habitually drinks to intoxication has the vice of drunkenness. One who frequently sins against chastity has the vice of impurity.

If one commits robbery and ever after avoids that sin, he has committed the mortal sin of robbery, but he has no vice. Similarly one may be completely intoxicated once, but if he resolves never again to drink, and sticks to his resolution, he has no vice.

2. A vice is easily acquired. This is one reason why we must be very careful not to commit sin. If we should be so unhappy as to fall into sin, we must at once cut off the possibility of forming vice by contrition, penance, and a resolution not to sin again.

After the first fall, one more readily yields to the next temptation. Each yielding weakensthe will for the next. Thus step by step one who starts a sin will soon find himself the slave of a habit.

3. A vice is easy to break off in the beginning, difficult to break when fully formed, but always capable of being overcome by a resolute will with God's grace.

It is easy enough to uproot a very young tree. But when it has grown into a mighty tree, it becomes extremely difficult. The vice having being firmly formed, it becomes a necessity and is impossible to break without extraordinary grace. This impossibility often leads many vicious persons to despair and to final impenitence. But God can do all things. One therefore who has contracted a habit of sin must have recourse to God, who will strengthen him, so that he can conquer his vice.

CAN ALL SINS BE FORGIVEN?

Yes, all sins, however great, can be forgiven, through the infinite merits of Christ, Who is God.

The repentant sinner is told in Scripture: “If your sins be as scarlet, they shall be made white as snow” (Is. 1:18).

1. God is always ready to forgive our sins, no matter how great or how many they are, if we are truly sorry for them. No actual sin can be forgiven without sorrow and repentance on the part of the sinner.

Our Lord said: “I say to you that, even so, there will be joy in heaven over one sinner who repents, more than over ninety-nine just who have no need of repentance” (Luke 15:7).

2. The sin against the Holy Spirit which Christ warned us would not be forgiven in heaven or on earth is persistence impenitence, the sin of one who rejects conversion and dies in mortal sin. One guilty of this sin can never obtain forgiveness of God, because at the hour of death he continues to thrust God away from him.

A man gravely wounded cannot have any hope of cure if he not only refuses to listen to his doctors, but shuts his mouth against all medicines, and kicks away all medical instruments and help. Eeen Judas would have been pardoned if he had asked for forgiveness and made a sincere act of contrition before his death.
Respect for the dead requires that cemeteries be properly kept. We should remember that the bodies of the buried will one day rise again to join immortal souls and live forever with God.

Respect for the dead would also advise us to give up the recent fad of dolling up corpses, painting their faces to make them seem alive, as if they were prepared for some flighty show.

77. Death

(Eleventh Article of the Apostles' Creed.)

What happens AT DEATH?

At death, the soul is separated from the body.

1. The soul is judged by God, and rewarded with heaven, punished with hell, or sent for a time to be cleansed in purgatory. The body begins to corrupt and returns to the dust from which it came.

St. Peter spoke of the body as a tabernacle for the soul: “the putting off of my tabernacle is at hand” (2 Pet. 1:14). At death, “the dust returns to its earth, from whence it came, and the spirit returns to God, Who gave it” (Eccles. 12:7). The only exceptions have been the bodies of Our Lord and the Blessed Virgin, which rose to join their souls, and are now in heaven.

2. All men must die, because death is a consequence of original sin. “Therefore as through one man sin entered into this world and through sin death, and thus death has passed into all men” (Rom. 5:12).

By their sin our first parents lost the immortality of the body, for God condemned them to die. “For dust you are and unto dust you shall return” (Gen. 3:19). Even Jesus Christ and His Mother submitted to death.

3. No one knows when, where, or how he will die. All we know is that we shall die, and that when our hour strikes, nobody can take our place.

God has mercifully hidden from us the hour of our death. If we knew when we should die, we might be overcome by fear when the moment approached. Some, besides, might lead sinful lives in the hope of repenting just before their death.

4. He must therefore always be ready to die. Death comes “as a thief in the night”, when we least expect it. We must live as if every moment were the last of life, always ready to appear before our Divine Judge.

“Therefore you must also be ready, because at an hour that you do not expect, the Son of Man will come” (Matt. 24:44).
How should WE PREPARE for death?
We should prepare for death by leading a good life, avoiding sin, and doing good.

1. We must keep in God's grace and love, so that when the Angel of Death comes, we may welcome him as one who takes us home to see the face of our loving Father. The good do not fear death.

Let us die with joy, saying to God, as Holy Simeon did: "Now thou dost dismiss thy servant. O Lord, according to thy word, in peace" (Luke 2:29). Let us imitate St. Paul, who says, "I have fought the good fight. I have finished the course, I have kept the faith. For the rest, there is laid up for me a crown of justice, which the Lord, the just Judge, will give to me in that day" (2 Tim., 4:7-8).

St. Augustine exclaims: "O how sweet it is to die, if one's life has been a good one!" For such as he, "to die is gain." To the just man death is only a passing into a better life. It is a journey to his everlasting home, where his heavenly Father dwells. Death is to be feared only by the sinner, for it is the end of his earthly pleasures, and the beginning of his eternal punishment.

2. As a man lives, so he dies. We should often recall the thought of death and eternity so that we may avoid sin. "In whatever you do, remember your last days, and you will never sin" (Eccli. 7:36). Those who put off reforming their lives in the hope of a death-bed repentance are like a traveler who starts packing when the train whistles for departure.

Let us picture the death of a just man, one who all his life has done good and avoided evil. He has often seen people taken away suddenly, when they least expected it, and made up his mind to be always ready to die and face his Judge. He has hoped he would, at the end of his life, die with the Last Sacraments, a priest, and his family by his side. But his obligations have taken him into the wilderness; there he is dying, with only the guide at his side. But he is at peace, and a smile is on his lips, for he is ready to die: being always in the state of grace, he is ready to meet his Judge anywhere, any time. He knows the Judge will smile, too, and welcome him as a good son, a friend.

3. We should also have our temporal affairs in order when we die. This is why adults should make a will in order that no confusion may arise as to the disposition of their property after their death. A sudden death is not to be desired, for then we may not be able to put in order our spiritual and temporal affairs.

This is why in the Litanies we pray: "From a sudden and unprovided death, deliver us, O Lord!"

What are CEMETERIES?
Cemeteries are the burial grounds for the dead.

1. The word "cemetery" comes from the Greek, and means sleeping-place; there the bodies of the dead sleep till Judgment Day.

It is the custom to engrave the letters R. I. P. (Requiescit in pace. May he [she] rest in peace) on headstones.

2. Cemeteries are solemnly consecrated. Catholics should be buried in a Catholic cemetery, if there is one; at least the grave should be blessed.

Some day the bodies of the just will rise in glory, and unite with their souls in heaven.

3. Cemeteries should be properly kept. They should be such as to invite everyone to go there and pray for the departed.

We should go regularly to the cemetery to see to it that the graves of our beloved dead are clean and well kept, and to pray for them. If we liked to visit them when they were alive, why shouldn't we continue to visit them even now that they are dead? Such visits would attest to our living faith in the immortality of the soul, and the resurrection of the body. Our prayers in the presence of the bodies are the proof of our love for our beloved dead.

4. Apostates, heretics, schismatic, the ex-communicated, suicides, duellists, Masons, communists, and public sinners, are not permitted to be buried in a consecrated Catholic cemetery.

The refusal of the Church to give Christian burial to her bad children does not mean that she sentences them to damnation; judgment of the dead is in the hands of God. It is merely a public expression of her condemnation of sin, and a disciplinary measure so that her other children may avoid falling into such sins. Non-Catholics are not permitted burial in a Catholic cemetery, because since they did not belong to the Church during life, there is no reason for including them in the burial grounds for members of the Church at death.

5. The Church forbids cremation not because it is in itself wrong or contrary to divine Law, but because it is in opposition to the Jewish and Christian tradition. In cases of great epidemics and disasters, the Church permits cremation.

Cremation has been advocated by anti-Christians with the express purpose of destroying belief in the immortality of the soul and the resurrection of the body. The Fathers of the Church defended the custom of burial, by reason of the resurrection of the body, and the respect due it as the temple of the Holy Spirit. The day may come when the Church may grant general permission for cremation.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Complete justice will not be done in this life, but in the next. Then everything will be weighed in the balance of God’s justice, and punished or rewarded. If on earth we have obeyed the commandments of God and of the Church we shall be given on eternal reward in heaven (1). If we have obeyed all the commandments, but die with unforgiven venial sin, or without having satisfied for forgiven mortal sin, we shall be sent to purgatory (2). Alas for us if we die with even one mortal sin! For then we shall be banished from the sight of God and suffer torments in hell forever (3).

78. Particular Judgment

What is the JUDGMENT called which will be passed on each one of us IMMEDIATELY AFTER DEATH?

The judgment which will be passed on each one of us immediately after death is called the particular judgment.

The existence of the particular judgment can be deduced from the parable of Dives and Lazarus; a soul is shown rewarded immediately after death.

1. As soon as each soul leaves the body at death it undergoes the Particular Judgment, at which its eternal destiny is decided. “We must all be manifested at the judgment seat of Christ.” “It is appointed unto men to die once, but after this comes the Judgment” (Heb. 9:27). “Every one of us will render an account for himself to God” (Rom. 14:12).

Let us remember that even while the relatives gather around the bed of the departed one, even while his body is still warm, the particular judgment is gone through and finished; the judgment is passed, and the soul gone to his reward or punishment. If we remember this, we shall be more fervent in praying for the dead, in helping others die a happy death, so that without fear they may meet God at the judgment.

2. Jesus Christ is the Judge at the Particular Judgment. Before Him each soul must stand. The soul will stand in the awesome presence of God the Son, to give an account of its whole life: of every thought, word, act, and omission.

“Neither does the Father judge any man, but all judgment he has given to the Son” (John 5:22).
3. A man's whole life will be spread before him like a great picture. He will remember everything, although he might have forgotten much at the moment of death. How he will wish then that he had done only good! We are not to suppose that the soul will go to heaven before Christ to be judged. God enlightens each soul in such a manner that it fully knows Christ has passed a true judgment on it.

"Of every idle word men speak, they shall give account on the day of judgment" (Matt. 12:36). The judgment will embrace even the good which has been neglected: a strict account will have to be rendered of the use we made of the talents and graces given to us. Even good actions badly performed will come under scrutiny, careless confessions, etc. Only then shall we know the exactness with which God sees and measures every act, word, and even intention in our deepest thought.

4. The good and the evil that the soul has done will be weighed in the balance of God's justice. Then the sentence will be passed by Jesus Christ alone, without the intervention of witnesses. This sentence is final and will never be reversed. The soul will learn the sentence, the reasons for it, and its absolute justice.

What are the REWARDS or PUNISHMENTS appointed for men AFTER the particular JUDGMENT?

The rewards or punishments appointed for men after the particular judgment are heaven, purgatory, or hell.

"With what measure you measure, it shall be measured to you" (Matt. 7:2). As we have loved God and our fellow-men during life, so we shall be given the proper reward or punishment.

1. He who dies in his baptismal innocence, or after having fully satisfied for all the sins he committed, will be sent at once to heaven.

"The just will go into everlasting life" (Matt. 25:46). "And there shall not enter into it anything defiled" (Apoc. 21:27).

2. He who dies in the state of grace, but is in venial sin, or has not fully atoned for the temporal punishment due his forgiven sins, will be sent for a time to purgatory.

The souls in purgatory are saints, because they are sure of going to heaven. In purgatory they cannot commit any more sin, not even the slightest. They only long for God.

3. He who dies in mortal sin, even if only with one single mortal sin, will be sent at once to hell.

"Yes, the hope of the wicked...is like smoke scattered by the wind, and like the passing memory of the nomad camping for a single day" (Wis. 5:14). By mortal sin a man cuts himself off from God. It is really he himself that sends himself to hell. God's desire would be to see all His creatures with Him in heaven.

HOW SHOULD WE PREPARE FOR the judgment?

We should prepare for the judgment by being most careful to lead a good life and die a happy death.

1. We should not only obey carefully all the Commandments of God and the Church, but do good works in prayer and alms-deeds, practicing charity for the love of God.

How can we be careless about a matter of such importance, when we are absolutely certain of being judged by God? "For what shall I do, when God shall rise to judge?" (Job. 31:14).

2. We should do voluntary works of penance, for love of God, in expiation of any sins we may have the misfortune to commit.

The "Imitation of Christ" says on this topic: "In all things look to your end, and consider how you shall be able to stand before a severe Judge from whom nothing is hidden; who takes no bribes, nor receives excuses, but will judge that which is just... Therefore, be careful and sorrowful for your sins now so that in the Day of Judgment you may be safe with the blessed... Then the poor and humble shall have great confidence, and the proud shall fear on every side... Then the contempt of riches shall weigh more than all treasures and worldlings... Learn now to suffer in little things, that then you may be delivered from more grievous sufferings. All therefore is vanity but to love God and to serve Him alone" (Bk. I, chap. 24).

3. We should never go to sleep without being prepared never to awake on earth again, but in the presence of our Judge.

Let us examine our conscience every day, make acts of contrition for our sins, confess them, and resolve to avoid them in the future.
Both reason and faith tell us that there is a middle ground of expiation, where the soul is cleansed from all stain of sin before it can enter the glory of heaven. "There shall not enter into it anything defiled" (Apoc. 21:27). Christ said, "Amen, I say to thee, thou will not come out from it until thou host paid the last penny" (Mott. 5:26). Even persons who deny the existence of purgatory instinctively pray for their loved ones who have died. This would be great inconsistency if their reason did not tell them that their prayers would do the dead good. Prayers are useless for those in heaven or hell.

79. Existence of Purgatory

Who are punished IN PURGATORY?

Those are punished for a time in purgatory who die in the state of grace, but are guilty of venial sin, or have not fully satisfied for the temporal punishment due to their sins.

1. Purgatory is a middle state where souls destined for heaven are detained and purified. Souls in purgatory cannot help themselves, for their time for meriting is past. But they can be helped by the faithful on earth, by prayers and other good works.

In some places, at 7, 8, or 9 o'clock at night, the church bells sound, to admonish the faithful to pray for the souls in purgatory. This hour is in commemoration of Christ's prayer in the garden. We should then pray the Requiem aeternam: "Eternal rest give unto them, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon them."

2. Belief in the utility of praying for the dead automatically includes belief in the existence of purgatory. If there were no purgatory, it would be useless to pray for the dead, because saints in heaven need no help, and those in hell are beyond aid.

And we can be sure there will be no more purgatory after the General Judgment; because the reason for its existence will have passed.

3. Purgatory is a place of temporary punishment for those who have died in venial sin, or who have not fully satisfied God's justice for mortal sins already forgiven.

(a) A boy with a stone deliberately breaks a window pane; this is a venial sin punishable in purgatory. Some argue that God is a good God, and will not punish such slight sins with the pains of purgatory.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
We must remember, nevertheless, that the judgments of God are different from those of men, as His holiness is far above human holiness. “For my thoughts are not your thoughts, nor are your ways my ways, says the Lord” (Isa. 55:8).

(b) A man commits a cruel murder. This is a mortal sin which, unrepented and unconfessed, will send him to hell.

The man repents, confesses, and obtains absolution for his sin; the guilt therefore is removed. But justice requires that he make up for the evil he has done; this atonement takes place in purgatory, unless he makes full satisfaction before death.

4. The doctrine of purgatory is eminently consoling to the human heart. It consoles us when our loved ones die. Purgatory is a bond of union making us realize that death is not an eternal separation for the just, but only a loss of their bodily presence.

IS THE DOCTRINE of THE existence OF PURGATORY REASONABLE?

The doctrine of the existence of purgatory is not only reasonable, but its negation is eminently contrary to reason; it is taught in Holy Scripture, and has been taught by the Church from the very beginning.

1. The doctrine of a middle state of purgation is taught in the Old Testament, and was firmly believed in by the Hebrews.

After a battle, Judas Machabeus ordered prayers and sacrifices offered for his slain comrades. “He (Machabeus having levied a sum of twelve thousand silver pieces) sent to Jerusalem, to have sacrifices made there for the guilt of their dead companions. Was not this well done and pious? Here was a man who kept the resurrection ever in mind; he had done fondly and foolishly indeed, to pray for the dead, if these might rise no more, that once were fallen! And these had made a godly end; could he doubt, a rich recompense awaited them? A holy and wholesome thought it is to pray for the dead, for their guilt’s undoing” (2 Mac. 12:43-49).

2. When Our Lord came on earth, He purified the Jewish Church of all those human changes that with the years had crept into its usages and beliefs. But He never reproved anyone for belief in a middle state of purgation, or prayers for the dead.

On the contrary, Christ more than once implied the existence of purgatory. He said “And whoever speaks a word against the Son of Man, it shall be forgiven him; but whoever speaks against the Holy Spirit, it will not be forgiven him, either in this world, or in the world to come” (Matt. 12:32). When Our Lord said that a sin will not be forgiven in the next life, He left us to conclude that some sins will be thus forgiven. But in the next life, sins cannot be forgiven in heaven: “There shall not enter into it anything defiled” (Apoc. 21:27). Neither can sins be forgiven in hell, for out of hell there is no redemption. They must therefore be forgiven in a middle state, Purgatory.

3. Belief in the existence of Purgatory is a continuous and solemn teaching of the Church. From St. Paul, the early Fathers, the Doctors of the Church, on through the ages, the Church has taught the existence of Purgatory, and the correlated doctrine of the usefulness of praying for the dead.

From the beginning Christians prayed for the dead at the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. The oldest books used at Mass contain prayers for the dead.

THE DOCTRINE OF PURGATORY was given solemn definition by the Council of Trent as follows: “There is a purgatory, and the souls there detained are assisted by the suffrages of the faithful, but especially by the most acceptable sacrifice of the altar.”

This dogmatic definition contains three points of faith that all Catholics are compelled to believe: (a) that there is a purgatory; (b) that after death souls suffer there for their sins; (c) that the living can extend assistance to such souls.

4. Reason demands belief in the existence of purgatory. If a man dies with some slight stain on his soul, a sin of impatience, or an idle word, is he fit to enter heaven? God’s sanctity forbids it: “There shall not enter into it anything defiled” Apoc. (21:27). But must such a soul be consigned to hell? God’s mercy and justice forbid it.

Therefore reason concludes the existence of a middle and temporary state of expiation, where the soul is cleansed from all stain of sin before it can be admitted into the perfect holiness and bliss of heaven. “Amen, I say to thee, thou wilt not come out from it until thou hast paid the last penny” (Matt. 5:26).

5. Among nearly all peoples there has persisted a belief that souls must undergo some sort of purification after death. This would point to the doctrine of purgatory.

The Greek story of Prometheus implies a place of purification. The Egyptians and others believed in the transmigration of souls. Legends and myths of all nations, as well as burial customs, indicate belief in the possibility of helping the dead.
We should be generous in helping the poor souls in purgatory, who long for God. The best thing we can do for them is to have Masses offered for them. The Church puts no limit to the time during which we may pray or offer Masses for the suffering souls in purgatory.

If we cannot have a Mass said, we should at least hear Masses for our dear departed. If God so willed, a single Mass could release all the souls in purgatory. We should offer Masses especially on All Souls' Day and on the anniversaries of death of our relatives and friends.

80. Souls in Purgatory

WHAT PAINS do the souls IN PURGATORY suffer?

The souls in purgatory suffer from a great longing to be united to God, and from other great pains.

1. Their chief pain is the deprivation of the Beatific Vision, the vision of God in the glory of heaven. This temporary deprivation is a most severe punishment, because the poor souls already have a full knowledge of what they are missing.

   "As the hind longs for the running waters, so my soul longs for you, O God. At thirst is my soul for God, the living God. When shall I go and behold the face of God?" (Ps. 41:2-3).

2. The general tradition of the Church is that they also suffer acutely in other ways.

St. Augustine believes that the sufferings of the poor souls are greater than anything that man can suffer in this life. St. Thomas believes the least pain there is greater than the greatest on earth.

3. The greatness and the duration of a soul's sufferings in purgatory vary according to the gravity of the sins committed. One who has lived a long life of sin, but is saved from hell only by a deathbed repentance, will stay in the purging fires of purgatory longer, and suffer there more intensely than a child, who has committed only the venial sins of an ordinary child.

That some souls stay long in purgatory is implied by the fact that the Church puts no limit to the offering of Masses for the dead; some foundations have been going on for centuries, offered for the repose of certain souls. St. Augustine believes that those stay longest in purgatory who have loved the goods of earth more. Some saints have held that certain holy souls in purgatory suffer no pain except their exclusion from the vision of God. Practically all are agreed that in purgatory the souls suffer most in those things in which they sinned most; as the "Imitation of Christ" says: "In what things a man hath most sinned, in those things shall he be most grievously tormented."

4. The poor souls, however, have much to console them. They are certain of salvation and the love of God. They are free from temptation: they cannot commit the slightest sin, even of impatience.

They have no worry, anxiety, or distress of mind, for they are sure of deliverance. They are comforted by the prayers of the angels and saints, and of the people on earth.

WILL ALL the souls in purgatory GO TO HEAVEN?

All the souls in purgatory will go to heaven some day; they will stay in purgatory as long as they have not atoned for their sins.

1. The poor souls cannot help themselves, for their time for meriting was ended at their death. They cannot therefore merit anything to satisfy for their sins.

This is why we who can still merit by our good works should give some of them as suffrage for the poor souls, so that they may soon be delivered from their prison. We have the special obligation of helping with our prayers and sacrifices the souls of our dead relatives, friends, and benefactors.

2. Although they cannot merit anything for themselves, the poor souls intercede for us with their prayers to God. Thus if we help them they repay us by their intercession.

In what ways CAN WE HELP THE POOR SOULS in purgatory?

We can help the poor souls in purgatory by Masses, by prayers, and by other good works.

1. MASSES. The Holy Sacrifice is the greatest help we can offer, because its effect depends on itself, and not on the piety of the priest who offers it. Whenever possible, Gregorian Masses should be offered; these consist of thirty Masses celebrated on consecutive days for some deceased person.

If we cannot have a Mass said, we can at least attend Mass and receive holy communion for our dear departed. A Mass has infinite merit, for it is the sacrifice of Our Lord Himself. It will surely avail our dead to offer for them God the Son Himself in Holy Mass.

2. PRAYERS. We should pray with devotion for the poor souls. God does not regard the length of the prayer or the words so much as the love in the heart of the one who prays.

There are special prayers enriched with indulgences, applicable to the souls in purgatory.

3. ALMS-GIVING. No pompous funeral or profusion of flowers is of any avail for the poor souls in purgatory. As St. John Chrysostom says, "Not by weeping, but by prayer and alms-giving are the dead relieved."

It is better to give to charity the money spent on idle and worldly show, which cannot help the poor souls. Instead of sending costly wreaths to the family of a dead friend, it is an excellent custom instead to have Masses offered for his soul.

4. The Heroic Act of Charity. By this Act a person surrenders, in behalf of the souls in purgatory, all the satisfaction made to God by his good works, including whatever satisfaction may be offered for him by others during his life and after.

Those who make the Act may gain a plenary indulgence applicable only to the dead: (1) each day that they receive Holy Communion, if they have made their confession and visited a church or public oratory and prayed for the intentions of the Holy Father; (2) on Mondays if they attend Mass in supplication for the faithful departed, and fulfill the usual conditions. (See page 336.)

For making the Heroic Act of Charity, the following prayer is suggested: "O my God, I voluntarily offer to Thee through the mediation of Mary, all the works of satisfaction that I may make in this life, as well as all suffrages which may be offered for me after my death, in behalf of the poor souls in purgatory, placing myself entirely at Thy mercy."

5. We should not, however, rely too much on the prayers and sacrifices that our relatives may offer for us after our death. Even granting that they will remember us often and fervently in prayers, it is nevertheless true that works offered in suffrage for souls avail them only to a limited extent.

God gives more value to a little voluntary penance done here on earth than to disciplines offered for that soul after death. As a Saint aptly said, "One Mass devoutly heard during life is worth more than a great sum left for the celebration of a hundred Masses after death."
Belief in the resurrection is very consoling. It was this belief that gave the early Christians and martyrs such fortitude under persecutions. Firm in this belief, we should not mourn for our beloved dead excessively: "But we would not, brethren, have you ignorant concerning those who are asleep, lest you should grieve, even as others who have no hope" (1 Thess. 4:13). We shall see them again in the resurrection.

We should remember the words of Our Lord, Who will raise us from the dead: "I am the resurrection and the life; he who believes in me, even if he die, shall live; and whoever lives and believes in me, shall never die" (John 11:25-26).

81. Resurrection of the Body

What is meant by the "RESURRECTION OF THE BODY"?

By "the resurrection of the body" is meant that at the end of the world the bodies of all men will rise from the earth and be united again to their souls, nevermore to be separated.

"In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet. For the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall rise" (1 Cor. 15:52).

1. Our Lord often foretold the resurrection of the body.

"For the hour is coming in which all who are in the tombs shall hear the voice of the Son of God. And they who have done good shall come forth unto resurrection of life; but they who have done evil unto resurrection of judgment" (John 5:28-29).

2. Our Lord said that the Blessed Sacrament gives immortality also to the body.

"He who eats my flesh and drinks my blood has life everlasting and I will raise him up" (John 6:55).

3. Christ redeemed the whole man, and not the soul alone.

Hence the body must, in the case of the just, rise to eternal life. The body of man was originally destined for immortality, and lost it only with Adam's sin. "As in Adam all die, so in Christ all will be made to live" (1 Cor. 15:22). "He who raised up Jesus will raise us also with Jesus" (2 Cor. 4:14). "Our Lord Jesus Christ will refashion the body of our lowliness" (Phil. 3:21).

4. The resurrection of the body is not an extraordinary idea. If we look about us in nature, we may see types of the resurrection of the body.

In spring, flowers and trees wake up to new life after the death of winter. The seed, buried like a corpse in the ground, sprouts a living tree or bush. The body itself rises to new vigor after sleep, which is a type of death.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Will OUR RISEN BODIES BE THE SAME bodies we had on earth?

Yes, our risen bodies will be the same bodies we had on earth.

1. If our risen bodies were not those we had on earth, they would not be our bodies, and we would not be the same persons. It could not be said then that there was a resurrection, nor that our bodies had risen.

2. During life the body is constantly changing, putting on new growth and throwing away waste in bone, muscle, and skin. Yet it is always the same body.

3. Our bodies will rise again even though they will have been reduced to dust. How, we do not know. Everything is possible to God. But, according to what has just been said under n. 2, we need not imagine God gathering together all the elements that once belonged to our bodies and have been scattered far and wide, and shaping them into new bodies.

Christ Himself raised three persons from the dead, according to Holy Scripture. At His resurrection, the bodies of many rose from the graves. Holy men and women have in the name of Christ brought back many to life.

Why will the bodies of the just rise?

The bodies of the just will rise to share forever in the glory of their souls.

"For this corruptible body must put on incorruption, and this mortal body must put on immortality" (1 Cor. 15:53).

1. The risen body will be radiant and beautiful, if it is of a just person. It will have the qualities of Our Lord’s risen Body, characterized by:

(a) IMPASSIBILITY.

By this quality the risen body will no longer be subject to pain, disease, death, hunger, thirst, fatigue, sleep, heat or cold. “And God will wipe away every tear from their eyes. And death shall be no more, neither shall there be mourning, nor crying” (Apoc. 21:4).

(b) BRIGHTNESS.

By this quality, the risen body will shine with great radiance and glory. “Then the just will shine forth like the sun, in the kingdom of their Father” (Matt. 13:43).

(c) AGILITY.

This quality will enable the risen body to pass with the quickness of thought to all parts of the universe.

Resurrection of the Body

2. The risen body, united to the soul, will remain in heaven forever, to glory in the presence of and in union with God.

When we are disheartened by the miseries of this life, misfortune, sickness, pains, and many other ills, including the difficulty of warding off sin, let us find consolation in the thought that our body, now so weak and imperfect, will, if we persevere in the love and service of God, some day rise in glory and stand continually in His presence. “If the earthly house in which we dwell be destroyed, we have a building from God, a house not made by human hands, eternal in the heavens” (2 Cor. 5:1).

Has the body of any human person ever been raised from the dead and taken into heaven?

By the special privilege of her Assumption, the body of the Blessed Virgin Mary, preserved from corruption, was raised from the dead and taken into heaven.

“Assumption” in this sense means the taking up of the Blessed Virgin’s body into heaven. Her Assumption differs from Christ’s Ascension, in that He went up to heaven, body and soul, by His own unaided power, whereas Our Lady was taken up by the power of God, not her own. The dogma of the Assumption was proclaimed November 1, 1950.

WHY WILL THE BODIES OF THE DAMNED also rise?

The bodies of the damned will also rise, to share in the eternal punishment of their souls.

1. The risen bodies of the wicked will be hideous and repulsive, horrible to behold.

This should give pause to those whose chief thought on earth is to pamper and decorate their bodies. This life will last only a few decades; but in the resurrection there will be an eternity. Should we prefer to be painted and “beautiful” for these few decades, and become an object of aversion for all eternity; or pay less attention to our body here on earth, so as to attain glory forever?

2. The risen bodies of the wicked, united to their souls, will remain condemned in hell forever, their companions other wicked souls, and devils, followers of Satan.

And in hell, the body, as well as the soul, will suffer torments such as we here on earth cannot even imagine. What will it profit those lost souls then, that here they had luxuries and pleasures?

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The General Judgment will take place at the end of the world. It is a public repetition of the particular judgment. Then all that each has thought, said, done, or omitted will be known to everybody. The just will receive their reward, and the wicked will be punished. At the General Judgment Jesus Christ will be the Judge. Then complete justice will be meted out to all, to the souls united with the bodies.

82. General Judgment

(Seventh and Twelfth Articles of the Apostles' Creed.)

What is THE JUDGMENT called which will be passed on all men immediately AFTER THE GENERAL RESURRECTION?

The judgment which will be passed on all men immediately after the general resurrection is called the general judgment.

1. The Last or General Judgment will take place at the end of the world, but when that will be, no man knows.

"But of that day and hour no one knows, not even the angels of heaven, but the Father only" (Matt. 24:36). After the Ascension angels told the Apostles that Christ will come again as Judge: "This Jesus who has been taken up from you into heaven will come in the same way, as you have seen him going up to heaven" (Acts 1:11).

2. Our Lord predicted that signs will precede the Last Judgment, which He Himself described; He will be the Judge.

(a) The Gospel will be preached in the whole world.

"And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in the whole world, for a witness to all nations; and then will come the end" (Matt. 24:14).

(b) There will be a great apostasy from faith; people will lose themselves in evil.

"Yet when the Son of Man comes, will he find, do you think, faith on the earth?" (Luke 18:8). "And as it came to pass in the days of Noe, even so will it be in the days of the Son of Man. They were eating and drinking, they were marrying and giving in marriage, until the day when Noe entered the ark, and the flood came and destroyed them all. In the same wise will it be on the day that the Son of Man is revealed" (Luke 17:26-27, 30).

(c) Antichrist will appear and work false miracles.

St. Paul speaks of "the man of sin... the son of perdition, who opposes and is exalted above all that is called God, or that is worshipped, so that he sits in the temple of God, and gives himself out as if he were God" (2 Thes. 2:4).
WHAT WILL TAKE PLACE on the last day?

On the last day these events will take place:

1. The earth and the heavens will show signs; the stars will fall. In the heavens the sign of the Son of Man will appear. It is believed that this sign is the Cross. “... And then will appear the sign of the Son of Man in heaven” (Matt. 24:30).

2. Jesus Christ, in great power and majesty, accompanied by the angels, will come in the clouds of heaven.

“For as the lightning comes forth from the east and shines even to the west, so also will the coming of the Son of Man be... And they will see the Son of Man coming upon the clouds of heaven with great power and majesty” (Matt. 24:27, 30).

3. The dead will spring to life in a moment. All men, their souls reunited to their bodies, will come to judgment.

“Behold, I come quickly... to render to each one according to his works” (Apoc. 22:12). “And he will send forth his angels with a trumpet and a great sound, and they will gather his elect from the four winds” (Matt. 24:31).

From these statements we are not to conclude that everybody will perceive the divine essence at the day of judgment; the wicked can never see God.

The lost souls will “see God” beyond some kind of veil so that they do not delight in His divinity; they will have some kind of perception of His Majesty, and recognize His justice.

If every one is judged immediately after death, WHY WILL THERE BE A GENERAL JUDGMENT?

Although every one is judged immediately after death, it is fitting that there be a general judgment, in order that the justice, wisdom, and mercy of God may be glorified in the presence of all.

1. The last or General Judgment will be a public repetition of the particular judgment. The Judge and the matters taken up will be identical. Then Jesus will bring to light “the hidden things of darkness.”

“And I saw the dead, the great and the small, standing before the throne, and scrolls were opened. And another scroll was opened, which is the book of life; and the dead were judged out of those things that were written in the scrolls” (Apoc. 20:12).

2. All men and all angels, good and bad, will be present to hear the judgment of each one. “For there is nothing hidden that will not be made manifest, nor anything concealed that will not be known” (Luke 8:17).

Then will the unjust say these words, as they consider the just: “This is he whom once we held as a laughingstock and as a type of mockery, fools that we were! His life we deemed Madness, and his death dishonored. See how he is accounted among the sons of God; how his lot is with the saints! ... What did our pride avail us? What have wealth and its boastfulness afforded us? All of them passed like a shadow” (Wis. 5:3-9).

3. Our Lord will place the good on His right hand, and the wicked on His left. To the just Christ will say: “Come, blessed of my Father, take possession of the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world” (Matt. 25:34). To the wicked He will say: Depart from me, accursed ones, into the everlasting fire” (Matt. 25:41).

Immediately the good will go body and soul to heaven, and the wicked will fall body and soul into hell. “And these will go into everlasting punishment, but the just into everlasting life” (Matt. 25:46).

4. The General Judgment is necessary in order:

(a) To vindicate God’s providence in the government of the world, and to disclose both the good and the evil that men have done, in order to reveal God’s justice, wisdom, and mercy. Man is a social, as well as an individual being; hence the necessity for a general, as well as a particular judgment.

On that day will men see how often God has granted them graces, and they have rejected them. Then will men see how much that took up time and thought on earth was folly in the eyes of God, and how what the world called nonsense and mocked was really heavenly wisdom. As St. Paul says: “We, for our part, preach a crucified Christ—to the Jews indeed a stumbling-block and to the Gentiles foolishness” (1 Cor. 1:23).

(b) To give the just the public honor due them, and the wicked the public shame they deserve, and to make the body share in the reward or punishment of the soul with which it shared good or evil on earth.

At the Last Judgment all our thoughts, words, and deeds, public and secret, will be made known to all creation. This fact should urge us to avoid anything and everything of which we should then be ashamed if made public. When we are tempted let us remember that the “hidden things of darkness” will be revealed on the last day.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
"It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God" (Heb. 10:31). Those who disobey God will be condemned to hell, a "place of torments" (Luke 16:28), and a "furnace of fire, where there will be the weeping and the gnashing of teeth" (Matt. 13:42). These damned souls will be plunged "into destruction and damnation" (I Tim. 6:9), "and the smoke of their torments goes up forever and ever; and they rest neither day nor night" (Apoc. 14:11). But the most terrible of torments will be the loss of the Beatific Vision—seeing God face to face—the greatest joy of the soul. "Depart from me, accursed ones" (Matt. 25:41).

83. The Torments of Hell

WHO ARE PUNISHED IN HELL?

Those are punished in hell who die in mortal sin; they are deprived of the vision of God and suffer dreadful torments, especially that of fire, for all eternity.

1. Christ Himself, in fifteen places in Holy Scripture, refers to the punishment of hell, the horrible abode of the wicked.

Scripture calls hell "a place of torments," "an unquenchable fire," "everlasting fire," "the bottomless pit," "everlasting punishment," "outer darkness."

2. All who die in mortal sin, even with only a single unrepented and unforgiven mortal sin, are sent to hell.

God is continually calling sinners to repentance. He instituted a Church to teach them the way to heaven. He instituted the sacrament of penance to cleanse from all sin the sinner. He stands as the loosing Father, awaiting with anxiety the return of the prodigal.

3. God does not wish to send anyone to hell. His only desire would be to have all His children with Him in the bliss of heaven. But He has made man free, given him the power to decide his own destiny. And He respects this freedom. The sinner freely turns away from God, from heaven.

Not one single sinner is sent to hell except by his own fault. No one is sent to hell unless he has wilfully, deliberately, and knowingly refused to obey the commands of God. We can truly say that the fetters of hell are of man's own fashioning. If a man is given a bright light, and he purposely blows it out, can he blame anyone else for the dark?

WHAT PAINS will the condemned suffer in hell?

The condemned in hell will suffer the pain of loss and the pain of sense.

But no one can ever describe or understand adequately the torments of hell, just as no one can realize the bliss of heaven.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
1. THE PAIN OF LOSS. The wicked in hell know what they rejected and lost: God. This pain will be the greatest torment of hell, for the human soul is made for God.

(a) They feel despair, remorse, envy, and hopelessness, because they know that they can never obtain the one thing needed for happiness: they can never see God.

The greater the value of what is lost, the greater is the pain of loss. But the sinners in hell have lost God, of infinite worth. Their pain of loss must be in proportion.

(b) Instead of God and the angels and saints, the sinners in hell have devils and loathsome criminals for eternal companions. Hell contains nothing good. St. Paul truly says: “It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God” (Heb. 10:31).

There is no love in hell. The damned hate God, hate each other, and hate themselves. St. Chrysostom says “Insoportable is the fire of hell—who doth not know it?—and its torments are awful; but if one were to heap a thousand hell-fires one on the other it would be as nothing compared with the punishment of being excluded from the blessed glory of heaven, of being hated by Christ, and of being compelled to hear Him say, ‘I know you not’.”

2. THE PAIN OF SENSE. The wicked will suffer from fire and the torments inflicted on all the senses, the sight, the hearing, the smell, the taste, the touch. After the resurrection, the bodies of the damned will suffer with their souls. In this life sinners sin by their senses. In the same way they will be punished in hell. “By what things a man sinneth, by the same he also is tormented.”

Christ calls hell an “unquenchable fire.” The sensation of burning is the greatest pain man can conceive of.

Christ calls hell “the outer darkness”; it is fire that gives no light, because in hell the damned never see God, the source of eternal light. Hell is the place where there is “weeping and gnashing of teeth,” where the “worm never dies.”

3. The punishment in hell is not the same for all. Each sinner will be punished according to the measure of his offenses.

Just as in heaven the bliss and glory of the saints differ, so in hell the torments and pains of the wicked differ. God is just; He will not punish a man who has committed only one mortal sin in the same measure that He punishes one who has lived a long life of wickedness.

4. The pains of hell will last for all eternity. If the punishment of hell were temporary, many sinners might prefer to gratify their passions on earth, no matter at what cost and penalty in hell, if it were to have an end. The fear of hell should urge us to lead a good life. Nothing on earth is worth one moment in hell; and do we choose to suffer it for all eternity?

“And the smoke of their torments goes up for ever and ever; and they rest neither day nor night” (Apoc. 14:11). Christ Himself said: “And if thy hand or thy foot is an occasion of sin to thee, cut it off and cast it from thee! It is better for thee to enter life maimed or lame, than, having two hands or two feet, to be cast into the everlasting fire” (Matt. 18:8).

IS IT NOT AGAINST GOD’S MERCY to punish souls in hell for all eternity?

No, because God’s justice demands it: He must punish the sinner.

1. The sinner is a traitor to God Who created him.

God created this world and all creatures. He owns them. They must therefore be absolutely obedient to His will. If a creature revolts and defies God, then he must be treated as an enemy.

2. It is the opinion of Doctors of the Church that no one in hell is punished as much as he deserves. God sent us His own beloved Son, to suffer incredible agonies and death, so that we may be saved from eternal damnation. Can such a God be anything but merciful?

We know the mercy of God. We know how glad He is to receive back the repentant sinner. We therefore know that He will not punish too severely, that whatever punishment He metes out will be just.

3. We should have no fear of hell if we do our duty. God will not send us to hell, unless we force Him.

Let us remember that our Judge will be Jesus Christ, Who so loved us that He died on the cross for us. He is more eager to pass a favorable sentence on us than we are to receive it. We should have confidence in Him, as little children. “The Son of Man did not come to destroy men’s lives, but to save them” (Luke 9:56). The Lord “is long-suffering, not wishing that any should perish, but that all should turn to repentance” (2 Peter 3:9).

Let us remember always to plead with God for our souls. We can refuse God, but God can never refuse us: on this account salvation is in our hands.
It is impossible to describe Paradise. Even St. Paul to whom heavenly bliss was revealed, could only say: "I know a man in Christ who fourteen years ago—whether in the body I do not know, or out of the body I do not know, God knows—such a one was caught up to the third heaven. And I know such a man—whether in the body or out of the body I do not know, God knows—that he was caught up into paradise and heard secret words that man may not repeat (2 Cor. 12:2-4). Eye has not seen nor ear heard, nor has it entered into the heart of man, what things God has prepared for those who love him" (1 Cor. 2:9).

84. Life Everlasting: Heaven

What do we mean by "LIFE EVERLASTING"?

By "life everlasting" we mean that there will be another existence after this present life, and in it the just will be happy for all eternity.

In that life the just will dwell in heaven with God, in perfect and everlasting happiness. Heaven is usually represented as a place, but it is essentially a state—the blissful union with God, with Christ (Phil. 1:23). Even when the Blessed Virgin Mary, for example, appears to men, she does not leave heaven, which she carries with her, in the state of her soul.

This is why the good and holy have a foretaste of heaven even here on earth, in the peace and joy they possess in their hearts. "And I saw the holy city . . . and I heard a loud voice from the throne saying,—'Behold the dwelling of God with men, and he will dwell with them. And they will be his people, and God himself will be with them as their God'" (Apoc. 21:2-3).

WHO ARE REWARDED IN HEAVEN?

Those are rewarded in heaven who have died in the state of grace and have been purified in purgatory, if necessary, from all venial sin and all debt of temporal punishment; they see God face to face, and share forever in His glory and happiness.

We do not obtain heaven without working for it. He that for God's sake has suffered most and given up most will get the greatest reward in heaven. "He who loves his life, loses it; and he who hates his life in this world, keeps it unto life everlasting" (John 12:25). As St. Paul says: "Through many tribulations we must enter the kingdom of God" (Acts 14:21).

1. The greatest joy of heaven is the Beatific Vision. This is the sight of God face to face. This vision is called beatific, because it completely fills with joy those who possess it. They know and love God to their utmost capacity, and are known and loved by God in return. The Beatific Vision will satisfy completely and supremely all our desires. Having God, we shall never wish for anything else. "One day with the Lord is as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day" (2 Peter 3:8).

On earth, even when we obtain the dearest desires of our heart, we can never be completely happy. "We see now through a mirror in an obscure manner; but then face to face. Now I know in part, but then I shall know even as I have been known" (1 Cor. 13:12). In heaven, "They have their fill of the prime gifts of your house; from your delightful stream you give them to drink" (Ps. 35:9).

2. The other joys and perfections of heaven will be numberless and of infinite variety. There will be neither sin, nor death, nor sorrow, nothing to cause trouble or affliction, nothing to mar the eternal bliss. "They shall neither hunger nor thirst any more, neither shall the sun strike them nor any heat... and God will wipe away every tear from their eyes" (Apoc. 7:16-17).

3. Our companions will be the most Holy Virgin Mary, the Angels and the Saints. We shall be reunited with those we have loved on earth, and we shall love them there more intensely. There will be no more separation. Whatever we have desired to know here on earth, we shall learn in heaven. All the mysteries of faith and science will be revealed. After the resurrection, we shall have our bodily senses in heaven, and by them relish joys unending.

"The sufferings of the present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory to come that will be revealed in us" (Rom. 8:18).

4. This bliss will last for all eternity. The joys of heaven will always delight. And we shall have no fear of their ending, for heaven will be everlasting. Eternity has no measure. It is like a circle: We can spend our whole life going around a circle, but we shall never find an end. Each part is only the beginning.

Eternity has no end. We can never have a proper conception of its duration, because we have nothing similar to eternity. Millions of ages are as nothing compared to eternity. If a bird were to carry away from the ocean one drop of water every thousand years, a time will come when it will have carried away the whole ocean. But that time is less than the shortest moment, if compared to eternity.

Will the bliss of heaven be THE SAME FOR ALL?

No, the bliss of heaven will not be the same for all.

1. The heavenly reward is given according to the goodness of the life each led on earth. In the same measure as we have loved God, He will reward us. However, each will be completely and supremely happy, because each will receive according to the fulness of his capacity. "There is one glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another of the stars" (1 Cor. 15:41).

In a similar way, if we fill a small glass and a great glass full to overflowing with water, one contains more than the other, yet neither can receive one more drop. Martyrs, Virgins, Doctors, that is, teachers of truth and religion, are promised a special joy and glory in heaven.

2. In the same way bodies, after joining the souls at the resurrection, will differ in brilliancy and beauty as star differs from star in glory, but all will be perfect.

Yet among the blessed there will be no envy. As St. Francis of Sales said: two children receive from their father each a piece of cloth to make a garment. The smaller child will not envy his brother the bigger garment, but will be quite satisfied with the one that fits him.

3. The degree of glory of the blessed in heaven will neither be added to nor diminished for all eternity. They will remain eternally happy.

"And night shall be no more, and they shall have no need of light of lamp, or light of sun, for the Lord God will shed light upon them; and they shall reign forever and ever" (Apoc. 22:5).

What is meant by the word "Amen," with which we end the Apostles’ Creed?

By the word "Amen," with which we end the Apostles’ Creed, is meant "So it is," or "So be it"; the word expresses our firm belief in all the doctrines that the Creed contains.

Our Lord often used the word "Amen," usually as a solemnly positive affirmation: "Amen, amen, I say to thee, unless a man be born again, he cannot see the Kingdom of God" (John 3:3). "Amen, amen, I say to you, you shall see heaven opened, and the angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of Man" (John 1:51).
PART II

WHAT TO DO:

THE COMMANDMENTS
OF GOD
OF THE CHURCH
1. Conscience is often called the voice of God within us. It bids us do what is right and avoid what is wrong. Cain, who lived long before the Ten Commandments were given to Moses, knew by his conscience that it was wicked to slay his brother.

2. When one is tempted to steal, one seems to hear a warning voice saying, "Do not steal. Theft is an offense against God." That is conscience.

85. God's Law, Conscience

Besides believing what God has revealed, what else must we do to be saved?

Besides believing what God has revealed, we must keep His law. "But if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments" (Matt. 19:17).

1. The law of God is contained in both natural and revealed law. Natural law is imprinted by God in the hearts and minds of all men. It teaches the most important rules of morality: homage due to God, treatment of others as we expect others to treat us, the evil of wilful injury to oneself, the virtue of truth and honesty. Thus natural law is a definite expression of God's will, requiring obedience.

For example, a child, or a pagan, who has never heard of the Ten Commandments, feels guilty when he does something wrong. He has an instinctive knowledge of the law of nature written by God in his heart, telling him what is right and what wrong.

2. Besides the natural law, there is the revealed law, chiefly composed of the Ten Commandments and the two precepts of charity. The revealed law is only a repetition and amplification of the natural law.

The Ten Commandments, which were given to the Jews through Moses, were not revoked by Jesus Christ; on the contrary they were amplified and fulfilled. "If you love me, keep my commandments" (John 14:15). "And by this we can be sure that we know him, if we keep his commandments. He who says that he knows him, and does not keep his commandments, is a liar and the truth is not in him" (1 John 2:3-4).

3. God's law—that divine reason and will of God—is perceived by men through the light of the intellect, by the voice of their conscience.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
WHAT IS CONSCIENCE?

Conscience is that judgment by which we decide here and now what we should do as good, or avoid as evil.

1. Conscience is often called the "voice of reason" or "voice of God," because it bids us to do right and avoid wrong. Cain, who lived a long time before Moses, knew that he had committed evil in slaying Abel. Even today, in pagan countries which have never heard of the commandments, men know right from wrong by their conscience. By it they know God Almighty; it bids them obey Him.

"The Gentiles, who have no law, do by nature what the Law prescribes. They show the work of the law written in their hearts. Their conscience bears witness to them" (Rom. 2:14-15).

2. If we always obey the dictates of our conscience, we shall never offend God. It arises from knowledge of the law, whether natural or revealed. Before any action, conscience speaks either in favor or against. After the action, according as we have followed or disregarded it, conscience fills us with peace or disquiet.

If a person is tempted to steal, he seems to hear an inward voice saying: "Do not steal. You know it is wrong to steal." This inward voice is conscience. Conscience tells us that God is our Lawgiver,—our Judge, Reward, and Avenger.

When is conscience ERRONEOUS?

Conscience is erroneous when we think that something right is wrong, or that something wrong is right.

1. An erroneous conscience arises from ignorance or a faulty knowledge of the law. As long as a person who has an erroneous conscience knows no better, he is not responsible for the evil he may do by following it.

For example, a child tells a lie in order to save his younger brother from punishment. He thinks his duty to protect his little brother is superior to the telling of the truth. He has an erroneous conscience, and in this case commits no sin. However, everyone is required to strive for a correct knowledge of the law by studying his religion. In that way he will form a correct or right conscience.

2. If a person with an erroneous conscience believes something right is wrong, and nevertheless does it, he is guilty of sin, because he has violated his conscience, and therefore will to do wrong.

A man may believe that God prohibits gambling in a lottery. If he nevertheless participates, he sins, because he has violated his conscience.

3. One has a doubtful conscience when one does not know whether something is right or wrong.

If one has a doubtful conscience, but yet must do something and cannot wait, he should say to himself that if he knew it was wrong, then he would not do it. Then even if he makes up his mind and does it, and it is really wrong, he is not guilty of sin.

What is a SCRPULOUS conscience?

A scrupulous conscience is a sick conscience that sees sin where there is none.

1. A scrupulous person looks on temptations as sins. We must not encourage a scrupulous conscience. It is a mark of lack of confidence in the goodness of God.

When a scrupulous person is tempted, he worries himself sick, believing he has committed sin, even when he has not yielded to the temptation one whit, even when he has actually abhorred it.

2. An unscrupulous or lax conscience is the opposite of a scrupulous conscience.

One with such a lax conscience convinces himself that man is too weak to resist sin, and so all sin is neglegible. "To err is human" is his constant motto.

A lax conscience is careless; it makes light of ordinary sins, and looks upon grave sins as negligible. After some time a lax conscience increases in laxness until the person loses practically all sense of wrong. Thus he becomes a habitual sinner. We then say that he has no conscience.

What is a DELICATE conscience?

A delicate conscience is one which impels us to avoid anything in the slightest degree evil.

We should be most careful to keep our conscience delicate. It is a terrible thing for one to live as if he had no conscience. It is a tender conscience that escapes such things as self-reproach, shame, remorse, disdain, and fear, because it is ever before God, Who gives it peace and hope.

A delicate conscience is the conscience that good Christians should cultivate. Then they will avoid anything displeasing to God.
The love of God causes us to hate sin and do good. Mary Magdalen (1) after her conversion, loved God fully. She hated sin so much that she never again committed any, although she had previously been a great sinner.

In the picture (2) is shown the child who, being told that Jesus is in the tobernacle, knocks to beg Him to make his father, an unbeliever, believe in God. Let us, in imitation of this child, knock at the heart of Jesus. He will answer our prayer.

86. The Great Commandments

Which are THE TWO great commandments that contain the whole law of God?

The two great commandments that contain the whole law of God are:

first, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, and with thy whole soul, and with thy whole mind, and with thy whole strength;

second, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.

WHO REVEALED TO US the two great commandments?

Our Lord Jesus Christ revealed to us the two great commandments.

Jesus said to him: “Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, and with thy whole soul, and with thy whole mind. This is the greatest and the first commandment. And the second is like it: Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself” (Matt. 22:36-39).

1. The love of God is the greatest commandment, because it includes all other commandments.

If we truly love God, we will do nothing to offend Him. We would not commit sin, because sin is displeasing to Him. We would obey all the commandments. Not only that; if we truly love Him, we will do things which He does not require, but which we know will please Him.

2. The two great commandments are inseparably united, so that one cannot be observed without the other. As Holy Scripture says, “If anyone says, I love God, and hates his brother, he is a liar” (1 John 4:20).

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The greater our love of God, the more we shall love our fellowmen. And the more zealously we help our fellowmen for God’s sake, the more perfectly we serve God. Our love of God can best be gauged by our love of neighbor.

3. More specifically, the first great commandment embraces the first three of the Ten Commandments; the second great commandment embraces the last seven.

The two great commandments affect and control all the powers of man: his will, his understanding, his emotions, and his actions. Would we not have a perfect world, needing no other laws, if all men obeyed these two commandments strictly? For this reason Our Lord said, “On these two commandments depend the whole Law” (Matt. 22:40).

WHY SHOULD WE LOVE GOD?

We should love God because:

1. He is infinitely good and perfect and worthy of love. “One there is who is good, that is God” (Matt. 19:17).

   We can see the goodness and perfection of God all around us. If we meditate on His goodness, we shall never tire of loving Him. We love our parents and friends because they are good. Their goodness is nothing compared to the goodness of God.

2. He loves us, and is always doing good to us. We only have to think of ourselves and our lives to find an innumerable number of favors He has granted us.

   “For God so loved the world that he gave his only-begotten Son, that those who believe in him may not perish, but may have life everlasting” (John 3:16). “With age-old love I have loved you; so I have kept my mercy toward you” (Jer. 31:3). “Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of Lights” (James 1:17).

3. He wants and commands us to love Him. We are God’s creatures. Is it not wonderful that He, the Infinite, should care for our love?

   Our Lord said very clearly; “Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, and with thy whole soul, and with thy whole mind, and with thy whole strength” (Mark 12:30).

When is our love of God PERFECT?

Our love of God is perfect when we love Him above all things, for His own sake.

1. We love God above all things when we would rather lose life, property, friends, and all things else, rather than offend Him; when we are ready to do anything in order to resemble Him, to give Him pleasure.

   “He who loves father or mother more than me, is not worthy of me” (Matt. 10:37). God permits us to love creatures, urges us to love our fellowmen; but such love must be subordinate to the love of God. He will not take second place in our affections. “For I, the Lord, your God am a jealous God” (Ex. 20:5). He will not permit us to love anything which detracts one whit from our complete love of Him.

2. We love God for His own sake when we love Him for His infinite perfection.

3. Our love of God is not perfect when we love Him only because He gives us gifts, or threatens us with punishment, or promises us heaven.

   Nevertheless, imperfect love of God is often the beginning of perfect love. Little by little perfect love develops from it.

How do WE PROVE our love of God?

We prove our love of God by obedience to His commandments. “If you love me, keep my commandments” (John 14:15).

1. We show our love more by deeds than by words. St. John says: “My dear children, let us not love in word, neither with the tongue, but in deed” (1 John 3:18).

   The love of God is not a mere delight in thinking of Him; it consists rather of an act of the will, to love a godly life on account of that love. However, the love of God also makes us speak and think of Him frequently, since it is a human trait to do so regarding the object of affection. One who loves God intensely is united with Him at every moment in every fiber of his being: in thought, word, and deed. “Where thy treasure is, there thy heart also will be” (Matt. 6:21).

2. We show greater love, when we not only avoid what God forbids, but do what will give Him pleasure.

   Thus God does not command us to go to Mass every day, but if we do so, He is pleased by this mark of our love.

3. We increase our love of God by loving Him. “Practice makes perfect.” The more we love Him, the more we can love Him. Every piece of good work we do makes us grow in God’s love.

   We show our love of God by accepting all that comes from His hand. One who habitually murmurs at all inconveniences, sickness and misfortune, does not possess Christian love of God, Who never promised us delivery from all earthly ills.
God commands us to love ourselves. We must thus care for both our body and our soul. Since the soul is far more precious than the body, we should give it more careful attention. Every day we must pray for grace to live according to God's most holy will. Care for the body includes taking proper treatment and medicine when we are ill (2). Anything against health violates the duty to love ourselves.

87. Love of Ourselves

WHY MUST WE LOVE OURSELVES?

We must love ourselves because:

Thus He made the love of self the measure of love for others. St. Augustine says: "Learn first to love God, then to love thyself, then thy neighbor as thyself." Each man is his own closest neighbor.

2. We are made after God's image. We must therefore reverence God's image in ourselves, just as we are bound to respect it in our neighbor, even our worst enemy.

3. We are redeemed by the blood of Christ. We are bought with a great price. We must be very precious in God's sight.

St. Peter says: "You were redeemed from the vain manner of life handed down from your fathers, not with perishable things, with silver or gold, but with the precious blood of Christ" (1 Pet. 1:18).

4. By the merits of Jesus Christ we are made children of God and temples of the Holy Spirit. Should we not love ourselves as such, if only to show reverence for God?

"Behold what manner of love the Father has bestowed upon us, that we should be called children of God, and such we are" (1 John 3:1). "Do you not know that your members are the temple of the Holy Spirit, who is in you? (1 Cor. 6:19).

5. We are destined to live eternally with God and the angels in heaven. This dignity should impel us to love ourselves aright.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The end of man is the glory of God and the salvation of his own soul. We must have care, love, of ourselves, in order to save ourselves for God. For this reason, we should even love ourselves more than others; we have a greater duty to ourselves than to others. This should not be interpreted, however, as meaning that we should not sacrifice ourselves for the sake of others; for, as we shall see, self-sacrifice is not only possible, but most desirable.

In what consists TRUE LOVE of self?

True love of self consists in avoiding sin and practicing virtue.

“Enter by the narrow gate. For wide is the gate and broad is the way that leads to destruction, and many there are who enter that way. How narrow the gate and close the way that leads to life! And few there are who find it” (Matt. 7:13-14).

1. We must first assure our eternal salvation, before we attend to earthly things which are but means to our last end.

   “Seek first the kingdom of God and his justice, and all these things shall be given you besides” (Matt. 6:33).

2. We should care more for our soul than for the ease of our body. If we lose our soul, we lose everything.

   We should provide for our bodily needs, such as food and clothing, but without excessive solicitude. They are only means by which we may ascend to God. “Martha, Martha, thou art anxious and troubled about many things; and yet only one thing is needful” (Luke 10:41-42).

3. It is against true love of self to strive only after earthly possessions and honors and neglect eternal salvation. “Take heed not to practice your good before men, in order to be seen by them; otherwise you shall have no reward with your Father in heaven” (Matt. 6:1). “For what does it profit a man if he gain the whole world, but suffer the loss of his own soul?” (Matt. 16:26).

   Earthly riches and honors are not to be used to gratify our senses, our pride, arrogance, conceit, or vanity, but only to help us go closer to God.

Does love of self INCLUDE LOVE OF THE BODY?

Love of self includes love of the body, for our body is a gift of God, that we should treat as such.

1. Our body is united with our soul, and is the soul’s instrument for good, for the attainment of our end, eternal happiness.

   As the instrument of the soul, the body must not be misused: “Therefore do not let sin reign in your mortal body... And do not yield your members to sin as weapons of iniquity, but present your members as weapons of justice for God” (Rom. 6:12-13).

2. We should have the greatest respect and reverence for our body. We should never defile it by sin, for it is destined to live forever in heaven.

   We should guard our eyes, ears, tongue, and hands carefully, because sin enters the soul by the five senses. Our body is the temple of the Holy Spirit. It is like a monstrosity holding God, the Blessed Trinity.

   Some people are very particular about keeping their body clean. But they are not so careful about avoiding sins that make their body so dirty that no disinfectant can purify it.

3. We do not love our body when we indulge it in vanity, or too much comfort, or by gratifying its every passion. By such indulgence, rather, we hate our body, because we bring upon it punishment.

   Good Christians mortify their bodies. That is how they understood the words of Our Lord: “For he who would save his life will lose it; but he who loses his life for my sake and for the Gospel’s sake will save it” (Mark 8:35).

Does true love of self also include care for one’s reputation and temporal goods?

True love of self also ordinarily includes care for one’s reputation and temporal goods.

1. A good reputation is a precious possession, useful for both time and eternity. By a good reputation one can do much good; being well thought of, he can be of influence over others, as well as more encouraged by himself to lead an upright life.

   Our Lord Himself said: “So let your light shine before men, in order that they may see your good works, and give glory to your Father in heaven” (Matt. 5:16). And the Apostle reiterates the same advice when he said, “Let your moderation be known to all men” (Phil. 4:5).

2. Temporal goods are useful as a means for obtaining spiritual riches. By them we can help the needy, promote religion, and gain ascendancy for the common good.

   As with our body and our reputation, we should use riches only for the glory of God and the welfare of ourselves and our fellowmen. When put to the right use, all these make us truly rich in the eyes of God. Then we shall have no fear at death, when God says to us, “Make an accounting of your stewardship (of all these gifts)” (Luke 16:2).
All human beings without distinctions of race, nationality, religion, riches, sex, age, or occupation are our "neighbor". Even enemies are our "neighbor"; only devils and souls in hell are not. Christ Himself taught us the love of our neighbor in the parable of the Good Samaritan, who took care of a stranger that had been robbed and left half dead by the wayside (Luke 10:29). "There is neither Jew nor Greek. . . . For you are all one in Christ Jesus" (Gal. 3:28).

88. Love of Our Neighbor

Why must we love OUR NEIGHBOR?

We must love our neighbor because:

1. God commands it. "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself" (Matt. 22:39). The love of our neighbor for the love of God, is strictly enjoined upon us. This is why Holy Scripture speaks of only one commandment of charity.

God looks upon acts of mercy towards others as acts of love towards Himself. "For I was hungry, and you gave me to eat; I was thirsty, and you gave me to drink; I was a stranger, and you took me in. . . . Amen I say to you, as long as you did it for one of these, the least of my brethren, you did it for me" (Matt. 25:35. 40). "If anyone says, I love God, and hates his brother, he is a liar" (1 John 4:20).

2. Our neighbor is a child of God, made after God’s image. God loves him so much that He died to redeem him.

God loves our neighbor as He loves us. God is preparing for him a place in heaven. If we love God, we shall love those whom He loves. “Have we not all the one Father? Has not the one God created us? Why then do we break faith with each other?” (Mal. 2:10).

3. Our neighbor is our brother. All human beings are descended from Adam and Eve. Our neighbor is our own brother, belonging to the same human family, destined for the same place of eternal happiness, heaven.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
We should be more especially united to Christians, because they are, like us, members of Christ’s body, the Church. Our Lord said: “By this will all men know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another” (John 13:35).

How should we love our neighbor?

We should love our neighbor as ourselves, for God’s sake.

1. To love our neighbor as ourselves means to have for him the same kind, although not the same degree of love that we have for ourselves. Jesus gave us the Golden Rule: “Even as you wish men to do to you, so also do you to them” (Luke 6:31).

The best way of knowing how to treat our neighbor is to put ourselves in his place. Our Lord Jesus Christ Himself, gave up His life that men may live: “Greater love than this no one has, that one lay down his life for his friends” (John 15:13).

2. It is not enough, in order to practice love of neighbor, to feel kind and affectionate towards him; our love must be practical, aimed at doing our neighbor good spiritually as well as materially.

“Let us not love in word, neither with the tongue, but in deed and in truth” (1 John 3:18). And St. James said, “If a brother or a sister be naked, and in want of daily food, and one of you say to them, ‘Go in peace, be ye warmed and filled’, yet you do not give them what is necessary for the body, what shall it profit?” (Jas. 2:15-16).

3. To love our neighbor for God’s sake means to love him as the child of God, that is, because he is loved by God and created for the eternal possession of God. This supernatural love is CHARITY. It does not exclude but includes love of him for his own sake, since he is a person whom Gods’ love has made lovable.

If we love a person because we expect from him some favor or advantage in return, we love him for our own sake. Our love is interested; it is not real love. Our Lord says: “If you love those who love you, what merit have you? For even sinners love those who love them” (Luke 6:32). “But when thou givest alms, do not let thy left hand know what thy right hand is doing, so that thy alms may be given in secret; and they Father, who sees in secret, will reward thee” (Matt 6:3-4).

If we love a person because he is attractive or kind, without any reference to God, we love him only for his own sake, and not for God’s. This is natural affection.

4. True love of God makes us love even disagreeable people, without reference to their love for us. It makes us love the poor, the sick, the unfortunate, the suffering, the repulsive, and even our enemies, just because God loves them, and wishes us to love them. Thus Christians of all ages have sacrificed themselves for charity.

St. Peter Claver, the “Apostle of the Negroes,” in Colombia, South America, became a slave of slaves for Christ’s sake. Priests, brothers and sisters are laboring in leper colonies, in constant danger of exposure to the disease. Others take care of other charitable institutions, with no hope of earthly reward, all for God’s love.

Should we give the same degree of love to all men?

No, we may, and should, love some more than others.

1. We should love our parents, brothers, sisters, relatives, friends, and benefactors best.

Husbands and wives must be most devoted to each other. Parents must sacrifice themselves for their children. We must love our country and countrymen in a special manner, because God gave them to us, but we must never hate or dislike people of other nationalities.

2. We must exercise great care in choosing our companions.

We should be kind to all, but not intimate with all. One rotten apple in a basket will rot all the rest in a short time; so an evil companion easily corrupts his associates.

What is the reward of those who unfailingly practice the precept of love of neighbor?

Those who unfailingly practice the precept of love of neighbor bring down blessings upon earth, and will obtain heaven as their eternal reward.

1. Our Lord called the precept of charity towards our neighbor a new commandment: “A new commandment I give you, that you love one another: that as I have loved you, you also love one another” (John 13:34).

This is because before Christ’s coming, people did not understand the precept of charity in the same sense that Our Lord gives it. If today men would closely fulfill that precept, what blessings would ensue! No one would wrong his fellowmen; there would be no need of prisons; there would be no extreme poverty; and peace would reign.

2. Love is the fulfilling of the law; and so one who loves his neighbor for the love of God is rewarded with heaven.

One who is good to his fellowmen cannot be a wicked sinner. He who practices charity has other virtues. Love cannot exist alone in the human heart, as the heart cannot exist without other organs.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Our enemies are those who hate us and seek to do us harm. Before he was converted and became the Apostle Paul, Saul was an enemy of the Christians; he persecuted them. But he who loves his enemy is like the first Christian martyr, St. Stephen, who gave us a striking example of love for enemies. When his enemies were stoning him to death, instead of wishing them ill, he prayed: "Lord, do not lay this sin against them" (Acts 7:60). He was called "a man full of the Holy Spirit".

89. Our Enemies and Our Friends

Why must we love OUR ENEMIES?

We must love our enemies because:

1. Christ commands it. Christ says: "Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, and pray for those who persecute and calumniate you" (Matt. 5:44). "If you do not forgive, neither will your Father in heaven forgive you" (Mark 11:26).

We must love our enemies for the same reasons and in the same manner we love our neighbor; for enemies as well as friends are our neighbors.

2. Christ has given us the supreme example. Our heavenly Father Himself gives us the example, for He makes the sun to shine on the just and the unjust alike. From the cross Our Lord prayed for His enemies: "Father, forgive them, for they do not know what they are doing" (Luke 23:34).

3. We ask God to forgive us. In the "Our Father" we say: "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us." Thus we ask God to treat us as we treat our enemies. If we do not forgive them, He will not forgive us.

"If you do not forgive men, neither will your Father forgive you your offenses" (Matt. 6:15). Can anything be clearer than these words of our Lord?

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
How do we show love for our enemies?

We show love for our enemies in many ways:

1. We should not take revenge on them. When Our Lord was reviled, He did not revile. Vengeance belongs to God, not to us. “Do not avenge yourselves, beloved, but give place to the wrath, for it is written, ‘Vengeance is mine; I will repay, says the Lord’” (Rom. 12:19).

Once a Samaritan village would not receive Jesus because He was a Jew. The Apostles becoming angry wished to call down fire from heaven. But Our Lord rebuked them, saying: “You do not know of what manner of spirit you are” (Luke 9:55). “And to him that strikes thee on the one cheek, offer the other also” (Luke 6:29).

2. We should return good for evil, avenging ourselves in God’s way, by doing good to those that hate us.

If we do good to our enemy instead of avenging ourselves, we put him to shame, and pacify him. “If thy enemy is hungry, give him food; if he is thirsty, give him drink; for by so doing, thou wilt heap coals of fire upon his head” (Rom. 12:20).

“Peter asked, ‘Lord, how often shall my brother sin against me and I forgive him? Up to seven times?’ Jesus said to him, ‘I do not say to thee seven times, but seventy times seven’” (Matt. 18:21-22).

3. If anyone offends us and comes to ask our pardon, we must receive him kindly, and not be proud or unforgiving. If we offend any one, we should beg his pardon at once.

“Do not let the sun go down upon your anger” (Eph. 4:26). We are never sure of waking up again from sleep, therefore let us always be at peace in conscience by being at peace with all.

4. When we are seriously injured, as in our property, honor, or reputation, we are not forbidden to claim our just rights before lawful authority. Often justice requires us to do this, in order to prevent greater abuses.

Forgiveness of our enemy does not require intimate association. It is enough that we treat him with civility, and help him if he is in need.

5. Love of enemies is a duty of nations, as well as of individuals. Nations should never go to war, except as a last resort, to protect themselves and their just rights; war must never be from motives of revenge.

But cruelty in war is sinful. Soldiers must not treat brutally those who are disabled in battle; they must not attack non-combatants.

6. These are some practical ways of loving our enemies: to pray for them; to respect their rights; to avoid uncharitable thoughts and words about them; to show good manners towards them; to do them a good turn whenever possible.

We should be most careful not to form a habit of faultfinding or backbiting, however much we are provoked. “See that no one renders evil for evil to any man; but always strive after good towards one another and towards all men” (1 Thess. 5:15).

How should we love OUR FRIENDS?

We should love our friends loyally, and in the sight of God.

1. True friendship is always based on the love of God. If based on selfish or wrong motives, it is false friendship that results in ruin for those indulging in it.

One who hates God can never make a true and good friend. Relations based on pleasure or selfish gain, or some evil purpose, cannot be termed friendship. Such relations, unlike true friendship, disappear or turn bitter with the advent of misfortune.

2. For a model of true friendship we should take Our Lord’s friendship for His apostles, and especially for His favorite apostles, John, Peter, and James. Other particular friends of Jesus were Lazarus and his sisters Mary and Martha.

A sign of true friendship is the mutual support each gives to the other, the confidence each reposes in the other, the kindly correction each feels free to give the other.

3. We should look upon our true friends as one of our most precious possessions. As Holy Scripture says: “A faithful friend is beyond price, no sum can balance his worth” (Sirach 6:15).

“Blessed is he that findeth a true friend” (Ecclus. 25:12). Such a friend adds to our happiness, and helps us in times of difficulties material and spiritual.

4. We must, however, be careful in the choice of friends, making sure that those with whom we form friendships will be good for us. It is not advisable to adopt friends rashly or too quickly, on the spur of the moment, because of some temporary attraction or sympathy.

How many people have been ruined on account of the company they have kept! We must never have as friends those who would destroy in us the friendship of God, by causing us to sin.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
90. Works of Mercy

WHAT MUST WE DO TO LOVE God, our neighbor, and ourselves?

To love God, our neighbor, and ourselves, we must keep the commandments of God and of the Church, and perform the spiritual and corporal works of mercy.

Spiritual works of mercy are those that relieve spiritual needs of our neighbor. Corporal works of mercy are those that relieve corporal or material needs of our neighbor. "Therefore, all that you wish men to do to you, even so do you also do to them" (Matt. 7:12).

The Seven Corporal Works of Mercy:

1. To feed the hungry.

Never turn away anyone who is hungry, specially if poor, old or disabled. Those in authority should try to prevent unemployment. Giving work is the best means for removing the necessity of feeding the unemployed.

St. Louis of France provided daily food to the poor, and often served them himself. Many charitable people today, especially the religious institutions, feed the hungry. Lay people can help out best by giving work to all they can afford to help; work is better for the able-bodied than direct alms-giving.

2. To give drink to the thirsty.

Our Lord says that a cup of water given in His name shall not lose His reward (Mark 9:40). Those who construct reservoirs, or purify public drinking water, are giving drink to the thirsty.

3. To clothe the naked.

Give clothes to the needy and poor, help mothers of large families mend clothes, take part in drives for used clothing. The story of St. Martin, giving half his cloak to a beggar, exemplifies this work of mercy.
4. To visit the imprisoned.

Visit prisoners in jail and detention homes, console and help their families, and provide assistance for legal cases of poor families.

In the Middle Ages the Order of Ransom was founded for the ransom of Christians held captive by the Turks. It is said that more than a million Christians were thus ransomed, either with money, or by others taking their place. In the 19th century Cardinal Lavagerie established the Order of the White Fathers, aimed at freeing slaves in Africa.

5. To shelter the homeless.

Give shelter and hospitality in cases of fire and disaster. Provide clean and comfortable homes for poor refugees and orphans. St. Paul said: "Do not forget to entertain strangers; for thereby some have entertained angels unawares" (Heb. 13:2). In olden times travelers stopped for the night or for food in the monasteries. In the Alps, the monks of St. Bernard perform this work of mercy when they rescue, with the aid of their famous breed of dogs, travelers who have met with accidents.

6. To visit the sick.

Visit, console and give relief to the sick and very old. Provide medical assistance, medicines and proper food. To build, support, or aid a hospital or a patronage for the sick is a most meritorious act of charity. Doctors and nurses who perform their duties to please God will be rewarded in heaven. Several religious orders have been founded for the express purpose of taking care of the sick, such as the orders founded by Sts. John of God and Vincent de Paul.

7. To bury the dead.

Attend a funeral, visit a home in mourning, aid the bereaved family.

Other corporal works of mercy are: helping out during a fire or accident, rescuing one in danger of death, etc. Every word or act done in the name of or for the sake of Christ is a work of mercy, and will be rewarded.

The Seven Chief Spiritual Works of Mercy:

1. To admonish the sinner.

Whenever we think our words may have a good effect, we should not hesitate to admonish the erring prudently. Those in authority, such as parents and teachers, are bound to admonish those under them of their faults, even if in doing so they bring trouble upon themselves. Good example is another way of admonition.

In admonishing, we must do so with gentleness and charity. Otherwise we might only produce results the opposite of what we wish. It would be wrong, if with a little trouble we could save a sinner from sin, did we not speak to save him; it would, moreover, be a loss of great grace for ourselves, "He who causes a sinner to be brought back from his misguided way, will save his soul from death, and will cover a multitude of sins" (James 5:20).

2. To instruct the ignorant.

Missionaries, catechists, confessors, Christian writers and teachers—all who teach religion or other useful knowledge—are doing an important work of mercy, and will receive a reward. "Those who lead the many to justice shall be like the stars forever" (Dan. 12:3). Those who collect money for foreign missions do this work of mercy.

3. To counsel the doubtful.

We should be most zealous in helping those whom a word may save or aid. How happy we should be if the word we say helps a doubtful one to become firm in his faith!

As in admonishing sinners, advising the doubtful should be done prudently and gently to effect good results. It is seldom effective to rush into heated argument. Let us pray first before giving counsel.

4. To comfort the sorrowful.

We can comfort the afflicted by showing them sincere sympathy, by suggesting consolations, and by helping them in their need.

To comfort the sorrowful is a work of mercy similar to curing the sick, since grief is a mental and emotional ailment. To give comfort, we may speak of God's providence, of His love for every single one of His creatures, of the happiness He reserves for us in heaven, when all earthly sorrows and troubles will be ended.

5. To bear wrongs patiently.

By being patient with injustice, we benefit both ourselves and our fellow-man. Our patience helps him realize his wrong-doing. It is, however, wrong to permit others to falsely lay a serious crime to our charge. But let us be patient, for love of God.

6. To forgive all injuries.

We must not seek revenge. "Vengeance is mine, I will repay, says the Lord" (Rom. 12:19). We must forgive others, as we hope God will forgive us. Instead of seeking revenge, those who wish to imitate the saints go out of their way to do favors to those who injure them. Like Christ, they love all men.

7. To pray for the living and the dead.

We may not see the effects of our prayers, but God sees. Not one single prayer raised to God from a sincere heart is wasted. "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of." Prayers do good not only to those we pray for, but to ourselves.
"Take heed not to practise your good before men, in order to be seen by them; otherwise you shall have no reward with your Father in heaven" (Matt. 6:1). The widow's mite had more value in the eyes of God than the gold that the rich poured ostentatiously into the Temple's coffers. Everything done for the service of our neighbor may be considered almsgiving. Everything spent in good works is lent to God, Who will return it with interest: "Come, blessed of my Father . . . Amen, I say to you, as long as you did it for one of these, the least of my brethren, you did it for me . . . As long as you did not do it for one of these least ones, you did not do it for me" (Matt. 25:34, 40, 45).

91. Obligation of Good Works

Is every one OBLIGED TO PERFORM the works of mercy?

Every one is obliged to perform the works of mercy, according to his own ability and the need of his neighbor.

By the works of mercy we put into practice the commandments of God completely, not merely avoiding sin, but doing good to others. Our obligation of good works varies with our condition in life and our vocation, as also with the degree of need of our neighbor. The obligation of a millionaire for the poor of his city is not the same as that of a wage-earner; neither is the duty of a bishop for good works the same as that of a layman.

1. It is a most serious obligation to give alms to the needy according to one's means.

If material or corporal alms or works of mercy are not within our means, we can always give spiritual alms: prayers, etc. "Every tree therefore that is not bringing forth good fruit is to be cut down and thrown into the fire" (Matt. 3:10). "Faith without works is useless" (Jas. 2:20).

One who does no works of mercy fails to comply with the precept of love of neighbor. As St. Ambrose said to the stingy rich of his time: "The walls of your dwellings are hung with magnificent tapestry, while you strip the clothes off the poor man's back. A beggar is at your door pleading for a small alms; you do not even glance at him as you debate within yourself what kind of marble to use for the pavements of your palaces. The diamond you wear on your finger is sufficient to feed a multitude!"

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
2. He who performs the works of mercy in order to obtain the praise of others does not practice virtue, for his intention is not of God. Even poor people can do works of mercy, because what counts before God is not the amount we give, but the good will with which we give what we can afford.

"If I distribute all my goods to feed the poor, and if I deliver my body to be burned, yet do not have charity, it profits me nothing" (1 Cor. 13:3). This "charity" St. Paul speaks of is nothing but the pure love of God and neighbor; it excludes all vanity.

3. In doing the works of mercy, we should not be moved by the hope that we shall receive an earthly reward. Hence we should do good preferably to those who cannot repay us: "When thou givest a feast, invite the poor, the crippled, the lame, the blind; and blessed shalt thou be, because they have nothing to repay thee with; for thou shalt be repaid at the resurrection" (Luke 14:13).

"When thou givest alms, do not let thy left hand know what thy right hand is doing, so that thy alms may be given in secret, and thy Father, who sees in secret, will reward thee" (Matt. 6:3-4). This does not mean, however, that we should always keep our good works in secret, for Our Lord Himself advised, "So let your light shine before men in order that they may see your good works, and give glory to your Father in heaven" (Matt. 5:16). If what we do will give good example, we should let it be known, but always with true modesty.

4. We ought to give material alms only to those really poor or unable to get work. It would be wrong to support people in idleness or vice; this would be to encourage them in sin. But if we have no means of finding out about the poor who beg our aid, it is much better to err on the side of charity than miserliness.

Quite a number of people give as an excuse for not giving alms the fact that many beggars are "fakes" who amass wealth by begging. It is, however, true, that such fakes cannot be of a considerable number, and that the people who most often excuse themselves do not give to anybody at all. Is not God generous to us? Let us imitate His example.

What are some PRACTICAL WAYS OF ALMSGIVING?

Some practical ways of almsgiving are: to give help to our poor relatives, those in want, the Church, and charitable institutions.

1. In works of charity, we should give preference to our relatives, to our fellow Catholics, to our friends.

"Charity begins at home." It is not edifying to see well-known figures in public charities. Turn away a poor cousin who begs for some help to send his little child to school. This would very likely mean that the public charities done by such people are so done only for show, not from kindness of heart.

2. The Church may be helped by giving alms to its missions, schools, orphan asylums, and homes for the poor.

Even children should be trained early to give alms by setting aside every week a small sum from their pocket-money. "By this will all men know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another" (John 13:35).

3. In these times, there are many organizations conducted by the government or by laymen to aid particular groups of the poor.

In contributing to such organizations, we should exercise prudent care. God will certainly reward abundantly those generous and unknown contributors who prefer that only God should know of their charities. However, when it may be possible, we should not neglect entirely personal charity as visiting the poor in their dwellings, finding out what they really need, giving them comfort and aid directly.

Are all the ordinary deeds done every day to relieve the corporal or spiritual needs of others true works of mercy?

All the ordinary deeds done every day to relieve the corporal or spiritual needs of others are true works of mercy, if done in the name of Christ.

"And before him will be gathered all the nations, and he will separate them one from another. . . Then the king will say to those on his right hand, 'Come, blessed of my Father, take possession of the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world; for I was hungry and you gave me to eat: I was thirsty and you gave me to drink; I was a stranger and you took me in; naked and you covered me; sick and you visited me; I was in prison and you came to me.' Then the just will answer him, saying, 'Lord, when did we see thee hungry and feed thee; or thirsty, and give thee drink? And when did we see thee a stranger, and take thee in; or naked, and clothe thee? Or when did we see thee sick, or in prison, and come to thee?' And answering, the king will say to them, 'Amen I say to you, as long as you did it for one of these, the least of my brethren, you did it for me'" (Matt. 25:32-40).

If in all our works we remember and love God, we have the supernatural motive.
92. The Commandments of God

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS OF GOD:

1. I, the Lord, am your God. You shall not have other gods besides me (Ex. 20:2-3).

2. You shall not take the name of the Lord, your God, in vain (Ex. 20:7).

3. Remember to keep holy the Sabbath day (Ex. 20:8-9).

4. Honor your father and your mother (Ex. 20:12).

5. You shall not kill (Ex. 20:13).

6. You shall not commit adultery (Ex. 20:14).

7. You shall not steal (Ex. 20:15).

8. You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor (Ex. 20:16).

9. You shall not covet your neighbor’s wife (Ex. 20:17).

10. You shall not covet your neighbor’s house (Ex. 20:17).

BY WHOM WERE the ten commandments GIVEN?

The ten commandments were given by Almighty God, Who first gave them to Moses on Mount Sinai.

1. In the third month after the Israelites had left Egypt, they arrived near Mount Sinai. God called Moses and told him He would appear to the people. On the third day there was thunder and lightning, and a trumpet sounded.

Moses took the Israelites to the foot of the mountain, which shook violently and smoked like a furnace. The trumpet blew louder. Then God spoke from the clouds. But the Israelites were afraid, and begged Moses to pray God not to speak to them.

2. Moses went up Mount Sinai to talk with God. God gave him two tablets of stone, on which were carved the ten commandments. On coming down from the mountain, Moses found the Israelites ador-ing a golden calf, made out of the gold from their jewelry. In his anger Moses threw down the tablets of stone and broke them. Later, Moses again went up Mount Sinai. God told him to make two new tablets; on these Moses wrote the commandments.

The two tablets, which are called the Tables of Law, were later placed in the Ark of the Covenant, and the Ark was kept in the Tabernacle. When Solomon built the Temple, the Ark was placed in the innermost part, called the "Holy of Holies." Both Ark and Tables disappeared with the destruction of the Temple and fall of Jerusalem, 587 B.C.

In the enumeration of the commandments of God to be found in the Books of Moses, are the commandments definitely divided into ten? In the enumeration of the commandments of God to be found in the Books of Moses, there is no definite numerical division, although the injunctions are distinctly tenfold.

1. The Catholic enumeration of the ten commandments differs from some of the Protestant enumerations. The Catholic division was in use in England till the Protestant revolt; it is still used by most Lutheran churches.

The Catholic system is based on the Hebrew text, and principally on the enumeration made by St. Augustine; it was adopted by the Council of Trent. By it, the first commandment contains everything relating to false worship and false gods. The tenfold division is safeguarded by dividing the last precept regarding desire into one relating to sins of the flesh, and another referring to sins against property, just as acts against purity are forbidden separately from acts against property.

The English Protestant enumeration is based on Origen and others. By it, the worship of graven images is numbered as the Second Commandment, and all the succeeding commandments thereby are advanced one over the Catholic enumeration. To safeguard the tenfold division, the last two commandments are grouped together as the Tenth.

2. The ten commandments are arranged in logical order to embrace all laws necessary for the enforcement of the two precepts of charity, the two great commandments of love of God and love of neighbor. The first three commandments comprise our duty towards God. The first commandment requires adoration and loyalty; the second requires reverence; the third requires formal service, the sanctification of a day for the exclusive honor of God.

The last seven commandments comprise our duty to ourselves and our fellowmen. The fourth commandment contains our duties towards our parents and superiors, as representatives of God. Conversely, the commandment also contains the duties of superiors towards their subordinates. The fifth commandment assures the protection of life; the sixth, of purity; the seventh, of property; the eighth, of reputation and honor; and the ninth and tenth of domestic life.

ARE WE OBLIGED TO OBEY the commandments of God?

We are strictly obliged to obey the commandments of God.

1. God has imprinted the substance of the ten commandments in the human heart and mind, and they have therefore binding force. Even if they had never been revealed, we should still be obliged to keep them, for they are dictated by reason, and taught by natural law.

While it is true that reason does not tell us to sanctify Saturday or Sunday, it certainly requires us to keep some day or days holy, to give exclusive honor to our Creator.

2. Our Lord Jesus Christ confirmed the ten commandments and laid them upon us in more complete form.

Christ reiterated the ten commandments when speaking to the rich young man (Matt. 19:18), and in the sermon on the mount. On various occasions He explained several of them separately. "I say to you, till heaven and earth pass away, not one jot or one tittle shall be lost from the Law, till all things have been accomplished" (Matt. 5:18-19).

3. We should gladly keep the Commandments, because God wishes and orders us to do so. It is the way to serve Him. If we keep the Commandments, we show by our acts that we love God, and so serve Him.

SHOULD WE BE SATISFIED MERE-LY to keep the commandments of God?

We should not be satisfied merely to keep the commandments of God, but should always be ready to do good deeds, even when they are not commanded. The ten commandments of God state the minimum requirements for salvation.

If we truly love our parents and friends, we do not wait to be commanded to do what will please them. God is not only our best Friend but He is our Father; if we really love Him, we would do what we know He likes, without being ordered to do so by His commandments. We would do little extra things, good works, sacrifices, all as an offering of love for Him.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
To test Abraham, God ordered him to sacrifice his beloved son Isaac. In perfect obedience Abraham was on the point of sacrificing Isaac (1), when an angel appeared and stopped him, saying that God was satisfied with his obedience.

St. Stephen, the first Christian martyr, is an excellent example of charity (2). He prayed for his enemies while they were stoning him to death.

93. The First Commandment

"I, the Lord, am your God. You shall not have other gods besides me" (Ex. 20:2-3).

WHAT ARE WE COMMANDED by the first commandment?

By the first commandment we are commanded to offer to God alone the supreme worship that is due Him.

1. The first commandment requires us to worship and adore God, and God alone. We must render God exclusive adoration. He alone is the creator and sovereign Lord of heaven and earth. We worship and adore Jesus Christ, because He is the Second Person of the Blessed Trinity, true God even as the Father and the Holy Ghost. This commandment forbids idolatry, false worship.

"It is written, the Lord thy God shalt thou worship, and him only shalt thou serve" (Matt. 4:10). We adore God because He is infinitely exalted above us, and we are entirely dependent on Him as our Creator and our Father.

2. Exterior as well as interior worship is due to God, because our bodies, as well as our souls, belong to Him. Very often exterior acts serve to arouse and increase interior devotion.

Our worship is interior when we adore God by inward acts of the heart and mind, such as acts of faith and love, without visible manifestations. Our worship is exterior when we accompany our interior worship by outward acts, such as vocal prayers and genuflections.

Without interior worship or devotion, external manifestations are worthless. "Hypocrites, well did Isaias prophesy of you, saying: This people honors me with their lips, but their heart is far from me" (Matt. 15:7-8).

3. We should render particular worship to God upon arising and retiring, on entering a church, during religious services, and when receiving the sacraments.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
However, it should be our aim to worship God every moment of our lives, by consecrating ourselves and our intentions all to Him each day. Even while working, we should once in a while pause to give a thought of love to God, and offer ourselves to Him.

4. Adoration of God includes public worship, that is, worship in which a number of persons participate. From the earliest times, God has given commands about public worship to be rendered to Him. Public worship edifies and gives good example to the different participants, so that they are encouraged to greater love of God. In public worship, we show ourselves a united body openly manifesting by visible signs our adoration of God.

Public worship is rendered to God very specially during the offering of the holy Sacrifice of the Mass. Some signs of public worship are kneeling, genuflecting, making the sign of the cross, vocal and community prayers, singing of hymns, and sermons. A magnificent example of public worship is an international eucharistic congress.

5. We should honor and reverence creatures who reflect the perfections of God. Thus we venerate saints, and honor and love persons on earth; but we do not adore them.

HOW DO WE WORSHIP GOD?

We worship God by acts of the virtues of faith, hope, charity, and religion.

1. True piety and adoration of God do not include a gloomy manner, a melancholy expression, and a hard exterior. True piety is cheerful, full of joy. “Serve God with gladness” (Ps. 99:2).

They are mistaken who think that a forbidding demeanor, continual groaning and sighings and weeping are pleasing to God. They only serve to repel others. We should remember that of all creatures, God loves most an innocent child. We shall not be mistaken in practices if we imitate him.

2. In our devotions we should avoid all singularity and exaggerations; these only make piety ridiculous and subject it to contempt. All devotions of extraordinary character, such as praying with outspread or upraised arms, should be done in private.

Some kinds of singularity, if shown in public, may do harm rather than good, and may cause our religion to be looked upon with contempt. It would be out of place, for example, to kneel down and pray on the street upon hearing the Angelus bell while walking there.

What does FAITH oblige us to do?

1. To make efforts to find out what God has revealed. If one is ignorant of his religion, he must seek instruction. Parents are strictly forbidden to send their children to anti-Catholic schools.

It is forbidden to read, print, lend, give or sell, books or periodicals against faith or morals.

2. To believe firmly what God has revealed. We worship God by faith when we firmly believe all the truths God has revealed.

Once we are sure God has revealed something, we must believe it. Faith does not require us to believe anything contrary to reason. Even if we cannot understand what is revealed, like the mystery of the Blessed Trinity, we act according to reason in believing it, for our reason tells us God cannot err, lie, or deceive nor be deceived.

3. To profess our faith openly whenever necessary. We are obliged to do so when we are challenged to make profession of it, or when an omission to do so would harm our neighbor or bring religion into contempt, or when we are questioned by lawful authority. We must never deny our faith.

Our Lord says: “Therefore everyone who acknowledges me before men, I also will acknowledge him before my Father in heaven” (Matt. 10:32).

What does HOPE oblige us to do?

Hope obliges us to trust firmly that God will give us eternal life and the means to obtain it.

We worship God by hope when we firmly trust that God, Who is almighty and faithful to His promises, will help us attain eternal happiness. “My trust is in the Lord” (Ps. 39:7).

What does CHARITY oblige us to do?

Charity obliges us to love God above all things because He is infinitely good, and to love our neighbor as ourselves for the love of God.

We worship God by charity when we love Him above all things for His own sake, and others as ourselves for love of Him.

What does RELIGION oblige us to do?

Religion obliges us: to acknowledge God’s infinite perfection, our complete dependence upon Him, our utter subjection to His will; and to render Him due worship with all our faculties and acts of body, intellect, and will—adoring Him and praying to Him.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
We pay special honor to the Blessed Virgin because she is the Mother of God, and our Mother. God has exalted her above all other creatures. Her intercession is more powerful with God than that of any other saint. No man refuses his mother a favor; so God does not refuse any request of Mary. Christ even worked his first miracle in advance of His time, because Mary asked Him. Let us all love and honor the Blessed Virgin, for she is our Mother, whom Christ Himself gave us from the cross.

94. Veneration of Saints

Does the first commandment FORBID US TO HONOR THE SAINTS IN HEAVEN?

The first commandment does not forbid us to honor the saints in heaven, provided we do not give them the honor that belongs to God alone.

Devotion to the Blessed Virgin Mary, and veneration of the saints, are not opposed to the commandment to adore God alone. We do not worship the saints; we only honor them as the special friends and servants of God. We adore God alone.

1. By venerating the saints we honor God Himself, Who is the cause of their holiness. Without the help of God, they would not have done anything holy. We do not adore saints. Should we not reverence those who reflect God's perfections? So we venerate the saints. Similarly we honor outstanding persons on earth; but we do not adore them.

We give to God the supreme honor and adoration, called latria. We render the saints our veneration, called dulia. To the Blessed Virgin we give special veneration, called hyperdulia, because she is above all angels and saints as the Mother of God. But even the Blessed Virgin we do not and cannot adore. However saintly, not all the saints and angels together can approach the infinite holiness of God.

2. A person who died in the grace of God and is already in heaven is a saint. In the strict sense of the term, a saint is one solemnly declared by the Church to be in heaven, and may be given public veneration.

Before a person is declared a saint, rigid proof is required of a life of heroic virtue. Inquiry is made into his life, virtues, and writings. The process goes through three stages which, if satisfactory, end in papal declarations for three degrees, with titles given of Venerable, Blessed, and Saint.
3. To one whose martyrdom or heroic virtue has been proved, the title Venerable is given; he may be accorded no public veneration. If the inquiry continues, this second stage is the process of beatification; ending successfully, it grants the person the title Blessed, with a limited public veneration.

The cause for beatification is not opened unless the holiness of the person is outstanding and ascertained by competent authority, or unless the miracles worked are of an extraordinary character. Proof is required of at least two miracles worked at his intercession: these are unquestioned signs of God’s approval.

4. If formal investigation proceeds into the third stage, that is the process of canonization. If satisfactory, it ends with a papal declaration giving the title Saint, with public veneration in the universal Church.

For canonization proof is required of at least two additional miracles, subsequently worked by the beatified one. Canonization does not make a saint; it surely is not a permission for entrance into heaven. It is merely an official declaration by the Church that a person is already in heaven, worthy of public veneration and imitation. It is a formal proclamation of the state of a deceased person.

WHY DO WE HONOR the saints in heaven?

We honor the saints in heaven because they practiced great virtue when they were on earth, and because in honoring those who are the chosen friends of God, we honor God Himself.

If we are eager to show honor to earthly royalty, how much more should we honor the saints of God, princes of heaven! If we ask for prayers of our fellowmen on earth, how much more eager should we be to ask the saints, our friends in heaven!

We can HONOR THE SAINTS:

1. By imitating their holy lives. The highest honor we can pay them is to imitate their virtues.

The saints are models presented by the Church before our eyes so that we may know how to live according to the desires of God.

2. By praying to them. We honor them by praising them in word and song, and asking for their intercession.

We may pray in private to anyone who we believe is either in heaven or purgatory. But we are forbidden to give public veneration to anyone who is not beatified or canonized.

3. By showing respect to their relics and images, and by celebrating their feasts and taking them as our patrons and models.

When we pray to the saints, WHAT DO WE ASK THEM TO DO?

When we pray to the saints we ask them to offer their prayers to God for us.

1. This is what we call the “intercession” of the saints. If we are grateful for the intercession of a friend before an earthly superior, how much more so should we be for the intercession of saints before God!

How many times have the saints obtained favors from God for men? And God likes this intercession: as He said, He would not destroy Sodom for the sake of ten just men (Gen. 18:32).

2. Experience has proved that much is gained by invoking certain saints in times of special need. It appears that God has given to individual saints powers to help us in special needs.

Thus we invoke St. Joseph as the patron of a happy death; St. Anthony when we have lost anything; St. Blaise for diseases of the throat, etc. Many wonderful answers to prayer lead to the belief that the saints take particular interest in persons whose circumstances are the same as theirs were on earth.

HOW DO WE KNOW that the saints will pray for us?

We know that the saints will pray for us, because they are with God and have great love for us.

1. The saints in heaven are, with us, members of the Church, of one body belonging to Christ. “So we, the many, are one body in Christ, but severally members one of another” (Rom. 12:5).

2. The Church omits no opportunity to urge us to the veneration of saints. At Baptism we receive the name of a saint. Each day of the year one or more saints are commemorated. Images and pictures of the saints are placed in the churches. Saints are invoked in the Mass, the litanies, and other public prayers.

The Church worships God, and honors the saints as friends and servants of God. So churches and altars are dedicated and consecrated to God alone although named after saints and placed under their protection. The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass is offered to God alone, although it may be celebrated in memory of the saints. In praying, we say to God, “Have mercy on us,” but to the saints, “Pray for us,” just as we would say it to a dear friend.
The true cross was found by St. Helena, mother of the emperor Constantine the Great in the year 326. Her workmen, digging on Mount Calvary in search of the true cross of Christ, found three crosses. Two of the crosses were applied without result to a very sick woman. As soon as the third cross touched her, she was instantly cured. The adoration of the Cross on Good Friday is part of the Holy Week devotions. The Feast of the Exaltation of the Cross is kept on September 14.

95. Relics and Images

WHY DO WE HONOR RELICS?

We honor relics because they are the bodies of the saints, or objects connected with the saints or with Our Lord.

In a similar manner we preserve with reverence certain objects connected with our great men—a sword, a coat, or books.

1. Remains of the bodies of saints, the Cross on which Our Lord died, the nails that crucified Him, are all relics. The clothes and furniture used by the saints are also held as relics.

Only those relics are authentic to which the name of the saint and the episcopal seal are attached; relics cannot be sold. God has often shown His approval of the use of relics by working miracles by means of them. "When it had touched the bones of Eliseus, the man came to life" (4 Kings 13:21).

2. Relics deserve to be venerated. The bodies of the saints were temples of the Holy Spirit, and instruments by which God worked.

God shows His approval of the veneration of relics by working frequent miracles at their application. "God worked more than the usual miracles by the hand of Paul; so that even handkerchiefs and aprons were carried from his body to the sick, and the diseases left them and the evil spirits went out" (Acts 19:12).

However, no Catholic is requested to believe in miracles like the one of the blood of St. Januarius, kept in a vial at Naples, that liquefies several times a year for certain periods. In a like manner, he is not obliged to believe in private revelations as those of Lourdes and Fatima.

3. We honor relics when we preserve them with reverence, visit the places where they are deposited, pray before them, etc.

Honor has been paid to relics from the earliest days of Christianity. When St. Ignatius, Bishop of Antioch, was thrown to the lions, two of his companions came by night and gathered up his bones. When St. Polycarp was burned alive, the Christians collected his ashes for veneration.
4. Most prized of all relics are relics of Christ's Passion, particularly of the cross on which He died.

Some scoff at the relics of the cross, saying that there are too many to be genuine. But if all known pieces were put together, they would make a block only about 1/6 of a cubic foot. Today the twelve most famous portions of the true Cross range from 6.33 cubic inches to 93 cubic inches. The largest are to be found in Jerusalem, Brussels, Ghent, and Rome. Particles venerated are very small.

IS IT RIGHT TO SHOW RESPECT to the statues and pictures of Christ and of the saints?

It is right to show respect to the statues and pictures of Christ and of the saints, just as it is right to show respect to the images of those whom we love on earth.

We cherish photographs of our family and friends. We cherish and honor our National Flag, because of the cloth out of which it is made, but because of what it represents. In a similar manner we respect sacred statues and pictures.

1. The honor we pay sacred images and pictures is not idolatry, because we do not adore them.

God Himself, after giving the First Commandment, ordered the making of statues to be placed in the Temple; and God cannot contradict Himself. Sacred images do not promote false worship.

2. Some of the benefits we derive from the veneration of sacred images are:

(a) Through them effective, and sometimes supernatural, graces are obtained. There have been instances of miraculous pictures and statues, as well as crucifixes.

(b) They help us avoid distractions while praying, by fixing our attention.

(c) They serve as a silent admonition to encourage us to imitation.

(d) They are wonderful means for instructing the faithful in religion. The greatest artists in the world have been Catholic artists. Their greatest masterpieces treat of religious subjects. Even the most unlettered can understand a picture.

Do we honor Christ and the saints when we pray before the crucifix, relics, and sacred images?

We honor Christ and the saints when we pray before the crucifix, relics, and sacred images, because we honor the persons they represent; we adore Christ and venerate the saints.

Our actions should always conform to the faith implied by the pictures we display. We have those holy images for holy purposes, to venerate the saints for God's sake, and to imitate their holy lives.

1. We show veneration for sacred pictures and statues by placing them in our homes, in churches, and in schools. Jesus made a special promise to bless the house in which an image of His Sacred Heart is exposed.

We pray before them, adorn them with flowers, burn lights before them, and kiss them with reverence. We make visits and pilgrimages to the tombs or shrines of the saints. Similarly, on civil holidays, we show honor to our heroes by placing wreaths on their graves; we visit their homes, etc.

2. Above all other sacred representations, we venerate the crucifix most. It is the sign of our redemption. On the cross Our Lord died to save us from the consequences of sin.

Such is the honor the Church pays the crucifix that she allows no sacrament to be administered, no Mass to be celebrated, no act of worship to be performed, unless in the presence of a crucifix. We place the crucifix in the hands of the dying. It accompanies us to the grave. Every Christian home should have a crucifix prominently displayed.

DO WE PRAY to the crucifix or to the images and relics of the saints?

We do not pray to the crucifix or to the images and relics of the saints, but to the persons they represent.

1. The veneration we pay to sacred images and relics is not paid to the relic, picture, or statue itself, but to the one represented, God, or one of the saints or angels.

In the same way when we kiss our mother's picture we do not give our affection to the paper, but to our mother. Disrespect to an image is disrespect to the one represented.

2. In venerating relics, sacred statues, and pictures, we do not believe that any divine power resides in them. They cannot, of themselves, work miracles.

The numerous miracles worked through the use of relics were a result, not of the relics' power, but of God's, acting through them. The Gospels tell the moving story of the woman cured by touching the hem of Our Lord's garment. Yet even that sacred garment did not by itself work the miracle: Christ used His power, working through 'the garment. And so today relics continue to play a part in the working of miracles, in the suspension of the natural law, but always as mere instruments of Almighty God.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
If we love God, no sacrifice is too great to offer Him for His pleasure. Millions of martyrs have been glad to give their lives for their faith. During the great persecutions under the pagan Roman emperors, thousands were taken to the arena to be torn by wild beasts. Thousands of others were covered with pitch and lighted as torches. All kinds of human tortures were invented to make the Christians deny their faith. But their pure love of God caused them to be firm and to meet death gladly.

96. Sins Against Faith

HOW DOES A CATHOLIC SIN against faith?

A Catholic sins against faith by infidelity, apostasy, heresy, indifferentism, and by taking part in non-Catholic worship.

We may lose our faith by: (a) not learning well the doctrines of the Church; (b) wilfully doubting truths that have been revealed to the Church; (c) reading books and other literature against our religion; (d) attending assemblies of people who are opposed to our religion; and (e) neglecting the practice of our religion. (See pages 154-157)

1. INFIDELITY is: (a) the unbelief of one to whom the truths of faith have been sufficiently proposed, but who nevertheless deliberately refuses to accept them; (b) the ignorance of the Faith by one who has had no chance to learn it, or who does not realize the importance of learning.

Persons who do not believe in Christianity as a divinely revealed religion, are commonly referred to as "infidels." But as the word may sound offensive, in ordinary speech it is better to call them simply "non-Christians."

But, is it not utterly reasonable to have faith in an almighty God, Who knows much more than we can ever hope to know, and Who can do things beyond our understanding? It is necessary that we serve God in the way He requires, not in the way it pleases us to do so. For this reason we must practice the religion revealed by God, and avoid making up our own religions according to our whims and innumerable fancies.

2. APOSTASY is complete rejection of the truths of the Christian faith by one who has been baptized. A vicious and sinful life often leads to apostasy. No really good man has ever fallen away from the Christian faith.

An apostate denies or gives up his religion through fear or shame, or through worldly motives or human respect, and denies Christ Himself. He is under sentence of eternal damnation, for Christ says: "Whoever disowns me before men, I in turn will disown him before my Father in heaven" (Matt. 10:33). It may happen that a Catholic gives up his religion because he had a quarrel with the priest. He crucifies Christ because of a petty disagreement with a mortal. Such a man should ever remember that "he who loses his goods loses much; he who lose his life, loses more; but he who loses his faith loses all."

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
3. HERESY is the refusal of baptized persons to accept one or more of the truths revealed by God and taught by the Catholic Church. If this refusal is voluntary and obstinate, there is formal heresy; if it is involuntary, there is material heresy.

A heretic claims to be Christian, but denies one or more truths revealed by God. Members of Protestant denominations are heretics. Much of their heresy, however, is negative, or material; that is, accompanied by no obstinacy of the will; for example, the heresy of a Protestant who has always believed his is the religion ordained by God.

4. INDIFFERENCE is the error of those who hold that one religion is as good as another and that all religions are equally true and pleasing to God, or that one is free to accept or reject any or all religions.

Many a Catholic does not want to trouble himself about studying his religion, and gradually loses his faith.

Why should Christ, and after Him the Apostles, and after them a long line of Catholics, have suffered so much and resisted persecution so firmly, if it were of no importance what a man believed? It is absurd to suppose that God does not care whether men denounce His Son as an impostor and blasphemer, or worship Him as God.

WHY DOES A CATHOLIC SIN against faith by taking part in non-Catholic worship?

A Catholic sins against faith by taking part in non-Catholic worship, because he thus professes belief in a religion he knows is not the true one.

1. It is wrong to be present at non-Catholic services even when we do not participate in them, because such services are intended to honor God in a manner He does not wish to be honored in. If God instituted a Church of His own, He must wish to be honored in the ways of that Church.

When necessary, for social obligations, a Catholic may be present at a non-Catholic wedding or funeral, but he must not participate in the services.

2. It is a sin to belong to any society which is opposed to the Church. Freemasonry, or Masonry is condemned by the Church. Many charitable persons, who have joined Masonry merely for social or business reasons, do not understand the stand of the Church. Most of them serve only the Third Degree, and hold no spirit of antagonism against the Church; but these good persons do not realize the basic purposes of their organization.

In actual fact, Freemasonry is a religious sect bent upon the destruction of the Catholic Church. It has its own doctrines, priesthood, and ritual; it has its own characteristic morality. For instance, it imposes an oath that requires blind obedience; it does not accept Divine Revelation. “By their fruits ye shall know them,” and the fruits of Freemasonry are evident throughout European history. May we say that no one need be ashamed of the fruits of the Catholic Church in all places and all times?

How can a Catholic BEST SAFE-GUARD HIS FAITH?

A Catholic can best safeguard his faith by making frequent acts of faith, by praying for a strong faith, by studying his religion very earnestly, by living a good life, by good reading, by refusing to associate with the enemies of the Church, and by not reading books and papers opposed to the Church and her teaching.

1. Acts of faith are prayers said to tell God we believe in Him. Pleasing to God also are prayers of faith, such as the Apostles made to the Lord: “Increase our faith” (Luke 17:5). The more we believe, the firmer our faith becomes, by God’s grace.

We should study our religion well, especially the Christian doctrine. If we have any doubts about it, we should consult a good spiritual adviser or confessor. Many have lost their religion by misunderstanding its doctrines.

2. A strong bulwark to faith is a good life. Never does a just man, living according to the teachings of the Church, lose his faith. To increase in faith, let us go to Confession and receive Holy Communion often, that our spirits may be nourished by divine food. Those who lead bad lives may easily lose their faith.

3. We must take care that the books and magazines we read are neither wicked nor against the doctrines of the Church. The eyes are the windows of the soul; through them it may be attracted to good or evil.

We must also refrain from being intimate with enemies of the Church, who speak against it and assail it on all occasions. Let us avoid pitfalls, that we may not fall into them.
97. Religion and Superstition

HOW DO WE WORSHIP GOD by the virtue of religion?

We worship God by the virtue of religion by adoring Him alone as the one and Supreme Being, the chief expression of adoration being prayer.

1. We adore God by acknowledging His infinite excellence, our complete dependence upon Him, our absolute subjection to His will; we pray to God by lifting up our minds and hearts to Him.

Devotion to the Blessed Virgin Mary, veneration of saints, relics, and images, are not opposed to this virtue. We do not worship the saints; we only honor them as the special friends and servants of God. We adore God alone. Neither do we worship images and sacred pictures or relics. We only pay them honor as belonging to or representing God or the saints. In a similar manner we commonly cherish the photographs of our dear friends.

2. The principal sins against the virtue of religion are: superstition, sacrilege, idolatry, and simony.

We fail in our duty of worship when we spend all our lives for the world and material interests.

When does a person SIN BY SUPERSTITION?

A person sins by superstition when he attributes to a creature a power that belongs to God alone.

1. Examples of superstitious practices are: the use of charms or spells, belief in dreams or fortune-telling. As today practiced, all these superstitions are merely nonsense: they may be taken only as some social fun, like “bingo.” Among Christians, only simpletons actually believe in these practices, in mascots, omens, astrology.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
As today practiced, manifestations of superstitious beliefs are fraudulent. Those “magicians” merely perform sleight-of-hand tricks; the “witches,” “fortune-tellers,” and “spiritists” only use their sharp faculties of observation and their retentive memory.

And yet, there are still unintelligent persons who believe in lucky and unlucky days and numbers; they believe finding a horseshoe is good luck, breaking a mirror means seven years’ bad luck, and so on. On the contrary, all is nonsense.

2. A charm is anything used with the belief that it has magic power to protect. Spells are words by the saying of which the superstitious believe evil can be averted, or good fortune obtained.

We often deceive ourselves by trying to interpret dreams. Sometimes they are nothing but the expression of our wishes, uncontrolled by reason or conscience. The “dreams” in the Holy Scripture and the lives of the saints are, more properly speaking, revelation or inspiration rather than dreams; God uses particular means for exceptional cases.

3. Spiritism consists in attempts to communicate with the spirits of the dead, or with other spirits, usually by the use of mediums and seances. Magic refers to manifestations of wonders, through the intervention of evil spirits, whether real or pretended, going as far as invocation of devils.

There is no positive proof that a spiritist or magician has been able to communicate with the spirits of the dead. Houdini, who was the greatest of all magicians, laid a public wager that he could reproduce any spiritistic manifestation by using purely natural means.

4. If there were such a thing as fortune-telling, why do not those fortune-tellers improve their own fortunes by foretelling the rise of the stock market and buying up all the stock? Then they would not need to labor at the telling of fortunes at only so much per fortune predicted.

When does a person SIN BY SACRILEGE?

A person sins by sacrilege when he mistreats sacred persons, places or things.

Sacrilege is a kind of blasphemy consisting of the violation or profanation of a person, place or thing consecrated to God. For example, it is sacrilege incurring excommunication to lay violent hands upon a priest, a nun, or any other person consecrated to God. It is sacrilege to commit acts of impurity or of violence, like killing or fighting, in a church or consecrated graveyard, to receive the sacraments unworthily, to steal sacred vessels or other Church property, to do damage in a church, to despise relics and holy pictures or mutilate images.

Baltassar, King of Babylon, was guilty of sacrilege when he used the sacred vessels of the Temple of Jerusalem as drinking cups at a feast. His punishment, as announced by the handwriting on the wall, is well-known. In order to avoid possible disrespect to sacred images and holy pictures that are already too old to use, we should burn them.

When does a person SIN BY IDOLATRY?

A person sins by idolatry when he pays to a creature the supreme worship due to God alone as Creator and Preserver of all things.

In the early days of Christianity, many Christians were put to death for refusing to burn incense before idols. God punished the Israelites for their idolatry from time to time.

One who knows the Catholic Church to be the True Church, yet refuses to join and obey it, is guilty of resisting the known Christian truth, a form of idolatry, since by it one stubbornly denies due worship to God.

The Scribes and Pharisees knew well all the prophecies concerning the Messiahs. Jesus Christ proved Himself the promised Messiahs by wonderful miracles, after announcing Himself as the Son of God. But their pride was a barrier to their humble acknowledgement of Jesus; they calumniated and persecuted Him to the limit. They were guilty of resisting the known Christian truth. “They stubbornly turned their backs and stopped their cars so as not to hear” (Zach. 7:11).

When does a person SIN BY SIMONY?

A person sins by simony when he buys or sells sacred or spiritual things or positions.

The term “simony” comes from Simon Magus, who offered the Apostles money to give him the power of giving the Holy Spirit (Acts 8:19-20). It is simony to sell a rosary for more than its ordinary price on account of a blessing it has. Thus sold, indulgences lose their indulgences.

Giving a priest money to offer Mass “for our intentions” is not simony, because we do not and cannot buy a Mass. The money is only an offering towards the materials for the Mass, and to help support the priest.

As St. Paul said, “They who serve the altar have their share with the altar. So also the Lord directed that those who preach the Gospel should have their living from the gospel” (1 Cor. 9:14). It would not be for the dignity of the priesthood nor for the benefit of religious work if priests needed to labor at secular occupations to support themselves.
"Then a new king... came to power in Egypt. He said... "Look how numerous and powerful the Israelite people are growing, more so than we ourselves! Come, let us... stop their increase... Accordingly, taskmasters were set over the Israelites to oppress them with forced labor. Thus they had to build for Pharaoh the supply cities... Yet the more they were oppressed, the more they multiplied and spread. The Egyptians, then, dreaded the Israelites and reduced them to cruel slavery... But the Lord said:

"I have witnessed the affliction of my people in Egypt and have heard their cry of complaint against their slave drivers, so I know well what they are suffering" (Ex. 1:8-14; 3:7). God still hears the cry of the oppressed poor.

98. Sins Against Hope and Charity

What are the SINS AGAINST HOPE?

The sins against hope are presumption and despair.

When does a person SIN BY PRE-SUMPTION?

A person sins by presumption when he trusts that he can be saved by his own efforts without God's help, or by God's help without his own efforts.

1. One who relies on his own powers, on his friends, or on earthly things more than on God commits presumption. He thus puts his hope on "strange gods" in competition with Almighty God. Such hope is purely human, not supernatural, heavenly, or Christian.

Such hope is built on sand, as how many have found out to their distress! Peter thought he was strong, and denied his Lord. It is this human kind of hope, this presumption, that causes one to expose himself to occasions of sin, in the belief that one has the strength to resist. "Rely not on your strength in following the desires of your heart. Say not: 'Who can prevail against me?' " (Sirach 5:2-3). "It is better to take refuge in the Lord than to trust in princes" (Ps. 117:8).

2. It is presumption to commit sin boldly, pleading that God easily pardons sinners. Our confidence in God's mercy must always go hand in hand with our knowledge of His justice. In this way, even while we trust in our merciful Father, we have a salutary fear of His judgments. God wishes us to work out our salvation in fear and trembling.

Nobody can be absolutely sure that he is safe from hell, that he will persevere in justice till death. What happened to Solomon with all his wisdom, and the blessings God rained on him! "Let him who thinks he stands take heed lest he fall" (1 Cor. 10:12).
3. We must not tempt God by exposing ourselves to sin and its occasions in the hope that God will protect and save us; this is presuming on God's mercy. We can be sure of God's help only if we try our best to do His will. "He who loves danger will perish in it" (Sirach 3:25). The greatest saints took as their watchword regarding sins, "Safety in flight,"—flight from all occasions that might tempt them to sin. However, those who by their profession or necessity are compelled to expose themselves to even proximate occasions of sin must humbly put their trust in God; He will surely protect them.

It is presumption to expect to be saved by faith alone without attempting to accomplish good works; to hope to obtain forgiveness of our sins without penance; or while hoping in God's mercy, to remain in the state of sin, and put off conversion. Our Lord said clearly, "Seek first the kingdom of God and his justice, and all these things shall be given you besides" (Matt. 6:33).

When does a person SIN BY DESPAIR?

A person sins by despair when he deliberately refuses to trust that God will give him the necessary help to save his soul.

1. DESPAIR is an abandonment of all hope for obtaining eternal salvation and the means of attaining it. Despair is wicked, because it is a denial of the goodness of God, and His willingness to forgive.

Cain was guilty of this sin when he cried out after murdering his brother Abel, "My punishment is too great to bear" (Gen. 4:13). He is guilty of despair who believes he cannot resist certain temptations, overcome certain sins, or amend his life. Despair results in temporal as well as spiritual evil, because often those in despair commit suicide, as Judas did.

2. When tempted to despair, let us remember that God is infinitely merciful, that He is nearest when our need for Him is greatest, and that there is no sin that He will not forgive if we go to Him with a repentant heart.

To avoid sin we may ponder on God's justice and the fear of God; but once we have fallen into sin, let us meditate on His infinite mercy. Let us remember that God is the Good Shepherd Who goes out to seek His sheep that have fallen among the thorns of life. St. John Chrysostom says, "As a spark is to the ocean, so is the wickedness of man compared to the mercy of God." "But if anyone sins, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the just; and he is a propitiation for our sins, not for ours only but also for those of the whole world" (1 John 2:2).

What are the chief SINS AGAINST CHARITY?

The chief sins against charity are hatred of God and of our neighbor, sloth, envy, and scandal.

Without charity, faith and hope will profit us nothing, for God will not open the gates of His Kingdom except to those that love Him. "If I should speak with the tongues of men and of angels, but do not have charity, I have become as sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal" (1 Cor. 13:1).

1. Every grave sin is a violation of charity, because it destroys the love of God. "If you love Me, keep My commandments" (John 14:15). HATRED of God, or of one's neighbor, is a special offense against charity; by it one desires evil or harm to befall, or rejoices at the misfortune of others.

To desire death from a yearning for heaven in order to be reunited with God is not wrong. Thé Apostle Paul himself sighed, "Who shall deliver me from the body of this death?" (Rom. 7:24). "I am... desiring to depart and to be with Christ" (Philipp. 1:23). But to desire death out of impatience or despair, or to wish death or misfortune to another out of selfishness or hatred, is sinful.

2. SLOTH is a sin against charity, because it paralyzes the faculties of the soul. One who is ruled by sloth is too lazy to love God or his neighbor, because such love or zeal takes trouble.

Sloth begets tepidity and indifference. Someone has said with truth that a great sinner may become a great saint, but a slothful person, never.

3. One is guilty of ENVY if one is bitter about another's good fortune.

Envy is the sin of the devil, the sin above all that implies malice, the sin that leads to calumny, gossip, hatred, and other sins. The best means of overcoming envy is to do every good possible to our neighbor, especially to the one that we are tempted to envy. There is no reason for envy; it will not make us any richer, more popular, more satisfied. Satan envied Adam and Eve, so happy in Paradise. The Pharisees envied Jesus Christ the wonderful miracles He worked, and His consequent great following.

4. SCANDAL is given when we injure our neighbor's soul by causing or tempting him to sin. As charity helps him towards heaven, so scandal pushes him towards hell.

Our Lord said that at the end of the world the angels "will gather out of his kingdom all scandals . . . and cast them into the furnace of fire, where there will be the weeping, and the gnashing of teeth" (Matt. 13:41-42). (See pages 228-229.)
99. The Second Commandment

"You shall not take the name of the Lord, your God, in vain" (Ex. 20:7).

WHAT ARE WE COMMANDED by the second commandment?

By the second commandment we are commanded always to speak with reverence of God, of the saints, and of holy things, and to be truthful in taking oaths, and faithful to them and to our vows.

"Blessed be the name of the Lord both now and forever. From the rising to the setting of the sun is the name of the Lord to be praised" (Ps. 112:2-3).

"I say to you not to swear at all... But let your speech be, 'Yes, yes;' 'No, no.'" (Matt. 5:34-37).

"The tongue no man can tame... Out of the same mouth proceed blessing and cursing" (Jas. 3:8,10).

1. We should never speak God's name without holy respect. We should frequently call upon the name of God with true and heartfelt devotion, especially at the commencement and end of all our important actions, and in time of trouble.

"Then call upon me in time of distress; I will rescue you, and you shall glorify me" (Ps. 49:15).

We should often praise God for His perfections and infinite goodness, and particularly when we receive favors from Him. It is strange how often good gifts come to us from Almighty God, and we simply take without a word of thanks. Let us say that old saying of truly Christian hearts, Deo gratus! Thanks be to God! "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits" (Ps. 102:2).

2. The name of Jesus is the most powerful of all names: through it we can obtain all that we need. "If you ask the Father anything in my name, He will give it to you" (John 16:23). We should pay reverence to the name of Jesus by bowing every time we speak it. We should especially pronounce the name of Jesus at the hour of death.

"At the name of Jesus every knee should bend of those in heaven, on earth, and under the earth" (Phil. 2:10). St. Stephen's last words were: "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit" (Acts 7:59). By the name of Jesus the apostles and saints worked innumerable miracles, as St. Peter did when he said to the lame man, "In the name of Jesus Christ, arise and walk" (Acts 3:6). Holy Scripture truly says, "There is no other name under heaven given to men, by which we must be saved" (Acts 4:12).
What is meant by taking God’s name in vain?

By taking God’s name in vain is meant that the name of God or the holy name of Jesus Christ is used without reverence: for example, to express surprise or anger.

“So one who swears continually by the Holy Name will not remain free from sin” (Sirach 23:10).

1. Profanity is the use of irreverent language. We should not use sacred names in impatience, jest, mere surprise, or habit, with no idea of paying God honor.

Many have the habit of exclaiming at every trifling circumstance: “Good Lord!” “My God!” “Jesus, Mary, Joseph!” It is a thoughtless habit that should be corrected. It is wrong likewise to quote Holy Scripture in a light or irreverent manner.

2. We should distinguish between profanity and vulgarity. Profanity is a sin of irreverence; vulgarity is not necessarily sinful.

Vulgarity is the use of coarse expressions like “devil,” “hell,” etc., through thoughtlessness or habit. It is a breach of good manners, and if indulged in will lead to profanity. If used with malice, vulgarity is certainly a sin.

3. Let us use God’s holy Name only in prayer and adoration. Irreverence to that Name is sacrilege, since by the sin we profane a holy thing. “For the Lord will not leave unpunished him who takes his name in vain” (Ex 20:7).

Among the ancient Jews the word for God was so sacred that even the high priest could speak it only once a year, at the feast of the Atonement, when he entered the most sacred part of the Temple.

4. It is a sin to take God’s name in vain; ordinarily it is a venial sin.

The Holy Name Society aims to promote love and reverence for the Holy Name of God and Jesus Christ; to suppress and make reparations for blasphemy, perjury, forbidden oaths, profanity, and any improper language. Every man should be a member of this Society, which is only for men. At present the membership (1961) is over 5,000,000; most Catholic policemen of New York City are faithful members.

What is cursing?

Cursing is the calling down of some evil on a person, place, or thing.

1. To call down some punishment on ourselves or other creatures of God in a moment of anger, is cursing. If the name of God is used, the sin is worse.

When angry, parents sometimes curse their children, and workmen their animals and tools. Often the one who curses does not mean what he says. If he does, it is indeed a most grievous sin to ask God to damn a person or send him to hell.

The habit of cursing is an indication of lack of refinement and of self-control. Gentlemen do not curse. Generally we know the origin of a person by the words that come forth from his mouth; one who curses advertises his origin as the gutter.

What is blasphemy?

Blasphemy is insulting language which expresses contempt for God, either directly or through His saints and holy things.

1. Contemptuous or abusive language against God, scoffing at the true religion, or ridiculing sacred ceremonies—all these are blasphemous. Sacrilege is a form of blasphemy; irreverent actions and thoughts against God, the saints and angels, or holy persons and things, are also blasphemous.

In the Old Law the blasphemer was condemned to death. “Anyone who curses his God shall bear the penalty of his sin; whoever blasphemes the name of the Lord shall be put to death” (Lev. 24:16). It is blasphemy to speak scornfully of God or of His actions; or to attribute to a creature a prerogative of God. Thus the people blasphemed when they said, after King Herod had spoken to them: “It is the voice of a god, and not of a man” (Acts 12:22).

2. Blasphemy is a sin of the devil. By insulting language against God, one offends the Almighty directly, not only His image. Blasphemy is essentially malicious, not as other sins that arise from human weakness or ignorance.

“Whom hast thou blasphemed, against whom hast thou exalted thy voice? Against the holy One of Israel” (4 Kings 19:22). The soldiers blasphemed Christ; so did the impotent thief.

3. Deliberate blasphemy is one of the gravest sins. God punishes it even on earth with severe chastisements, and in hell after death. “God is not mocked” (Gal. 6:7).

King Baltassar used the sacred vessels for his feasting. A strange hand wrote his fate on the wall; that same night the enemy entered his city, killed him, and made his kingdom part of the empire of the Medes and Persians. King Sennacherib blasphemed God, and died by the hand of his own sons. But the worst punishment will be after death; one cannot blaspheme God and escape unpunished. “They shall be cursed those who despise you” (Tob. 13:16).
In a court trial a witness, before taking the stand, must swear "to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth—So help me God". To lie under oath is to commit perjury.

100. Oaths and Vows

What is an Oath?

An oath is the calling on God to witness to the truth of what we say.

1. Taking an oath is called swearing. In swearing, we call either upon God or upon something sacred. In solemn oaths, we place a hand on the Bible, or kiss it. Sometimes we also kiss the crucifix.

If we swear by God, such words are used as: "God is my witness," "So help me God," "As the Lord liveth," etc. If we swear by holy things, we say: "By the holy Gospel," "by the cross of Christ," etc. Such expressions as "Upon my word," "by my honor," are not oaths but merely emphasize assertions.

2. An oath may be simple or solemn. A simple oath is one between man and man in ordinary intercourse. A solemn oath is one taken before ecclesiastical or civil authority, in the presence of an official.

An oath of public office is a solemn oath. The formula used ends with: "So help me God." Our Lord swore solemnly when Caiphas adjured Him by the Living God to tell the truth (Matt. 26:64).

3. We must not take an oath of blind obedience to a secret society.

4. A promise under oath ceases to bind under certain conditions:

(a) if it is relaxed by the person to whom the promise was given;
(b) if the object of the promise is substantially changed;
(c) if the object becomes sinful or useless;
(d) if the reason for the oath ceases to exist;
(e) if a condition, under which the oath was given ceases; and
(f) if the oath is annulled, dispensed, or commuted by lawful authority.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
WHAT THINGS ARE NECESSARY to make an oath lawful?

To make an oath lawful, three things are necessary:

1. We must have a good reason for taking an oath. An oath properly taken is permitted by God and pleasing in His sight. No one should be compelled to take an oath, however. It is not necessary to swear at every provocation, such as when friends do not believe us, or to emphasize statements.

2. We must be convinced that what we say under oath is true. It is wrong to take oaths about what we do not know, just because a friend asks us to swear to it.

   If we take an oath, promising to do something, and in our mind we have plans of breaking our word, then we are swearing falsely. If we take an oath before a court of justice, saying we saw such and such a person in a certain place at a certain hour, and we know we really did not see him, then we are swearing falsely. We must think well before taking an oath; rash oaths are sinful.

3. We must not swear, that is, take an oath, to do what is wrong. We should never keep an oath to do evil. If one is so unfortunate as to have made such an evil oath, he should promptly determine not to keep it, or he will commit greater sins.

   Herod swore to grant Salome, the daughter of his unlawful wife, anything she asked. When she demanded the head of St. John the Baptist, he gave it to her. Thus he committed a worse crime by keeping his wicked and rash oath.

What great sin does a person commit who deliberately calls on God to bear witness to a lie?

A person who deliberately calls on God to bear witness to a lie commits the very grievous sin of perjury.

1. Perjury is false swearing. One commits perjury when he confirms by oath what he knows is not true, or what he is doubtful about, or when he swears to a promise which he does not intend to keep.

   Perjury is a grave sin, because it insults God by calling Him to witness a lie. Perjury before a civil court of law is punishable by imprisonment.

2. Regarding the non-fulfillment of an oath, the sin may be venial or grave, according to importance of the matter concerned.

   The witnesses who swore falsely at the trial of Christ committed a grave sin of perjury. If circumstances arise that prevent our keeping a valid oath, we should consult our confessor, to know what to do.

What is a VOW?

A vow is a deliberate promise made to God, by which a person binds himself under pain of sin to do something that is especially pleasing to God.

1. A vow is made to God alone, not to anyone else. The subject of the vow must not be a mere trifle, but something good in itself, and better than its opposite. A vow is the most solemn promise we can ever make, an act of divine worship.

   A vow made under compulsion is invalid. A vow to do something that will offend God must not be accomplished. In general we should consult our confessor before making a vow. "You had better not make a vow than make it and not fulfill it" (Eccl. 5:4).

   Sometimes vows are accompanied by certain conditions. For example, in 1298, St. Louis of France vowed to lead a Crusade if he got over a severe illness. In our days, people vow to go on specified pilgrimages, to get cured of sickness.

2. We must not confuse vows and oaths with mere promises or resolutions. These last do not bind under pain of sin.

   For instance, some make a promise not to go to shows or dances for a certain length of time. If they go, they do not commit a mortal sin, for simple promises and resolutions do not bind under pain of sin. However, we should not make promises or resolutions that we are not earnest about keeping.

3. A vow is most pleasing to God, because it is a voluntary offering made to Him. The most important vows are the religious vows, taken by those joining a religious order: vows of poverty, chastity, and obedience.

   By the religious vows a person gives up the world entirely, consecrating not only what he does, but what he is to the exclusive service of God.

4. Non-fulfillment, or needless postponement, of a vow is a venial or mortal sin, according to the importance of the matter.

   The guilt is doubled, if at the same time one transgress a commandment, as when violating a vow of chastity. If we are not able to fulfill a vow, we must consult our confessor about having it annulled or changed into some other good work. The vows of children may be cancelled by their parents. Bishops and other superiors have authority to release or absolve from some vows.
In these tables the holydays of obligation which do not necessarily fall on a Sunday are marked by crosses. They are to be observed exactly as the Sunday by hearing Mass, obtaining from unnecessary servile work, and doing other pious exercises. The other feasts which do not fall on a Sunday are not of obligation. They are, however, important feasts, and all who can should at least hear Mass on those days. If we can visit human friends on days important to them, why not God?

101. The Third Commandment

"Remember to keep holy the Sabbath day" (Ex. 20:8-9).

What are we commanded by the third commandment?

By the third commandment we are commanded to worship God in a special manner on Sunday, the Lord’s day.

"Therefore, you must keep the Sabbath as something sacred. Whoever desecrates it shall be put to death. If anyone does work on that day, he must be rooted out of his people. Six days there are for doing work, but the seventh day is the Sabbath of complete rest, sacred to the Lord. Anyone who does work on the Sabbath day shall be put to death" (Ex. 31:14-15).

1. God commanded the observance of a definite day, in order that man may devote one day a week to the special worship of his Creator. Natural law obliges man to adore and thank God for His continuous blessings.

If God gives us six days to work for ourselves, we ought to be glad to devote one day to Him exclusively. The day enables us to join in public worship and receive religious instruction. If we had to work always, seven days a week, year in and year out, our health would break under the strain.

2. In the Old Law, the celebration of a definite day, the sabbath, had been ordered only specially for the Jews, just as circumcision and bloody sacrifices had been. The Old Law was abrogated upon institution of the New (Acts 10:15; Col. 2:16).

In the Old Law the Jews kept holy the seventh day of the week, Saturday. The vital principle of the Third Commandment was not the specific day, but that one day out of seven should be devoted to the worship of God the Creator.

"Know God better to love Him more"
3. In the New Law, Catholics keep holy the first day of the week, Sunday. It is called "The Lord's Day." St. Paul refers twice to its observance. (Acts 20:7; 1 Cor. 16:2. The Church commands us to keep Sunday as the Lord's day, because on Sunday Christ rose from the dead, and on Sunday the Holy Spirit descended upon the Apostles.

In the New Law, Christ delegated His authority to the Church, His Living Voice. It remained then for the Church to indicate the ceremonial day to be kept holy. In the same way the early Church caused circumcision and bloody sacrifices to make way for Baptism and the Sacrifice of the Mass.

HOW DOES THE CHURCH COMMAND us to worship God on Sunday?

The Church commands us to worship God on Sunday by assisting at the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass.

1. The obligation of Mass is binding on all persons who have attained the use of reason; that is, including children seven years old. Those who find it impossible, or very difficult, to hear Mass, are excused.

The sick, the very aged and infirm, and those engaged in works of necessity at the hour of Mass, are excused from attending it. Those who live too far to walk and have no conveyance are also excused. Very bad weather may be sufficient excuse.

2. Not to hear Sunday Mass, or to miss a notable part of Sunday Mass, is a mortal sin. To come a little late and not make up for it in another Mass, is a venial sin.

A person should be present for the entire Mass, from the beginning to the last Gospel. It is a venial sin to miss even a slight part of a Mass of obligation deliberately and a mortal sin to miss a notable part. The obligation to assist at Mass is not fulfilled if the Consecration or the Communion is missed. The obligation can be fulfilled by hearing parts of two or more Masses in succession, provided one is present for both the Consecration and the Communion of the same Mass.

3. Those who on every slight pretext excuse themselves from their obligation of hearing Sunday Mass will gradually slip into religious carelessness and indifference. We should be sturdy Christians, and not let anything but impossibility or serious illness interfere with our hearing Mass on Sunday.

Not to have a new or clean dress is not sufficient reason for staying away from Sunday Mass. Neither is an excursion that leaves early a reason. One should go to Mass before going on the excursion.

4. Mass is not our only obligation on Sunday, for God commands us to sanctify the whole day, and not only a part of it. We should perform other good works.

We may hear sermons or instruction, receive the sacraments, attend vespers or benediction, read the Bible or other spiritual books, say the rosary, attend a sodality or confraternity meeting, visit the Blessed Sacrament, the poor, the sick, and perform other works of mercy. It is not an obligation to spend the entire Sunday in such works, but we should try to give as much time to them as we can, for the love of God. If we do things not required for the love of our friends on earth, how much more eager we should be to do them for our best Friend of all, God!

WHY SHOULD WE PARTICIPATE in the holy sacrifice of the mass?

We should participate in the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, for by it we offer adoration to God, we obtain instruction in our Faith, and we secure our sanctification.

1. At Holy Mass we are part of one corporate body, one great social union, the Catholic Church, the Mystical Body of Christ, the Communion of Saints with members—on earth, in heaven, in purgatory—offering God a perpetual oblation, our homage in adoration and praise. (See pages 158-159.)

By Holy Mass we partake supernaturally of the divine life itself, giving the plentitude of glory to God. For who can give Him greater glory than His own Son, with Whom we are united in the Mystical Body, and Who offers Himself in sacrifice at Mass?

2. Holy Mass, as it is said in the course of the Liturgical Year, is a deep source of knowledge. It follows a definite program, unfolding a vivid drama, presenting to our minds and hearts the story of God's love for men.

In the course of the year Holy Mass is a dramatic summary of the principal truths of our Faith, unfolded with the beauty of ritual and ceremonial. With its functions it unfolds, not one mystery alone, as private devotions do, but the entire drama of man's redemption. It is a catechism by which the Church inculcates dogmas and precepts, investing them with the grandeur of rite and chant.

3. By Holy Mass, and particularly if we partake of the Holy Eucharist, we secure graces, effecting our sanctification. The graces come to us through Christ, Head of the Mystical Body.
The illustration shows a parish church on a Sunday morning. The people are hastening to church, to obey the precept of hearing Mass. It is a mortal sin to fail to sanctify Sundays and holydays through our own fault. To keep these days holy, we must hear Mass, abstain from servile work, and devote the day to pious works. Wholesome recreation and innocent amusements which do not interfere with our religious obligations are allowed; too often, however, "fun" appears to be the main feature.

102. Unnecessary Servile Work

WHAT IS FORBIDDEN by the third commandment of God?

By the third commandment of God all unnecessary servile work on Sunday is forbidden.

What is SERVILE WORK?

Servile work is that which requires labor of body rather than of mind.

Work performed by laborers, such as farming, mechanical and industrial labor, is forbidden, even if done for pleasure and without gain.

1. Work in which the mind has the greater share or which is done for recreation is not servile and is not forbidden.

This includes reading, writing, typewriting, drawing, painting, playing music, travelling, hunting, fishing, and the like.

2. Employers who force their employees to do unnecessary servile work on Sunday are responsible for the violation of the Third Commandment.

The trial of lawsuits and public buying and selling are also forbidden. Catholics should make provision on Saturday for their food and other necessities of Sunday, so that no store may be forced to keep open.

3. The obligation to avoid servile work on Sunday is grave, and therefore its violation is a mortal sin if one works for a notable time.

Servile work on Sunday is not considered a grievous sin unless it is continued beyond two hours, or becomes the cause of scandal or bad example. It often happens that those who continue to work on Sundays lose their health and thereby sink into poverty. In Holy Scripture we find the Jews losing their Holy City and being taken into captivity, because, among other sins, they violated the sabbath (Read Ezechiel 20:13-16; 22:8-26; and 23:36-38).
WHEN IS SERVILE WORK ALLOWED on Sunday?

Servile work is allowed on Sunday when the honor of God, our own need, or that of our neighbor requires it.

1. Preparing a place for Holy Mass is a work for the honor of God, and may be done even on a Sunday.

In a parish where the women are all occupied during the week, and can meet for their altar society meetings only on Sunday, they would be allowed to sew or repair vestments for the church.

2. Work of daily necessity such as cooking, cleaning, and sweeping, and buying and selling of necessary food may be performed even on Sunday. Even servile work when necessary for the common good, or to prevent serious financial loss, is permitted on Sunday.

Farmers are allowed to care for their cattle and domestic animals, and even to get in crops that otherwise might spoil. Our Lord does not desire man to suffer on account of Sunday, for He says: "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath" (Mark 2:27).

3. Those in charge of persons who are necessarily on duty on Sunday, such as workingmen engaged in the service of public utilities such as railroad, fire department, light, power, and heat plants, policemen, firemen and soldiers, are obliged to give them an opportunity to offer Mass, if not every Sunday, at least as often as possible.

Catholics who must work on holydays are obliged to offer Mass, unless excused by a reasonably grave cause.

Domestic help can easily be permitted to go to Mass, if their duties are properly arranged.

Are amusements forbidden on Sunday?

Amusements are not forbidden on Sunday; only those that interfere with the Sunday obligations are forbidden.

Not too much emphasis should be given in competitive games as to which side wins or loses. A good loser is better than a poor winner who is proud of himself.

1. Sunday is a day of rest. On Sunday, therefore, we are permitted to relax from our daily work, in wholesome recreation.

"God blessed the seventh day and made it holy, because on it he rested from all his work of creation" (Gen. 2:3). If God, Who needed no "rest," chose to stop His work of creation, we should imitate His divine example and rest after six days of labor. The experience of all peoples has borne out the wisdom of this practice of resting one day out of the week. As an example we may cite the case of the French Revolution. The French atheists in control wished to change the old order completely, and went so far as to change the number of days in the week to ten. They could not, however, retain the new week, because of the resistance of the great majority of the people.

2. To attend entertainments such as dances up to a late hour on Saturday night, even when in themselves they are not wrong, is a poor way of preparing for the Lord’s day.

An outstanding example of such entertainments is the New Year’s eve all-night dancing so fashionable in these days. People go to dances and carnivals in different varieties of dress and undress, with paint, powder, and all kinds of worldly decorations on their persons. Then those who feel a twinge of conscience run out for an intermission of Mass, to return perhaps to the dance, or to go home to sleep all the day of New Year, the feast of the Circumcision and Octave of Christmas, a holyday of obligation! Let any reasonable man say whether this kind of amusement is in consonance with the commandment to sanctify the Lord’s day.

3. Some people seem to take advantage of Sunday to indulge more freely in useless or sinful pastimes. It is a scandal to see people engaged in excessive eating, drinking, dancing, and vanity on Sunday, of all days. It is an abuse of a sacred institution: the Lord’s Day. “The kingdom of God does not consist in food and drink” (Rom. 14:17).

To others the Lord’s day and holydays are nothing more than days of enjoyment. What was intended as an accompaniment becomes the main theme. Not infrequently Sunday is taken as a favorite day for gambling, drinking, and other vices. Then indeed is God’s day desecrated, and God robbed of the honor due Him.

4. When Sunday is desecrated by vice and unrestrained pleasure, we can expect by this loosening of morals the gradual dissolution of family ties and the final disintegration of society.

Neglecting common worship, members of the family become indifferent to each other. Children turn stuborn and disobedient. The father hardly stays home, and knows strangers better than his own children. Since the children lose respect for their parents, it is an easy step to loss of respect for all authority, including the secular power. Thus by forgetting God’s day, men will fall into all kinds of vices and die outside God’s grace.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The Child Jesus should be our model of obedience: "And he went down with them (Mary and Joseph) and came to Nazareth and was subject to them" (Luke 2:51). Our Lord, God Himself, lived in humble obedience to two mortals, Mary and Joseph, to give us an example.

The picture (2) shows Tobia, a model of a good son, curing his father of his blindness.

103. The Fourth Commandment

"Honor your father and your mother" (Ex. 20:12).

WHAT ARE WE COMMANDED by the fourth commandment?

By the fourth commandment we are commanded to respect and love our parents, to obey them in all that is not sinful, and to help them when they are in need.

The word "honor" in this commandment includes the doing of everything leading to the welfare, both material and spiritual, of our parents.

1. One respects his parents (a) by reverencing them as holding God's place; (b) by accepting their corrections willingly; and (c) by excusing and hiding their faults.

It was God Himself who gave us our parents, and we reverence God when we respect them who are His direct representatives over us. Respect is one duty that a child, however old and famous he may become in later life, will always owe his parents. "The eye that mocks a father, or scorns an aged mother, will be plucked out by the ravens in the valley; the young eagles will devour it" (Prov. 30:17).

2. One loves his parents by trying to please them, by helping them, and praying for them. Children who love their parents make their home a place of joy and peace.

A loving child does not want to be commanded by his parents, but will do all he can for them, help them out, and accomplish their wishes as far as he can, without a word from them.

3. A young child should obey his parents without question, complaint, or delay, just as he is told. He will show himself glad to obey. Older children may inquire about the reasons for certain commands, but they too should obey their parents in everything.
lawful. They will do what their parents wish, even before they are asked. They will obey willingly and promptly.

Because parents are the direct representatives of God over their children, such children owe them obedience. Obedience that is the result of fear of punishment or a trick to get some favor is not true Christian obedience, and much of the merit is lost. "Honor your father and your mother, that you may have a long life in the land which the Lord, your God, is giving you" (Ex. 20:12).

4. It is a mistake for one to think he knows more than his parents. It is his duty to consult them about important steps he contemplates, such as marriage. In all important things, God-fearing parents know more than their children. When a child is unwilling or ashamed to let his parents know about something, it is generally wrong.

5. A grown-up child should provide for his parents in need, and make their lives as comfortable as possible. For example, an adult son with earnings should support his old parents who have nothing. He should help out with the younger children.

We should especially provide for our parents when ill. We should call the priest for Confession, and if necessary, for the "Viaticum" and the "Anointing of the Sick." After their death we should provide a worthy funeral according to our means. We should pray, and have Masses offered for them annually at least, and faithfully carry out their last wishes.

6. The perfect model of obedience is the Child Jesus. All children should have Him for their model. He, God Himself, was subject to Mary and Joseph all the time that He lived with them in Nazareth.

The blessing of God is always with a closely united family with members loving each other, doing their best to help everybody in the family.

Does the fourth commandment oblige us to respect and TO OBEY OTHERS BESIDES OUR PARENTS?

Besides our parents, the fourth commandment oblige us to respect and to obey all our lawful superiors.

1. Guardians take the place of parents.
A child owes his guardians the same respect and obedience due his parents.

Teachers, godparents of baptism and confirmation, and elderly persons like grandparents, may be called guardians. All old people are to be respected by the young: "Stand up in the presence of the aged, and show respect for the old; thus shall you fear your God" (Lev. 19:32).

2. Employees are bound to respect and obey their superiors. They should be loyal, and careful about the property entrusted to them. Tutors and nurses must be especially faithful because to them are entrusted human souls. They must see to it that the children under their care are protected from harm to body and soul.

It is wrong of inferiors to carry stories about their superiors back and forth. If they cannot be loyal to their master, they should leave his service.

3. All are obliged to respect and obey legitimate civil and ecclesiastical authorities in lawful discharge of official duties.

"Let everyone be subject to the higher authorities, for there exists no authority except from God, and those who exist have been appointed by God" (Rom. 13:1).

WHAT ARE OUR DUTIES towards our ecclesiastical superiors?

We are obliged to render respect, obedience, and support to our ecclesiastical superiors.

1. We should reverence our priests and bishops as our fathers in Christ, obey them in spiritual matters, and pray for them. We should contribute to their support according to our means.

St. Paul tells us: "Obey your superiors and be subject to them, for they keep watch as having to render an account of your souls" (Heb. 13:17). One offends God gravely if he opposes bishops or priests, speaks ill of them, gossips about them.

2. We must be loyal to the Holy Father and obey him in spiritual matters. He is the visible head of the body of Christ, the Church, of which we are the members. We must honor him, respect his authority.

In reverencing the Pope, we but reverence Jesus Christ, whose representative he is. We must assist him in the arduous duties of his office by spiritual and material offerings. Hierarchy and laity, all in the Church, without exception, are subject to the Pope, and are bound to yield him perfect obedience in all spiritual matters. We should pray for the Pope, and if we can, give him material help.

3. On their part, bishops and priests have the obligation of caring for those under their charge, of teaching them their duties, and helping them lead good lives.

They are bound to pray for their flocks, and to offer Mass on Sundays and holydays for the members of their diocese or parish.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Parents have the duty of beginning their child’s religious training as soon as possible.
(1) Shows a good mother teaching her child the sign of the cross.
(2) Parents have the duty of sending their child to a Catholic school, whenever one is available. Careless parents have much to answer for before God if they send their child to a non-Catholic school, and the child grows up in ignorance or hatred of the Catholic faith.

104. Duties of Parents

WHAT DUTY HAVE PARENTS toward their children?

Parents must provide for the spiritual and bodily welfare of their children.

The fourth commandment requires parents to love their children, and care for them in body and soul. Their duties include provision for their children’s religious and moral training, bodily needs, education, discipline, manners, etc.

1. Parents must provide a minor with food and clothing, guard him from sickness and accidents, and give him suitable play and exercise. It is the duty of parents to exercise personal supervision, and not leave everything to household help. God gave children to parents, not to nursemaids.

Likewise, those institutions (called nurseries) where even babies may be left all day, however good they may be, and even if they are under the supervision of Sisters, should be resorted to only for grave reasons.

2. It is the duty of Catholic parents to send their child to a Catholic school. Secular or non-Catholic schools where the Catholic religion is not taught may be tolerated only when the diocesan bishop gives permission on account of prevailing circumstances. In no case may a child be sent to anti-Catholic schools.

At home, the parents should supervise the child’s studies. They should support the authority of the teacher, in order to teach the child proper respect for authority. It is not edifying for parents to criticize or ridicule the teacher in the child’s presence.

3. Parents must provide for a child’s future by giving him an education that will develop his mind and character. They should also enable him to acquire some training, trade, or profession by which he may later become self-supporting.

Parents who give a child all the food, candy, toys, and clothing he asks for, only indulge him, and show false love. Girls should be made to dress with modesty. Parents have no obligation to support their grown-up children. It is a bad practice to continue supporting older children.

HOW SHOULD PARENTS PROVIDE moral and religious training?

Parents should begin early to give their child religious training.

1. As soon as the child can speak, he should be taught the ordinary prayers, and told of God and holy things. It is a very praiseworthy custom to have family prayers, in which all of the family participate.

A child should be made to say his morning and night prayers regularly. He should be taught his catechism and prepared for Confession and first Holy Communion; he should be made to attend Mass, and perform all his religious duties faithfully.

2. Parents must exercise continual vigilance, to guard the child from moral evil.

As the child grows older, he should not be allowed excessive liberty, especially with regard to the company he keeps, and to staying out at night. Parents should always know where the child is, who his companions are, what he reads, what shows he sees.

3. Parents must correct the child’s faults, taking care not to be either harsh or over-indulgent. They must act with justice as well as mercy. They must treat all their children equally, and show no favoritism.

Parents who fly into a rage about a fault one day and laugh at the same fault another day can hardly expect their child to respect them. Parents who are too “good” to correct, chide, or punish a child who has committed grave faults are either stupid or lazy. They are bad parents, failing in their duties to God.

4. Parents must give good example to the child. Deeds are more powerful than words. If the parents neglect the sacraments, Mass on Sundays and holydays, and other religious duties, they cannot well expect their child to be faithful.

Some parents think that just because they send their child to a good Catholic school, they have no further responsibility over his training. However good a school, God did not give a child into its independent care, but into that of parents. Parents must train their children not only by precept, but chiefly by example. By the fruit the tree is known.

What should be the ATTITUDE OF PARENTS WHEN their CHILD IS GROWN UP?

When their child is grown up, parents should remember that their child is an individual whom God created for His own purposes, and that he has his own rights and privileges.

Parents should help their child accomplish God’s purposes as much as they can. They must never be an obstacle to the child, through false love.

1. In their child’s choice of an occupation or profession or priestly or religious vocation, parents should act with wisdom and understanding; they should advise, but never force. It happens sometimes that a child shows a strong inclination for a certain study. This should be encouraged, for it is a sign of talent. If the child shows no special inclination, a mutual agreement and understanding should prevail.

If the child is strongly attracted to the study of farming or architecture, he should not be forced to become a lawyer because his father is a lawyer or because his parents wish to boast of a politician.

2. Many parents out of pure caprice interfere with the practice of their child’s profession or occupation, by preventing his acceptance of positions or by wishing him to stay home with them.

Such parents need not be surprised if they find themselves burdened with the support of their grown-up children and their families. If you cut off the wings of a bird, it cannot fly.

3. In the choice of a state of life, which may make or mar the life of their child, parents should advise, but not interfere. If he wishes to marry, and they have any objection to the partner he has chosen, they may state their objections. If the objection is very serious, they may try to prevent the marriage, but never otherwise.

Parents should not be selfish. Many are so selfish that, wishing to keep their child to themselves, they can find no one in the whole world satisfactory as a partner for him. Parents should remember that the child is entitled to his own life. When they die, he should be able to exist without them.

4. Parents sin when they force their child to marry someone he does not care for.

Parents must not meddle in the affairs of their married children. This interference is a frequent source of disagreement between couples. Parents must be very careful of their attitude if their child chooses a religious vocation. (See page 379.)
Upon being chosen to a public office, an official acquires not only rights, but duties as well. Judges, legislators, and other public officials must treat everybody with equal justice, and must give the best service they can to the people. They are responsible before God for everything that they do, for all the decisions they make. Above is the U. S. President addressing Congress.

105. Duties of Other Superiors

WHAT DUTY HAVE SUPERIORS towards those under their care?

Superiors, according to their varying degrees of responsibility, must care for those entrusted to them.

1. Employers should be considerate of employees. They must not oppress them, nor keep back their wages, nor exploit them in any way.

In the United States and most other industrially advanced countries, organized labor is surrounded by all kinds of legal protection, but employers must nevertheless keep in mind their moral, as well as legal obligations to those who work under them in order to insure that social justice prevails.

2. Employers should give their employees a living wage; that is enough for them and their families to live on decently. They should allow them ample facilities for fulfilling religious duties.

WHAT ARE THE CHIEF DUTIES of those who hold public office?

The chief duties of those who hold public office are: to be just to all in exercising their authority, and to promote the general welfare.

1. Public officials have a grave responsibility before God. The higher the post, the greater the responsibility. Legislators, members of the cabinet, judges, all office-holders will have to give a rigid account to God of all that they have thought, said, done, or omitted, every law passed, every vote given. “For the powerful a rigorous scrutiny impends” (Wis. 6:8).

2. No one should strive after a position of authority which he is not competent to fill.

One who aspires to a dignity, to the duties of which he is unequal, is like a baker who tries to man an airship. If, however, a person feels himself competent to fulfill the duties of a post, it is good for him to endeavor to obtain it if thereby he can contribute towards the welfare of others.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
3. One on whom honors and positions are conferred should have as his principal thought the accomplishment of the duties connected with his position. He must not think much of himself on account of the honor; it makes him no better in God's sight.

Virtue alone gives a man true worth and distinction. Herod was a king; Mary and Joseph were poor laborers. But Mary and Joseph now are very near God, and surely Herod is not so near God. “Whoever wishes to become great among you shall be your servant; and whoever wishes to be first among you shall be your slave; even as the Son of Man has not come to be served but to serve” (Matt. 20:27-28).

4. Public officials must set a good example because they occupy a conspicuous position, and because example is better than precept. Officials do more by their example than by their orders and regulations.

Like a city seated on a mountain, public officials cannot be hid. Others quickly imitate them. What a responsibility before God is it for an official to lead an immoral life and thus corrupt numerous young people by his bad example! What a scandal it is for an official to be the first to break the law!

How should public officials PROMOTE THE GENERAL WELFARE?

Public officials should promote the general welfare by safeguarding the rights of all, passing good and just laws and enforcing these laws impartially, interesting themselves in the spread of good moral customs and religion, and punishing evildoers.

1. Being the representatives of God, public officials should imitate His justice. The common good, not the benefit of a single person or group, should be the object.

Civil officials should be ready to sacrifice themselves for the citizens.

2. Officials must be impartial. They must show favor to none, but treat all equally, rich or poor, prominent or unknown. “With God there is no respect of persons” (Rom. 2:11).

Judges must beware of acting unjustly, or of allowing themselves to be corrupted by bribes. They must not let the rich and powerful induce them to give unjust judgment. Acceptance of bribes by public officials is a sin against the seventh commandment. “For the Lord of all shows no partiality, nor he fears greatness, because he himself made the great as well as the small, and he provides for all alike” (Wis. 6:8).

3. Public officials should particularly provide for the welfare of the poor and helpless: the destitute, sick, orphan, and the great body of the working people.

These less fortunate citizens often have no power to protect themselves. The laws and rulers must therefore safeguard them without, however, injuring the welfare and rights of others.

4. Officials have a serious obligation to promote the Christian foundations of our Constitution.

They should work to make Christian principles prevail in a Christian country; to safeguard education and marriage, and respect the Lord's Day.

WHAT DOES the fourth commandment FORBID?

The fourth commandment forbids disrespect, unkindness, and disobedience to our parents and lawful superiors.

1. Disrespect includes all irreverence and stubbornness against lawful authority. One offends against the respect due his parents when he talks back at them, refuses their correction, ridicules them or strikes them.

One who thinks and acts as if he were “superior” to his parents is a disgraceful snob. For even if a son or daughter has graduated with highest honors from the best university in the world, he still owes his parents due respect as God’s representatives.

2. Contempt and unkindness are contrary to the love we owe our parents. One offends against the love due his parents if he curses them, despises them, hates them, grieves them, or makes them angry.

Children at times speak sharply and insultingly to their parents. If they would reflect upon parents’ endless sacrifices, they would burn out their tongues rather than speak contemptuously of their parents. “Anyone who curses his father or mother shall be put to death” (Lev. 20:9).

3. Children may sin against obedience either by refusing or neglecting to do what is commanded, or by doing what is forbidden. Showing unwillingness is also a form of disobedience.

A young child is disobedient if he neglects his studies, goes with forbidden companions, goes out without permission. Older children disobey by attending forbidden shows or dances, going out with forbidden companions or at forbidden times, or concealing their earnings from their parents.
Among the civic duties is that of voting. All who are granted this right should exercise it. They must not prostitute their right, but use it justly for the good of all.

It is the duty of every citizen to be loyal to his country, to support its institutions, and to respect its laws and its flag. A good Catholic is a good citizen.

106. Civic Duties

What are the duties of a citizen toward his country?

A citizen must love his country, be sincerely interested in its welfare, and respect and obey its lawful authority.

God gave us our country, and we show Him our gratitude by rendering it our love and service. Love is shown not by words, but by actions. But true love of country is always subject to the law of Him who gave us our country.

How does a citizen show a sincere interest in his country’s welfare?

A citizen shows a sincere interest in his country’s welfare by voting honestly and without selfish motives, by paying taxes, and by defending his country’s rights when necessary.

1. We are responsible to God for the men we elect to office, for He has permitted us to have the right and duty to select the men we want. Every one who has the right to vote has likewise a serious obligation to use that right properly. Electors must choose men of experience and Christian principles. If we elect men with no religious principles, we should not be surprised if later in office they turn out unsatisfactory.

2. Every Catholic who has the right to vote should exercise that right. Matters closely connected with the life of the people are the constant subject of legislation or debate. Even if your vote does not enable the good candidate to win, at least it will lessen the margin of his defeat. A Catholic elector must vote for the best candidate regardless of religious affiliation.

It is the Catholic voter's duty to vote for candidates that will act justly in questions of morals, and have the Christian principles at heart. Those who do not have the right to vote ought to pray for a result in the election favorable to upright men and the country in general.

3. A Catholic elector must not vote for any candidate who despises the teachings of the Church. Before voting, he should find out the candidate’s views of education, marriage, observance of Sunday, Communism and statism.

It may happen that all the candidates for an office are indifferent or hostile to religion. In that case, if no other candidate can be made available, the Catholic should vote for the one least hostile to Christian principles, most moral in his qualities.

4. We are bound to contribute towards the expenses of government by paying taxes. It is wrong to cheat the State in the matter of taxation.

It is only just that the citizens should contribute towards the maintenance of peace, order, good works, the army, etc. Our Lord Himself paid taxes (Matt. 17:26). It is only just that we should help support the government that secures us protection.

5. In case of a war, men should be ready to render military service for the defense of their country.

A war of conquest in which the just rights of other peoples are overridden is not just. A war in self-defense, however, may be just (see page 225), though under modern conditions it will be rarely justified. Those who during wartime offer their lives for the defense of their homeland will receive an eternal reward if they are in God's grace.

WHY must we RESPECT and OBEY the LAWFUL AUTHORITY of our country?

We must respect and obey the lawful authority of our country because it comes from God, the Source of all authority.

1. God has entrusted the maintenance of peace and order in human society to the secular authorities. It is His will that among so many some should rule and the others be subject to that rule, for law and order.

"There exists no authority except from God" (Rom. 13:1). "Be subject . . . whether to the king as supreme, or to governors as sent through him . . . for such is the will of God" (1 Pet. 2:13-15).

2. Our civil rulers or superiors are those who have authority in the government. We call them civil officials. Most of our officials obtain their offices by the vote of qualified electors. Therefore if we get a bad government, it is our own fault.

Our civil officials are the President, Senators, Representatives, Justices of the Supreme Court and other judges, governors, mayors, etc. Others, such as sheriffs, policemen, etc., are also civil officials.

3. We should be loyal to our civil officials, obey their just laws, and pray for them. We are bound to obey just laws, because all lawful authority comes from God (Rom. 13:1-7). With respect to unjust laws, we must strive wherever possible to insure their repeal. Laws contrary to divine law, opposed to the law of God, cannot be just. If, therefore, we are commanded to do what God forbids, or to desist from doing what He commands, we must obey God rather than men (Acts 5:29).

We should pray for our civil superiors, as St. Paul urges us: "I urge therefore, first of all, that supplications, prayers, intercessions and thanksgivings be made for all men; for kings, and for all in high positions, that we may lead a quiet and peaceful life in all piety and worthy behavior" (1 Tim. 2:1-2). We have a serious obligation towards our civil officials even if they are not the ones that we voted for. If God permitted them to obtain the post, we must render them support.

4. It is a sin to plot against our government and country. Treason is a crime against God and our fellowmen. We are bound to love our country and defend it against all its enemies, within and without. Citizens in a Communist dictatorship, where there is no chance for democracy or constitutionalism, may of course, resort to force against tyranny.

"Therefore he who resists the authority resists the ordinance of God; and they that resist bring on themselves condemnation" (Rom. 13:2).

Why are we obliged to take an active part in works of GOOD CITIZENSHIP?

We are obliged to take an active part in works of good citizenship, because right reason requires citizens to work together for the public welfare of the country.

The citizens of a State are mutually dependent: the welfare of all depends on the active contribution made by all. It is in a State where the citizens have no interest that evil men get into the public service in order to loot it, and enrich themselves at the expense of the public.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The first murder on earth was committed by Cain when he slew Abel. Cain said to his brother Abel, "Let us go out into the field." Now when they were in the field, Cain turned against his brother Abel and slew him. Then the Lord said to Cain, "Where is your brother Abel?" He answered, "I do not know. Am I my brother's keeper?" (Gen. 4:8-9). Murderers do not act as brothers of the murdered.

107. The Fifth Commandment
"You shall not kill" (Ex. 20:13)

WHAT ARE WE COMMANDED by the fifth commandment?

By the fifth commandment we are commanded to take proper care of our own spiritual and bodily well-being and that of our neighbor.

1. Sins against this commandment are many, including murder and suicide, and also anger, hatred, revenge, drunkenness, and bad example. We may almost say that all injury to body and soul is a violation of this commandment.

"The works of the flesh are manifest, which are ... enmities, contentions ... anger, quarrels ... murders, drunkenness, carousings, and such-like. And concerning these I warn you, as I have warned you, that they who do such things will not attain the kingdom of God" (Gal. 5:19-21).

2. Anger is a strong feeling of displeasure, combined with a desire to inflict punishment on the offender. It is contrary to the spirit of Christ, Who is meek and humble of heart. We must take care not to hurt or wound another's feelings. If we fall into the misfortune of doing so, we must apologize or make amends in some other way. "Do not let the sun go down upon your anger" (Eph. 4:26).

Anger often arises from pride or envy. Those who think much of themselves get angry at every supposed slight or injury. They should remember Christian charity, and fear these words: "Everyone who is angry with his brother shall be liable to judgment" (Matt. 5:22). "But let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, and slow to wrath. For the wrath of man does not work the justice of God" (James 1:19-20).
3. Hatred is a kind of habitual anger, a strong dislike of or ill-will towards anyone. When a person hates someone, he sees no good in the one hated; he would like to see evil rain down on the one hated; he rejoices in all misfortune of the one hated. Hatred is a sin because it violates God's commandment: "You shall love your neighbor as yourself."

If we hate certain qualities of a person, but have no antagonism towards the person himself, our feeling is not necessarily sinful. It is not hatred to detest the evil qualities of others; we must hate the sin, but not the sinner. We must be careful, however, not to commit rash judgment, regarding qualities, as we cannot know all circumstances; let us have charity towards all.

4. The sin of revenge is the desire to inflict immoderate or unjust punishment on someone who has injured us, from a motive of anger. When serious, revenge is vengeance, a sin against charity and justice, most sinful and unChristian. However much we are injured, we have no right to take the law into our hands.

St. Paul said, "Do not avenge yourselves, beloved, but give place to the wrath, for it is written: Vengeance is mine, I will repay, says the Lord" (Rom. 12:19). "Forgive your neighbor's injustice; then when you pray, your own sins will be forgiven" (Sirach 28:2).

What is MURDER?

Murder is the voluntary and unjust killing of a human being.

1. Murder is a great sin. A murderer violates the rights of God over human life, and, besides taking a life, robs his victim of the opportunity to gain merits for heaven, and prepare himself for death.

God created man, and has supreme dominion over life. "You know that no murderer has eternal life abiding in him" (1 John 3:15).

2. The direct intention to kill an innocent person is always forbidden, as against this commandment, whether it be by public or private authority. And the human body may not be mutilated unless that were the only way to preserve the health or save a life.

Since violation of the body is forbidden except to save life or health, anyone performing "sterilization" for the purpose of preventing conception commits grave sin.

Some would propagate the idea of euthanasia, or "mercy killing", a direct and deliberate killing of those in great pain, of the defective, moronic, or otherwise incapacitated. Such "mercy killers" are murderers, who usurp the rights of God over life.

3. A mother bearing a child should be very careful to protect and preserve the life of her child. As the soul is created at the very moment of conception, anything wilfully done which results in the death of even an unborn child is murder.

Not even to save the mother's life may an unborn child be killed by direct abortion. If the death of the child results secondarily, in an attempt to save the mother's life, and after all precautions have been taken to safeguard the child, this is indirect abortion, and is permitted, for grave cause. In the United States one pregnancy out of three ends in abortion.

4. It is lawful to kill animals for food, because God has given them for the use of man. The fifth commandment forbids the killing only of human beings. God Himself commanded the killing of animals for sacrifice, after having given this commandment.

It is our duty to care for animals, refrain from tormenting them, and from killing any useful animal without reasons; but we must not lavish on them exaggerated affection, as if they were idols.

WHEN IS IT LAWFUL to take another's life?

It is lawful to take another's life:

1. In self-defense, or the defense of another unjustly attacked. A woman may kill, to protect herself against criminal assault. One may defend life or property against enemies, going so far as to kill.

One, however, may not do more than what is needed for defense; if wounding an assailant is sufficient, it would be wrong to kill him. One is not justified to kill in order to protect property of trifling value. Setting a trap to kill a chicken thief is murder.

2. In executing criminals condemned by legitimate authority. Society must protect itself from crime, and may through constituted authority order a sentence of death.

Private persons and mobs have no right to put anyone to death. Lynching is murder.

3. In a just war. A nation has the right to exist and protect itself. It is lawful for it to repel by force those seeking to destroy it, and thus to defend its rights in a grave matter. Nations may also assist other nations unjustly attacked, or whose rights are encroached upon.

War, however, is an evil which must not be embarked upon except as a last resort.
After betraying Our Lord, Judas fell into despair. "Then Judas, who betrayed him, when he saw that he was condemned, repented and brought back the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priest, and the elders, saying: 'I have sinned in betraying innocent blood.' But they said 'What is that to us? See it thyself.' And he flung the pieces of silver into the temple, and withdrew; and went away and hanged himself with a halter" (Matt. 27:3-5). If Judas had repented, instead of despairing, and had asked pardon, Our Lord would have forgiven him, as He forgave the good thief.

108. Caring for Our Health and Life

WHAT ARE OUR DUTIES respecting our health and life?

We have the obligation to preserve our health and life.

1. Man has no right to encroach upon God's dominion over life; man created no human being, and he may not kill any human being, not even his own self. Our body is not our own; it belongs to God. We are bound to take care of it, and to do with it not what we wish, but what God wills. God created our body as an abode for our immortal soul.

Very often the condition of the body affects that of the soul. If the body is unhealthy, the soul suffers. There is a wise Roman proverb: "A healthy mind in a healthy body." However, we are not obliged to employ unusual means involving great expense, or extraordinary suffering.

2. We must exercise prudence in preserving our health and that of those under our care. Prudence would imply cleanliness, temperance, regularity, industry, and the use of remedies during sickness.

Driving a car at excessive speed, crossing the tracks when a train is approaching, playing with loaded firearms, jumping into or out of a car when it is in motion, are imprudent actions, taking risks for insufficient reason.

3. We have the obligation to do nothing which tends to injure or destroy health or life. It injures health to indulge to excess in eating, drinking, smoking, dancing until all hours, and vanity in dress.

Some women and girls are gravely responsible for not eating proper food out of a desire to keep thin and thus be more pleasing in the eyes of
Why is DRUNKENNESS A SIN?

Drunkenness is a sin because it injures the health, and often leads to other sins.

"Let us walk" becomingly as in the day, not in revelry and drunkenness, not in debauchery and wantonness, not in strife and jealousy. But put on the Lord Jesus Christ, and as for the flesh, take no thought for its lusts (Rom. 13:13).

1. By drunkenness one deliberately becomes without just cause his reason, a precious gift from God to man.

St. Paul said: "The works of the flesh are manifest, which are... enmities... drunkenness, carousings, and suchlike. And concerning these I warn you, as I have warned you, that they who do such things will not attain the kingdom of God" (Gal. 5:19-21).

2. When committed publicly, drunkenness occasions bad example and scandal, and has often promoted fights and even murder. By habitual drinking, a person not only injures his health, but neglects the support of his family, and not unlikely also fails in his obligations to the State and to God.

Drunkenness is a form of slow suicide; drunkards do not live long. If a man would reason the matter out, he would never submit to the vice of drunkenness, which lowers him in the sight of God and of his fellow-men.

What is SUICIDE?

Suicide is the deliberate taking of one's own life.

1. Suicide is a great sin: it is self-murder. The Church denies Christian burial to those who knowingly take their own life. By this the Church does not mean that those souls are surely condemned to hell. Their judgment is in the hands of God. The Church merely wishes to show public condemnation of such sins.

One who commits suicide sins against God. Who is the exclusive arbiter of life or death; he sins against himself, by exposing himself to be plunged into hell; and he sins against his family, whom he leaves to bear his shame, and perhaps to live in want for lack of his support.

2. Suicide is the result of lack of religion. Experience teaches that as religion weakens in a land, the number of suicides increases.

Suicide is usually committed by one who has gotten into trouble, or committed some great sin, lost his fortune, or cannot bear some disappointment.

If we get into trouble, we should have patience and trust in God.

3. Suicide is the sin of those in despair, who do not believe or hope in God's mercy and ability to carry them through all adversities. Suicide is a sin of Judas.

The suicide no longer holds that God forgives anything and everything when a sinner repents. He no longer holds that God is infinitely merciful, and infinitely powerful, that He can draw good out of the most horrible evils.

4. If one committed great sins, the remedy is not to commit suicide, but to repent. The thing to do is not to hang or shoot or poison oneself, but to cling to God in sincere sorrow.

Even if one has to suffer contempt and disgrace in this life for his sins, he will only be preparing his soul for heaven. But if he commits suicide, he will only be preparing it for the torments of hell.

DUEL

A duel is a combat carried out by agreement between two persons, fought with deadly weapons, usually before witnesses called seconds. Duelling is nothing else but suicide and murder combined. A Catholic is bound to refuse to fight a duel. Christian burial is denied to those who are killed in a duel.

The duellist is guilty of a double murder: he intends to kill his antagonist, and he risks his own life. The Church excommunicates those who challenge or accept a challenge to a duel, the seconds, and all who sanction a duel by their presence.

HEROIC DEATH

It is not wrong, but highly meritorious, to endanger our health and life in order to gain everlasting life, or to rescue our fellow-men from physical or spiritual death. Christ Himself knowingly gave His life to save souls.

Martyrs, priests and missionaries, doctors and nurses who expose their lives, merit an eternal reward. Those who lose their lives rescuing others deserve renown. "And do not be afraid of those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul. But rather be afraid of him who is able to destroy both soul and body in hell" (Matt. 10:28). "He who finds his life will lose it, and he who loses his life for my sake, will find it" (Matt. 10:39).
Christ said, concerning scandalizing children: "But whoever causes one of these little ones who believe in me to sin, it were better for him to have a great millstone hung around his neck, and to be drowned in the depths of the sea. Woe to the world because of scandals! For it must needs be that scandals come, but woe to the man through whom scandal does come!" (Matt. 18:6-7).

109. Bad Example and Scandal

What is BAD EXAMPLE?

Bad example is doing wrong in the presence of others.

1. Bad example is the principal occasion of scandal, which is occasioning the sin of another by any word or deed having at least the appearance of evil. If any help or encouragement is given in any way to cause another to do wrong, scandal is committed or given.

Bad example and scandal are sins against the soul included in the Fifth Commandment. They injure our neighbor's soul, and so are worse evils than injuring his body. They do the devil's work and draw souls into hell. If by deliberate scandal and bad example we cause another to commit a grave sin, we are worse than murderers. St. Augustine said, "If you persuade your neighbor to sin, you are his murderer."

2. Our Lord condemned scandal in no uncertain terms, saying: "Woe to the man through whom scandal does come! And if thy hand or thy foot is an occasion of sin to thee, cut it off and cast it from thee! It is better for thee to enter life maimed or lame, than, having two hands or two feet, to be cast into the everlasting fire" (Matt. 18:7-8).

Grievous indeed must scandal be, to make our gentle Lord use such strong words of condemnation. "The Son of man will send forth his angels, and they will gather out of his kingdom all scandals and those who work iniquity, and cast them into the furnace of fire" (Matt. 13:41-42).

3. Some ways of giving bad example or scandal are: by indecent talk, by selling or circulating bad books or pictures, by singing improper songs, by dressing immodestly, by appearing in public in a state of drunkenness, by profanity and cursing, by doing servile work publicly on Sunday, by behaving indecorously in church, by ridiculing religion and priests, by writing against religion, by publicly violating one of the commandments of God or the Church, etc.

We should be very careful in our actions, however innocent, so that they may not be the cause of scandal to others. “And if thy eye is an occasion of sin to thee, pluck it out and cast it from thee! It is better for thee to enter into life with one eye, than, having two eyes, to be cast into the hell of fire” (Matt. 18:9).

4. By committing scandalous acts a person influences others to do the same. This is specially true of children, who easily imitate their parents and elders. He who gives scandal is like a man who digs a pit into which others fall, break their necks.

Parents who quarrel in the presence of their children, however great the provocation, set them a bad example, and commit scandal. Public officials who break the law by gambling or immorality give scandal. Older brothers who go to forbidden shows and other places, or take their younger brothers with them are guilty of scandal. Older sisters who are excessively vain in their toilette give bad example to their younger sisters.

5. We should avoid giving scandal as far as possible. We even ought to abstain from good actions of counsel if they may give scandal. For example, if one is dispensed from abstinence on account of bad health, he should refrain from eating meat before others, in order to prevent their being scandalized. Otherwise, he should explain why he eats the meats.

The aged Eleazar preferred to die rather than give the mere appearance that he was eating swine’s flesh, which was forbidden by the Law. He feared to scandalize young persons, who might think he had gone over to the ranks of the heathen (2 Mach. 6:24).

WHAT MUST WE DO if we have been the occasion of scandal or bad example?

If we have been the occasion of scandal or bad example, we are bound to repair the mischief done.

A public scandal must be repaired in a public manner. Even then we usually cannot begin to repair the greater part of the evil we have caused.

We must try our best to save those we have scandalized from the effects of our example. We must perform the contrary virtue, incite them by good example, and pray for them. We ought to be more careful about giving scandal, because of the difficulty, nay, almost the impossibility, of repairing the effects of scandal.

THE CROSS

LATIN CROSS  GREEK CROSS  CELTIC CROSS  EASTERN CROSS  PATRIARCHAL CROSS  TAU CROSS  ST. ANDREW’S CROSS

The crucifix is a symbol of the Redemption, and of Christianity in general. The crucifix differs from a cross, in that it has on it an image of Christ’s body. Every home should have a crucifix displayed in a prominent place. The symbol INRI at the top of the crucifix is made up of the first letters of the Latin inscription meaning Jesus of Nazareth King of the Jews. Pontius Pilate ordered this inscription on a tablet placed on the cross over Jesus’ head. It was written in Hebrew, Latin, and Greek.

Most common forms of the cross are: the Latin cross, the Greek cross, the Celtic cross, and the archiepiscopal or patriarchal cross, and the tau cross. The Latin cross is the most common, what we almost always see. The Greek cross has four arms of equal length. The Celtic cross has the arms connected by a circle. The archiepiscopal or patriarchal cross has two cross bars. The tau cross resembles the letter T; it is called “tau” because that is the Greek word for our letter T. Another variety, called St. Andrew’s cross, is in the form of the letter X, and is so called because the Apostle Andrew was put to death on such a cross. The feast of “The Exaltation of the Holy Cross” is celebrated September 14th.
God punishes the sin of impurity very severely even here on earth. For that sin He destroyed all living things except those in the ark of Noah during the great deluge. "For all men lived corruptly on the earth...I will destroy them" (Gen. 6:13).

Far the same sin God destroyed Sodom and Gomorra: "The Lord poured down on Sodom and Gomorra sulphur and fire" (Gen. 19:24). Today the site of these cities is covered by the Dead Sea, an everpresent reminder of the evil of impurity.

110. The Sixth and Ninth Commandments

"You shall not commit adultery" (Ex. 20:14)

WHAT ARE WE COMMANDED by the six and ninth commandments?

By the sixth commandment we are commanded to be pure and modest in our behavior; by the ninth, in thought and in desire.

"Do you not know that your members are the temple of the Holy Spirit, who is in you? ... Glorify God, and bear him in your body" (1 Cor. 6:19-20). "Beloved, I exhort you as strangers and pilgrims to abstain from carnal desires which war against the soul" (1 Peter 2:11).

1. The sixth and ninth commandments are studied together because they both deal with commands about purity. The sixth commandment refers to external acts, and the ninth to wilful thoughts and desires.

"The body is not for immorality, but for the Lord, and the Lord for the body" (1 Cor. 6:13).

2. God has always shown special love for those whose chastity is outstanding. Consider how He chose that purest of all mortals, the Blessed Virgin, as His Mother. Our Lord chose St. John, the virgin Apostle, as the Beloved Disciple; it was John who was privileged to lean on His Heart at the Last Supper; it was to him that Christ entrusted His Mother.

WHAT DOES the sixth commandment FORBID?

The sixth commandment forbids all immorality and immodesty in words, looks, and actions, whether alone or with others. To distinguish between the virtues of "purity" and "modesty," let us say that purity regulates the expression of the rights of the married and excludes them outside the married state; while modesty is a form of temperance which inclines one to refrain from what may lead to unlawful pleasure.

1. This commandment forbids adultery, which is the unfaithfulness of a married person. It is a duty before God and men for married people to be true to each other. Adultery is a great evil which breaks up the harmony of the family, and brings punishments in this life and the next.

Adultery is a sin not only against chastity, but also against justice; because it is injustice towards the spouse of the married person. In the Old Law the adulterer was punished with death.

2. Matrimony is a holy state, through which Almighty God intends the propagation of the race. Actions in accordance with this purpose of matrimony are permitted to the married, but positively forbidden to the unmarried. Fornication is at all times a grave sin.

By “the married” is meant those Catholics validly married in the Catholic Church. Catholics who marry before a justice of the peace or a non-Catholic minister, cannot live together as married people, because they are not married either in the eyes of the Church or before God. If those Catholics who are not married before a Catholic priest live together and have children, these are considered illegitimate, and are so registered at Baptism.

3. All impure and immodest actions, whether committed alone or with others, are forbidden. When impurity is committed deliberately, it is always a mortal sin.

The gravity of the sin of immodesty varies according to its nature, the conditions, and the relationship of the persons committing it. A good rule would be to refrain from doing anything you would be ashamed to have your pure mother or chaste daughter know you do.

WHAT ARE THE CHIEF DANGERS to the virtue of chastity?

The chief dangers to the virtue of chastity are: idleness, sinful curiosity, bad companions, drinking, immodest dress and indecent books, plays, motion pictures, television.

Do not try to discover knowledge of sexual matters from companions. Ask older people whom you respect. And it is not enough to avoid the occasions; one must do the positive, opposite to the dangers. “Watch and pray, that you may not enter into temptation. The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak” (Matt. 26:41).

1. Idleness is the parent of sin. Man is like the earth: if it is not planted to good seed, weeds grow on it fast. So a person is beset by all kinds of evil temptations unless he has some worthwhile occupation.

When iron is not used, it begins to rust. And so man, who was made to be active, stagnates and becomes foul when nothing occupies him all day.

2. Sinful curiosity is a dangerous occasion of unchastity. So is too free companionship with the other sex. Undue familiarity between opposite sexes inflames the passions, just as straw blazes up when brought near the fire. Girls and young women certainly know that if they want to be respected, they must respect themselves, and not be too familiar with men.

There is a tendency today to mix up boys and girls indiscriminately in classrooms, in gatherings, in games, etc. Such familiarity rubs off the delicacy from girls, and the protective and gallant instinct from boys. Extremes should be avoided; the danger is because of undue familiarity.

3. Bad companions are the cause for the fall into impurity of numberless young people.

A rotten tomato in a basket will rot all the rest. We should carefully avoid persons whose conversation is unchaste. Those who take pleasure in listening to improper conversation run a serious risk of falling into sins of impurity.

4. Excess in eating and drinking encourages sensuality, and will surely end in sins of impurity.

As an indication of this truth, fasting is associated with holy persons, dedicated to religious work and penance. If a man is taken up with his stomach, he will have no thought for his soul.

5. Immodesty and excessive luxury in dress is a grave occasion for impurity. A beautifully dressed girl is pleasing to look at; but the “art of looking nice” should not be indulged in to excess. Those who dress immodestly are instruments of the devil for the ruin of souls.

Women whose aim in life is to deck themselves in order to attract the attention of men are putting themselves in the way of unchastity. Undue longing for admiration does not come from a simple or childlike heart.

6. Indecent books, plays, motion pictures, television, as well as immoral magazines and newspapers should be avoided like the plague.

Bad shows, whether on the stage or the screen corrupt more subtly than immoral conversation, because what one sees leaves a stronger impression. Moreover, bad shows represent evil in attractive garb.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The illustration shows the holy queen Blanche of France and her young son, later St. Louis, King of France. From babyhood the queen brought up her son in the love of God. She used to say to him over and over that she would rather see him dead than have him commit sin. She guarded him particularly, so that he grew up chaste in body and soul. All mothers should imitate Queen Blanche; the training she gave helped her son in living a pure and holy life, and in becoming a great saint.

111. Sinful Desires Against Chastity

WHAT IS FORBIDDEN by the ninth commandment?

The ninth commandment forbids all thoughts and desires contrary to chastity.

"You have heard that it was said to the ancients, 'Thou shalt not commit adultery.' But I say to you that anyone who even looks with lust at a woman has already committed adultery with her in his heart" (Matt. 5:27-28).

An impure desire is the wish or intention to do something unchaste or impure. Almost always, sins against purity, thoughts and desires as well as acts, are grave or mortal sins. Whenever we are beset by temptation, we should immediately pray, especially to our beloved Mother, the purest of mortals.

An impure desire, however, is a venial sin if committed through lack of attention or reflection, through negligence or slowness in rejecting a thought, or by giving only a partial consent. Only full and deliberate consent makes a sin mortal. "Blessed are the clean of heart, for they shall see God" (Matthew 5:80).

ARE MERE THOUGHTS about impure things always sinful in themselves?

Mere thoughts about impure things are not always sinful in themselves, but such thoughts are dangerous.

1. It is a mistake to suppose that all impure thoughts and desires are sinful. We are not responsible for the wicked thoughts that enter our mind unless we bring them in ourselves. But we should try to avoid all such thoughts, by occupying ourselves in something useful.

Thinking often of something makes us used to that thing; we are in danger of losing our fear of impurity by familiarizing ourselves with thoughts of impure things. It is like walking on the brink of the abyss of sin—any little push may throw us in.

2. A mere temptation to impurity, even when accompanied by bodily feeling, is not sinful unless there is wilful consent, at least to some degree. The stronger the temptation, the more merit we gain if we are faithful and resist. No matter how long the temptation lasts, even if it lasts our whole life, as long as we give it no consent, we are free from sin.

St. Catherine of Siena was once severely tempted against purity. Shortly after Our Lord appeared to her. She asked, "Where art Thou, Lord, when those evil thoughts were in my mind?" Jesus replied, "I was in thy heart, taking pleasure in the victorious battle thou wast waging."

3. By resisting an impure thought or desire is not meant thinking of and pondering over it. In temptation of this nature the most effective means is to reject it at once, then to ignore it, to do something else to distract the mind. Worrying about the temptation only makes it more persistent.

WHEN DO THOUGHTS about impure things BECOME SINFUL?

Thoughts about impure things become sinful when a person thinks of an unchaste act and deliberately takes pleasure in so thinking, or when unchaste desire or passion is aroused and consent is given to it.

An impure thought or desire becomes sinful when instead of rejecting it we take pleasure in it and keep it in our mind. Impure desires, if not rejected, lead to impure acts and a life of vice.

It is said that the model the great artist Leonardo da Vinci used for the figure of Jesus Christ in his painting "The Last Supper" was a young man of exceptional beauty, whose countenance expressed innocence and purity in a remarkable degree.

Some years after, when Leonardo da Vinci was ready to draw the figure of Judas the traitorous Apostle, he had a difficult time trying to find a model. So he went into the most disreputable haunts of the city, to seek a suitable model. He saw all sorts of criminals, immoral men altogether lost to all sense of decency, but still he was not satisfied.

At last one day he espied a wreck of a man, slinking in a corner of a low resort. His face had an expression so vicious and diabolical that the artist knew his search for a model for Judas was ended. Going near, he prevailed upon the fellow, with the offer of a great sum of money, to sit as a model.

The series of sittings was about to end, when one day Leonardo da Vinci said, "You know, since you came, I have always had a feeling that I have seen you somewhere before. I must be wrong, but the feeling persists. . . ." Thereupon the man in an outburst of despair cried, "Yes, you have seen me before! I was the innocent young man who sat as a model for the figure of that Christ there. . . . And now, see how I am sitting for Judas, for Judas . . ."

What are the chief MEANS OF PRESERVING the virtue of CHASTITY?

The chief means of preserving the virtue of chastity are: to avoid carefully all unnecessary dangers, to seek God's help through prayer, frequent confession, Holy Communion, and assistance at Holy Mass, and to have a special devotion to the Blessed Virgin.

1. In all things form the habit of temperance. Avoid all unnecessary dangers; do not take any chances with unchastity; do not experiment. If you put a match to gunpowder it is sure to explode; there is no necessity to try and see whether it will not.

Shun the company of those that are impure. Impurity is no wonderful achievement to be proud about: any idiot can be impure. It is the strong soul that resists temptation and keeps himself clean. It is the chaste person that possesses manly strength.

2. Always remember that God sees us. Let us therefore seek His help through prayer.

"Watch and pray that you may not enter into temptation. The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak" (Mark 14:38). For instruction about matters of sex, go to your parents or to your pastor or older people whom you know are good.

3. Be always modest and pure in your dress, posture, and conversation. This is not only to save yourself from immodesty, but to avoid giving occasion to others to sin, or being even an unwitting cause for others to sin.

Women who waste hours looking at themselves in the mirror, painting their faces and varnishing their nails, or choosing clothes to put on, care more for their body than for their soul. They should remember that after death, they will become skull and bones just like the rest.

4. Besides approaching regularly the sacrament of Penance, attend Holy Mass with Communion as frequently as possible.

Thus we follow the injunction: "Walk in the spirit, and you shall not fulfill the lusts of the flesh" (Gal. 5:16).

5. We should have a special love and devotion for our Blessed Mother, and daily ask her to preserve us in the chastity that she so greatly cherished.
Parents should be most careful to teach their children honesty in thought, word, and deed. As the child, so the man. If parents laugh indulgently at their child stealing food from the cupboard (1), keeping back change after errands, copying in examinations, throwing stones to break windows, defacing walls and books, picking flowers and fruits from another person’s garden, then those parents must not be surprised if when the child is grown up, he steals from the bank (2), forges signatures, cheats his employers and becomes a usurer.

112. The Seventh and Tenth Commandments

"You shall not steal" (Ex. 20:15) "You shall not covet your neighbor’s house" (Ex. 20:17)

WHAT ARE WE COMMANDED by the seventh commandment?

By the seventh commandment we are commanded to respect what belongs to others, to live up to our business agreements, and to pay our just debts.

"Do not act dishonestly in using measures of length or weight or capacity. You shall have a true scale and true weights, an honest epha and an honest hin" (Lev. 19:35-36). "Better a little with justice than a large income with injustice" (Prov. 16:8). "The wicked man borrows and does not repay" (Ps. 36:21).

1. The seventh and tenth commandments are treated together because both deal with property. The seventh commandment refers to external acts, and the tenth to intentions or desires, against honesty.

One who is starving may, however, take what he absolutely needs. The right to live is above the right of property. But this permission must be used only in rare and extreme cases, when all other means have been exhausted.

2. The obligations regarding honesty are imposed on us in conscience, even though the civil laws may not compel us.

"Take heed and guard yourself from all covetousness, for a man’s life does not consist in the abundance of his possessions" (Luke 12:15). Violations of these commandments are opposed to natural law and justice, and are an attack on society, a menace to public security and peace.
CHIEF VIOLATIONS OF THE SEVENTH COMMANDMENT

1. STEALING or theft is the secret taking of another person’s property.

Few sins are more common than theft. Covetousness leads to theft. Those who like to show themselves off in luxury but have not the means frequently resort to theft. One must be very careful in avoiding even petty thefts, or he will contract a vice, and in a short time will find himself stealing more valuable things.

2. ROBBERY is the open and forcible taking of another person’s property. Robbery or stealing is a slight or grave sin according to the injury done. Stealing a day’s wages from a person is usually a mortal sin.

Stealing even a very small amount from a very poor person can be a mortal sin. A number of different small thefts from the same person or different persons within the space of one or two months, and amounting to a considerable sum, may be a mortal sin.

3. CHEATING is depriving another of his property by crafty means. Included in cheating are: using false weights and measures, issuing counterfeit money, adulterating food and other products for sale, forgery, falsification of documents, smuggling, tampering with boundary lines, overcharging, excessive profits, arson with a view to collection of insurance money, etc.

Copying during an examination, or copying the work of another and presenting it as one’s own work is also cheating. By it one obtains credit for what does not belong to him, and often gets what justly belongs to another. Copyrights are a form of property that must be respected.

4. USURY is the charging of excessive interest on money. A usurer takes unjust advantage of the need of another in order to make excessive profits. Under the appearance of helping the needy, a usurer involves them in greater hardships, taking from them their means of livelihood.

Another form of dishonesty is cornering the market, which consists in buying up the entire supply of one product, such as wheat, for the purpose of forcing up prices, and thus making excessive profits.

5. UNJUST DAMAGE done to the property of others is against the seventh commandment. One may injure another’s property by setting it on fire, treading down his crops, fishing or shooting on his grounds without permission, pulling down fences, defacing books, furniture, and buildings, etc. One who does wilful damage to another’s property must make good the loss. Accidental damage need not be made good, unless it came about through culpable negligence.

Thoughtless persons who pass through a farm sometimes pick fruit, vegetables, or corn. Some travelers have the bad habit of taking towels, dishes, pens, and similar things from trains, boats, and hotels as souvenirs. Children pick flowers from other people’s gardens, throw stones at houses, write on desks, walls, and fences. They should be taught not to injure the property of others.

6. Public officials must be very careful not to ACCEPT BRIBES; they must guard against all signs of embezzlement.

Officials are placed in office not to enrich themselves, but to serve the public. They must treat all the citizens fairly and justly, reject all dishonest efforts to sway them from honesty, shun all kinds of peculation, and be most careful in their duty.

7. It is a sin to contract debts beyond one’s ability to pay, and not to pay debts when due, even if able.

Young people should not go into debt; most of them, not having as yet any means of earning, would have no sure source from which to repay their debts. It is very wrong to get into debt to satisfy a craving for amusement, in order to buy more and more fashionable clothes, etc. But once in debt, to pay is a moral obligation.

8. Employers who do not pay a just living wage defraud others, and are guilty of injustice. Employees who waste time, do bad work willfully, or neglect to take reasonable care of their employers’ property violate the seventh commandment.

(Regarding relations between employers and employees, see more on pages 240-241.)

9. Another sin against this commandment is the violation of business contracts.

One may be guilty of dishonesty by obtaining money or goods from others for a specific purpose and using the donated articles for other purposes. One who borrows books, instruments, etc. must take care of them and return them in proper condition and in the proper time. Children must not steal from parents, or keep change from purchases.

10. Buying or receiving stolen goods is a sin against the seventh commandment; those who buy or receive stolen goods help and encourage thieves for the sake of gain.

Receiving all or a portion of the estate of a deceased person contrary to the expressed wishes of that person is a sin of dishonesty, even if done with the approval of civil courts.
113. Reparation of Damage to Property

Are we obliged TO REPAIR DAMAGE UNJUSTLY DONE to the property of others?

We are obliged to repair damage unjustly done to the property of others, or to pay the amount of the damage, as far as we are able.

"When a man is burning over a field or a vineyard, if he lets the fire spread so that it burns in another's field, he must make restitution with the best produce of his own field or vineyard" (Ex. 22:4).

1. If we have unknowingly, by purchase or gift, obtained possession of stolen property, we are bound to restore it to the rightful owner, as soon as we learn the truth.

We are just possessors only as long as we do not know the goods were stolen. As soon as we become aware of that fact, we must give up the property. "The beginning of a good way is to do justice; and this is more acceptable with God, than to offer sacrifices ... Better is a little with justice, than great revenues with iniquity" (Proverbs 16:5, 8).

2. If one refuses to restore stolen property or to repair damage he has unjustly done to the property of others, he cannot be forgiven. He will not obtain pardon from God, nor absolution from the priest, even if he confess his sin over and over again.

As long as one does not sincerely intend to make reparation, his sin will not be remitted, even though he entreat divine pardon with weeping, or seek to appease divine justice by fasts and penances. It was not till Zacheus declared his determination to make restitution that Our Lord called him a son of Abraham (Luke 19:9).

3. Justice requires reparation of the evil we do, in so far as we have ability to make that reparation. Without restitution or reparation, there is no forgiveness.
St. Alphonsus relates the story of a rich man who had an ulcer in the arm and was near death. The priest urged him to restore the property he had unjustly acquired, but the man refused, saying that if he did so, his three sons would be left penniless.

The priest then said he knew of a cure for the rich man's disease: a living person must allow his hand to be burned, and while still raw, be applied to the ulcer. Eager to get well, the rich man had his three sons called, but not one of them was willing to have his hand burned.

The priest then said: “See, not one of your sons will burn a hand for you; yet you are willing to burn in hell-fire for all eternity, only to leave them your wealth.” The rich man's eyes were opened, and he consented to make restitution.

4. A person who has accidentally damaged the property of another is not obliged to repair the damage unless required by civil law. Employees are bound to take reasonable care of the property of employers.

Are we obliged TO RESTORE TO the owner STOLEN GOODS, OR their value?

We are obliged to restore to the owner stolen goods, or their value, whenever we are able.

“When a man steals an ox or a sheep and slughters or sells it, he shall restore five oxen for the one ox, and four sheep for the one sheep” (Ex. 21:37).

1. If the rightful owner is dead, the property must be restored to his heirs. If there are no heirs, it must be given to the poor or for some other charitable purpose.

If the thief cannot restore all he has stolen, he must restore all he can. If he has used what has been stolen, he must repair the damage done by restoring the equivalent. If he cannot restore anything, he must at least pray for the person he has wronged.

2. If poverty or some other circumstance prevent the thief from making restitution immediately, he must resolve to do so as soon as possible, and must make an effort to fulfill his resolution.

Restitution may be made secretly, without letting the owner know that restitution is being made. For instance, a money-order may be sent with a fictitious name; or the priest, who is pledged to secrecy, may be entrusted with the property to be restored.

3. If we find an article of value, we must strive to discover the owner, in order to restore the article. The more valuable it is, the greater our obligation to discover the owner and restore it to him. If after all our earnest efforts we fail to find the rightful owner, we may keep the article.

A mason, engaged in repairing the stone wall of a building, found a metal box hidden in a cavity in the wall. He broke open the box and found that it contained jewels of all descriptions. He at once concealed the box and took it home without telling anyone what he had found. A few days afterwards, wishing to realize some money on the jewels, he took out several from the box and offered them to a jeweler for sale. The jeweler immediately had him arrested. The jewels he had offered were recognized as having belonged to a rich merchant who had been robbed and murdered a month before. The mason was unable to prove that he had merely found the box of jewels. He was tried and imprisoned for life for the murder of the merchant.

WHAT DOES the tenth commandment FORBID?

The tenth commandment forbids all desire to take or to keep unjustly what belongs to others, and also forbids envy at their success.

We are permitted to desire the property of others only when we propose to obtain it by legitimate means, such as by purchase or exchange.

“For covetousness is the root of all evils, and some in their eagerness to get rich have strayed from the faith and have involved themselves in many troubles” (1 Tim. 6:10).

AMONG THOSE GUILTY of violating the tenth commandment are:

(a) Those who desire or resolve to steal or cause loss to others, even if the resolution is not carried out;

(b) Children who wish for the death of their parents in order to obtain their property;

(c) Those who wish for war, epidemics, storms, fire, legal troubles, social outbreaks or other calamities, in order to profit from the resulting high prices of their products; and

(d) Those who deny the right of private property, such as Communists.

Communism is an extreme form of Socialism, a form of politico-economic system in which ownership of all property is vested in civil society, which then would control both production and distribution. It has repeatedly been condemned in papal encyclicals, notably those of Leo XIII, Pius XI and XII.
The government should protect the right of private ownership. Citizens are most contented when they have some property to call their own, on which they can depend for the necessities of their families and for maintenance in their old age. Problems of peace and order increase with the increase of people who have no property of their own to think about. Something is wrong when a country's wealth is in the hands of a limited few; everyone should be owner of something, however little.

114. Distribution of Property

What is THE INDUSTRIAL PROBLEM of the modern world?

The industrial problem of the modern world is the question of honesty in economic matters regarding social and civic aspects, and a just distribution of property—problems of religion because they concern fundamental human rights.

Some of the major phases of the problem are dealt with in the papal encyclicals Rerum Novarum (1891) of Leo XIII, Quadragesimo Anno (1931) of Pius XI, and Mater et Magistra (1961) of John XXIII.

1. The seventh and tenth commandments direct the exercise of justice between man and man in the possession and use of property. The rights of all must be respected; everyone must be given his due. In the modern world this has raised a continuing issue between the employer and the employee—between Capital and Labor—on the subject of returns justly proportionate to corresponding contribution to industry.

This modern problem arose from the Industrial Revolution of the nineteenth century, when machinery came to be widely used, and the factory system was developed. In consequence enormous wealth came to be concentrated in the hands of the propertied classes, while for the laboring classes there was a progressive lowering of wages below living standards.

2. The problem has led to class conflict and class tensions in some countries. Communists have tried to exploit this situation. Industrially advanced countries based on constitutionalism have largely solved the problem through reform. Reform, not revolution, is the answer to the industrial problem.
Distribution of Property

With great care people will consider not only the rights, but also the needs, of each factor in the modern conflict. Even from the point of view of strict justice alone, something does appear unbalanced in a world tolerating economic dictatorship in immense fortunes, side by side with virtual economic thraldom in extreme poverty.

WHAT CONSIDERATIONS ARE IMPORTANT in the resolution of the modern industrial problem?

In the resolution of the problem, considerations on the rights and duties of the employer and of the employee are important.

1. The employer has the right to a just return on his investment—on the capital, the energy, the intelligence, and other factors that he supplies in his business. From his employees he has the right to expect honest work, and a reasonable care of his property. (See pages 217, 221, 237.)

The employer has the right to a favorable reputation, without which he would fail in his business.

2. The employee has the right to a just wage, to protection from unnecessary hazards in labor conditions, and to reasonable security in work. (See pages 214, 221, 235.)

While it would not be possible to have all dangers in labor conditions removed, for the employees' safety dangerous machinery must be muzzled, protection must be provided against dusts and poisons of mines, sanitary conditions must prevail, etc.

Why is private ownership A RIGHT?

Private ownership is a right because everyone has a right to life, and to all means necessary for the purposes of life.

From earliest times the need and right of ownership have been recognized, even among the most undeveloped peoples. Every tongue certainly has words meaning "my" and "mine." It must be within man's right to have things, not merely for temporary and momentary use, as other living beings have them, but in stable and permanent possession" (Leo XIII).

1. Individual ownership of the goods of the earth is a right derived, under God, from man's very nature. Man has a right to life, and must have everything necessary for the purposes of life. The seventh and tenth commandments are themselves based on this right; if nothing had owners, how could anything be stolen?

Man has a basic need for wholesome living. There could be no adequate family life without some form of private ownership. Regarding other needs, let us consider the effect on the self-respect of a man if he should become sure that he could never dispose of any goods, but must always be economically dependent. Let us try to imagine what stimulus a clever young man ordinarily would have who knew that even with the utmost exertion of his efforts, all he gained would finally be communal property.

2. However, the Church does not hold the right of ownership as absolute, with complete freedom to do whatever one wishes with one's property. Common welfare makes necessary certain limitations to the right. That right is under God and subject to His will, limited by man's duties to God and his neighbor.

Extensive individualism stands for the right of absolute ownership; extreme collectivism denies all right of private ownership. The Catholic concept is intermediate: private ownership is a right, but limited by the Great Commandments.

What is A LIVING WAGE?

A living wage is one sufficient to support a man and his family in reasonable and frugal comfort.

Man is made of body and soul, and when the most urgent material needs—such as food, shelter, clothing, and adequate conditions of work and living—are absent, it becomes very difficult for him to serve God as he ought, and avoid sin.

1. For the same reason that ownership is a right, a just wage is a right, because a man has an inalienable right to life and to all means necessary for the purposes of life.

"There is a dictate of nature more imperious and more ancient than any bargain between man and man, that the remuneration must be enough to support the wage-earner in reasonable and frugal comfort" (Leo XIII). "The wage paid to the working-man must be sufficient for the support of himself and of his family" (Pius XI).

2. A wage that would be sufficient to support a man and his family "in reasonable and frugal comfort" would be of an amount to cover the cost of living; it is variable according to conditions of time and place.

A just wage should cover the cost of living for a family of husband and wife with their small children. Under American standards, it should include expenses for food, clothing, housing and house furnishings, heat and light, transportation, care of health, amusements, church contributions, and some incidentals. In the computation of wages it must be kept in mind that with Sundays and legal holidays the average workman has some sixty non-working days a year; besides, he is laid off with no work for about thirty days; and each year several work days are lost for unavoidable cause, like illness.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
What remedies have been proposed for the modern industrial problem of the world?

Free countries (countries free from Communist colonialism) carry out social reform (social justice), while maintaining political freedom. Totalitarian countries (Fascist and Communist) claim to emancipate their people from subjection, but in fact “entire peoples found themselves in danger of falling back into a barbarism worse than that which oppressed the greater part of the world at the coming of the Redeemer.” (Pope Pius XI, 1937 Encyclical on Atheistic Communism).

The Church advocates social justice within the moral order, with respect for private property. Enemies of the Church would destroy the moral order, and revolutionize society into a Godless ant heap.

In 1959 the Catholic Bishops of the United States declared: “Ultimately, the problem of Communism as a threat to peace and freedom will be met only when we exemplify the principles that we proclaim as Christian members of a nation dedicated to God’s law. ... There must be a searching reappraisal of our devotion to the principles we proclaim. We cannot live as materialists and expect to convert others to our system of freedom and peace under God.”

The Bishops said that in 1959 Soviet dictator Khrushchev “took every opportunity to compare unfavorably capitalism with Communism in their economic aspects.” But, the Bishops cautioned, this “is not the basic issue.” The choice which “men and nations must make today is between freedom and coercion.”

What is SOCIAL JUSTICE?

Social justice is the exercise of God-given individual rights taken in relation to common welfare.

In order to carry out its primary objective of sanctifying and saving men, the Church defines certain principles—of what we term “social justice”—applying the law of God to conditions of present-day economic life.

1. The attitude of the Church on social justice is best summarized in the papal encyclical Mater et Magistra (Mother and Teacher)—1961—of John XXIII. The aim is to achieve a balance between individualism and the actions of the public authorities, for the common good, and for the wealthier nations to help uplift the poorer. "First of all it should be affirmed that the economic order is the creation of the personal initiative of private citizens... But... the public authorities must not remain inactive, if they are to promote in a proper way the productive development in behalf of social progress for the benefit of all citizens."

The principle of subsidiarity states that "just as it is wrong to withdraw from the individual and commit to the community at large what private enterprise and industry can accomplish, so too it is an injustice, a grave ill, and a disturbance of right order for a larger and higher organization to arrogate to itself functions which can be performed efficiently by smaller and lower bodies... Of its very nature, the true aim of all social activity should be to help individual members of the social body, but never to destroy or absorb them."

2. Remuneration of work. "This requires that the workers should be paid a wage which allows them to live a truly human life and to face up with dignity to their family responsibilities, but it requires, too, that in the assessment of their remuneration regard be had to their effective contribution to the production and to the economic state of the enterprise and to the requirement of the common good of the respective political communities."

3. Labor-Management relations. "...the relations (should) be marked by appreciation, understanding, a loyal and active cooperation, and devotion to an undertaking common to both, and that the work be considered and effected by all the members of the enterprise, not merely as a source of income, but also as the fulfillment of a duty and the rendering of a service."

4. The principle of natural right to private ownership inclusive of productive goods. "The right of private ownership of goods, of productive goods inclusively, has a permanent validity... history and experience testify that in those political regimes which do not recognize the rights of private ownership of goods, the fundamental manifestations of freedom are suppressed or stifled." Further, "...the right of private property is intrinsically linked (to) a social function... the goods of the earth are above all destined for the worthy support of all human beings..."

5. The rich nations should help the poor. "...it is, therefore, indispensable and corresponds to the need of justice that... technical and financial aid be given in sincere political disinterestedness, for the purpose of putting those communities on the way to economic development, in a position to realize their own proper economic and social growth. In such a way, a precious contribution to the formation of a world community would be made, a community in which all members are subjects conscious of their own duties and rights, working on a basis of equality for the bringing about of the universal common good."

What are LABOR UNIONS?

Labor unions are associations of workingmen, aimed at the improvement of conditions under which they work, as free members of a free society.

Many unions make provision for unemployment, sickness, old age, and death, in cooperation with management.

1. In spite of their faults, labor unions have brought benefits to their members. More than any other force, they have obtained a measure of justice for Labor, helping to equalize forces in the economy. For the preservation of Labor's rights their existence is needed.

Man has a natural right to organize, to form organizations that will help him in his chosen work. One can easily see that a single workman trying to sell his labor at a fair price bargains at a great disadvantage with a large business corporation. But if he is a member of a labor union, by the collective bargaining of that union he will be able to obtain reasonable terms.

2. The strike is justifiable for just reasons. Such reasons would be: when rights are violated or ignored, when lawful contracts are broken, or when other difficulties of a serious nature exist. The strike should be used only as a last resort, when no other means are available.

Workingmen in a strike must use no violence; they should not unreasonably lower the reputation of the employer. Rights and needs of the community affected have to be well considered.

3. Labor unions must be careful not to impose politics of their leaders on members, and must deal effectively with labor racketeers. Labor leaders have a responsibility to their members, to industry, and to the public at large.
116a. Peace on Earth

Teachings from the encyclical "Pacem in Terris" of Pope John XXIII dated April 11, 1963

Introduction. Order in the Universe

Peace on earth can be firmly established only if the order laid down by God be dutifully observed. "O Lord our Master! The majesty of Thy name fills all the earth." (Ps. VIII:1)

Part I. Order Between Men

Every human being has rights and duties. Rights include those to life and worthy standard of living, freedom of religion and association, freedom of speech and the right to search for truth, the right to free initiative in the economic field and the right to emigrate and immigrate.

But those who claim their own rights, yet altogether forget or neglect to carry out their respective duties, are people who build with one hand and destroy with the other. Political society should be based on truth and the moral order. Any human society that is established on relations of force must be regarded as inhuman, inasmuch as the personality of its members is repressed or restricted, when in fact they should be provided with appropriate incentives and means for developing and perfecting themselves. In addition, the people of one country or ethnic group should not be subject to political powers located outside. Racial discrimination can no longer be justified, at least doctrinally and in theory.

Part II. Relations Between Individuals and the Public Authorities

Legitimate authority comes only from God. Where the civil authority uses as its only or its chief means either threat and fear of punishment or promises of reward, it cannot effectively move men to promote the common good of all. Authority is chiefly concerned with moral, not physical force, and no one may be coerced to perform interior acts.

If a human society is not based on the moral order and if it does not recognize that the source of its authority is God, its laws and actions are not binding on the consciences of its citizens. This means that, if any government does not acknowledge the rights of man or violates them, it not only fails its duty, but its orders completely lack juridical force.

The common good is best preserved where free enterprise in the economic order prevails. For this principle must always be retained: that state activity in the economic field ought not to be exercised in such a way as to curtail an individual's freedom or personal initiative. Rather it should work to expand that freedom as much as possible by the effective protection of the essential rights of each and every individual.
The same form of government is not prescribed for all, so long as authority is recognized as coming from God and so long as the moral order is observed: "It is in keeping with their dignity as persons that human beings should take an active part in government, although the manner in which they share in it will depend on the level of development of the political community to which they belong."

Part III. Relations Between States

Relations between states must be based on the moral law. Each state has the right to existence, to self-development; on the international level, one state may not develop itself by restricting or oppressing other states.

There are countries with an abundance of arable land and a scarcity of manpower, while in other countries there is no proportion between natural resources and the capital available. This demands that peoples should set up relationships of mutual collaboration, facilitating the circulation from one to the other of capital, goods and manpower.

Disagreements must be settled, not by force, nor by deceit or trickery. What a sad plight is that of the phenomenon of political refugees; a phenomenon which has assumed large proportions and which always hides numberless and acute sufferings!

Pope John deplores "the enormous stocks of armaments that have been and still are being made on the grounds that peace cannot be preserved without equal balance of armaments." Consequently, people live in constant fear lest the storm should break upon them." "Justice, right reason and humanity urgently demand that the arms race should cease."

Nuclear weapons and nuclear tests, undertaken with war in mind, should be banned.

Because liberty is just as important as peace, relations between states should be based on freedom, that is to say, that no country may unjustly oppress others or unduly meddle in their affairs.

Part IV. Relationship of Men and of Political Communities with the World Community

The Holy Father calls for the establishment of a new world public authority "set up by common accord and not imposed by force. But he does not have in mind a world government. The difficulty is that there would be reason to fear that a supernational or worldwide public authority, imposed by force...might be or might become an instrument of one-sided interests.

Thus sovereign states are right in not easily yielding in obedience to an authority imposed by force, or to an authority in whose creation they had no part or to which they themselves did not decide to submit by conscious and free choice. Indeed the confederate public authority of the world, which should recognize the principle of subsidiarity just as it should be recognized within states, is not intended to limit the sphere of action of the public authority of the individual community, much less to take its place. Its sole task is to promote human rights and security of individual states.

It is the earnest wish of Pope John that the United Nations—in its structure and in its means—may become ever more equal to the magnitude and nobility of its tasks, and that the day may come when every human being will find therein an effective safeguard for his rights.

Part V. Pastoral Exhortations

Catholics are called on to work with non-Catholics, and Christians with non-Christians. Even historical movements based on error may change. Thus it may be opportune to draw nearer or hold meetings with such movements. "But to decide whether this moment has arrived, and also to lay down the ways and degrees in which work in common might be possible for the achievement of economic, social, cultural and political ends which are honorable and useful: these are the problems which can only be solved with the virtue of prudence, which is the guiding light of the virtues that regulate the moral life, both individual and social."

Salvation and justice are not to be found in revolution, but in evolution through concord. Violence has always achieved only destruction, not construction, the kindling of passion, not their pacification, the accumulation of hate and ruin, not the reconciliation of the contending parties.

And the Pope concludes: "However, peace will be but an empty-sounding word unless it is founded on the order which this present document has outlined in confident hope: An order founded on truth, built according to justice, vivified and integrated by charity, and put into practice in freedom."

"Upon all men of good will to whom this encyclical letter is addressed, we implore from Almighty God health and prosperity."
What do Communists believe?

Communists believe that what exists in the Soviet Union, as well as in the satellite states of eastern Europe and the Far East, is Socialism. According to the Communists, Socialism is an imperfect society which, though an improvement on Capitalism, falls short of the perfection of Communism. But the objective of all Communists is Communism, a society in which everyone will think and act as Communists do.

Communists often refer to Communism as the doctrine of Marxism-Leninism, or “scientific Socialism” (to distinguish it from “unscientific Socialism,” or Socialism which deviates from the Moscow norm). Karl Marx, the German philosopher (1813-1883), and Vladimir I. Lenin, founder of the Communist Party and dictator of the Soviet Union (1870-1924) are the authoritative exponents of the doctrine, which is interpreted by whoever happens to be dictator of the Soviet Union (currently Nikita Khrushchev, 1894—).

In March, 1917, a revolution ousted Tsar Nicholas II and ultimately brought to power of the Russian Government a naive idealist named Alexander Kerensky.

With German help, Lenin and the Bolsheviks returned to Russia and began to infiltrate into the most effective anti-Kerensky organization—the Soviets. In November, 1917, the Bolsheviks overthrew the Kerensky regime.

Lenin changed the name of his party in January, 1918, from the Bolshevik wing of the Social Democrat Party to the Communist Party. Lenin died in 1924, and then a struggle for power began, waged by Stalin, Trotsky, Kamenev and Zinoviev. Using ruthless methods, Stalin won out in 1928.

Lenin hoped that revolutionary-minded Marxists in other countries would follow the example of the Bolsheviks and overthrow Capitalism everywhere. In March, 1919, he created the Third International, in order to direct and coordinate the efforts of Communists everywhere.

Communists believe that human beings can be remolded in the Communist image and likeness, and their former standard of values can be replaced by “Leninist morality.”

However, there is no evidence that persons living in the Soviet Union or in Soviet colonies are any better off for living in Soviet society. Indeed the constant stream of refugees and escapees from the Soviet Empire suggests that there is mass dissatisfaction with dictatorial rule and lack of human freedoms.

Describe the Communist METHOD OF ACTION.

1. Communist tactics change with the ebb and flow of the revolutionary tide. Lenin laid down the principle that Communist policy must “zig” and “zag” in order to reach the ultimate goal; he described this procedure as “taking two steps backwards in order to take one step forward.” Thus Moscow exploits areas of weakness and advances until it meets strong opposition, at which time it halts, lulls the opposition to sleep with talk of peace, and shifts the attack to a new area of weakness.

The Bolsheviks have come a long way since those dark days in 1917, when all they possessed was a rented room in Zurich. Today they control one-third of the world’s population, and one-fourth of the land area of the world. But there are only 42 million members of Communist parties in the world, and since 1949 they have failed to take over a single nation outside the Communist bloc. They have tried in Greece, Malaya, Korea and Vietnam, and have failed every time.

In the final analysis, what counts for the Communist is power, diplomacy, and subversion, not election results. No Communist dictatorship has ever been established through free elections; in every case it has been the result of Communist military action, diplomacy, and subversion.
2. The Draft Program of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, prepared for the 22nd Party Congress in October, 1961, boasts that "The world of socialism is growing larger. The world of socialism is contracting. . . . Socialism will inevitably take over from capitalism everywhere; such is the objective law of the development of society. . . . Marxism-Leninism has become the mighty ideological weapon of the revolutionary transformation of society." "The success of the struggle which the working class wages for the victory of the revolution will depend on how well the working class and its party master the use of all forms of struggle—peaceful and non-peaceful, parliamentary and extra-parliamentary—and how well they are prepared to replace one form of struggle by another as quickly and unexpectedly as possible. . . . But whatever the form in which the transition from capitalism to socialism is effected, that transition can come about only through revolution."

Why does Communism ATTRACT PEOPLE?

Like Nazism and Fascism, Communism promises pie in the sky, bye and bye. Yet the Communists have to build walls and iron curtains to keep their people from leaving. Before the Berlin Wall was built, 200,000 people every year moved from east Germany to Berlin and West Germany. 10,000 persons a month leave mainland China for Hong Kong and Formosa. 70% of the Chinese prisoners taken by the UN Command during the Korean war chose to go to Formosa rather than return to the Communist mainland.

Communism is not really interested in reform or human progress within the framework of an orderly Judaeo-Christian society. Communists do not really want to uplift the laboring man or strengthen civil rights. Inside the Soviet bloc labor is enslaved and there are no civil rights. Communists do strive to take advantage of the weaknesses and internal schisms of free societies in order to overthrow these societies and impose Communist dictatorships.

Non-Communists must continue to work hard to improve their own societies and to eliminate injustice and inhumanity. The Communist challenge is essentially military and conspiratorial, not economic or social.

What is the ATTITUDE OF THE HOLY SEE towards Communism?

From the beginning the Holy See has perceived the evil of Communism, and has issued warnings against it.

1. During the time of Marx, Pope Pius IX in 1846 pronounced a condemnation of the theory.

He described it as "absolutely contrary to the natural law itself," a doctrine which, if adopted, would "utterly destroy the rights, property, and possessions of all men, and even society itself."

Pope Pius XI in his encyclical Divini Redemptoris (1937) said, "The most urgent need of the present day is, therefore, the energetic and timely application of remedies which will effectively ward off the catastrophe that daily grows more threatening. We cherish the firm hope that the fanaticism with which the sons of darkness work day and night at their materialistic and atheistic propaganda will at least serve the holy purpose of stimulating the sons of light to a like and even greater zeal for the honor of the Divine Majesty."

In the same encyclical Divini Redemptoris, he wrote, "The most persistent enemies of the Church who from Moscow are directing the struggle against Christian civilization themselves bear witness, by their unceasing attacks in word and act, that even to this hour the Papacy has continued faithfully to protect the sanctuary of the Christian religion, and that it has called public attention to the perils of Communism more frequently and more effectively than any other public authority on earth."

How can Communism BE PREVENTED?

The Free World must demonstrate that the chief point of difference between it and the Soviet Empire is human freedom. Where human dignity is violated in the Free World, governments act to correct the situation. But in the Soviet realm Communist dictatorships systematically repress and liquidate freedom-loving and God-fearing people.

The Western ethic is rooted in the Judaeo-Christian tradition, with its emphasis on the responsible individual possessing God-given rights. The Soviet ethic is rooted in the Marxist-Leninist tradition, with its emphasis on nihilism, the omniscient leader, and the mass of the people who are without rights.
It was the custom among the first Christians for the rich to sell their property and give the money to the Apostles to be shared among all. Ananias and his wife Saphira, two disciples, sold their land. But they plotted to keep back some of the money. Giving the rest to St. Peter, Ananias pretended that it was the whole price that had been received for the land. St. Peter rebuked him and said that he lied against the Holy Ghost. Ananias fell down dead. Later, Saphira, not knowing what had happened to her husband, told the same lie to St. Peter. She also fell and died immediately after.

117. The Eighth Commandment

"You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor" (Ex. 20:16).

WHAT ARE WE COMMANDED by the eighth commandment?

By the eighth commandment we are commanded to speak the truth in all things, but especially in what concerns the good name and honor of others.

1. God is the God of truth, and we are obliged to respect that truth. If we would prove ourselves children of God, we should, like Him, always respect the truth.

   "I am the way, and the truth, and the life," says Our Lord (John 14:6). "You shall not lie" (Lev. 19:11). This is why a lie, even when told for a good purpose, is always a sin, because it is contrary to the nature of God.

2. The lover of truth is like God, and well-pleasing to Him. The lover of truth is also held in esteem by his fellowmen, who know that they can trust him, for in him, as in Nathaniel (John 1:47), is no guile.

   Even if we suffer from telling the truth, we shall be saved trouble and shall possess a clear conscience.

3. A habitual liar not only is often led into grave sin, but forfeits the trust of his fellow-beings, and is the cause of a great deal of harm. When people know that one is a habitual liar, they do not believe him even when he tells the truth.

   "Better a thief than an inveterate liar, yet both will suffer disgrace" (Sirach 20:24).
OUR NEIGHBOR'S GOOD NAME

1. In the eighth commandment God forbids us to detract in any way from our neighbor's honor or reputation. It is our good reputation that keeps us well-thought of and well-spoken of among our fellowmen.

"A good name is more desirable than great riches, and high esteem than gold and silver" (Prov. 22:1). The esteem of others is essential to real happiness; those who know they are despised by their fellowmen are not likely to be happy in this life. One who brings another into disrepute is a thief, stealing a good name.

2. A good name is acquired by consistent struggle, by leading an upright life, by defending ourselves whenever false accusations are made against us. This is why, in ordinary cases, we do our good works openly in accordance with Our Lord's injunction, "So let your light shine before men, in order that they may see your good works, and give glory to your Father in heaven" (Matt. 5:16).

Good works are the best means of defending a good name. We must, however, be sure we do not do our good works only to make a show before men, but chiefly to please God. When our name is in danger, we should defend ourselves and justify ourselves; but it is foolish to make too much fuss over trifles, as going to court over nothing.

3. If we would not speak so often, we would avoid many sins into which we habitually fall, consisting of sins of the tongue. Most of the sins committed are sins of the tongue: lying, backbiting, slander, gossip, calumny, detraction, the telling of secrets, all the results of talkativeness.

Let us try an experiment: For one whole day do not speak unless absolutely necessary, but each time you would have talked, jot down what you had wanted to talk about. At the end of the day you will see how many useless things, things wasteful of time, not to mention unkind and sinful things, you had wanted to say. If people would only hold their tongues, how much more useful they could be!

4. Truthfulness promotes the general welfare of society and mutual trust among men. The orderliness of the social order depends greatly on members speaking the truth.

Let us imagine our own special community, with our favorite friends and tradesmen, with those we contact every day on various matters. Let us imagine the situation if we were not certain they were telling the truth all the time, but only a probable ten percent of the time!

What is AN EVASION?

An evasion is a statement that may be interpreted in two ways.

1. We are not supposed or expected to tell everybody our private affairs or those of our friends or superiors. Many persons out of carelessness or curiosity have a most irritating habit of asking very personal questions, such as "Where have you been?" "Where are you going?" "Did you have a visitor?" "Where do you get so much money?" "What do you do all day?" "What is your work now?" "How much did you pay for your dress?" "Why did you leave home?" etc. If we are asked indiscreet questions by such curious or ill-bred people, we have a right to give an evasive answer.

At best these questions are a sign of extreme ill-breeding. We should be more thoughtful and discreet, and give everybody the right to his own private affairs. Answering, "He is not at home" is a social custom understood to mean that the person is not receiving callers, even if he is in the house. If a person we cannot trust tries to borrow money from us we can say: "I have no money" (meaning, I have none to lend you).

3. When another has the right to the truth, we must answer simply and openly. Such is the case in buying or selling, or in drawing up an agreement. It would be against justice if two persons about to marry were to deceive each other by evasions about money matters and other things.

WHAT DOES THE EIGHTH COMMANDMENT FORBID?

The eighth commandment forbids lies, rash judgment, detraction, calumny, and the telling of secrets we are bound to keep.

"Lying lips are an abomination to the LORD" (Prov. 12:22). "Wherefore, put away lying and speak truth each one with his neighbor, because we are members of one another" (Eph. 4:25).
1. The greatest calumnies were spoken when false witnesses testified against Jesus before Caiphas. The high priest gave ear to the calumnies and condemned Our Lord to death, although he knew Him to be innocent.

2. People who gossip and spread tales that detract from the reputation of someone have much to answer for. “He who speaks against a brother, or judges his brother, speaks against the law and judges the law” (Jas. 4:11).

118. Sins Against Truth

What is a LIE?

A lie is something said for the purpose of deceiving others, which we know or suspect to be untrue.

A lie expresses opposition between one’s word and one’s thought; it implies the intention to deceive by stating what is false.

Lying is a sin even when it may be the means of effecting much good; we must not commit evil in order to obtain good.

(a) A malicious lie is told for the purpose of injuring someone. It is by its nature a mortal sin; it becomes venial when the injury done is slight. A lie taken under oath is perjury, a mortal sin.

(b) An officious lie is told to avert evil from oneself or others. It is called a “white” lie.

(c) A jocose lie is told to amuse others. Very often it is no sin at all, as when we relate an imaginary narrative for the amusement or instruction of others, tell a joke which we made up, relate fables and fairy tales, etc. But if a jocose lie has harmful results, it becomes sinful.

(d) Sins related to lying, as violations of the respect due to truth, are hypocrisy, and flattery.

1. Hypocrisy or dissimulation is acting a lie. It is hypocrisy to pretend to be better than we are.

It was hypocrisy of Judas to kiss Our Lord like a friend, when it was only to betray Him. Those who are outwardly pious but lead lives of sin are hypocrites. They resemble Satan, who can assume the form of an angel of light. Jesus called hypocrites “whited sepulchers”, beautiful outside, but within full of dead men’s bones.

2. Flattery consists in praising a person immoderately, against one’s conviction, for an ulterior motive. A flatterer lies in order to secure an advantage for himself.

“The man who flatters his neighbor is spreading a net under his feet” (Prov. 29:5). “Woe to those who call evil good, and good evil, who change darkness into light, and light into darkness” (Is. 5:20).
When does a person commit the sin of RASH JUDGMENT?

A person commits the sin of rash judgment when, without sufficient reason, he believes something harmful to another's character.

People judge others by themselves; he who is not evil will less likely think evil quickly of others; he who is a sinner will interpret the actions of others in an evil manner at once. "Charity thinks no evil" (1 Cor. 13:5). A just person, even when he sees evil, tries to avoid thinking of it, and leaves the judgment to God. "Do not judge, that you may not be judged. For with what judgment you judge, you shall be judged" (Matt. 7:1-2).

When does a person commit the sin of DETRACTION?

A person commits the sin of detraction when, without good reason, he makes known the hidden faults of another.

1. To speak of what everybody knows or of what appeared in the newspapers is not detraction.

   It is however contemptible for newspapers to publish family troubles that are of no public concern. Tale-bearing is a most despicable form of detraction, in repeating to a person unfavorable remarks made about him.

2. Uncharitable conversation is commonly termed backbiting, a cowardly act of discussing the known faults of another without necessity, and behind his back.

   It is wrong to listen to detraction and uncharitable conversation, if we take pleasure in it or encourage it. "Let anything you heard die within you" (Sirach 19:9).

When does a person commit the sin of CALUMNY or SLANDER?

A person commits the sin of calumny or slander when by lying he injures the good name of another.

GOSSIP is a form of calumny, because it usually exaggerates a person's faults or sin with malice.

CONTUMELY or insult dishonors a person unjustly in his presence by refusing to show him the signs of honor due him, or by not noticing him.

LIE is any public defamatory accusation, maliciously made, whether the facts be true or not. This may be done by letter, telephone, radio, motion picture, television, etc. Calumny or slander, gossip or libel are sins against justice.

When are we obliged to keep a SECRET?

We are obliged to keep a secret when we have promised to do so, when our office requires it, or when the good of another demands it.

1. A priest may never reveal anything confided to him in confession, even if keeping it secret will result in death for himself or others. This rule has no exception.

2. A secret may be revealed when: (a) it is for the good of the guilty person; (b) it will save ourselves or others from evil; (c) keeping it secret is against justice or the welfare of society; and (d) the person to whom it is revealed has a right to know.

   When there is just reason for revealing a secret, we may do so to persons in authority, such as parents, superiors, teachers, or courts of law. Serious faults should be made known to parents, teachers, and superiors, who may be able to correct them. Care should be taken to avoid exaggerating faults.

3. It is wrong to read another person's letters without permission. Eavesdroppers are contemptible. A tattletale is despicable.

What must a person do who has sinned by detraction or calumny, or has told a secret he is bound to keep?

A person who has sinned by detraction or calumny, or who has told a secret he is bound to keep, must repair the harm he has done to his neighbor, as far as he is able.

If the offense was made before others, we must retract publicly. If we do not endeavor to repair the harm we have done, we cannot obtain God's pardon or the priest's absolution.

It is very difficult, and sometimes impossible, to make perfect reparation for calumny and detraction. Words once spoken are not forgotten by those who hear.

A story is told of the saintly Curé d' Ars and a penitent at the confessional, who had confessed having gossiped about an acquaintance. The penitent thought he got off very easily indeed when all the penance he was given was to drop one by one ten blades of straw in the yard before his house, at a distance of five meters apart, and then to go back and pick up the ten blades. Going home, he proceeded to perform the penance. But he realized the lesson the saintly priest wished him to learn when, upon returning to pick up the blades of straw, he could find none; the wind had blown them all away.
WHENCE has the Catholic Church THE RIGHT TO MAKE LAWS?

The Catholic Church has the right to make laws from Jesus Christ, Who said to the Apostles, the first bishops of His Church: "Whatever you bind on earth shall be bound also in heaven" (Matt. 18:18).

1. No society can exist without the power to govern its members. No government is possible without laws. Unless the Church had the power and right to make laws, it could not lead its members to heaven.

Our Lord said: "If he refuse to hear even the Church, let him be to thee as the heathen and the publican. Amen I say to you, whatever you bind on earth shall be bound also in heaven; and whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed also in heaven" (Matt. 18:17-18). This power to bind and loose is called the "power of the keys."

2. We are under a rigorous obligation to obey the laws or precepts of the Church. Disobedience to the Church is disobedience to God who gave it full authority.

A bad Catholic once said to a friend, “God will not punish me for not keeping the Church laws on fast and abstinence. I observe all the Ten Commandments, and I do not need to obey the laws made only by the Church.” But the friend answered, “Did not God command us to hear the Church? Then if we do not obey its laws, we disobey Him as well.”

3. Authority to make laws includes power to enforce them. Hence the Church has the right to punish disobedient members by refusing them the sacraments, denying them Catholic burial, and other penalties.

"He therefore said to them again, 'Peace be to you! As the Father has sent me, I also send you' " (John 20:21).
BY WHOM IS THIS RIGHT to make laws EXERCISED?

This right to make laws is exercised by the bishops, the successors of the Apostles, and especially by the Pope, who as the successor of the chief of the Apostles, Saint Peter, has the right to make laws for the universal Church.

1. The Pope can make and unmake laws for the entire Church; his authority is supreme and unquestioned. Every bishop, every priest, every member of the Church is subject to him.

This authority comes from Jesus Christ, the Son of God, Who chose Peter as Head of His Church. The Holy Father is our St. Peter, his direct successor; we must obey him as Christ commanded all to obey Peter.

2. Laws are also made by each bishop for his own diocese, and by a general council of bishops for the entire Church. These last have no efficacy without the Pope's approval.

3. A good Catholic shows obedience to God by conforming himself not only to the letter, but to the spirit of the laws of the Church. He obeys strictly what the Church commands, prays what it praises, condemns what it condemns. The Church is our Mother, good and wise, who looks only to our temporal and spiritual welfare; let us show our love for her by the obedience we render.

The Church is our Mother, given us by Christ Himself, to guide us until He comes again. If we obey this guide we shall have peace on earth, and eternal happiness with God in heaven. The Church can truly say with our Divine Saviour: "My yoke is easy, and my burden light" (Matt. 11:30).

4. The laws of the Church, in general, do not command things which are of their nature obligatory. For example, abstinence for certain days is not a natural law, but a human law. Therefore, this being the case, the Church that made such human laws can also dispense from them, change them, or abolish them altogether.

This is why bishops can excuse from fast and abstinence when they find good reason; this is why the holydays of obligation are not uniform throughout the entire world. The Church cannot abolish or change the Commandments of God, but it can its own commandments. All natural laws are included in the Ten Commandments; these everybody, everywhere, must obey at all times.

THE CHIEF COMMANDMENTS, or laws, of the CHURCH are these six:

1. To assist at Mass on all Sundays and holydays of obligation.
2. To fast and to abstain on the days appointed.
3. To confess our sins at least once a year.
4. To receive Holy Communion during the Easter time.
5. To contribute to the support of the Church.
6. To observe the laws of the Church concerning marriage.

Are there any other commandments, or laws, of the Church, besides these six?

There are many other commandments, or laws, of the Church besides these six; but these are the principal ones, and the ones with which the ordinary life of Catholics is concerned.

1. A Catholic is bound to observe all of the precepts of the Church. Some of them forbid:
   (a) The reading or possession of bad books, magazines, and other publications.
   (b) Membership in Masonic or other anti-Catholic associations.
   (c) Cremation of the bodies of the dead.
   (d) The education of Catholic children in non-Catholic schools; etc.

Laws for the government of the Catholic Church are contained in the CODE OF CANON LAW, which at present contains 2414 canons. From time to time, as necessity arises, the Pope through the different Roman Congregations issues decrees, laws, or regulations for the welfare of the Church. Catholics are obliged to obey these laws.

2. The Church, through its rulers, has the power to dispense from its precepts. The Pope, the bishops, and the parish priests may for weighty reasons release or excuse the faithful from the observance of particular Catholic laws.

It may happen that in a certain community the patronal feast may fall on a Friday of Lent. Because of the unusually great number of people, it would be difficult to provide abstinence food for everybody. In such cases the Bishop may grant a dispensation from abstinence, and even fast, locally.
On holydays of obligation, just as on Sundays, we must hear Mass and abstain from unnecessary servile work. If without any grave reason one fails to sanctify the holydays of obligation he commits a mortal sin. Those obliged to work on holydays of obligation should at least hear Mass before going to their work. Catholic employers have a serious obligation of making it easy for those under them to sanctify holydays of obligation. All are children of the same Eternal Father.

120. First Commandment of the Church

"To assist at Mass on all Sundays and holydays of obligation."

What sin does a Catholic commit who through his own fault misses Mass on a Sunday or holyday of obligation?

A Catholic who through his own fault misses Mass on a Sunday or holyday of obligation commits a mortal sin.

The precept is not binding on one who must care for the sick, or lives rather far from a church, or who has urgent work, or is ill.

1. The first precept of the Church requires us to sanctify Sundays and holydays of obligation. Then we render to God and the saints some of the honor due them.

The aim of instituting holydays is to have the faithful remember for all time the important events commemorated, and to have them give praise and thanksgiving to God for them.

This is why we should always try to celebrate holydays in a becoming manner. Some persons unhappily treat holydays as merely days to eat and drink and be merry, without regard for the occasion commemorated.

2. The civil law does not recognize as holydays some of the Church holydays of obligation; factories, offices, and schools keep open on those days. But even if Catholics must go to work on such holydays, they should at least try to hear Mass. In many churches, there is Mass at an early hour in the morning, at noon, in the afternoon, and evening.

Persons not obliged to work on holydays of obligation should avoid doing so. But those who must work need remember only Our Lord's words: "The Sabbath was made for man, and not man for the Sabbath. Therefore the Son of Man is Lord even of the Sabbath" (Mark 2:27-28).
THE HOLY DAYS OF OBLIGATION
in the United States are these six:

1. Christmas Day (December 25).

   On this day we commemorate the birth of Jesus Christ in the stable at Bethlehem. “And it came to pass while they were there, that the days for her to be delivered were fulfilled. And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn” (Luke 2:6-7).

2. Octave of the Birth of Our Lord (January 1).

   When Jesus was eight days old, He was circumcised, according to the custom of the Jews. “And when eight days were fulfilled for his circumcision, his name was called Jesus” (Luke 2:21). In Hebrew, Jesus means “Saviour.” The name most commonly given to the Messias by the Prophets was “Emmanuel.” which means, God with us.

3. Ascension Thursday (40 days after Easter).

   Forty days after His Resurrection from the dead, Our Lord ascended into heaven from Mount Olivet. “Now he led them out towards Bethany, and he lifted up his hands and blessed them. And it came to pass as he blessed them, that he parted from them and was carried up into heaven” (Luke 24:50-51). And when he had said this, he was lifted up before their eyes, and a cloud took him out of their sight. And while they were gazing up to heaven as he went, behold, two men stood by them in white garments, and said to them, “Men of Galilee, . . . this Jesus who has been taken up from you into heaven, will come in the same way as you have seen him going up to heaven” (Acts. 1:9-11).

   After her death, the soul of the Blessed Virgin Mary was reunited to her incorrupt body, and she was taken up to heaven by the ministry of angels. No one has ever claimed possessing any relic of Mary’s body; if she had not been assumed into heaven, would not the Apostles, who revered her highly, have kept her relics?

5. All Saints’ Day (November 1).

   On all Saints’ Day we honor the memory of all the Saints in heaven and implore their intercession.

6. The Immaculate Conception (December 8).

   God Himself proclaimed Mary’s spotless purity in Paradise (Gen. 3:15); the archangel Gabriel announced it, calling her “full of grace.” Christians throughout the ages have called Mary immaculate; the dogma was declared by the Pope in 1854. It is an article of faith to believe that Mary was conceived entirely free from original sin.

There are four other holydays of obligation in the universal Church: the Feasts of Epiphany, Corpus Christi, Saint Joseph, and Saints Peter and Paul.

With the approval of the Holy See, these four feasts are not holydays of obligation in the United States.

WHAT ELSE does the church OBLIGE US TO DO on holydays of obligation?

The Church obliges us to abstain from servile work on holydays of obligation, just as on Sundays, as far as we are able. See pages 214-215, Unnecessary Servile Work.

On these days Catholics should keep away from housework like washing and housecleaning.

WHY WERE HOLY DAYS INSTITUTED by the Church?

Holydays were instituted by the Church to remind us of the mysteries of our religion, and of the important events in the lives of Christ and of His Blessed Mother, and to recall to us the virtues and the rewards of the saints.

1. The Church appoints festivals in honor of Our Lord, in order that we may recall the principal mysteries of our Redemption, thank God for the graces received through these mysteries, and make them bear fruit in our lives.

   The feasts of Our Lord that do not necessarily fall on a Sunday are: Christmas, the Circumcision, and the Ascension. Easter and Pentecost always fall on a Sunday.

2. Other feasts of Our Lord that should be properly celebrated are: (a) the Epiphany, January 6; and (b) Corpus Christi, the Thursday after Trinity Sunday.

   The Epiphany celebrates the adoration of the newly-born Child by the Magi, the Wise Men from the East, — Melchior, Gaspar, and Baltassar. The feast is called the Epiphany (or “manifestation”) because it celebrates the manifestation of Christ to the Gentiles.

3. The festivals in honor of Our Lady and the Saints are prescribed, that we may reverence them as God’s friends, and profit by their intercession and example.

   Whenever able, we should try to hear Mass on other important holydays, even though they may not be of obligation. Two of these important feasts are: (a) the feast of St. Joseph on March 19, and (b) the feast of Saints Peter and Paul on June 29.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The entire year is divided by the Church into periods and seasons, some of rejoicing, some of penance, and others of ordinary prayer and work. By following the cycle of feasts and fasts, and living in the spirit of each time, we shall sanctify the whole year and make it bear fruit pleasing to God. In observing the seasons, we should look upon the events actually occurring. The Church is the Mystical Body of Christ; she lives over every year the mysteries of His life. Thus we unite ourselves with Christ.

121. The Ecclesiastical Year

What is the ECCLESIASTICAL YEAR?

The ecclesiastical year is the succession or cycle of seasons, including all the feasts, celebrated by the Church during the year.

1. The ecclesiastical year is made up of six seasons or periods of unequal length: Advent, Christmastide, Septuagesima, Lent, Paschaltide, and the season of Throughout the Year. These seasons are regulated in their occurrence by the three principal feasts of the year: Christmas, Easter, and Pentecost. The Epistles and Gospels, as well as the Hymns and Sequences of the Mass, are in consonance with the seasons and periods of the ecclesiastical year.

The ecclesiastical year differs somewhat from the civil year. Instead of beginning on a fixed date, January 1, as the civil year does, the ecclesiastical year begins with the first Sunday of Advent, four Sundays before Christmas. (See pages 414-417.)

2. The three principal feasts of the year are: (a) Christmas, which commemorates the birth of Our Lord; (b) Easter, which celebrates His resurrection; and (c) Pentecost, which celebrates the descent of the Holy Spirit.

All three feasts are prolonged by an "octave"; Christmas and Easter are preceded by a season of preparation. Easter is always the Sunday after the first full moon following March 21. Its position determines the position of the different seasons and movable festivals of the entire year.

3. The Church commemorates the different feasts and seasons, placing the various events of the life of Our Lord before us, in order that we may ponder over them and imitate the virtues presented.
What is ADVENT?

Advent is the season of preparation for Christmas.

"Advent" means coming. It begins with the first Sunday of Advent, and embraces the four Sundays before Christmas. It is a season of penance in preparation for the birth of the Redeemer.

The four weeks of Advent represent the long thousand years during which the coming of the Messiah was expected and prepared for. As a sign of penance, the Church uses purple vestments for the Mass of the season, suppresses the joyous Gloria, omits flowers on the altar, and forbids the saying of the Nuptial Mass, etc.

What is CHRISTMASTIDE?

Christmastide is the season of celebration after Christmas, a season of joy. It includes the periods of "Christmas" and that of the "Epiphany."

During this period we celebrate events in the child life of Our Lord: the Octave of Christmas when His Circumcision took place, the Feasts of the Holy Name of Jesus, of the Epiphany, of the Holy Family and the Feast of the Baptism of Our Lord on the 13th of January. Christmastide ends on this day.

What is SEPTUAGESIMA?

Septuagesima is the period of preparation for Lent.

The season lasts two weeks and a half, from Septuagesima Sunday to Ash Wednesday, and includes three Sundays, respectively called Septuagesima, Sexagesima, and Quinquagesima (70th, 60th, and 50th). In the early years of Christianity, many began fasting fifty, sixty, or seventy days before Easter.

What is LENT?

Lent is the season of penance preceding Easter. It includes the periods of Lent proper and that of Passiontide.

1. Lent begins with the Wednesday after Quinquagesima. This is called Ash Wednesday; on that day the foreheads of the faithful are marked with ashes.

Ash Wednesday is forty-six days before Easter; but we say Lent is forty days in length, because we do not count the six Sundays, on which no fasting is prescribed anywhere throughout the Church.

2. Passiontide, that is, the last two weeks of Lent which are called Passion Week and Holy Week. During these two weeks the Church follows Christ closely through the last stages of His mortal life.

3. In keeping with the spirit of Lent, Catholics are expected to abstain from worldly amusements, such as shows, feasting, etc. They should devote more time to prayer, penance, and religious exercises. From Ash Wednesday to Easter Sunday inclusive, the Church forbids the saying of the Nuptial Mass.

What is the PASCHALTIDE?

The Paschal tide is the time from Easter till the eve of Trinity Sunday. It includes the three periods of "Easter," "Ascensiontide," and the "Octave of Pentecost."

The forty days between Easter and the Ascension commemorate the forty days Christ spent on earth after His Resurrection.

The three days before the Ascension are called Rogation days. On these days processions are held to implore God's blessings upon mankind. See page 405.

2. The ten days after the Ascension are a preparation for Pentecost, the feast commemorating the descent of the Holy Spirit on the Apostles.

Paschal Time is a time of rejoicing. Its joyful character is shown by the constant repetition in the Church liturgy of the word of joy, Alleluia (Praise ye the Lord). During this period, we say the Regina Coeli instead of the Angelus three times a day.

How long is the season “PER ANNUM,” that is, THROUGHOUT THE YEAR?

This season, which is the longest, consists of two periods. The first period is from the 14th of January till the eve of Septuagesima Sunday, and the second period, from the eve of Trinity Sunday till the eve of the First Sunday of Advent.

This season takes up the main part of the year, and is devoted to the festivals of the saints, to Christian work and prayer.

The period after Pentecost represents the time that shall elapse before the Last Judgment. On the last Sunday after Pentecost the Gospel of the Mass is that which speaks of the Second Coming of Jesus Christ as Judge of the living and the dead.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
At the beginning of the four seasons—Spring, Summer, Autumn, and Winter—the Ember Days are celebrated to implore God's blessings on the fruits of the earth; those days are likewise intended as special occasions for praying for the clergy. The Ember Days are the Wednesdays, Fridays, and Saturdays following December 13, the first Sunday in Lent, Pentecost and September 14. Ordinations take place on Ember Saturdays. Ember Days are days of penance, fasting, and abstinence.

122. Liturgical Worship

What is LITURGY?

Liturgy is a complete system of forms of prayers, acts, and services in the public official worship of the Church. Liturgy is a bond of union binding the faithful with one another and with God. In it nobody is alone: all take part in the worship of the Creator, as part of a corporate body, with the Son of God as Head, and the Holy Spirit as Soul.

1. The Church is the Mystical Body of Christ (see pages 148-149). In its full meaning, Liturgy is the offering of all the affections to God, by which that Mystical Body, members united with the Divine Head, continues the worship of Almighty God by Our Lord Jesus Christ. In the Mystical Body, members are one with the Head, offering themselves with Him, united with one another in Him, all one in adoration with the Son of God.

In heaven Jesus Christ continues as Head, Priest, and Victim, offering a perpetual oblation, having the merits of Calvary applied to our souls. That mediation is especially extended to us in the Holy Eucharist, by which Our Lord is with us at any time, anywhere. And Liturgy is with us in its varied aspects, with rites and ceremonies rich in meaning and beauty, with prayers for every occasion: for adoration, thanksgiving, atonement, supplication.

2. The essential acts of Liturgy include:
(a) Holy Mass, the supreme Sacrifice; (b) the sacraments, channels of grace by which we live the supernatural life; and (c) Divine Office, the incomparable prayer of homage. These three acts form the treasury of grace daily offered to God in Liturgy by the Mystical Body of Christ, the Church.

Liturgy is perceptible to the senses, treating man according to his nature, as made of both matter and spirit. It reaches to the spirit by the senses and the heart, thus making everything a handmaid of Faith, as it offers its gift to the Creator.
3. Liturgy follows the definite program of the Liturgical, or Ecclesiastical Year. In the course of the year we celebrate a succession of sacred seasons and fasts, with public adoration centered in the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. (See pages 414-417.)

The first part of this sacred drama pictures the period of hopeful waiting for the promised Redeemer, as described in the Old Testament. Then the Mystical Body of Christ lives through Advent, waiting for Christmas, praying for the Supreme Gift. The second part of the drama gives us a panorama of the life of the Son of God made man, as described in the New Testament. The Mystical Body of Christ then celebrates the different events of His life, from Birth to Ascension. The third act of the sacred drama unfolds the continuation of Our Lord's life and work in His Mystical Body, the Catholic Church. This period began on that first Pentecost long ago, when the Holy Spirit descended on the Apostles. In the Liturgical Year we recall and even now we continue to live in that period, kept in the Liturgical Year from the Feast of Pentecost on back to the beginning of the cycle.

4. We must participate in liturgical worship, Our Lord established Christianity; we must take part in His worship. He redeemed us as one group, collectively, not as separate individuals. He even taught us Our Father, in which we do not refer to God as Father of an individual person.

With Our Lord Liturgy presents a view of perfect community life, of one family, the Mystical Body of Christ, all united by the bond of charity, doing all for the common good. By Liturgy we participate in the functions of the Church, making them our ordinary and principal way of common prayer.

Which is the central act of Liturgy?

The central act of Liturgy is the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass.

1. By Holy Mass the Mystical Body of Christ through its Head, and by the ministry of His priest, offers sacrifice to Almighty God. In the Mass we unite ourselves with the Son of God Himself, there as Priest and Victim. And in the Mass the Church Militant is one with the Church Triumphant and the Church Suffering, all one in the Mystical Body of Christ. (See pages 215, 288-289.)

Holy Mass is a sacrifice, indeed, the very sacrifice of our redemption mysteriously made present on the altar. (See pages 286-287.) Holy Mass is not a private devotion; it is not simple adoration of the Blessed Sacrament. It is the Sacrifice offered by the Redeemer Himself to Almighty God, in which offering we as members of His Mystical Body participate. At Holy Mass we do not so much adore Our Lord, as we offer Him, the Divine Lamb, in sacrifice to the Most High.

2. Holy Mass is supreme Sacrifice, the sacrifice most pleasing to God. It is a holocaust of the Son of God, a reenactment of the Sacrifice on Calvary. No other sacrifice can equal, or even approach it in sublimity or effects. And in Liturgy the entire Church takes part in this sacred drama, with members all over the world, with Masses at every hour, in all nations. (See pages 286-287, 310.)

Mass is not only invocation; it is also evocation, for by the sacred rites God the Son comes down in Flesh and Blood. Somewhere in the world, at any hour of the day or night the Church is offering sacrifice, the Son of God Himself, at Holy Mass. It is a perpetual oblation offered to the Creator.

3. Holy Mass is the chief act of Catholic worship. All the grandest functions of Liturgy — ordinations, consecrations, professions take place during the celebration of this Holy Sacrifice. All our own important individual undertakings should likewise be commended to God by the offering of Holy Mass.

Let us join in this offering of the Divine Lamb, Our Lord, the Head of one Mystical Body. Let us sing in this chorus of praise, offering our Sacrifice, receiving the Divine Lamb in Holy Communion, all as one family, united with Our Lord in His Mystical Body the Church. Then we shall be living a truly Catholic life, and we shall effect our sanctification.

Which is the great public prayer in Liturgy?

The Divine Office is the great public prayer, as Holy Mass is the great Sacrifice.

Divine Office is a public prayer because the priest offering it acts in the name of the Church, not for his own individual self. Priests are official intermediaries in the Mystical Body of Christ. Just as we offer the Sacrifice of the Mass by the hands of a priest, so we offer the Divine Office by his mediation. Thus in Liturgy we unite ourselves with the sacerdotal prayer of the Church, rendering adoration to God. (See pages 350-351.)

A priest is always a mediator between God and man. By his hands we offer Sacrifice. By his Divine Office he prays for us, presenting our petitions, begging for us favors from God.
Our Lord Himself fasted often. He fasted forty days and forty nights before He began His public life.

By Church law, all baptized persons between the ages of 21 and 59 years are bound to observe the law of fast, and all baptized persons over 7 years of age are bound to observe the law of abstinence.

123. Second Commandment of the Church

"To fast and to abstain on the days appointed."

What is a FAST DAY?

A fast day is a day on which only one full meal is allowed; but in the morning and evening some food may be taken, the quantity and quality of which are determined by approved local custom.

1. The one full meal may be taken either at noontime or in the evening. Only at this meal may meat be taken.

"Meat" is the flesh of warm-blooded land animals, including birds and fowl. At the principal meal meat may be taken on a day of fast except on days of complete abstinence like on all Fridays.

2. Two other meals, both meatless, may be taken according to each one’s needs; but together they should not equal another full meal. Eating between meals is forbidden; but liquids, including milk and fruit juices, are allowed. Wine, coffee, tea, cocoa, lemonade, beer, sherbets, and like preparations are permitted.

WHO ARE OBLIGED to observe the FAST days of the Church?

All baptized persons between the ages of 21 and 59 are obliged to observe the fast days of the Church, unless they are excused or dispensed.

Persons dispensed from fast must, however, observe abstinence unless they have also been dispensed from abstinence.

When health or the ability to work would be seriously affected, the law does not oblige.

For this reason those of weak health, the sick, the convalescent, nursing mothers, the very poor, and those engaged in hard labor are excused from the fast; also nurses and teachers. One in doubt as to his duties in this matter should consult a parish priest or his confessor.
What is a Day of Abstinence?

A day of abstinence is a day on which we are not allowed the use of meat.

Fish, snails, frogs, oysters, shrimps, and crabs may be taken on abstinence days, a well as milk, butter, cheese, eggs, and similar foods. Lard and the fat of any animals may be used in cooking and seasoning. On an abstinence day which is not also a fast day, only the quality, not the quantity, of food is regulated.

There are two kinds of abstinence days: complete and partial.

(a) On days of complete abstinence meat, and soup or gravy made from meat, may not be used at all.

(b) On days of partial abstinence meat, and soup or gravy made from meat, may be taken only once a day at the principal meal.

Who are obliged to observe the abstinence days of the Church?

All baptized persons over 7 years of age are bound to observe the abstinence days of the Church unless excused or dispensed.

1. The sick and convalescent, those who do extremely hard work, and those too poor to obtain other foods are excused.

The law of abstinence binds even those not obliged to fast. One who believes he has sufficient reason to be excused should consult a priest.

2. When there is a great concourse of people, or if the public health is concerned, the bishop can grant a dispensation, for a particular locality, or even for the entire diocese from the law of fast or of abstinence, or both.

Why does the Church command us to fast and to abstain?

The Church commands us to fast and to abstain in order that we may control the desires of the flesh, raise our minds more freely to God, and make satisfaction for sin. It is not because meat and other foods are in themselves evil.

"I chastise my body and bring it into subjection lest perhaps after preaching to others I myself should be rejected" (1 Cor. 9:27). One who cannot fast should do some other penance.

1. The forty days' fast observed in Lent is in imitation of Our Lord, Who fasted forty days in the desert. It is a preparation for Easter. Friday as a day of abstinence commemorates Our Lord's Good Friday.

Fast and abstinence are pleasing to God only when we also refrain from sin and engage in good works. We should honor Our Lord's passion during Lent by abstaining from worldly pleasures and amusements.

2. Even from merely natural motives, fast and abstinence, far from ruining the health as some people claim, on the contrary are a preservation of health. Reputable physicians will bear out this fact.

3. Fast and abstinence should not be carried to excess, to the injury of our health.

How can we know the days appointed for fast or abstinence?

We can know the days appointed for fast or abstinence from the instructions of our bishops and priests.

A Catholic calendar should be consulted.

1. In most of the dioceses of the United States, the days of fast are:

a. The weekdays of Lent, up to midnight of Holy Saturday.

b. Ember days.

These are twelve in number, three per season; namely, the Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays after: the first Sunday of Lent, Pentecost, September 14, and December 13.

c. The Vigil of Pentecost Sunday, Dec. 7th and either Dec. 23rd or 24th, as one may choose.

Pastors have the power of granting dispensation in particular cases, from fast or abstinence, or both, to individuals as well as families.

2. In most dioceses of the United States the days of abstinence are:

a. For complete abstinence—Fridays, Ash Wednesday, Dec. 7th and either Dec. 23rd or 24th, as one may choose.

b. For partial abstinence—Ember Wednesdays and Saturdays, and the Vigil of Pentecost.

3. There is neither fast nor abstinence on Sundays and holydays of obligation.

Bishops may grant a general dispensation in their dioceses from fast and abstinence on legal holidays, e.g., Washington's Birthday, Independence Day, etc. Catholics should inquire of their parish priest if dispensation is granted.

4. In some dioceses (a) the days of "fast and abstinence" are only four: Ash Wednesday, Good Friday, Dec. 7th, and Dec. 23rd or 24th, as one may choose. (b) Days of abstinence: All Fridays of the year.
The sacrament of Penance was instituted by Our Lord. The Apostles administered it. Thus in their time, as the Bible says, the Christian converts came to them, "confessing and declaring their deeds." (1) Thus they come to St. Paul in Ephesus (Acts 19:18).

(2) The first Christians received the Body of Our Lord daily. It is the wish of the Church that if we cannot imitate them, we should at least receive Holy Communion every time we hear Mass, on Sundays and holydays of obligation. We should not need to go to Confession for each Communion.

124. 3rd and 4th Commandments of the Church

"To confess our sins at least once a year."
"To receive Holy Communion during the Easter Time."

What is meant by the commandment to confess our sins at least once a year?

By the commandment to confess our sins at least once a year is meant that we are strictly obliged to make a good confession within the year, if we have a mortal sin to confess.

1. All who have reached the age of reason generally at the seventh year, are bound by this law, under pain of mortal sin. We may go to any confessor who is lawfully approved, whomever we prefer, in whatever church he may be.

No special time is ordered for the yearly confession, but it is usually made in preparation for the annual Easter Communion. The annual confession and communion is what we call "Easter duty."

2. Although the requirement is only once a year, good Catholics will not be satisfied with such a meagre partaking of the sacrament of penance. It need hardly be said that if anyone has the misfortune to fall into mortal sin, he should go to confession without any delay. Should this not be possible, he must make an act of perfect contrition, and have the desire to receive the sacrament.

We should strive to go to confession at least once a month. Many Catholics go to confession once a week, to the great benefit of their souls.

3. When in danger of death, baptized persons in the state of mortal sin have the obligation of receiving the sacrament of Penance.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
WHY should we GO TO CONFESSION FREQUENTLY?

We should go to confession frequently because frequent confession greatly helps us to overcome temptation, to keep in the state of grace, and to grow in virtue.

1. The graces that we receive from confession are given abundantly if we receive the sacrament frequently. Our soul is like a house undergoing cleaning at confession; the more often the house is swept and scrubbed, the cleaner it is bound to be.

The devil, expelled from the soul at confession, tries to return again and again; but there will be no danger of his breaking in if the soul is barred and protected by the graces of confession, a strong defense against evil. "Confess, therefore, your sins to one another" (James 5:16).

2. Confession not only serves to cleanse us from past offenses, but helps to strengthen us against sin, and increases us in virtue. It is a potent medicine that not only gives a thorough cleaning, but also injects powerful nourishment.

Converted sinners are generally careful to go to confession frequently, because from confession they obtain strength to resist their former sins that try to tempt them back to the wrong path. Confession is like the Prodigal Son's father, who is filled with joy upon his return, and who brings out to offer him everything the house contains, in order to make him glad he has returned.

3. It is not necessary to go to confession for each Holy Communion, so long as one has no mortal sin. For prudent advice, one should consult one's confessor.

What sin does a Catholic commit who neglects to receive Holy Communion worthily during the Easter time?

A Catholic who neglects to receive Holy Communion worthily during the Easter time commits a mortal sin.

1. All who have come to the use of reason are bound by this law of Easter communion. Parents, teachers, and pastors are obliged to see that the children under their care comply with their Easter duty. One does not fulfill the duty if his communion or confession is unworthy.

2. Catholics should not be satisfied with receiving the Body of Our Lord only once a year. The early Christians used to receive Communion at every Mass.

We should endeavor to receive Holy Communion frequently, as the Church urges. It does not seem very generous to make Our Lord wait one whole year when we may receive Him every day. If we only thought over our faith and realized what a great privilege it is for us to receive God Himself into our hearts, we would not need to be obliged to go to Holy Communion.

3. The Church prescribes annual communion in order that we may comply with the divine command to receive the Blessed Eucharist, and that the life of grace may be preserved in our souls.

Christ Himself commanded: "Unless you eat the Flesh of the Son of Man and drink His Blood, you shall not have life in you" (John 6:54). Holy Communion is the food of our souls. Let us not starve our souls by denying them this heavenly food.

When we are sick, we are eager enough to rush here, there, and everywhere, seeking remedies. But Holy Mass with Communion is the supernatural remedy for sick souls; and how many are there who seek it?

WHAT IS THE EASTER TIME in the United States?

The Easter time in the United States begins on the first Sunday of Lent and ends on Trinity Sunday.

Trinity Sunday, that is, the Sunday after Pentecost is eight weeks after Easter.

1. It is fitting to receive Holy Communion at Easter, because it was just a few days before Easter, during the Last Supper, that Our Lord instituted the Holy Eucharist.

In the early days of Christianity, Christians generally received Holy Communion as often as they could hear Mass. The law prescribing the reception of Holy Communion at Easter time was made in the thirteenth century.

2. As Christ died and rose again in the Easter time, it is fitting that Christians should at this time die to sin by the Sacrament of Penance, and rise to the life of grace through the Sacrament of the Holy Eucharist, which is a pledge of the future resurrection.

"As Christ has arisen from the dead, . . . so we also may walk in newness of life" (Rom. 6:4).

(Note. Full explanations of the Sacraments of Penance and Holy Eucharist are to be found on pages 310 to 333, inclusive. They explain the manner of going to Confession and receiving Holy Communion.)
To help support our pastors, we can give various things, according to our means, their needs, and the needs of the Church. We can offer money, vestments, furnishings for the Church, food, candles, etc. We should make a liberal offering every time the pastor performs the same service for us, as at baptisms, funerals, blessing of our houses, marriages, etc. If there is a regular fee charged, we should not only pay it willingly, but, if we are able, give more than what is required.

125. Fifth Commandment of the Church

"To contribute to the support of the Church."

What is meant by the commandment to contribute to the support of the Church?

By the commandment to contribute to the support of the Church is meant that each of us is obliged to bear his fair share of the financial burden of the Holy See, of the diocese and of the parish.

As St. Paul says: "What soldier ever serves at his own expense? Who plants a vineyard and does not eat of its fruit? Who feeds the flock, and does not eat of the milk of the flock?" (1 Cor. 9:7-8).

1. We are bound to support our parishes and those in charge of them, because justice commands it, and God ordained it. Our pastors are those priests in whose districts or parishes we live.

Pastors and curates are appointed by the Bishop, and charged to give the necessary religious instruction, administer the sacraments, watch over the spiritual welfare of the faithful, etc. "The Lord directed that those who preach the gospel should have their living from the gospel" (1 Cor. 9:14). Good citizens never think of grumbling about the taxes they pay the government. They have as great, if not greater, obligation to help support the Church.

2. We are also obliged to help support our diocese, as well as the Pope, and to meet all Church needs according to our ability.

If we do not support the Church, we are unfaithful to Christ's command that it "go and make disciples of all nations." To teach, the Church has need of funds; our spiritual superiors need material support as much as we do, if not much more on account of their duties. "The laborer is worthy of his wages" (1 Tim. 5:18).
3. Mass stipends are given, not in payment for the spiritual benefits, but as a means of support for the one who says the Mass. One cannot buy a Mass.

The usual stipend for a low Mass has been one dollar. But when you consider that many priests and missionaries depend on stipends for their living, this amount does not go very far. The cost of living has risen, but the stipend has not increased in amount.

FOR WHAT PURPOSES does the Church need help?

1. Maintenance of public worship, education, and charity, as instruction of the young, relief of the poor, upkeep of the churches, seminaries, schools, colleges, asylums, hospitals, cemeteries, orphanages, etc.

2. Maintenance of missions in our country and abroad.

IN WHAT WAYS may WE CONTRIBUTE to the support of the Church?

Some of the most common ways are:

1. By making a liberal and voluntary offering to the priest when he performs some religious ceremony in our behalf, such as blessing our houses and children, etc.

   In parishes with an established schedule of fees for baptism, confirmation, marriage, and burial, the fee should be paid without arguing or bargaining. More than the scheduled fee should be given by persons of means, as the schedule is for those of ordinary financial ability. The very poor are not expected to give anything. Sacraments are administered to them without fee.

2. By not failing to put some offering on the collection plate every Sunday and holyday. Even children should form the habit of putting in a few cents.

   It is not edifying to see people with diamond rings on their fingers let the plate pass by unnoticed, or put in a dime or a quarter. It certainly does not show much sense of proportion to give a quarter in church, and then to go out and ride in a luxurious car and proceed to a party that costs some ten dollars or more.

3. By contributing to special funds, as for the erection of a church or a school, the maintenance of religious establishments, the Mission Day funds for the Propagation of the Faith, for missions and retreats, etc.

We should be especially eager to contribute to funds collected directly for the Holy Father, as a proof of our loyalty to and love for the Father of all Christians, the Vicar of Christ on earth. The alms collected for the Holy Father are called "Peter's pence"; funds collected on Mission Day are sent to Rome, too, for the Propagation of the Faith, the spread of the Faith in mission lands.

4. By supporting a student in the seminary, some orphans in Catholic schools, catechists and priests in the missions, etc.

   What merit before God it must be to support a student for the priesthood, or a priest in the missions! If we cannot ourselves go to serve Him there, we, as it were, offer Him a representative. If a father has no son for the seminary, he keeps a substitute there! And we remember that such persons as we benefit only naturally feel towards us a special affection, and will devote many of their prayers for their benefactors; what blessings may we not expect from the Masses and prayers of one whom we have helped on the way to the Priesthood!

HOW MUCH SHOULD WE CONTRIBUTE for the support of the Church?

We should contribute as much as we can, according to our means.

1. Persons who are in moderate circumstances and with large families cannot be expected to contribute as much as those who are rich.

2. Ordinarily, if we give each month one day's wages or revenue, the needs of the Church will as a rule be taken care of. This is surely not too heavy a burden.

   Some people go on year after year without giving a cent to the Church even when they can well do so. These people should remember that the Church and her ministers cannot subsist on air.

3. In parishes of some dioceses there is the Scriptural practice of TITHING, that is, of giving 10 per cent of one's income for Church support and charitable uses (Deut. 14:22-23). Income is our yearly earnings from the profits of land, stock, or personal industry.

4. Persons who are rich should remember that God gave them their wealth. They should return some of it to Him in thanksgiving for His generosity, remembering that He gives wealth only as a trust.

   Wealthy Catholics should remember the Church in their wills. Many of these Catholics leave funds to some lay institution or other, for the erection of this or that building, and completely forget to leave anything to their Mother Church.

(Sixth Commandment of the Church: "To observe the laws of the Church concerning marriage." — See pages 360-361, "Church Laws on Marriage.")
PART III
MEANS OF GRACE: THE SACRAMENTS
PRAYER
The sacraments are "actions of Christ." By them His grace enters our soul to give it divine life and to nourish it.

The sacraments derive their efficacy from Christ, by Whose merits we possess them. They do not derive any merit from the person administering them. Good medicine is good regardless of the druggist or physician.

126. The Seven Sacraments

What is a SACRAMENT?

A sacrament is an outward sign instituted by Christ to give grace.

Thus there are three things absolutely necessary to constitute a sacrament: (1) institution by Christ; (2) an outward sign, and (3) power to give grace.

1. Only Christ instituted the sacraments, because only God can endow signs with the power to give grace.

From the teaching of the Church, from tradition, and from Holy Scripture, we know that Christ instituted the seven sacraments. All the schismatic Eastern churches that separated from the Catholic Church in the early years of the Christian era continue to recognize the same seven sacraments that the Church does. The Church has no power to institute sacraments.

2. An outward sign is something perceived by the senses. The external thing or action is called the matter, and the formula of words, the form, of the sacrament.

3. The sacraments signify the graces they actually give. Thus the washing in Baptism signifies the inward washing of the soul from sin. The sacraments always give the graces they signify, provided the recipient puts no obstacles.

It is principally through the sacraments that we obtain the grace of God. They are channels by which grace enters our souls, to give them divine life and to nourish them.

How many sacraments are there?

There are seven sacraments: Baptism, Confirmation, Holy Eucharist, Penance, Anointing of the Sick, Holy Orders, and Matrimony.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
There are seven sacraments and only seven, no more, no less, for the simple reason that Our Lord instituted seven. These seven sacraments are a gift of love from the Son of God, a gift for which He paid His very life.

1. A sacrament administered to anyone against his will is invalid, and will have no sacramental effect.

One of the requisite dispositions for receiving a sacrament is the desire and will to receive it. For infants and those who do not have the use of reason, the intention is supplied by the Church. We take their consent for granted or at the word of their sponsors.

2. Ceremonies, although not necessary for the validity of the Sacraments, are used in their administration, in order to make the occasions more solemn and meaningful, and to increase the devotion of the recipient.

Our Lord Himself used ceremonies, as when He spat upon clay and moistened with it the eyes of a blind man.

FROM WHOM do the sacraments receive their power to give grace?

The sacraments receive their power to give grace from God, through the merits of Jesus Christ.

The sacraments are actions of Christ: through the visible rite, it is He Who sanctifies us, just as truly as when He said to Mary Magdalen, "Thy sins are forgiven."

1. Each sacrament possesses the power from God to make the soul of the recipient holy and pleasing to Him. This supernatural power is termed sanctifying grace.

Sanctifying grace is abiding and permanent and lost only by mortal sin. The sacrament that first gives this grace is Baptism. The sacrament that restores this grace to those who have lost it by sin is Penance. The other sacraments give an increase of sanctifying grace.

2. Each sacrament also gives a grace proper to itself, a special effect on the soul, distinct from the effects of other sacraments; this is called sacramental grace.

Sacramental grace consists in divine help towards the fulfillment of the duties imposed by the particular sacrament. For example, the sacramental grace of Matrimony gives a right to the assistance of God in fulfilling the duties of the married state.

3. If received with the proper dispositions, the sacraments always give grace.

They derive their efficacy from Christ; consequently they give grace of themselves, as long as we have the right dispositions.

What is the difference between sacraments of the Dead and sacraments of the Living?

Sacraments of the dead have for their chief purpose to give the supernatural life of sanctifying grace to souls spiritually dead through sin; sacraments of the living have for their chief purpose to give more grace to souls already spiritually alive through sanctifying grace.

1. The sacraments of the dead are: Baptism and Penance. They restore soul to life in the life of sanctifying grace.

These sacraments increase sanctifying grace when received by one already in the state of grace. Thus when a person receiving absolution in the sacrament of Penance only has venial sins, he receives an increase in sanctifying grace.

2. The sacraments of the living are: Confirmation, Holy Eucharist, Anointing of the Sick, Holy Orders, and Matrimony. To souls already spiritually alive through sanctifying grace, these sacraments give more grace.

It is sacrilege to receive the sacraments of the living if one is in the state of mortal sin. The sacramental grace that should be obtained is suspended until the person recovers the state of grace.

Which are the sacraments that can be received only once?

The sacraments that can be received only once are: Baptism, Confirmation, and Holy Orders.

These three sacraments confer an official and permanent status within the Church; they are different participations in the priesthood of Christ.

1. This is because these sacraments imprint on the soul a spiritual mark or character, which consists in a special dedication to Christ. This mark is indelible, and is not effaced by anything, not even mortal sin. It will be borne by the soul for all eternity, for its greater glory if in heaven, and for its greater shame if in hell.

A priest will be known as a priest forever, by the mark on his soul, whether he be in heaven or in hell.

2. Holy Eucharist, Penance, Anointing of the Sick, and Matrimony leave no indelible mark, and may be received more than once.

Anointing of the Sick may be received only once in the same sickness. Matrimony cannot be repeated until one of the parties dies. The more often Penance and Holy Eucharist are received, the better for the soul.
The Sacrament of Baptism

What is BAPTISM?

Baptism is the sacrament that gives our souls the new life of sanctifying grace by which we become children of God and heirs of heaven.

Baptism is the very first sacrament we may receive. Unless we are baptized, we are forbidden to receive any other sacraments. Baptism has the three essentials of a sacrament: (a) it was instituted by Christ; (b) it is a sensible sign; and (c) it confers grace.

1. The sacrament of Baptism was instituted by Christ (perhaps at His own Baptism), and commanded at His Ascension.

He said to the Apostles: "Go, therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit" (Matt. 28:19). The Apostles obeyed His command on the very day of Pentecost. In answer to the question of the multitudes, "What shall we do?" after Peter's first sermon, Peter said, "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ, for the forgiveness of your sins" (Acts 2:38). About 3000 persons were baptized.

2. Christ instituted Baptism as the sacrament of spiritual rebirth, making the baptized members of God's family. Baptism infuses grace into their souls, making them supernaturally like to God.

As children of God they are given the right to enter heaven, and to gain merit by their good work. "Unless a man be born again of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God" (John 3:5).

3. The sacramental grace of Baptism is a regenerative grace that helps those baptized to live well the supernatural life they have begun as children of God.
WHAT SINS does baptism take away?

Baptism takes away original sin, and also actual sins and all the punishment due to them, if the person baptized be guilty of any actual sins and truly sorry for them.

1. Baptism is the only sacrament that can remit original sin. It cleanses us from all sin, original and actual, and remits all punishment due.

If an adult receives baptism with the proper dispositions, that is, with faith and contrition, his actual sins are taken away with original sin, as well as all temporal punishment due to his actual sins. Thus if an adult dies immediately after baptism, he goes straight to heaven, whatever the sins he may have committed.

2. When Baptism takes away original sin, it gives our souls the new life of sanctifying grace. Thus by Baptism we are born again.

What are THE EFFECTS of the character imprinted on the soul by baptism?

The effects of the character imprinted on the soul by Baptism are that we become members of the Church, subject to its laws, and capable of receiving the other sacraments.

By Baptism we become members of the Church and children of God. We are given the right to enter heaven, and to gain merits by our good works. We assume the obligation to act as lay apostles for the spread of the Faith.

Baptism imprints an indelible sign or character on the soul. This character marks us as Christians, and cannot be removed by anything, even mortal sin. This character prevents the sacrament from being repeated: we can be baptized only once. "For all who have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ" (Gal. 3:27).

WHY is baptism NECESSARY for the salvation of all men?

Baptism is necessary for the salvation of all men, because Christ has said: "Unless a man be born again of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God."

From the time of Christ this has been the unequivocal teaching of the Church. The reason lies in the fact that only Baptism can remit original sin; no one with any taint can enter heaven.

Those who through no fault of their own have not received the sacrament of Baptism can be saved through what is called baptism of blood or baptism of desire.

Either baptism of desire or of blood entitles one to the possession of heaven, just as baptism by water. However, only baptism by water imprints a character on the soul, and so entitles one to the reception of the other sacraments.

1. An unbaptized person receives the baptism of blood when he suffers martyrdom for the faith of Christ.

One who lays down his life for Christ or some Christian virtue is said to have received baptism of blood. Our Lord promised, "He who loses his life for my sake will find it" (Matt. 10:39). Thus the Holy Innocents whom Herod slew out of hatred for the Infant Jesus received the baptism of blood.

2. An unbaptized person receives the "baptism of desire" when he loves God above all things, is sorry for his sins, and ardently longs for Baptism when it is impossible to receive it; or when not knowing the necessity of Baptism, sincerely wishes to do all required for salvation.

WHEN should CHILDREN be baptized?

Children should be baptized as soon as possible after birth.

1. If possible, this should be done within a week.

Except when in danger of death, an infant should not be baptized without the permission of a parent or guardian. Children who have come to the age of reason cannot be baptized without their own consent.

2. Infants may receive the baptism of blood, but not the baptism of desire, since they have not as yet the use of reason.

Theologians have suggested various ways in which, they believe, babies who die without Baptism might be saved. But since this is only pious belief, parents sin mortally if they neglect the Baptism of their children.

3. Since infants who die unbaptized have committed no sins, they live in a place of natural happiness called "limbo."

Catholic parents who put offspring for a long time, or entirely neglect, the Baptism of their children put them in danger of losing heaven and the vision of God eternally. Although in limbo infants enjoy complete natural happiness surpassing any on earth, such happiness cannot compare with the bliss of heaven, where souls see God face to face. One is natural, the other supernatural joy.

This chart shows clearly the various matter, forms, and ministers of each of the seven sacraments. In it may be found which are the sacraments of the living, implying the necessity of being in the state of grace before reception; and which are the sacraments of the dead, not necessitating that state.

128. Form, Matter and Ministers of Baptism

HOW would you give BAPTISM?

I would give Baptism by pouring ordinary water on the forehead of the person to be baptized, saying while pouring it: "I baptize you in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit."

The "pouring of water" is the matter, and "the words" the form of Baptism.

1. The form must be said at the same time the water is poured, and must be said by the same person pouring the water, so that everything takes place as one act.

No changes may be made in the wording. For example, the words "of the Holy Trinity" may not be substituted for "of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit," because Jesus explicitly commanded Baptism to be given "in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit" (Matt. 28:19). The word "Ghost" may be substituted for "Spirit."

2. Baptism is validly administered whether performed by total immersion, by infusion, or by aspersion. By infusion, the water is poured on the head, forehead, or face. In cases of emergency, it may be poured on any part of the body. The water must flow on the skin, of the person being baptized, not merely on the hair. By aspersion, water is sprinkled on the head.

In the time of the Apostles Baptism was usually, though not exclusively, conferred by immersion. The first baptisms on Pentecost could not have been by immersion, on account of the great number, three thousand, baptized. All these three methods are valid; but our present practice is by infusion.

3. The water used for solemn Baptism, i.e. when a priest confers it with the ceremonies, is called baptismal water. It is natural water mingled with holy oil and chrism, and blessed with special prayers. Ordinary holy water is not baptismal water.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Our Lord spoke of "water and the Holy Spirit." Peter baptized Cornelius and his family in water (Acts 10:47); Philip did the same with the eunuch (Acts 8:38). From the Gospel one cannot conclude the use of anything but water in the baptism administered during Apostolic times.

4. In cases of necessity, when someone other than a priest administers the baptism, any natural water, such as water from the sea, river, fountain, faucet, rain, or even mineral water, may be used. Holy water may also be used.

WHO CAN ADMINISTER BAPTISM?

The priest is the usual minister of Baptism, but if there is danger that someone will die without Baptism, anyone else may and should baptize.

Because Baptism is a necessary pre-requisite to enter heaven, when an unbaptized person is in danger of death, and no priest is available, anyone may baptize. However, it would be very wrong to do it without serious reason.

In the early days of the Church, religious instruction preceded Baptism; the candidates for Baptism were called catechumens. In those days, solemn Baptism was administered on Holy Saturday, on the eve of Whitsunday, and on the eve of the Epiphany. From those early times has come our practice today of having the water for Baptism solemnly blessed on Solemn Easter Vigil, that is, on Holy Saturday night.

1. The bishop or pastor, or a priest properly delegated, is therefore the ordinary minister of Baptism. But in cases of necessity, when there is danger of death and an ordinary minister is unavailable, anyone—man, woman, or child, Catholic or non-Catholic, atheist, or pagan—may and should baptize; that person then becomes the extraordinary minister of Baptism.

When properly given, lay baptism is as valid as baptism given by a priest. In order to baptize validly, natural fresh water or holy water is poured, on the head, face, or body of the person being baptized, and at the same time the words are pronounced: "I baptize you in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit."

2. If a person baptized by an extraordinary minister survives, he cannot be baptized again. However, he is taken to the church, and the ceremonies that had been omitted are supplied.

No one may baptize himself. A witness to a lay baptism should be present, but this is not of necessity.

3. Baptism administered by a Protestant or other minister is valid if properly performed: that is, with the use of water, together with the form of Baptism, and having the intention to do what the Church does.

Conditional baptism is given when it is uncertain whether a person has been baptized, or when there is fear of the sacrament having been administered improperly.

4. Children should be baptized in the parochial church to which their parents belong, because the registration should be made there.

In case a child is baptized in a hospital, at home, or elsewhere, in some other church, the parish priest should be notified.

5. After Baptism, a certificate is given containing the names of the child, of his parents, of his godparents, the dates of birth, of Baptism, and the place of Baptism.

This is the BAPTISMAL CERTIFICATE. It should be very carefully kept, as later it will be needed for the sacrament of Confirmation. The certificate is also necessary for marriage, holy orders, or entrance into a religious community. Parents should tell their children when and where they were baptized, so that even should the certificate be lost and the parents die, the registration may be traced.

Why is the NAME OF A SAINT given in baptism?

The name of a saint is given in Baptism in order that the person baptized may imitate his virtues, and have him for a protector.

1. The names of angels are also given, as well as names referring to mysteries or sacred appellations, events, and doctrines.

In certain countries it is a practice, even when another baptismal name is given, to include for girls the name Mary, and for boys the name Joseph; for example: Mary Louise, Joseph Francis, etc.

2. The Church does not approve of heathen or fantastical names, such as combinations taken from a film or novel, or made up from various words.

Christian parents will quite naturally want to give a Christian name to their child. At least one of the child's names must be a saint's name, so that the child may have a patron in heaven whose virtues he may imitate and to whom he may look for protection and help. It is permissible to add non-saint names, such as family names, if the parents wish. There are books and pamphlets available in Catholic bookstores which contain lists of saints' names to help parents with their choice.
The essential part of Baptism is the pouring of water (2) together with the saying of the words of baptism. At that moment the godparents must be touching the child. Blessed salt is put in the child's mouth (1), symbol of the spiritual wisdom received through Baptism. A lighted candle is given to the person baptized, or if an infant, to the sponsors (3), to denote the light of the Holy Spirit received.

129. Ceremonies and Sponsors in Baptism

THE CEREMONIES used in Baptism are here summarized:

1. Reception of the candidate. At the church door the priest, in the name of the Church, welcomes the candidate, saying: "Peace be with you." Then he questions him as to his purpose in wishing admission into the Church. He is commanded to keep the commandments, to love God and his neighbor. The priest then breathes three times upon his face to signify the spiritual breath of life that is to be infused into his soul, signs him with the cross, imposes his hand on him as a sign that the Church takes him as a ward, and then puts blessed salt in his mouth.

The exorcisms follow, by which the devil is cast out, with his power over the soul of the candidate. The priest again signs the forehead with a cross, as a seal, and commends the soul to God.

2. Admittance into the church or baptistery. The priest then lays his stole on the child as a sign of his ecclesiastical powers, and leads him into the baptistery, that he may have part with Christ in everlasting life. The godparents and the priest, together with the candidate if he already is an adult, recite the "Apostles' Creed" and the "Our Father" in sign of acceptance of the Faith.

Prayers of exorcism are recited again to break the power of Satan over the child. The priest touches the ears and nostrils of the candidate with his moistened thumb, to signify that the hearing should be opened to the Word of God, and that the candidate should live in the odor of sanctity.

3. The baptismal vows. The candidate's good will is tested in the baptismal vows, in which he renounces Satan "and all his works and display," that is, all sins and all occasions of sin.
CEREMONIES AND SPONSORS IN BAPTISM

If the person baptized is an infant, his godparents take the baptismal vows for him, in his name. The vows and profession of faith take the form of answers to six questions. Then the candidate is anointed with the oil of catechumens, touched on the breast that wisdom may thrive in his heart, and on the shoulders, that he may patiently bear the yoke of Christ. Then the priest changes his violet stole for a white one, to show that the separation from God of the soul is about to give way to a life of grace. Follows the profession of faith, a reiteration of the Apostles' Creed, and formal petition for Baptism. Nota Bene: In some dioceses the ceremonies of giving salt, touching the ears and nostrils, and anointing the breast and shoulders may be omitted.

4. The main act. The priest pours the baptismal water three times upon the head of the candidate in the form of the cross, at the same time pronouncing the words: "(Name of candidate), I baptize you in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit." At this actual moment of Baptism, the godparents must touch the candidate, to show that they incur and accept the spiritual relationship.

5. Anointing with Chrism. After the pouring of water the person is anointed with Chrism on the crown of the head, to show that he is now anointed of God.

A white garment is placed upon him to show that his soul is now spotless with grace. A lighted candle is put in his hand to impress upon him that he should ever keep burning in his heart the light of faith and virtue. And finally, the newly baptized child of God is dismissed, with the blessings of the Church: "Peace be with you." The garment and candle are kept as souvenirs of one's baptism.

WHAT DO WE PROMISE through our godparents in Baptism?

We promise through our godparents in Baptism to renounce the devil, and to live according to the teachings of Christ and of His Church.

The godparents make the responses for an infant being baptized. These are called the baptismal vows. By them the person renounces Satan and all his works and poms; that is, sin and all occasions.

1. To the first three questions, we reply through our godparents in Baptism. "I do renounce him (or them)." To the last three questions we reply, "I do believe."

(1) Do you renounce Satan? (2) And all his works? (3) And all his display? (4) Do you believe in God, the Father Almighty, Creator of heaven and earth? (5) Do you believe in Jesus Christ, His only Son, Our Lord, who was born into the world and suffered for us? (6) And do you believe in the Holy Ghost, the Holy Catholic Church, the communion of saints, the forgiveness of sins, the resurrection of the body, and life everlasting?

2. We should renew our baptismal vows after the blessing of the baptismal font at Easter Vigil service. We should also renew them on our First Communion day, on New Year's Day, and after a mission or spiritual retreat.

What is the DUTY OF A GODPARENT after Baptism?

The duty of a godparent after Baptism is to see that the child is brought up a good Catholic, if this is not done by the parents.

1. In solemn baptism there must be at least one godparent, of the same sex as the one baptized. It is permitted to have two sponsors: a godfather and a godmother.

It is not permitted to have more than two godparents, and these two must be of different sexes. Others who may be present are only witnesses. Godparents should be at least thirteen years of age.

2. A godparent has the duty of looking upon the baptized person as his spiritual child, of providing for him, when necessary, the proper religious education, and of guarding him spiritually even when he is grown.

3. A spiritual relationship is established between the person baptized and his sponsor, as well as between him and the one who baptizes him.

This relationship, called spiritual affinity, forbids marriage between the persons thus related. No spiritual affinity is contracted between the godfather and the godmother of a person, nor between his parents and his godparents.

4. If the person chosen godparent cannot be present at the Baptism, another can act in his place: that is, he can be sponsor by proxy. The absent godparent must, however, have the intention of being godparent.

Who should be chosen as godparents for Baptism?

Only Catholics who know their faith and live up to the duties of their religion should be chosen as godparents for Baptism. A godparent is supposed to be a practical Catholic. Non-Catholics, Masons, those who married out of the Church, and all other excommunicated persons cannot be sponsors. Neither can the father, the mother, the husband, or the wife of the person to be baptized be the godparent.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The ceremonies of Confirmation begin by the Bishop extending his hands over those to be confirmed (1), invoking the Holy Ghost. He signs with the sign of the cross the forehead of each separately with chrism (2), pronouncing the words of confirmation. He gives the person a slight blow on the cheek (3) to remind him to be ready to suffer all things, even death, for his faith.

130. The Sacrament of Confirmation

What is CONFIRMATION?

Confirmation is the sacrament through which the Holy Spirit comes to us in a special way and enables us to profess our faith as strong and perfect Christians and soldiers of Jesus Christ.

Christ promised His Apostles the gift of the Holy Spirit (Luke 24:49; John 14:16-17; 16:7, 12). They understood that the promise was meant for all Christians. Hence after receiving the Spirit on Pentecost Day, they conferred Him on all the baptized: Acts 2:38 and 8:14-17.

1. Confirmation in a very special manner brings us the Holy Spirit with His sevenfold gifts. "Then they laid their hands on them, and they received the Holy Spirit" (Acts 8:17).

Confirmation for the Christians may be likened to the day of Pentecost for the Apostles, when they received the Holy Spirit under sensible signs: tongues as of fire, and a mighty wind. The Apostles themselves administered the sacrament of Confirmation, as at Samaria and Ephesus. "And when Paul laid his hands on them, the Holy Spirit came upon them" (Acts 19:6). "Laying of the hands" was the earliest name for Confirmation.

2. Any baptized Christian may be confirmed. Although the sacrament is not necessary for salvation, it is sinful to neglect it, as it confers many graces.

3. We should receive the sacrament of Confirmation at the age when we pass from childhood to youth. At that period all kinds of temptations surround us, and we need special strength from God to resist them.

In the early days of the Church, it was the custom to confirm very young children. The sacrament of Confirmation is today delayed in order that the recipient may first have a basis of knowledge of the fundamentals of faith. Even when Confirmation is administered to infants and very young children, they truly receive the sacrament. The age is a matter of discipline in particular dioceses.

4. The bishop is the usual minister of Confirmation.

Sometimes, however, the Holy See gives missionary priests the power to administer this sacrament. Pastors and administrators of parishes in their respective territories are granted the faculty of confirming, as extra-ordinary ministers, those who are in danger of death from sickness, accident, or old age.

WHAT IS NECESSARY to receive Confirmation properly?

To receive Confirmation properly, it is necessary to be in the state of grace, and to know well the chief truths and duties of our religion.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
1. For Confirmation, a knowledge of the chief truths and duties of our religion is required. This is why, if a person who is to be confirmed has reached the age of reason, he is examined.

The Apostles’ Creed, the Commandments, the Sacraments and common prayers are the basis of any examination in religion.

2. Confirmation is a sacrament of the living. Therefore when one who has reached the age of reason is to be confirmed, he must first go to confession if burdened with mortal sin, in order to be in a state of grace.

The person to be confirmed should obtain his Confirmation card. He must go to the church properly dressed. He must go early; when many are to be confirmed, the doors are closed before the beginning of the ceremonies, to prevent the entrance of latecomers. The person confirmed must not leave the church before the whole ceremony is finished.

3. Upon approaching the bishop, the person to be confirmed must kneel. Children may stand. The sponsor stands behind, with the right hand on the shoulder of the person to be confirmed. There is only one sponsor, of the same sex as the one confirmed.

WHAT DOES THE BISHOP DO when he gives confirmation?

When giving confirmation, the bishop lays his hand on the head of the person he confirms, and anoints the forehead with holy chrism in the form of a cross as he says: “I sign you with the sign of the cross, and I confirm you with the chrism of salvation, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit.”

1. Holy chrism is a mixture of olive oil and balm, blessed by the bishop on Holy Thursday. By anointing the forehead with chrism in the form of a cross is meant that the Catholic who is confirmed must always be ready to profess his faith openly and to practice it fearlessly.

The cross marked on our foreheads at Confirmation reminds us never to be ashamed to profess ourselves disciples of a crucified Saviour. We must profess our religion openly whenever we cannot keep silence without breaking some law of God or of the Church; for example, when we are challenged to make profession of our faith, when the Church is being attacked.

2. After the anointing with chrism, the bishop gives the person confirmed a slight blow on the cheek, saying, “Peace be with you!” It is believed that originally it was “the kiss of peace” given by the bishop, which in the case of babies was replaced by a caress on the cheek. For centuries, however, the explanation given is that the blow should remind the confirmed to be ready to suffer for Christ’s sake.

Finally the bishop gives all his blessing. Then those who have been confirmed or their godparents pray the Credo, “Our Father,” and “Hail Mary.”

3. Those in charge should take care that proper registration takes place after Confirmation. When a person is confirmed outside his own parish, notification must be sent to the parish where he was baptized.

What are the effects of Confirmation?

Confirmation increases sanctifying grace, gives its special sacramental grace, and imprints a lasting character on the soul.

1. Confirmation grants us the special grace by which our faith is deepened and strengthened, and we become concerned not only for our own spiritual needs, but for those of others.

Confirmation makes us sharers with Christ in His role of Redeemer. We participate with Him in the task of extending His Kingdom, by adding new souls to His Mystical Body. Our words and our works are directed not merely to our own sanctification, but also to the purpose of making Christ’s truths alive and real for those around us, we are “soldiers of Christ.”

2. By Confirmation we also receive that grace Jesus promised to His Apostles: “You shall receive power when the Holy Spirit comes upon you, and you shall be witnesses for me...even to the very ends of the earth” (Acts 1:8).

The confirmed will not longer remain on the defensive fighting for his faith when being attacked. He will go forth joyfully in the fulfillment of vocation of soldier of Christ. He will become restless unless he is doing something worth-while for others—something to make more secure their promise of eternal life. He will join the ranks of Catholic Action, he will start being a real soldier of Christ, he will be “another Christ.”

3. The character of Confirmation is a spiritual and indelible sign which marks the Christian as a soldier in the army of Christ.

The confirmed as Christ’s soldier will be loyal to his King, Whose cause he serves. He is prepared to undergo any sufferings, even death if necessary. He will do all in his power to expand the kingdom of God. Because Confirmation imprints an indelible character on the soul, it may be received only once.
At the Consecration at Mass, the bread and wine are changed into the Body and Blood, Soul and Divinity of our Lord Jesus Christ. This is the Sacrament that Jesus instituted at the Last Supper (1).

In the Blessed Eucharist is the same Person who was born in Bethlehem (3), crucified on Calvary (2), and rose gloriously from the dead on the first Easter morning (4).

131. The Sacrament of the Holy Eucharist

What is THE HOLY EUCHARIST?

The Holy Eucharist is a sacrament and a sacrifice in which Our Saviour Jesus Christ, body and blood, soul and divinity, is contained, offered, and received under the appearances of bread and wine.

1. Christ instituted the Holy Eucharist at the Last Supper, the night before He died. The Apostles were present.

EUCHARIST in Greek means thanksgiving. The sacrament is so called because when Christ instituted it, He gave thanks. Today, it is the chief means by which we give thanks to God, through the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass.

2. The Holy Eucharist is also called the Blessed Sacrament, because it is the most excellent of all sacraments. It gives us Christ Himself. “My delight is to be with the children of men” (Prov. 8:31).

It is called the Sacrament of the Altar, because it is consecrated and reserved upon an altar. It is offered up on the altar in the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass.

3. The Holy Eucharist is called Holy Communion when it is received, usually in church. It is called Holy Viaticum when it is received during a serious illness, or at the hour of death.

HOW DID CHRIST INSTITUTE the Holy Eucharist?

Christ instituted the Holy Eucharist in this way: He took bread, blessed and broke it, and giving it to His Apostles, said: “Take and eat; this is My body”; then He took a cup of wine, blessed it, and giving it to them, said: "All of you drink this; for this is My blood of the new covenant which is being shed for many unto the forgiveness of sins"; finally, He gave His Apostles the commission: "Do this in remembrance of Me."

1. When Our Lord said, "This is My body," the entire substance of the bread was changed into His body; and when He said, "This is My blood," the entire substance of the wine was changed into His blood.

In the Holy Eucharist, we find the three essentials of a sacrament. The institution was at the Last Supper. The matter is bread and wine; the form consists of Our Lord's words. The grace is a nourishing grace coming from the very body and blood of Christ, helping us to be more closely united to God and our fellowmen in supernatural charity.

2. After the substance of the bread and wine had been changed, only the appearances of bread and wine remained.

By the appearances of bread and wine we mean all those outward forms and accidentals, like color, taste, smell, weight, shape, and whatever else that appears to the senses. This is the double miracle of the Holy Eucharist: the changing from bread and wine into Jesus Christ, and the existence of the appearances of bread and wine without their substance.

WHY DO WE BELIEVE that Christ changed bread and wine into His own Body and Blood?

We believe that Christ changed bread and wine into His own Body and Blood, because:

1. His words clearly say so. At the Last Supper He said: "This is My Body," not "This is a symbol of My Body," or "This represents My Body."

"And while they were at supper, Jesus took bread and blessed and broke, and gave it to his disciples, and said, "Take and eat; this is my body." And taking a cup, he gave thanks and gave it to them, saying, "All of you drink of this; for this is my blood of the new covenant, which is being shed for many unto the forgiveness of sins" (Matt. 26:26-28).

2. Previously, on the day after the first multiplication of the loaves and fishes, Our Lord had promised to give His Flesh to eat and His Blood to drink. On this occasion, it is clear that the Jews took Our Lord's words literally. Many of the disciples left Jesus and "walked no more with Him," because they could not believe such a thing as He promised. But Jesus, although very sad at their leaving, did not take back His words or explain them differently.

"I am the bread of life. Your fathers ate the manna in the desert, and have died. This is the bread that comes down from heaven, so that if anyone eat of it he will not die. I am the living bread that has come down from heaven. If anyone eat of this bread he shall live forever; and the bread that I will give is my flesh for the life of the world."

"The Jews on that account argued with one another, saying, 'How can this man give us his flesh to eat?"

"Jesus therefore said to them 'Amen, amen, I say to you, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man, and drink his blood, you shall not have life in you. He who eats my flesh and drinks my blood has life everlasting and I will raise him up on the last day. For my flesh is food indeed, and my blood is drink indeed. He who eats my flesh, and drinks my blood, abides in me and I in him. As the living Father has sent me, and as I live because of the Father, so he who eats me, he also shall live because of me" (John 6:48-57).

3. The Apostles understood that Christ meant His words at the Last Supper to be literal. St. Paul writes:

"The cup of blessing that we bless, is it not the sharing of the blood of Christ? And the bread that we break, is it not the partaking of the body of the Lord? . . . Therefore whoever eats this bread or drinks the cup of the Lord unworthily, will be guilty of the body and the blood of the Lord" (1 Cor. 10:16; 11:27).

4. It has been the continuous belief of Christians from the beginning of Christianity. St. Augustine said, "Our Lord held Himself in His own hands, when He gave His Body to the disciples." It was only in the sixteenth century that some Protestants, breaking away from the True Church, denied it and introduced a different doctrine.

The churches which separated in the early centuries from the Catholic Church all believe in the doctrine of the Holy Eucharist as being the very Body and Blood of Christ.

How was Our Lord able to change bread and wine into His body and blood?

Our Lord was able to change bread and wine into His body and blood by His almighty power.

If God made the universe out of nothing, He certainly could change bread and wine into His Body and Blood. Christ Himself changed water into wine at the marriage feast of Cana, by a mere act of His Divine Will. Every day we can see the results of God's power in the miracle of growth: people grow, the trees grow; inanimate or dead matter is assimilated as food and continues as living beings or vegetation,—all by the power of God.
132. The Real Presence

WHEN DID CHRIST GIVE His priests the power to change bread and wine into His body and blood?

Christ gave His priests the power to change bread and wine into His body and blood when He made the Apostles priests at the Last Supper by saying to them: "Do this in remembrance of Me." Thus He commanded them and their successors to renew till the end of time what He had just performed. This change of bread and wine into the body and blood of Christ continues to be made in the Church of Jesus Christ, through His priests.

HOW DO PRIESTS EXERCISE their power to change bread and wine into the body and blood of Christ?

Priests exercise their power to change bread and wine into the body and blood of Christ by repeating at the consecration of the Mass the words of Christ: "This is My body...this is My blood."

Over the bread are pronounced the words: Hoc est enim corpus meum, "For this is My Body." Over the wine are pronounced the words: Hic est enim calix sanguinis mei, "For this is the chalice of My Blood."

1. At Mass, at the words of consecration, Transubstantiation takes place; that is, the entire substance of the bread and wine is changed into our Lord's Body and Blood.

After the words of consecration, there is no longer any bread or wine on the altar, for they have been changed into Christ's Body and Blood. If it be asked how transubstantiation can possibly be effected, we reply, "By the almighty power of God."

2. The appearances of bread and wine remain. The consecrated Host continues to look like bread, tastes and feels like bread; but it is not bread, for the entire substance of bread is changed into Christ's Body. The same is true of the consecrated wine.
Is Jesus Christ whole and entire both under the appearances of bread, and under the appearances of wine?

Jesus Christ is whole and entire both under the appearances of bread and under the appearances of wine.

1. In the Holy Eucharist Christ is present wholly, Body, Blood, Soul, and Divinity.

A little child preparing for her first Holy Communion was asked the difference between a crucifix and the Blessed Sacrament. "Why," the innocent child answered, "the crucifix looks like Our Lord, but it is not He. The Blessed Sacrament does not look like Our Lord, but it is He Himself!"

2. Christ is whole and entire under the appearances of bread or wine. As Christ's Body is a living body, and a living body has blood, so Christ's Blood is there wherever His Body is.

Where Christ's living Body and Blood are, there also must be His soul, for the body and soul cannot live without the soul. And where Christ's Soul is, there also is His Divinity, which cannot be separated from His humanity.

3. Christ is whole and entire in each part of the Host and in each drop in the chalice. When the Host is broken, the Body of Christ is not broken, but He exists whole and entire in each fragment.

In a similar way, even when we break a mirror into many pieces, each piece reflects our face.

4. Christ's Body and Blood are present in the consecrated species as long as the appearances of bread and wine remain.

When, therefore, we receive Holy Communion, we bear within us, as long as the appearances of bread remain, the Living Christ, Son of God.

WHY does Christ give us His own body and blood in the Holy Eucharist?

1. To be offered as a sacrifice commemorating and renewing the sacrifice of the cross.

"For as often as you shall eat this bread, and drink the cup, you proclaim the death of the Lord, until he comes" (I Cor. 11:26). In the Mass Jesus offers Himself as a Victim to His heavenly Father.

2. To be received in Holy Communion.

"I am the bread of life... He who eats my flesh, and drinks my blood, abides in me, and I in him... He who eats me, he also shall live because of me" (John 6:48, 56, 58). The Holy Eucharist is food to nourish the soul. By this food we are united to Christ, Who nourishes us with His divine life; sanctifying grace and all virtues increase in our souls; our evil inclinations are lessened. The Holy Eucharist is a pledge of everlasting life: "If any man eat of this Bread, he shall live forever." Holy Communion needs the Mass to supply the consecrated species; for this reason Mass and Communion are inseparable.

3. To remain ever on our altars as a proof of His love, and to be worshipped by us.

"Come to Me, all you who labor, and are burdened, and I will give you rest" (Matt. 11:28). We say we love Jesus; do we prove our love? When we have a dear friend, we are ever eager to be in his presence; do we show Jesus the same loving tenderness? Or are we so forgetful of Him that we go to see Him only once a week?

Since Christ's Real Presence is in the Eucharist, What Honor Are We Bound to Render It?

We are bound to render the Holy Eucharist the same adoration and honor due God Himself.

1. It is a most wonderful privilege to have Christ actually present every moment of the day and night.

When the Blessed Sacrament is in the tabernacle, it is covered with a curtain or veil, and a sanctuary lamp is kept burning before it. When we enter or leave the church, we should genuflect on the right knee towards the tabernacle, as a sign of adoration.

2. This is why the tabernacle is the most precious part of a church. Special care should be taken to keep the altar linen clean; in most parishes there are altar societies of women who devote part of their time to the care of altar linens, vestments, etc.

The Holy Father gives us good example. The chapel of the Blessed Sacrament in the Basilica of St. Peter's is precious, with its unique tabernacle. Dozens of vigil lights burn day and night before Our Lord, as prayers for His people.

3. We can show Jesus our love and gratitude by hearing Holy Mass every day and receiving Holy Communion, by paying Him a visit in the Blessed Sacrament, by attending Benediction, by spending an hour of adoration when the Blessed Sacrament is exposed, and by other devotions.

When we pass by a church where the Blessed Sacrament is reserved, we should bow our heads as a sign of respect, and say a short aspiration in honor of Our Lord; men should raise their hats. If we are not ill-bred enough to pass by a friend without a word or gesture of greeting, shall we be thus ill-bred towards Our Lord!
From the beginning of man's existence, sacrifices have been offered to God. The children of Adam and Eve, Abel and Cain, offered sacrifice to God. Abel offered sheep; Cain, fruits of the earth.

133. Nature and History of Sacrifice

What is A SACRIFICE?

A sacrifice is a special kind of gift-offering, addressed to God, our Creator and Last End.

1. In ordinary life we offer gifts to those we love or respect, as a sign of our affection or admiration or reverence, and as a means of establishing or strengthening friendly relations with them. In this way, for instance, we give Christmas and birthday presents.

In their relations with the Divinity, men have spontaneously adopted a similar practice. God is our Creator, the Giver of all good things, and He is our Last End in whom alone we can find fulfillment and happiness. Men offer Him gifts from among the things they have received from Him, in order to acknowledge Him as the Creator and Giver of all things. A gift thus offered to God becomes sacred, the offering of it is called a sacrifice.

2. From the very beginning men have acknowledged God's supremacy by offering sacrifice. The essence of the sacrifice is a rite which signifies the transfer of the gift into the immediate possession of the Divinity. And since God is invisible, He is represented by the altar which receives the offering; gifts are placed on it, the life-blood of animals is poured on it; the offering is sometimes burned on the altar, as part of the symbolism: it is given up to God.

Because men have always felt their sinfulness and their unworthiness to approach God, they have offered their sacrifices through the intermediary of priests, men specially consecrated and set aside for the service of God.

3. Men have often offered the most valuable animals of their flocks. God, of course, does not need anything, and all we have is His. He does not seek our possessions, but ourselves, our free love and self-surrender, and this is what the exterior sacrifice signifies: the oblation of the gift is a symbol of our interior sacrifice, of the adoration and love by which the soul gives itself completely to its Creator. Without this interior sacrifice the exterior offering is meaningless, insincere, and cannot be pleasing to God. What matters therefore is not so much the value of the gift as the sincerity of the giver's self-gift.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Because they did not have a knowledge of the true God, the ancient Greeks and Egyptians offered humon sacrifices. The Caananites used to offer human victims to their idol Moloch, heating the brazen statue of the god red-hot, and casting the victims into its arms. Even today some pagon peoples offer humon sacrifices. Thus we see how perversion enters when the true God is not known.

Self-oblation is the finest and most complete expression of true religion; its intensity measures the quality and depth of a man's religious attitude.

Giving requires giving up something. Sincere self-oblation to God implies that we mean to give up self-seeking, to seek God's will and pleasure rather than our own will and satisfaction. Sacrifice is something great and difficult.

In common language we speak of making sacrifices for a person or a cause, of a mother sacrificing herself for her children. The meaning is that something valuable—time, luxuries, health, life itself—is given up for another, for love of him.

4. The offering of sacrifice is an honor reserved to God alone, because it is understood to be an act of adoration, such as can be offered to no creature.

What are the purposes of sacrifice?

The purposes of sacrifice are: to give honor or adoration to God, to offer Him thanks, to beg a favor, or to make propitiation.

In other words, the purposes of sacrifice are: adoration, thanksgiving, petition, and atonement.

It is natural for man to give outward expression to the feelings that move his interior being. For this reason he bursts out in praise when he thinks of the greatness and holiness of God; he must give something up as a sign of gratitude; he must offer a gift when he feels his insignificance in begging a favor; and he tries all kinds of penitential works when he realizes his iniquities.

In what forms is sacrifice offered?

Sacrifice is offered in either the bloody or the unbloody form.

1. A sacrifice of living animals, such as an ox, a lamb, or a dove, is a bloody sacrifice. A sacrifice of some food, such as fruit, wine, or wheat, is an unbloody sacrifice.

Among the Jews, the animals used to be slaughtered, their blood poured out upon the altar, and their flesh consumed by fire or eaten by the priests and those for whom the sacrifice was offered. The unbloody oblation was burned up or eaten by the priests after being offered; the wine was poured out on the altar.

2. Some heathens, with perverted ideas, offered human sacrifices to their idols.

The King of Moab (4 Kings 3:27) offered his own son as a sacrifice, to obtain help against the Israelites.
God gave to Moses detailed instructions on sacrificial offerings (Lev. 1-7; 16; 22). Among the Jews, the high-priest, in the name of the people, offered morning and evening an unbloody sacrifice of incense, flour, oil, and frankincense. Then he offered a bloody sacrifice of a lamb, together with food and drink. On the Sabbath, two lambs, with bread and wine, were offered in addition as sacrifice.

On certain solemn feasts the Jews sacrificed hundreds of animals amidst impressive ceremonies. Their chief feasts were: (a) the Pasch or Passover, which commemorated their deliverance from Egypt; (b) the Pentecost, in remembrance of the Law received on Mount Sinai; (c) the Tabernacles, to commemorate their wanderings in the desert; and (d) the Expiation or Atonement, in which the priest sacrificed for his own and the people's sins. These sacrifices typified the sacrifice of Christ.
Among the Jews there were different ranks or orders of priests, as the high-priest, the priests, and the Levites: These ranks were a figure or type of the different orders that were to be in the Church founded by Jesus Christ. The people faithfully obeyed their priests, and supported them with alms.

The Jewish sacrifices were merely types of the Sacrifice of Christ on Calvary, and ceased with the passing of the Old Law. In the New Law we have the True Sacrifice, the same that Christ offered on Calvary by His death. The High Priest is Christ Himself, and Christ, too, is the Victim. St. Paul said, "It is impossible that sins should be taken away with blood of bulls and of goats" (Heb. 10:4).
The death of Christ on the cross was a true sacrifice. He offered Himself to His heavenly Father to expiate the sins of the world. As a Victim, He suffered first. Then He died, crying, "It is consummated!" thus completing the sacrifice. On Calvary, Christ Himself was the Highpriest, and at the same time the Victim. This sacrifice reconciled God with man. Since the Jewish sacrifices were only a fore-shadowing of Our Lord's sacrifice, they ceased when His was offered, as foretold by the prophets.

134. The New Sacrifice

What is THE MASS?

The Mass is the sacrifice of the New Law in which Christ, through the ministry of the priest, offers Himself to God in an unbloody manner under the appearances of bread and wine.

In the early days of the Church, Mass was called the Breaking of Bread, the Lord's Supper, the Sacrifice, the Eucharist, the Holy Liturgy, the Solemnity of the Lord.

1. In the Old Testament the sacrifices were far from perfect; sheep and goats were unworthy offerings to God in acknowledgment of His power and glory. In the time of the Old Law of the Jews, God had expressed His purpose to institute a new sacrifice.

2. In the New Testament, there is only one Sacrifice which has replaced the many sacrifices of the Old Testament era. This is the sacrifice of Christ, offered once in a bloody manner upon the Cross and now re-enacted daily on our altars.

3. The Church has always taught that the Mass is a true sacrifice. St. Paul implies this when he says: "We have an altar from which they have no right to eat who serve the tabernacle (meaning the Jews)" (Heb. 13:10).

The prophet Malachia foretold the universality of the sacrifice of the Mass. Since there are Catholic priests and churches all over the world, this prophecy is today accomplished literally, for in all places the "pure offering" Holy Mass, is offered.

4. The sacrifice of the Mass is offered to God alone. However, it may be offered to God in honor of the saints and angels, especially on their feasts.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Christ instituted the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass at the Last Supper. After praying, He blessed bread and wine, and changed them into His Body and Blood, saying to the Apostles: "Take and eat; this is my body . . . All of you drink of this; for this is my blood of the new covenant, which is being shed for many unto the forgiveness of sins" (Matt. 26:26, 28). These words are known as the words of consecration at Mass, by which bread and wine become the Body and Blood of Jesus Christ.

Who offered THE FIRST MASS?

Our Divine Saviour offered the first Mass, at the Last Supper, the night before He died.

1. At the Last Supper, Jesus Christ offered Himself up as a sacrifice to the Eternal Father, under the appearances of bread and wine.

"And while they were eating, Jesus took bread, and blessing it, he broke and gave it to them, and said, 'Take; this is my body.' And taking a cup and giving thanks, he gave it to them, and they all drank of it; and he said to them, 'This is my blood of the new covenant, which is being shed for many'" (Mark 14:22-25).

2. The following day, Jesus Christ freely submitted Himself to His Passion and death by crucifixion at the hands of His enemies.

After the first consecration, having offered Himself under the appearances of bread and wine, Christ turned to His Apostles and said, "Do this in remembrance of me" (Luke 22:19). By those words, He told them to do as He had done, offer in sacrifice to God His body and blood under the appearances of bread and wine; he commanded them in those words to offer Mass, as the perfect sacrifice to God.

3. The Mass is a real sacrifice, for in it a Victim is offered up for the purpose of reconciling man with God. It is, however, a unique kind of sacrifice—the sacrifice of the Cross, communicated to the Church. (See next two pages.)

At the Last Supper Our Lord evidently meant to institute a visible sacrifice. He chose for the act the very time when the old sacrifice of the Paschal lamb was celebrated. The very words used by Christ in instituting the sacrifice of the Mass, the "new covenant" or "new testament," were almost identical with those used in the institution of the sacrifice of the Old Law.
Why is THE MASS the same sacrifice as THE SACRIFICE OF THE CROSS?

The Mass is the same sacrifice as the sacrifice of the cross, because in the Mass the Victim is the same, and the principal Priest is the same, Jesus Christ.

1. The Mass is the very same sacrifice which was offered up at the Last Supper and on Calvary; it is the living presence of the sacrifice of the Cross.

On Calvary, Christ offered Himself up by accepting a cruel death out of obedience to the heavenly Father and for our redemption. At the Last Supper, He offered Himself for the impending immolation: “This is my body... This is my blood of the new covenant, which is being (or will be) shed for many.” He added: “Do this in remembrance of me.” At Mass, the Victim immolated on Calvary is offered anew, by the priest repeating the same words with which Christ offered Himself at the Last Supper.

2. The Mass is no mere remembrance or memorial of Calvary. Christ, the Victim of Calvary, is really present, and with Him the permanent power or efficacy of His great sacrifice. Through the new offering that power is now communicated and applied to the Church, to all of us. In this sense, the sacrifice of the Cross is present (sacramentally) in the Mass.

The Mass does not, strictly speaking, renew the sacrifice of the Cross. Christ has been immolated once for all. The Church, by the symbolic separation of body and blood (in the double consecration), represents the historic sacrifice and offers it anew to the heavenly Father. As St. Paul writes: “For as often as you shall eat this bread and drink this cup, you proclaim the death of the Lord, until he comes” (1 Cor. 11:26).

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The illustration shows the solemn blessing of the grapevines from which the grapes are taken to prepare wine for the consecration during the Sacrifice of the Mass.

What is the DIFFERENCE BETWEEN the Sacrifice of THE CROSS and the Sacrifice of THE MASS?

The manner in which the sacrifice is offered is different: on the cross Christ shed His blood and was put to death, while in the Mass there is no new immolation of the Victim, but only a new offering. On the cross Christ gained merit and satisfied for us, while in the Mass He applies to us the merits and satisfaction of His death on the cross.

1. Christ was immolated on Calvary, once and for all; He is now in glory, and can die no more. How then can we say that He is continually sacrificed on our altars? Because, as we just explained, Christ the Victim of Calvary is offered anew.

It is clear that the Mass is a unique kind of sacrifice—a sacramental sacrifice, essentially related to the Cross and depending on it. It is on the Cross that Christ became the Victim of salvation; now He is glorified, but as the Victim who has offered Himself, has been accepted, and can now apply the merits of His sacrifice.

2. The sacrifice of the Cross is the fountain of all grace and salvation. The Mass applies to us the power and merit of that sacrifice.

The sacrifice of the Cross is all-sufficient. The Mass adds nothing to it, but unfolds its riches, it brings Calvary within the reach of all men in every clime and age, in order that all men may unite themselves with it and draw upon its infinite treasures.

3. The sacrifice on Calvary was offered up by Christ for us; while at Mass He offers Himself through us.

By changing our gifts into His body and blood, Christ puts, as it were, His precious sacrifice into our hands that we may present it to the heavenly Father. In this act He "appears before the face of God on our behalf" (Heb. 9:24).

By offering, we appropriate the treasures of Christ’s sacrifice. But if our offering is sincere, it expresses our own interior self-oblation to God. Thus the Mass becomes the oblation of the whole Mystical Body, the Church offering herself through and with Christ, her Head and Saviour. Thereby she draws upon the treasures of the Cross, in proportion to the fervour of her offering.

Thus the Mass is the sacrifice of the Cross communicated to the Church.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
My Catholic Faith

THE SACRIFICE OF THE MASS
IS OFFERED FOR FOUR ENDS

1. To ADORATION as our Creator.
   *The Mass is the ONLY worthy gift we can offer God; in it we offer to Him His own Son. Having a perfect sacrifice in the Mass, Christians need, and have, no other sacrifice to offer to God but this one.

2. To THANK God for His many favors.
   In the Mass Jesus Christ the Son of God speaks for us to His eternal Father; we have an advocate with Him. Can we fail but speak well, having this instrument of thanksgiving?

3. To ASK God to bestow His blessings on all men.
   Holy Mass may be offered to God with a fourfold intention: by way of adoration, thanksgiving, petition, and atonement. It is for the spiritual and temporal welfare of the living, and for the eternal repose of the dead. Every day of the year Holy Mass is offered, except Good Friday.

4. To SATISFY the justice of God for the sins committed against Him.
   *The Mass reconciles man with God, as we learn from the words of Christ uttered at the Last Supper, "This is my blood, which is being shed for many unto the forgiveness of sins" (Matt. 26:28). We are not redeemed all over again by the Mass, for we were redeemed once on the cross; but the Mass applies to our souls the fruits of redemption gained for us on the cross. As a perfect propitiatory sacrifice, the Mass satisfies the justice of God.

WHAT FRUITS ARE DERIVED from holy Mass?

By means of the Mass, the fruits of the sacrifice of the cross are applied to our souls.

*The sacrifice on the cross—the passion and death of Christ—is the gold mine of graces; Holy Mass is the machinery that takes the gold out for us. At Mass a torrent of graces flows from the altar of God to enrich men. God makes use of other means of grace, such as prayer; but in no other means are graces applied to us so generously.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Ends and Fruits of the Mass

There are different kinds of Masses: (a) low Mass, read or recited by the priest; (b) high Mass, sung by priest and choir; and (c) solemn high Mass, with deacon and subdeacon assisting the celebrant. These are not really different; they differ only in the elaborateness of the ceremonies used. A pontifical Mass is a high Mass said by a bishop. A bishop puts on his vestments and takes them off before the altar, unlike the priest, who vests himself in the sacristy. Above is a pontifical Mass.

1. At Mass we particularly obtain:

(a) Grace to repent of mortal sin.

It is not necessary to be in the state of grace to hear Mass; the sinner does not commit a fresh sin by doing so; on the contrary he obtains the grace of conversion. Upon the cross Christ cried: “Father, forgive them;” at Mass He utters the same prayer on behalf of those present.

(b) Forgiveness of venial sins for those who are in the state of grace.

St. Augustine said that one “Our Father” prayed with devotion would expiate the venial sins of a whole day; how much more effective would be the Mass, which is the supreme prayer offered to God!

(c) Remission of the temporal penalty due to sin.

The penitent thief, who was present at the Sacrifice of the Cross, was quickly admitted into heaven, with the penalties due his sins all forgiven.

2. At Mass we are sure that our prayers are heard in the Mass, because in it Our Lord Himself prays for us.

The fruits of the Mass are granted to the person hearing it devoutly, not only in answer to his prayers, but directly, in virtue of the Sacrifice itself, through which the merits of Christ are applied to his soul.

We may obtain eternal rewards provided we are in the state of grace. We also obtain temporal blessings, such as help in our work, and protection.

3. The whole Church on earth and in purgatory participates in the general fruits, for the Mass is offered for all. The special fruits benefit:

(a) The priest who celebrates the Mass.

(b) The person or persons for whom it is offered.

(c) Those who serve or assist at the Mass.

(d) Those for whom the faithful present pray and offer the Mass in union with the priest.
The most impressive of all solemn Masses is the High Mass of the Pope. The Holy Father says Mass facing the people. The Pope is the only one that can say Mass on the high altars of the four basilicas in Rome: St. Peter's, St. Paul's, St. John's (the Lateran Church), and St. Mary Major.

137. Value of the Mass; Offerings

What is THE VALUE OF A MASS?

A Mass has infinite value, because it is the renewal of the sacrifice of the cross.

The value of a gift is proportionate to the dignity of the giver and the cost of the gift. The Mass, the only worthy gift for God, is offered by Christ, the Son of God; it cost Him His very life.

1. Therefore to assist or offer Mass is a good work of greater excellence than any other.

By other good works we offer to God gifts that are human. In the Mass we offer Him gifts that are divine: His own only-begotten Son. There is no more holy and divine act that can be performed on earth than the sacrifice of the Mass.

2. The efficacy of the holy sacrifice does not depend on the worthiness or unworthiness of the priest; he is only the minister of Christ, Who is both Priest and Victim.

The virtue of the Mass is of itself, quite apart from the worthiness of the priest. For this reason, we do not lose the merits of Mass if it is offered for us by a priest who is not worthy, since Mass has its intrinsic value; in a similar way, a diamond is a diamond, even if the jeweler selling it be a bad man.

3. However, as a good work, the graces and favors are limited, partly by the will of God, and partly by the dispositions of those to whom the fruits are applied. Therefore, the more devotion we have at Mass, the greater will be the profit we derive.

Two young men went to visit Rome. Their schedule limited their stay there to one day. The first young man, upon arrival, immediately visited all the famous portions of the city, finally ending with a visit to the Holy Father and the Vatican. The second young man, being fatigued by the journey, lay down to rest. He fell asleep and awoke only when it was too dark to go anywhere. Both went to the same city, but one did not profit from his journey.

WHY IS AN OFFERING MADE to the priest who says Mass?

An offering is made to the priest who says Mass, to provide for the things necessary for the Sacrifice, and to assist in the support of the priest.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The hosts, consecrated at Mass, taken by the priest and people, are made of pure unleavened wheat flour mixed with water and baked. They are prepared by chosen persons, usually religious.

1. Since the early years of the Church the faithful, wishing to participate more fully in the oblation, made offerings of bread and wine for the consecration.

Today offerings are also made of vases and flowers, candle and candlesticks, altar linens, vestments and sacred vessels as well as monetary donations for the Mass.

2. Many Catholics have the laudable custom of leaving a certain amount of property or money in their wills, in order to have Masses offered for them after their death.

A requiem Mass is said in black vestments, and with special prayers for the dead. Masses said for the dead for thirty consecutive days are called Gregorian Masses.

WHAT MATERIALS ARE USED FOR CONSECRATION AT MASS?

Bread and wine are used for consecration at Mass; a few drops of water are mixed with the wine, because Christ did so.

1. The bread for consecration is made from pure wheat flour mixed with water and baked. No other flour may be used.

2. The wine for consecration must be the pure juice of grapes fermented.

WHEN IS MASS OFFERED?

Mass is offered every day of the year except Good Friday and Holy Saturday, the vigil of Easter.

In the first centuries, bishops and priests celebrated Mass together; this is called concelebration. Our present Masses, when priests are ordained, and bishops are consecrated, are similar to those early Masses.

1. Ordinarily a priest is permitted to say Mass only once a day. On Christmas and All Souls' Day, however, he may say three Masses.

On Sundays, holydays, first Fridays, etc., a priest with permission may say two, and even three, Masses when the people's needs so require.

2. Mass is usually said in the morning; with the approval of the bishop, it may also be said in the afternoon and evening.

In the early days of Christianity Mass was said in the evening, after the example of the Last Supper, when the Mass was instituted. Later it was thought better to have it said in the morning, for a greater respect to the Holy Eucharist. In these our days, Mass may be said at practically all hours of the day, in order to facilitate attendance and the receiving of Holy Communion.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The altar cards contain some of the Mass prayers for the priest's convenience. Flowers may be used on the altar except during the penitential seasons, and at Masses for the dead. Along the whole front of the altar, when ready for Mass, is hung a rich and ornamented cloth called the antependium, with color varying according to the color used for the Mass, in vestments, etc.

138. The Altar

WHERE is the sacrifice of the Mass offered?

The sacrifice of the Mass is offered on a consecrated altar.

1. The Apostles offered the holy sacrifice on a table in a dwelling-house.

In the New Testament, there are references to meeting places of worship: churches are as old as the Church. For perhaps the first three centuries, Christians who were constantly persecuted used private homes for their meeting-places for worship. A table was used for an altar because it was on a table that Christ instituted the Mass on Holy Thursday. Another reason was that a table could be easily hidden in times of persecution; also because Mass was generally offered in private homes.

2. In Rome, during the great persecutions, Mass was celebrated on the tombs of martyrs in the catacombs beneath the city, where the Christians fled for safety. The catacombs were underground galleries, of which it is said Rome had about 400 miles.

This is the origin of the rule of having Mass said over the relics of saints. At the beginning of the Mass the priest kisses the place. By this, too, we profess our communion with the saints in heaven.

The lights which today we burn on the altar during Mass also had their origin during the times of persecution, when the Christians had to hear Mass in dark passages underground. They may be taken to symbolize divine grace.

3. When the persecutions were over, the Holy Sacrifice was offered in churches upon altars of stone. Stone altars date from the sixth century.

The altar, then as now, was often erected so that the priest and the faithful faced the east, the source of light, as God is the Source. In those days the baptistery used to be a separate building.
In the building and furnishing of the altar everything is laid down by law. The greatest exactness is observed. Above we see the bishop consecrating on altar; he is placing the holy relics into the center port in front of the tabernacle. It is on this part that at Mass the chalice and host are laid.

HOW is the altar made and furnished?

The altar must be made of stone, marble, or wood, and spread with three linen cloths that have been blessed by bishop or priest.

The three cloths remind us of the linen cloth in which Our Lord was wrapped for the sepulchre. They are placed on the altar also to absorb any drops of the Precious Blood that may accidentally be spilled from the chalice.

1. When the altar is of wood, an oblong slab of stone is set into the top, large enough to hold the chalice and the paten. This altar stone is set in the center of the altar, so that Mass is always offered on stone or marble.

This stone is marked by crosses at the corners and the center; in it relics of saints are cemented. It signifies that Christ is the foundation and cornerstone on which the Church rests. The altar or altar-stone is consecrated by the bishop, with special ceremonies. In cases when permission to have Mass said outside of the church is obtained, a portable altar, blessed by the bishop, is used. It is a square stone slab, large enough for chalice and paten.

The credence table is a table or shelf at the Epistle side of the sanctuary, holding the materials for Mass. On it are the cruets, (one with wine and another with water), the basin, and the fingertowel for the priest’s hands.

2. Every altar must have a crucifix, to symbolize the cross on which Our Lord died. Of the candles on the altar, two must be of pure wax. At a high Mass, at least six candles must be used. A sanctuary lamp is kept burning day and night whenever the Blessed Sacrament is in the tabernacle.

3. The tabernacle (or “tent”) is a kind of safe, made of wood, marble, or metal, having a door with lock and key, in which the Blessed Sacrament is reserved. Early tabernacles took various forms, such as a silver dove suspended over the altar.

The tabernacle is above and behind the center of the altar and covered with a curtain when the Blessed Sacrament is inside. It recalls the tent of the Ark of the Covenant. A veil envelops the tabernacle, and is a sign of the presence of the Blessed Sacrament. Its color is either white or matches the vestments.

Christians who live their Faith realize that the tabernacle is the heart of the church, for day and night it houses Jesus Himself, the Incarnate Son of God. If we are so eager to give the best we can to our earthly guests, how much more concerned should we be to furnish a suitable dwelling place for our Divine Redeemer, Who comes to live in our midst! The tabernacle should be as rich and safe as we can afford to furnish, and of an artistic design.
139. Sacred Vessels and Altar Linens

What are THE SACRED VESSELS used for the altar?

The chief sacred vessels used for the altar are the chalice, paten, ciborium, and monstrance or ostensorium.

Once consecrated, sacred vessels may not be touched by persons who are not in holy orders, except in cases of necessity. Those given charge of the care of the vessels should use a small linen cloth when handling them, so that they do not actually touch them. They are to be handled with reverence.

1. The chalice is the most sacred of all the vessels. It is the cup which holds the wine for consecration; after consecration, it contains the precious blood of Christ.

The chalice should be of gold or silver. If this is not possible, at least the inside must be always gilt. The chalice represents the chalice in which Our Lord at the Last Supper first offered His blood; it also symbolizes the chalice of the Passion; and lastly, it stands for the Heart of Jesus, from which flowed His blood for our redemption.

2. The paten is the small plate on which the host is laid. It is made to fit the chalice.

It is of the same materials as the chalice, at least gilt. Both chalice and paten must be consecrated by a bishop. In Holy Communion, our hearts become living chalices, our tongues other patens on which the priest lays Our Lord. May He ever find them welcoming Him!

3. The ciborium resembles the chalice, except that it has a cover. (See page 298.)

It is used to hold the small hosts distributed for the communion of the faithful.

4. The monstrance or ostensorium is the large metal container used for exposition and benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. In many churches, it is of gold, and decorated with jewels. (See page 298.)

The sacred Host used for Benediction is reserved in a luna or lunette, which is placed in the glassed portion of the monstrance. (See page 298.)
5. Other things, such as the Missal veil, cruets, and incense, are used at the altar.

The Missal is the book which contains the prayers and ceremonies of the Mass. The veil is a square cloth of the same material and design as the vestments of the priest. It is used to cover the chalice, paten, and pall before the Offertory and after the Ablution. The cruets are the vessels from which the acolyte or sacristan pours water and wine into the chalice held by the celebrant. Incense is a perfume burned on certain occasions, as at high Mass and Benediction; it is a symbol of prayer.

WHAT LINENS are used for the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass?

The corporal, purificator, pall, and finger towel are used.

These linens, except the finger towel, are called the “holy cloths.” All are made of white linen. No special significance is placed on the finger towel. It is of linen, used by the priest after washing his fingers before the consecration.

1. The corporal is a square of fine linen, with a small cross worked in the center. Sometimes it has a border of lace. It is folded in three from both sides, and kept in a burse. The corporal is the most important of the holy cloths. The priest spreads it on the altar. On it he places the chalice and the Host after consecration.

Because of their close contact with the sacred species, neither purificator nor corporal after use may be handled by lay people without special permission. The priest first purifies them before others wash them.

2. The purificator is an oblong piece of linen, folded thrice, placed over the chalice.

It is used by the priest to wipe the inside of the chalice before putting in the wine and after the Ablution; he also wipes his mouth with it after the Ablution.

3. The pall is a small square piece of linen starched stiff, used to cover the chalice.

Formerly the corporal was bigger and could be folded back so as to cover the chalice. When its size was reduced (about the year 1000), the pall was introduced to cover the chalice.

140. Vestments

WHAT VESTMENTS does the priest use in the celebration of Holy Mass?

The priest uses the amice, alb, cincture, maniple, stole, and chasuble, in the celebration of Mass.

When the priest appears before God at the altar, he is clad in suitable vestments. God Himself gave directions about the vestments of the priests in the Old Testament (Exod. 28:4). The chief vestments worn by Catholic priests have come down to us from the time of the Apostles.

Symbolical significances have been attached to the different vestments. The prayers said by the priest as he puts on each piece of attire show the meaning attached to them by the Church.

1. The amice is a piece of white linen cloth which covers the priest's shoulders.

The vesting prayer is, "Place, O Lord, on my head the helmet of salvation, that I may overcome the assaults of the devil." When putting it on, the priest places it for a moment on his head, then lets it rest on his shoulders.

2. The alb is a white linen tunic which envelops the priest's whole body.

As he puts it on, the priest says, "Purify me, O Lord, from all stain and cleanse my heart, that washed in the Blood of the Lamb, I may enjoy eternal delights."

3. The cincture or girdle is the cord which fastens the alb at the waist.

The vesting prayer is, "Gird me, O Lord, with the cincture of purity, and quench in my heart the fire of concupiscence, that the virtue of continence and chastity may remain in me."

4. The maniple is a short narrow strip of cloth which hangs from the left arm.

The vesting prayer is, "Let me deserve, O Lord, to bear the maniple of tears and sorrow, so that one day I may come with joy into the reward of my labors."

5. The stole is the long silk band that fits around the neck and is crossed on the breast of the priest. It is the symbol of authority in the Church, of all vestments most blessed.

The vesting prayer is, "Restore to me, O Lord, the state of immortality which was lost to me by my first parents, and although unworthy to approach Thy sacred mysteries, grant me nevertheless eternal joy." As a sign of his full priestly powers the bishop does not cross the stole in front. The Pope alone has the right to wear it always.

6. The chasuble is the uppermost vestment worn by the celebrant at Mass. It hangs from the shoulders, in front and behind, down almost to the knees.

The vesting prayer at Mass is, "O Lord, Who hast said, 'My yoke is sweet and my burden light,' grant that I may carry it so as to obtain Thy grace." The chasuble, stole, maniple, and veil for the chalice are made as a set of vestments, of the same material, color, and design.

7. The biretta is the three-ridged square cap worn by the priest when he enters the sanctuary. (See page 298.)

WHAT VESTMENTS are used by the priest OUTSIDE of Mass?

Outside of Mass, the priest uses the cassock or soutane, the cope, the surplice, and the humeral veil.

1. The cassock or soutane is the principal vestment used by ecclesiastics.

It is a robe reaching down to the feet, and buttoned in front. For priests it is black, for bishops violet, for cardinals red, and for the Pope white. In some countries ecclesiastics go everywhere in their cassocks.

2. The surplice is a short alb, used by the priest outside of Mass, when he preaches, joins a procession, etc.

At High Mass, the deacon wears a special vestment called dalmatic, and the subdeacon a tunicle.

3. The cope is a mantle used for benediction, processions, and other occasions.

When a priest dies, he is buried dressed in his cassock and surplice, and with the purple stole, the badge of his priesthood. In complete purple vestments, he lies in dignity.

4. The humeral veil is the long silk cloth used by the priest when carrying the Blessed Sacrament and giving benediction.

Some of the vestments, such as the amice, alb, surplice, and benediction veil, are always white. The stole for hearing confessions is always purple.

Catholics spend a great deal of care and money on sacred vessels, vestments, and furnishings for the altar, because it is only right to give what is most precious and beautiful for the service of God.

Nothing is too good for the Lord of heaven and earth. The beauty of God's house also impresses the beholder and helps devotion. Some worldly-minded people are prone to ask, "To what purpose is this waste?" when they see how much care and money Catholics spend on sacred vessels, vestments, and church ornaments. Let us remember that Judas asked that when Magdalene anointed Our Lord.
141. Liturgical Colors

What COLORS are used at MASS?

At Mass various colors are used, according to the season and event being commemorated, these colors being: white, red, green, purple, and black.

In the early days of the Church, the vestments were of one color, white, though black was also used for mourning. In our times, not only the priest's vestments, but the tabernacle curtain, veil, and antependium are in the prescribed color.

1. White vestments are worn during Christmastide and Easter time, on the feasts of Our Lord and the Blessed V. Mary, the Angels and Confessors.

White symbolizes purity and joy.

2. Red vestments are used at Pentecost, in commemoration of the descent of the Holy Spirit in the form of tongues of fire; red is likewise used on the feasts of the Apostles and Martyrs, feasts commemorating the Passion of Our Lord and the Sacred Relics, as the feast of the Holy Cross.

Red is the color of fire and blood; hence its use for Pentecost and for martyrs is very appropriate.

3. Green vestments are prescribed for the period "Per annum"—Throughout the Year—from the 14th of January till the eve of Septuagesima Sunday, and from Monday after Trinity Sunday till the eve of the First Sunday of Advent. However, when Masses are offered in honor of saints, martyrs or for the dead, the proper color is then used.

Green is the symbol of hope and growth; hence its use for the greater part of the year.

4. Purple, or violet vestments are worn during Advent and Lent, as well as on Rogation Days, on Ember days except those on Pentecost octave, and on the five vigils of the feasts of the Ascension, Assumption, St. John the Baptist, St. Peter & St. Paul, and St. Lawrence.

As purple is a penitential color it is fitting to use it during seasons of penance, like Advent and Lent.

5. Black vestments are used at ceremonies for the dead, and on Good Friday. However, at the funerals of children who die before the age of reason, white vestments are used, to express the joy we should feel at the knowledge that an innocent one is Home.

The sticharion is a long, white garment made of linen, having wide sleeves and decorated with embroidery. Formerly it was used as the vestment for the clerics of minor orders, acolytes, lectors, chanter, and subdeacons. It signifies the purity of the priest.

The epitrachelion is a stole with ends sewn together, having a loop through which the head is passed. Its several crosses signify priestly duties.

The zone is a narrow clasped belt of the same material as the epitrachelion. It signifies the wisdom of the priest, his strength against the enemies of the Church, and his willingness to fulfill his holy duties.

The epimanikia are ornamental cuffs, the right a symbol of strength, the left of patience and good will.

The phelonion is an ample cape-like vestment, long at the back and sides and cut away in front. It signifies the higher gifts of the Holy Ghost.

The antimension, which takes the place of the altar stone, is a silk or linen cloth laid upon the altar at Mass. It bears the picture of the burial of Christ and the instruments of His Passion. Sewn into the center of the front border are relics of martyrs. (During World War II military chaplains of the Latin Rite in the US armed forces used the antimension.)

The elleton corresponds to the corporal used in the Roman Rite.

The potion (chalice), as in the Latin Rite, is the cup used at Mass to hold the Precious Blood of our Lord.

The diskos, a shallow plate (sometimes elevated on a low stand), corresponds to the paten of the Latin Rite.

The asteriskos is placed over the diskos and covered with a veil. It is made of two curved bands of gold or silver which cross each other to form a double arch; a star depends from the junction, which forms a cross.

The potion and diskos veils. The smallest of these three veils covers the potion, the next in size the diskos, and the largest covers both.

The spoon which is peculiar to the Byzantine Rite, is used in giving Holy Communion to the faithful.

The lance is a metal knife used in cutting up the bread which is to be consecrated.

REMARKS

In nearly all large cities there are churches of the Eastern Catholic Rites. We should visit them at least once if we do not care to do it more often. We may take our family and friends. If we intend to fulfill our Sunday Mass obligation and receive Holy Communion, we should make sure that the particular church we are visiting is Catholic, not Orthodox. It will be a pleasant experience to receive Communion under both forms. The priest with a golden spoon will drop upon our tongue a small piece of bread which had been dipped into the Precious Blood in the chalice.

These visits of ours will serve to broaden our understanding of the meaning of the word "Catholic"—universal, embracing all men and adopted to every culture. We shall realize that the Catholic Church, the one true Church of our Lord Jesus Christ, is not inescapably tied down to one language or to one set of ceremonies and customs. We shall know that it is what happens at Mass that matters: the offering of Christ the Divine Victim and not the language, or the different ceremonies.

Such visits will help promote understanding, harmony and brotherly love of the big brother Western Rite with his older brothers Eastern Rites. It will also encourage the Orthodox Churches to re-unite and form the one big Christian Family of Christ.
Every morning, before the discussion of the bishops started, Mass was celebrated by one of the archbishops or bishops. The position of the celebrant was facing the people as it can be seen in the picture. Our Lord offered the first Mass at the Last Supper facing His Apostles. St. Peter and the Apostles offered Mass in this same position. It is easier for the faithful to be united with the celebrant.

142. Manner of Assisting at Mass

1. As the Mass begins and as it proceeds, our dispositions ought to be this: "O God, my Father, I am all Yours. Help me to realize more and more that I am Yours and Yours I wish to remain for ever. Give me the light to know Your will and strength to do Your will. I have no other desire but to love You and give You pleasure."

2. One of the best ways of uniting ourselves in offering the Holy Sacrifice together with the priest is by following the prayers of the Mass from a missal.

As we pray from our English missal the same prayers which the priest is reciting in Latin at the altar, we become more conscious of our unity with Christ and with one another.

We realize the fact that the Mass is an act of corporate worship, of group worship. The idea that we all are in this together—the priest at the altar and the people around us—comes more alive for us. We are in this together, one Body in Christ. We support each other with our prayers, we share with each other our graces. The Mass becomes for us what it was meant to be: a community act, the Christian family prayer. As we leave the church we can smile and speak to the stranger next to us because we know that he is not really a stranger; he is a brother in Christ with whom we have prayed and sacrificed.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Those using a missal will find out that it is difficult to “keep up with the priest.” Latin is more compact than English; besides the priest has all the prayers before him.

We should not try to read every word of every prayer. It will be more profitable for us to read just a few of the prayers of each major part of the Mass, but to read them thoughtfully and reverently.

What is DIALOGUE MASS?

Dialogue Mass or “Missa recitata” means that the entire congregation makes the responses instead of delegating this privilege to one or two servers at the altar.

The dialogue Mass and the high or sung Mass give better the sense of community, especially when all participate, that is, not only the school children or a few in the choir, but the entire congregation, all those in church. The Holy Father and the Sacred Congregation of Rites urge the faithful to participate in the Mass, to the degree that they are able. The ideal is that the entire congregation sing or pray aloud those parts of the Mass which, in recent centuries, have been recited by the server or sung by the choir.

It is a great honor and privilege to be allowed to serve Mass. This privilege is reserved to boys and men. Girls and women may answer the Mass prayers, like acolytes, but they are not permitted to enter the sanctuary. Every boy, young man and man should avail himself of the opportunity when it offers itself. Parents should see to it that their boys join the Altar Boy Society of the parish.

HOW DID THE PEOPLE ASSIST AT MASS FIFTEEN HUNDRED YEARS AGO?

Fifteen hundred years ago in the Roman empire, Latin was the everyday language of the people. When the people assisted at Mass they knew what was happening. More than that, they helped to make it happen. They prayed with the priest and they sang with the priest, and they did so with complete understanding because the Mass was in their own tongue. In the Offertory and Communion processions they moved back and forth to the altar, bringing their gifts and receiving the GIFT of God: Christ’s Body and Blood, poured out in sacrifice.

As the people spoke and chanted the prayers of the Mass, they relited with Christ His passion, His death and resurrection. Theirs was the joyous religion because they were reminded so vividly that Christ had conquered sin and death and by His resurrection had pledged them eternal life. Theirs too was a Christ-centered religion; they went from church conscious of their obligation to share in Christ’s work of redemption, conscious of their responsibility to their neighbor.

Then out of the wildernesses of northern Europe came the barbarian tribes. These pagan peoples invaded the Roman empire, bringing their own languages, out of which developed the modern languages of present-day Europe. Little by little Latin ceased to be the language of the people. It became a language of scholars only, and the people receded into the background at the offering of Mass. The Mass became the work of the priest alone, of the priest assisted by a few servers and by a professional choir. The Mass was no longer so visibly the action of the whole Mystical Body of Christ. To the people it became more like a spectacle; something at which they were present and at which they looked, but in which they had no part.

When the people ceased to have an understanding part in the liturgy (“liturgy” is a Greek word meaning “work”), their spiritual life underwent a gradual change. For one thing, their spiritual life became less Christ-centered and more self-centered. They became individuals rather than interdependent members of the one Mystical Body.

The loss of intimate participation in the liturgy on the part of the people had another effect. As the significance of the Mass became obscured, private devotions of all kinds began to flourish. The human desire to participate in worship found outlet in novena services and other forms of non-liturgical piety. None of this was bad—all prayer is good and pleasing to God—but all too often these private devotions became more important than the Mass itself; first things ceased to be first.

We can be grateful that Popes of modern times have labored so devotedly to restore the liturgy to its rightful place as the center of Christian life and worship. Pope Pius XII laid the groundwork for the liturgical reform with his wonderful encyclical letters on the Mystical Body and on the liturgy. Then came the relaxation of the rule of a chancery fast and permission for evening Masses that has doubled the number of those receiving holy communion; the ritual of the sacraments in our own language; in many dioceses concession has been granted to read or sing the epistles and gospels in the spoken language as well as to recite in low masses and sing in high masses the Kyrie, Gloria, Credo, Sanctus, Benedictus and Agnus Dei in the spoken language; the restoration of the Holy Week services so that the people might take an active and meaningful part in them.

Even now, liturgical scholars are busy at Rome, reshaping the liturgy so that the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass may once again exert the fullness of its attraction as the focal point of Christian piety and Christian action. In the meantime it is for us to enlarge our understanding of the Mass and to deepen our love for the Mass. It is for us to make more complete the giving of self in union with Christ in the Mass—and to live the Mass by carrying our self-giving into our everyday activities.

“KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE”
143. The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass

The simple ceremony of the Last Supper has been expanded by the Church so as to set out the full meaning of the Mass and to help us to take our part in it.

I. THE FOREMASS

The first part of the Mass is made up of prayers, readings and songs. It used to be called the Mass of the Catechumens, because in the early Church the catechumens (those under instruction before baptism) were present at it. The rest of the Mass, which is essentially a sacred action, was reserved to those already baptized and therefore called the Mass of the Faithful.

1. Entrance of the Priest

At a High Mass, during the procession of the priest and ministers from the sacristy to the sanctuary, the entrance chant is sung; it consists of a psalm (mostly reduced to one verse) and a refrain in keeping with the character of the day's Mass or feast. At a low Mass the priest himself reads this 'introit' anthem after the preparatory prayers.

As the priest enters, the people stand, out of respect for the representative of Christ.

At the foot of the altar, the priest makes the sign of the cross and then says the psalm 42 with the antiphon, "I will go in to the altar of God." It expresses the longing and trust aroused by the thought of the Mass.

It is followed by a confession of unworthiness, the Confiteor, which is repeated by the server in behalf of the people.

After ascending the steps, the priest kisses the altar: it is a sign of reverence for the martyrs whose relics are cemented in the altar stone, but also for the altar itself, which is a symbol of Christ, the living altar of the New Covenant.

2. Some basic prayer themes

After reading the Introit verse, the priest recites the Kyrie eleison (Lord have mercy)
The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass

303

alternately with the server or the congregation. This cry of our creatureliness and misery, so frequent in the Gospel (Mt 9:27, 15:22, 20:30, etc.), is repeated nine times.

The priest then intones the Gloria, a joyful hymn of praise addressed to God, the Blessed Trinity. (It is omitted in penitential Masses and in Masses for the dead.)

A Dominus vobiscum (which at Mass is an invitation to attention and fervour) and an Oremus (let us pray) introduce the Collect, a prayer in which the priest sums up the intentions suggested by the feast or the mystery.

Like all liturgical prayers it concludes with an appeal to the mediation of Our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, through whom all grace comes to us. The server or the people answer, Amen. (Sometimes there are two or even three Collects.)

3. The Word of God

In the readings that follow, God speaks to us through Holy Scripture. The word of God nourishes our souls, our faith, hope and charity, before we receive the eucharistic body of the Word made flesh.

The first reading is called the Epistle, because it is most often taken from the epistles (letters) of the apostles. On certain days it is preceded by one or several readings from the Old Testament.

Before passing on to the next reading, the Church has inserted several chants which express feelings appropriate to the lesson or the feast. They are the Gradual and the Alleluia; the latter is replaced by the Tract from Septuagesima till Easter. On some occasions a poetical composition called Sequence is added.

In the Gospel Our Lord speaks to us directly. Out of reverence for Him, the people stand.

After the Gospel, the priest may explain the word of God in a homily or sermon. On Sundays and major feasts, this part of the Mass is concluded by a profession of faith, the recitation of the Credo.

Offertory Procession

II. THE EUCHARISTIC CELEBRATION

The main part of the Mass, sometimes called the Mass of the Faithful, is essentially a sacred action consisting of three acts: the bringing of the gifts, the offering of the Christian sacrifice, and Holy Communion.

1. The Offertory

The priest offers bread and wine. They are the gifts of the Church, of all of us, to our heavenly Father. They are of little material value, but have a great meaning. Like the gifts of children to their father on his birthday, they are a way of saying: "I love you, I want to be yours, to do your will always."

Remember what has been said in Chapter 133 on the nature of sacrifice.—Our Christian vocation makes us all "a holy priesthood, to offer spiritual sacrifices well-pleasing to God through Jesus Christ ... You are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a consecrated nation, God's own people, that you may proclaim the perfections of him who has called you out of darkness into his marvelous light" (1 Peter, 2:5, 9). Our baptismal character enables us to share in the liturgical sacrifice.

The Offertory procession, in its various forms, is meant to bring out the fact that the gifts presented at the altar by the priest are the gifts of the whole community, of each one of us. Whether there be a procession or not, what matters is that the exterior offering express our interior sacrifice, our sincere self-oblation.

At one time the presentation of the gifts was preceded by the kiss of peace given by those present to each other. This practice was suggested by the words of Our Lord: "If thou be offering thy gift at the altar, and there remember that thy brother has something against thee, leave there thy gift and go first and be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift" (Mt. 5:23). At a later date the kiss of peace was placed before Communion.

The priest offers first the bread, then the wine, with a variety of prayers. The wine is mixed with water, because Christ did so at the Last Supper.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass

After offering the gifts, the priest washes his hands (Lavabo), as a mark of the purity of body and soul required for the holy sacrifice. Then, turning towards the people, he invites them to pray for “my sacrifice and yours” (Orate, fratres, Pray, brethren).

The last Offertory prayer is called the Secret. Its conclusion is sung or said in audible tones: per omnia saecula saeculorum (forever and ever), to which the server or the people answer, Amen.

In all these prayers we confidently offer for all our needs and “for the salvation of the whole world,” because we know that our humble offering is going to be transformed into something incomparably more precious.

2. The Consecration

The Offertory is only the first act, the beginning of our sacrifice. We bring our gifts, the symbol of our devotion, of our love and self-oblation. Then, at the next moment, something wonderful happens.

Jesus through the priest changes our gifts of bread and wine into His own body and blood. This most sacred action is called the consecration.

Not only does Jesus become truly present on the altar to be our food, but at that very moment His body and blood—our gifts transfigured into the Victim of Calvary—are offered to the heavenly Father. By the double consecration the sacrifice of the Cross is represented and offered anew, and its power of praise, thanksgiving, impetration and reparation is communicated to us and to the whole Church, in a measure proportioned to the fervour of our offering (See pages 286-287, The Mass and Calvary).

Our devotion is no longer conveyed to God by a lifeless gift, a mere symbol, but by the living Christ who presents to the Father our self-oblation in union with His own wonderful offering by which on Calvary He has redeemed us: He now “appears before the face of God on our behalf” (Heb 9:24). The Mass is indeed the great privilege of the Christian.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The great mystery takes place when the priest, repeating the narrative of the Last Supper, pronounces over the bread and wine the words used by Christ Himself when He instituted the holy Eucharist: “This is my body...This is my blood...” These words change our gifts into the body and blood of the living Son of God.

After adoring, the priest elevates first the Host, then the chalice, so that all may see them. Look at them with deep faith and then adore: “My Lord and my God.”

Immediately after the consecration, which is at the same time the offering of the eucharistic sacrifice, we should offer Christ to the heavenly Father: we now have a worthy gift to offer—the Saviour Himself, glorified through His sacrifice. And since the gift signifies the interior self-oblation, we should fervently offer ourselves with Christ and through him.

The Canon of the Mass

The part of the Mass which contains the consecration at its centre is called the canon, i.e. the fixed norm for the sacred action.

It begins with the Preface, a solemn recall of God’s gifts to us, which breaks into a hymn of thanksgiving through Christ our Lord. It is followed by the Sanctus, the Seraphim’s song of adoration (Is. 6:3) and the Benedictus, with which the crowd acclaimed Christ as their Messiah (Mt 21:9).

It is but natural, when we offer the sacrifice of the redemption, that we should remember and intercede for the whole family of God. After the Benedictus we first pray for the Catholic Church, in particular for the Holy Father, the bishop of the place and all Catholic bishops. We have a special remembrance (‘Memento’) for certain persons dear to us or in need of prayer.

After the consecration we pray for the souls in purgatory (‘Memento of the dead’) and finally for ourselves (Nobis quoque peccatoribus, To us sinners, also).

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The saints in heaven are remembered both before and after the consecration as shining examples with whom we hope to obtain fellowship.

The concluding prayer of the Canon again gives thanks and glory to God, through Christ the Mediator. It is ratified by the people with a loud Amen.

3. Communion

Sacrifice aims at and leads up to friendship and union. At Mass, Communion is God's answer to our offering. Through the offering we have expressed our love, our desire to be His. In response, God invites us to His table, as His family. Communion is a sacrificial meal; partaking of the divine Victim we have offered, seals our union with God. Communion, then, is part of the Mass; and the best way of preparing ourselves for Communion consists in following the Mass intelligently and devoutly.

This part of the Mass begins with the Pater noster, the Lord's prayer, which turns our minds towards the heavenly bread of which we are invited to partake. (In a 'missa recitata' the people say it together with the priest.)

Immediate preparation

After a symbolical breaking of the consecrated host, the priest recites three times the Agnus Dei (Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world, have mercy on us...grant us peace).

It is followed by three prayers, the first of which asks for peace and unity in the Church. (Here, at High Masses, the kiss of peace is given; for Communion is the sacrament of love and unity.)

The Communion

Taking the Host and beating his breast, the priest says three times, "Lord, I am not worthy..." He then receives the body of Christ and, after a short meditation, the precious blood.

If Communion is to be distributed to the people, the priest takes the ciborium and, facing the congregation, elevates a small host, saying: "Behold the Lamb of God, behold Him who takes away the sins of the world." He repeats three times (to-together with the people, in the ‘Missa recitata’) an adaptation of the prayer addressed by the centurion to Christ: “Lord, I am not worthy that you should come under my roof; but only say the word and my soul will be healed.”

He makes the sign of the cross with the Host over each communicant and gives him Communion with the words: “May the body of our Lord Jesus Christ preserve your soul unto life everlasting. Amen.”

Thanksgiving

The priest says two prayers while taking the ablutions (the wine and water with which he rinses the chalice). He then reads, on the Epistle side, the Communion anthem, which is really a vestige of the processional song formerly chanted during the distribution of holy Communion; and finally, on behalf of all present, he recites the Postcommunion prayer (or prayers: as for the Collect, there may be two or three).

Some samples: “May this heavenly mystery restore us in body and mind” (8th S. after Pentecost). “May the partaking of your sacrament be for us a source of purity and a bond of unity” (9th S. after Pentecost). “Grant, O Lord, that, replenished with your sacred gifts, we may always abide in the giving of thanks” (Sunday after the Ascension). “May this heavenly mystery enkindle in us that ardent love wherewith your virgin Teresa offered herself a victim of charity for mankind” (October 3).

This liturgical thanksgiving is evidently rather short; it ought to be supplemented after the Mass.

Conclusion of the Mass

The priest turns towards the people, and, after a last “Dominus vobiscum,” says: “Ite, missa est” (Go, it is the dismissal).

In Masses for the dead, instead of “Ite missa est,” he says: “Requiescant in pace” (May they rest in peace).

After blessing the people, he proceeds to read the Last Gospel, which is taken from the opening verses of the Gospel of St. John. This wonderful chapter forms an appropriate conclusion to the Mass, where the Word Incarnate has come down again “and dwells among us,” to make us ever more perfectly “sons of God.”
After most Low Masses, the priest kneels at the foot of the altar and recites some prayers first prescribed by Leo XIII, and now, by order of Pius XI, said for the conversion of Russia.

No one should leave before the priest.

Epilogue: the Mass of our life

A Catholic cannot leave church and then do as though there had been no Mass. The Mass is a beginning which calls for a continuation. It is an offering, and this implies a promise of love and fidelity; the offering must be carried out throughout the day—we must live the Mass.

The Mass is also communion, union with Christ and God; with the Lord in our hearts we shall be strong and face our daily task and trials boldly and joyfully. The Mass is not a mere ceremony; it is meant to make a difference; it is meant to shape our lives. It will do so if we participate in it intelligently and sincerely.

A votive Mass is one said in honour of some particular mystery or saint on a day not set apart by the Church for the commemoration of that mystery or saint.

No Requiem Mass is permitted on great feasts, for our private sorrows must not take precedence over the joy that should reign over the whole Church on such days.

"To me nothing is so consoling, so piercing, so thrilling, so overcoming, as the Mass, said as it is among us. I could attend Masses forever, and not be tired. It is not a mere form of words—it is a great action, the greatest action that can be on earth." (Cardinal Newman, Callista)
In all parts of the world Jesus Christ is truly and substantially present in the most Blessed Sacrament of the altar. Wherever we go, we can receive Our Lord corporally in Holy Communion, to refresh and sustain our souls. When we visit a town or city, we should first of all pay a visit to our Eucharistic Lord.

144. Holy Communion

What is HOLY COMMUNION?

Holy Communion is the receiving of Jesus Christ in the sacrament of the Holy Eucharist.

1. “Communion” means a uniting or sharing together. In Holy Communion Christ and our soul are intimately united, and we share the banquet of spiritual nourishment at the Lord’s table.

    When Napoleon the Great was at the height of his power, one of his generals asked him once what had been the happiest day of his life. Expecting to hear the Emperor name a great battle, the general was surprised to hear him say, “My happiest day was the day of my first Holy Communion, for then I was brought nearest to my God.”

2. Christ commanded us to receive Holy Communion when He said: “Unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man, and drink his blood, you shall not have life in you” (John 6:54). It is the food of our souls.

    Holy Communion increases in us the life of grace. During the persecution against Christianity, the grace given to the martyrs was noticed by the pagans themselves. The victims were cruelly scourged and tortured, but they continued firm in their faith and professed it openly and fearlessly. The pagans, amazed at such fortitude, said, “Truly, these people have been eating of that Eucharistic Bread which they partake of in their assemblies. It casts a spell upon their souls.”

3. It is not necessary to receive Holy Communion under both kinds: under the forms of both bread and wine. It is sufficient to receive Holy Communion under one kind, for Christ is present whole and entire under each form of bread or wine.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
As this is a matter of discipline, and not of doctrine, the practice of the Church has varied. In the Eastern rites both forms are still administered to the laity. The Western usage of receiving only under the form of bread, seems to be more convenient and practical, specially when there are many communicating.

4. Spiritual communion is a fervent desire to receive Christ sacramentally.

As long as we are not guilty of mortal sin, God is in our souls with His sanctifying grace: this is how our souls become temples of the Holy Spirit. Our Lord remains sacramentally in our body as long as the appearance of bread remains. Usually it is not for more than ten or fifteen minutes. We are permitted to communicate sacramentally only once a day. Hence our desire to be with our Lord as intimately as we can and this is done receiving Him sacramentally.

WHEN ARE WE OBLIGED to receive holy communion?

We are obliged to receive Holy Communion during Easter time each year, and when in danger of death.

1. Our Lord commanded us to receive Holy Communion. The Church enforces this command by requiring us under pain of grievous sin to communicate at least at the Easter time.

This is called the Paschal Communion, part of our Easter duty. However, the Church desires us to go more frequently to Holy Communion.

2. The obligation of Holy Communion begins when a child comes to the use of reason. Children generally come to the use of reason in their seventh year.

3. The child should be properly prepared to receive the sacrament. He does not need to know the entire catechism. It is sufficient for him to have a general knowledge of the truths necessary for salvation, and a becoming devotion.

Pope Pius X is called “the children’s Pope” because he revived the custom of the first Christians of allowing children to receive Holy Communion when they came to the use of reason.

4. Those in danger of death are bound to receive Holy Communion. If a person is seriously ill, the priest should be summoned at once. Children in danger of death should be given Holy Communion, provided they know the difference between common food and the Eucharist.

WHY is it well to RECEIVE Holy Communion OFTEN, even daily?

It is well to receive Holy Communion often, even daily, because this intimate union with Jesus Christ, the Source of all holiness and the Giver of all graces, is the greatest aid to a holy life.

1. We should receive Holy Communion as often as we can. We should have at least as much desire for nourishing our soul as we have for nourishing our body; no one omits his meals for very long. If we possibly can we should communicate daily.

A young man once was known to be extremely attached to his father. Several times he asserted that there was nothing he would not do for his father. He even said that if necessary, he would die for his father, just to please him. One day, a friend said, “Your father is in the next room, waiting to see you. He has waited there a long time.” And the young man answered, “Oh, I am too busy. I just saw him last week. Let him wait a year; then I shall visit him.” What would you think of such a young man? He is the type of many Catholics today, who receive Communion only at Easter.

2. Those persons who communicate daily do not need to go to confession daily. They may go weekly, or twice a month, unless they fall into mortal sin, when they should be sorry and go to confession at once.

The Holy Eucharist is our guarantee of eternal life. It is our Lord’s promise: “He who eats this bread, shall live forever” (John 6:59).

3. Some persons say that they are not good enough to go to daily communion.

The Holy Eucharist was not instituted for angels, but men. We may be in the state of grace when communicating; we may be making a careful preparation and devout thanksgiving; we may be trying to keep our good resolutions, and still we find ourselves with the same defects, the same faults. We may become discouraged and stop going to communion. However, how much worse we might be if it were not for our frequent communions. The Holy Eucharist was not instituted for angels, but for men.

4. Holy Communion may be received only once a day except when one happens to fall dangerously ill, and receives the Viaticum.

Holy Communion is usually distributed at Mass. It may be given at any hour at which it is permitted to say Mass, or when there is a religious function in church, provided one observes the Eucharistic fast.

“KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE”
145. Dispositions for Holy Communion

WHAT IS NECESSARY TO RECEIVE Holy Communion WORTHILY?

To receive Holy Communion worthily it is necessary to be free from mortal sin, and to keep the Eucharistic fast.

The first disposition is required for the soul; the second is for the body.

To comply with the required disposition for the soul, WE MUST BE IN A STATE OF GRACE:

1. One who knowingly receives Holy Communion in mortal sin receives the body and blood of Christ, but does not receive His graces, and commits a grave sin of sacrilege.

The first bad communion was made by Judas. He had promised to betray Jesus for thirty pieces of silver. Yet he went to the Last Supper, and received Holy Communion from the hands of Our Lord.

2. One is not required to go to confession before each communion, but only when he is conscious of grievous sin.

If he only doubts whether he committed mortal sin or not, he may still go to Holy Communion after an act of contrition.

3. If without a person’s fault he forgets in confession to accuse himself of a mortal sin, it is forgiven with his other sins, and he may go to Holy Communion. He must, however, mention the sin he forgot when he goes again to confession.

4. One who commits a mortal sin after confession, but having forgotten about it, goes to Holy Communion, does not make a bad Communion.

One makes a bad communion ONLY when one is certain and conscious of being in mortal sin, and still deliberately receives Holy Communion.

5. Venial sins do not and should not prevent our going to Holy Communion.

6. Before receiving Holy Communion, we should try to have an ardent desire to be united with Christ, and arouse sentiments of faith, hope, love, and contrition.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Let us try to bring to our Eucharistic Lord some gift, however small. Let us avoid places of amusement shortly before we receive Him in Holy Communion, as a little sacrifice. Let us pray devoutly and continuously, to show Him the joy in our hearts at His coming.

To comply with the required disposition for the body, WE MUST KEEP THE EUCHARISTIC FAST:

1. The drinking of water does not break the fast.

We may drink any kind of water in the ordinary sense of the word, even if there be a question of certain mineral waters to which gas has been added to create effervescence (carbonated water) or natural water that has been purified by addition of chemicals, like chlorine, fluoride, etc. Water, however, to which sugar has been added breaks the fast.

2. We may drink water any time we wish, even a few moments before entering the church to prepare for Holy Communion.

Common water, as we have explained above, does not break the Eucharistic fast; we may take any amount of it and at any time. If an altar boy while serving Mass should happen to go to the sacristy after the consecration of the Mass and should drink water, he could still receive Holy Communion a few minutes later.

3. The time for keeping the Eucharistic fast before receiving Holy Communion whether in the morning, afternoon, or night, is limited to three hours' abstinence from solid food and alcoholic liquids, and one hour's from non-alcoholic liquids.

Solid food is any kind of nutritive substance that does not flow, even if there is no need for mastication—like jelly, ice cream, etc.

Liquid food includes all types of beverages that are drunk in liquid form.

Alcoholic liquids are all those beverages containing any amount of alcohol, such as hard drinks, liqueurs, whisky, wine, beer, etc.

Non-alcoholic liquids may include: coffee, tea, chocolate, cocoa, broth (bouillon or consommé), milk, milk shake, liquid diets, such as Metrecal, soft drinks, and similar liquids. With these something solid may even be mixed, like wheat meal, ground toast, or a beaten egg, provided the liquid form remains.

4. We must abstain from solid food and alcoholic liquids for at least three hours before Holy Communion, and from liquid food for at least one hour before Holy Communion.

The hours are to be measured, for the faithful, from the moment the last bite or drink is taken, to the moment of reception of Communion; for priests, to the beginning of Mass.

For example, if we are going to receive Communion at a Mass that begins at five o’clock in the morning or in the afternoon, we must cease eating solid food at 2:15 and drinking liquid food at 4:15, because Communion is distributed about fifteen minutes after Mass has begun.

Even when we receive Holy Communion at midnight, as on Christmas or Easter Vigil, we must keep the Eucharistic fast, abstaining three hours from solid food and alcoholic drinks, and one hour from liquid food.

5. The sick may take non-alcoholic liquids and medicine before Holy Communion, without any limit of time, whether this medicine be in solid or liquid form.

This rule applies to all those who are sick, no matter what the ailment may be, whether habitual, as stomach ulcers, or sudden, as a headache. It applies even though they are able to go to church to receive Holy Communion, like those suffering from asthma. Expectant mothers are in this category.

By medicine is meant any true and proper medical preparation, regardless of its composition. Therefore, even though the medicine may contain alcohol, as long as it remains medicine according to the common acceptance of the word, it may be taken by the sick without any restriction as to time, that is, even a few moments before receiving Holy Communion.

6. Those receiving the Holy Viaticum are not bound by the Eucharistic fast.

WHEN RECEIVING HOLY COMMUNION one should behave in a devout and recollected manner:

1. In approaching the communion rail one should have his hands joined, and not walk too hurriedly, nor rush ahead of others, nor insert himself between two persons already kneeling close to each other at the rail. One should return to his place with joined hands and downcast eyes.

It is unbecoming for women and girls to go to receive Holy Communion not dressed modestly.

2. When the priest approaches, one should raise his head and open his mouth, with the tongue slightly extended over the lower lip.

3. One should swallow the host as soon as he can. Jesus stays with us only as long as the appearances of bread remain.

If the host sticks to the mouth, we must on no account remove it with the finger, but moisten it with saliva, and remove it with the tongue, then swallow it.
This is how we should kneel at the communion rail. We should not crowd or push. (1) shows how to approach and leave the communion rail, with joined hands and downcast eyes.

(2) shows how to receive Holy Communion. We open the mouth and extend the tongue a little over the lower lip. Meanwhile, let us welcome Jesus Christ into a joyful heart.

146. Graces from the Holy Eucharist

The Eucharist is the SACRAMENT OF UNITY.

The essential effect of Holy Communion is union with Christ, with God and our neighbor.

1. The passing sacramental union with Christ, who is the fountain of all grace, signifies and produces an increase of supernatural life, that is, of sanctifying grace, of the Christ-life in us, and therefore a spiritual and lasting union with Christ and the Blessed Trinity.

"He who eats my flesh and drinks my blood abides in me and I in him" (John 6:57).

By uniting us with Christ, Communion unites us more closely with all members of Christ, with our Lady and the saints, with our brethren on earth.

"Though we are many, we are one body, because we partake of the one bread" (1 Cor. 10:17).

2. At the same time Communion kindles actual love for God and for neighbor. This fervour of charity is the "sacramental grace" proper to Communion.

This is therefore the fruit we must principally look for in Communion. It demands our active cooperation: acts of love, of full acceptance of the will of God, of full acceptance of our neighbor. Why is it that so many communicants are not conspicuous for their charity?...

3. Chiefly through the charity which it kindles, Communion has other precious effects: spiritual joy, remission of venial sins, preservation from future sins, weakening of evil inclinations...

What ordinary food does for the body, that the Eucharist does for the soul: it repairs waste, gives energy and joy. But, while ordinary food is changed into our body, the Eucharist assimilates us unto Christ and gradually transforms us into Him.

We should not expect Communion to suppress temptations or to weaken our passions automatically. Normally it does not do away with the need for struggle, but, by the light and strength it gives, it makes us prompt and energetic in overcoming passions and temptations.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
What should we do AFTER HOLY COMMUNION?

After Holy Communion we should spend some time "adoring" our Lord, "thanking" Him, "drawing" from His Heart a sincere love for God and our neighbor, "offering" ourselves for the task of the day, "asking" Him for blessings for ourselves and for others.

1. We should not leave the church immediately after receiving Holy Communion. We should pray at least ten or fifteen minutes, thanking our Divine Guest. Our Lord is actually and personally present in us as long as the appearance of bread remains.

2. If our work or duties prevent our staying in church to give proper thanksgiving, let us remain recollected and in union with Jesus on our way home; and let us remember Him with love throughout the entire day.

Once St. Philip Neri noticed that a certain parishioner, for no reason, habitually left the church immediately after receiving Holy Communion. In order to correct him, he told two acolytes one day to accompany the man with lighted candles as he walked home. The acolytes did as they were told. Realizing his fault, the man returned and made the proper thanksgiving.

How should we SHOW OUR GRATITUDE to Our Lord for remaining always on our altars in the Holy Eucharist?

We should show our gratitude to Our Lord for remaining always on our altars in the Holy Eucharist by visiting Him often, by reverence in church, by assisting every day at Mass when this is possible, and by being present at Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

Wherever the Blessed Sacrament is reserved, a light must always be kept burning before it. Olive oil should be used; in case of necessity the bishop may permit the use of a substitute.

1. Paying visits to the Blessed Sacrament is a loving gesture towards Our Lord really present there. He is our best Friend; shall we not pay Him a call once in a while?

Cardinal Bellarmine, while still a student, used to pay a visit to the Blessed Sacrament every time he passed a church. When he was asked why he did this, he answered, "It would be ill manners to go by a friend's house without a word of greeting." The church door is always open to admit us, a constant invitation to us to visit Our Lord Who calls, "Come to me, all you who labor and are burdened, and I will give you rest" (Matt. 11:28).

2. Exposition and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament is an act of worship in which the Sacred Host, placed in the monstrance, is exposed to the people for adoration, and is lifted up to bless them. The ciborium may be used instead of the monstrance.

The Blessed Sacrament is solemnly exposed on certain occasions, as in the afternoon services on Sundays and holydays, on the eves of First Fridays, on the feast of Corpus Christi, etc. An all-night vigil is kept before the Blessed Sacrament in the Repository on the night of Holy Thursday. In many places an all-night vigil is also held on New Year's Eve. It is usual to pray before the solemnly exposed Sacrament on your knees.

3. The Forty Hours' Devotion is a devotion to the Blessed Sacrament, in memory of the forty hours during which the body of Jesus stayed in the Holy Sepulchre, after His burial on Good Friday up to His resurrection on Easter. Relays of worshipers take turns at adoration, watching and praying. This devotion appears to have developed from the Corpus Christi processions.

Cardinal Newman said of Benediction, "It is Our Lord's solemn benediction of His people, as when He lifted up His hands over His children, or when He blessed His chosen ones when He ascended up from Mount Olivet." At Benediction, at least twelve candles must be used on the altar.

4. The Holy Hour is a devotion in honor of Our Lord. It is often made before the Blessed Sacrament, although this is not necessary to gain the indulgences. The devotion consists of an hour of mental or vocal prayer in union with the prayer of Jesus in the Garden of Olives, in honor of His agony.

The Holy Hour may be made either in public or in private. If in public, it must be made in church or chapel any hour of the day or night of any day in the week.

5. Perpetual Adoration of the Blessed Sacrament. There are a few churches and chapels where the Blessed Sacrament is solemnly exposed—that is, in a monstrance—day and night 24 hours a day. In other churches the Blessed Sacrament is exposed in the morning and towards the evening reserved again in the tabernacle. When such adoration takes place there should be at least a few people in church to adore. They act as guardians and sentinels of our Eucharistic King. We should pay visits to such churches and pay our homage of adoration to Our Lord in the sacrament of His love.
The picture shows Our Lord instituting the sacrament of Penance on the first Easter Sunday night. He breathed on the Apostles and said: “Whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven; and whase sins you shall retain, they are retained” (John 20:23).

Our Lord had previously promised Peter the right to forgive sins, saying: “And I will give thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven; and whatever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven, and whatsoever thou shalt loose an earth shall be loosed in heaven” (Matt. 16:19).

147. The Sacrament of Penance

What is the sacrament of PENANCE?

Penance is the sacrament by which sins committed after Baptism are forgiven through the absolution of the priest.

Penance prompts the sinner to detest his sins, and incites him to offer satisfaction for them, and to amend his life in the future.

1. Penance has the three essentials of a sacrament.

(a) It is a sensible sign; i.e., the words of absolution and the act of confession.

Our Lord promised to give Peter the power to forgive sins, saying to him, “And whatever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven, and whatever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven” (Matt. 16:19). Christ later made the same promise to the other Apostles, saying, “Amen, I say to you whatever you bind on earth shall be bound also in heaven; and whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed also in heaven” (Matt. 18:18).

(b) It was instituted by Jesus Christ on the first Easter Sunday night.

On the first Easter Sunday night, Our Lord fulfilled His promise to give His Apostles the power to forgive sins. Jesus appeared to His Apostles and said: “Peace be to you. As the Father has sent me, I also send you.” When He had said this, He breathed upon them and said to them: “Receive the Holy Spirit; whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven them; and whose sins you shall retain, they are retained” (John 20:21-23).

(c) It confers grace. It is the way by which after Baptism sanctifying grace is restored to the penitent who has committed mortal sin.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
2. On the part of the penitent, the sacrament of Penance includes three distinct acts: (a) contrition or sorrow for his sins; (b) confession or telling them to the priest; and (c) satisfaction or performance of the penance imposed by the priest.

A penitent is absolved IF he confesses his sins with sorrow, makes a resolution to atone for them, and promises to amend his life.

3. The practice of confession and sacramental remission of sin has been continuous in the Church from the beginning, though the manner of administering this sacrament has evolved through the centuries.

In the writings of the Fathers and Doctors of the Church, in the very first centuries of the Christian era, the faithful are often advised and exhorted to confess their sins. St. Augustine says, "It is not enough that one acknowledge his sins to God, from whom nothing is hidden; he must also confess them to a priest, God's representative."

St. John said in encouragement: "My dear children, these things I write to you in order that you may not sin. But if anyone sins, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the just" (1 John 2:1).

WITH WHAT WORDS does the priest forgive sins?

The priest forgives sins with the words: "I absolve you from your sins in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen."

This is called the "absolution," and is said by the priest over the penitent, with uplifted hand, when he forgives the sins confessed. It is pronounced while the penitent is saying an act of contrition. It is the form of the sacrament.

1. Only those priests authorized to do so can administer the sacrament of Penance. The power to forgive sins by pronouncing the words of absolution is given to a priest at his ordination. But in order to exercise this power, the priest must have jurisdiction. The bishop gives authority (called "the faculties") to hear confessions in his diocese.

A priest authorized in one diocese must get the faculties in order to hear confessions in any other diocese. Priests are like civil magistrates, who cannot pass sentence on all cases, but only on those for which they have jurisdiction.

2. The priest refuses absolution to a penitent when he thinks the penitent does not have the necessary dispositions. He may also postpone absolution to a later confession, if he thinks it best to do so.

The confessor is a judge in the confessional: he must act as judge, looking not only into the sins being confessed, but also into the purpose of amendment, into the sincerity of contrition of the penitent, and the satisfaction to be imposed.

3. Certain grave sins are reserved to the Pope or the bishop for absolution. These are called "reserved cases": as when one joins Masonry, gets married before a non-Catholic minister, or desecrates a sacred Host. Every Catholic priest, however, even if suspended or excommunicated, has power to absolve all the sins of a dying person.

WHAT ARE THE EFFECTS of the sacrament of Penance, worthy received?

1. The restoration or increase of sanctifying grace.

The sacrament of Penance restores sanctifying grace to the soul that has lost it, and increases it in the soul that already possesses it.

2. The forgiveness of sins.

The sacrament of Penance remits the guilt of sins. All sins can be forgiven in the sacrament of Penance. However many and wicked the sins may be, they are all forgiven if the sinner makes a good confession, even on a deathbed. "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just, to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all iniquity" (1 John 1:9).

3. The remission of the eternal punishment, if necessary, and also of part, at least, of the temporal punishment, due to our sins.

"Unless you repent, you will all perish in the same manner" (Luke 13:5).

4. The help to avoid sin in the future.

The sacrament of Penance gives the penitent actual graces and a special strength by which he may overcome temptation and lead a good life. Works of penance are not only for the punishment of past sins, they act as a medicine, as a remedy to weaken the power of evil tendencies.

5. The restoration of the merits of our good works, if they have been lost by mortal sins.

The sacrament of Penance also gives us the opportunity to receive spiritual advice and instruction from our confessor. Although everybody is free to confess to any authorized priest, each should have a regular confessor.
In our examination of conscience, we must make a careful scrutiny, as if we were to appear at that moment before the judgment seat of God. We must not, however, be scrupulous, remembering that God is a just and merciful God, who does not expect what is beyond our power. By the examination we learn to know ourselves, our weaknesses, our temptations, our sins. During the examination of conscience we should decide how we are to tell our sins, so that we may be clear and brief.

148. Examination of Conscience

WHAT must we do TO RECEIVE the Sacrament of Penance WORTHILY?

1. Examine our conscience.
   By the examination of conscience we recall the sins committed since our last good confession.

2. Be sorry for our sins.
   By contrition, or sorrow for sins, we express to God our grief that we have disobeyed Him, that we have been His unfaithful children.

3. Have the firm purpose of not sinning again.
   By this purpose of amendment we sincerely promise God not to fall again into the sins we confess.

4. Confess our sins to the priest.
   The act of telling our sins to the priest is called Confession.

5. Be willing to perform the penance the priest gives us.
   The performance of the penance after confession is called satisfaction, for by that act we try to repair the damage our sins have done.

TO RECEIVE THE SACRAMENT of Penance WORTHILY, we must imitate the Prodigal Son:

(1) He thought over the evil he had done, and acknowledged it (examination of conscience).

(2) He realized his ingratitude towards his good father, and grieved with all his heart (contrition).

(3) He made up his mind to return to his father and from thenceforth to change his ways (purpose of amendment).

(4) Upon his return, he fell at his father's feet, confessed the evil he had done, and begged pardon for it (confession).

(5) He implored his father not to treat him as a son, but as a mere servant (satisfaction).
What is AN EXAMINATION OF CONSCIENCE?

An examination of conscience is a sincere effort to call to mind all the sins we have committed since our last worthy confession.

1. Before our examination of conscience we should ask God's help to know our sins and to confess them with sincere sorrow. Without His grace, we can neither know our sins nor feel sorrow for them.

2. The examination of conscience is important, for by it we learn to know ourselves, and so find means of improvement.

Self-knowledge is a gift of God, that we implore in prayer. If we have self-knowledge, we shall be sure of avoiding the self-complacency that is the obstacle to a sincere examination of conscience.

How can we make A GOOD EXAMINATION OF CONSCIENCE?

We can make a good examination of conscience by calling to mind the commandments of God and of the Church, and the particular duties of our state of life, and by asking ourselves how we may have sinned with regard to them.

1. We should make as careful an examination as if we were on our deathbed, considering in what way we have sinned in thought, desire, word, deed, or omission. We must recall how often we have committed mortal sins. "I will meditate on your precepts and consider your ways" (Ps. 118:15).

2. We need not be too anxious about examining ourselves on venial sins, as it is not necessary to confess them; but it is better to do so, in order to amend ourselves, and to obtain greater graces.

In our examination of conscience, let us beware, lest, in searching out small sins we may cover the large ones. Let us not imitate the Pharisees, to whom Our Lord said, "Blind guides, who strain out the gnat but swallow the camel!" (Matt. 23:24).

3. In our examination, we should recall all the circumstances that might change the nature of the sins we wish to confess.

For example, if a man has stolen a ciborium from the church, it is not enough for him to confess, "I stole." Stealing sacred vessels, besides being theft, is moreover sacrilege.

4. We should determine exactly what we are going to confess, and how we are going to express it, avoiding random talk.

WHEN IS THE EXAMINATION OF CONSCIENCE CARELESS?

The examination of conscience is careless when we make it too hastily, and thus fail to remember all our sins.

1. Some careless people rush into the confessional after one or two minutes preparation.

We receive greater graces from confession the better we know ourselves, our sins, our weaknesses, and the greater is our contrition and the stronger our purpose of amendment. These important dispositions cannot be effected by a hasty examination.

2. One who omits confessing a mortal sin through deliberate carelessness in examination does not make a good confession.

A good rule is to prepare for each confession as if it were to be the last we shall make in this life. The chief reason for our falling into the same sins time and again is our want of earnest preparation for confession, and the resulting lack of conviction of the need of amendment.

WHEN IS THE EXAMINATION OF CONSCIENCE TOO SCRUPULOUS?

The examination of conscience is too scrupulous when we make ourselves miserable by minute and prolonged examination, fearing that we may not do it well.

1. Some scrupulous persons spend a half hour or more examining themselves with the minutest detail for a weekly confession.

This is too long. A good examination for a weekly confession can be made in five minutes and for a monthly confession in ten or fifteen minutes, especially if one has not neglected to make his daily examination of conscience.

2. Our Lord certainly did not institute confession to be a means of torture, but a means of forgiveness and relief.

It is unnecessary to count the exact number of our temptations or distractions. It is unnecessary to worry over what we cannot remember. What scrupulous persons need is good common sense.

3. A good rule is to examine our conscience every evening, spending a few moments looking over the day's actions.

Then when the time comes for confession, we have only to recall the sins our nightly examinations revealed to us. A good examination of conscience is an assurance of a good confession. We can neither confess nor feel sorry for what we do not recall. "If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us" (1 John 1:8).
Our Lord, speaking about the forgiveness of sins, told the parable of the Prodigal Son, who took his inheritance from his father, and wasted it in a far country. But a time came when the Prodigal suffered hardships as a caretaker of swine.

Then, feeling contrition for what he had done, he said to himself: "How many hired men in my father’s house have bread in abundance, while I am perishing here with hunger! I will get up and go to my father, and will say to him, Father, I have sinned against heaven and before thee. I am no longer worthy to be called thy son; make me as one of thy hired men. And he arose and went to his father" (Luke 15:17-20).

149. Sorrow for Sin

What is CONTRITION?

Contrition is sincere sorrow for having offended God, and hatred for the sins we have committed, with a firm purpose of sinning no more. "The LORD is close to the brokenhearted" (Ps. 33:19).

God will not forgive us any sin, whether mortal or venial, unless we have true contrition for it. Without true contrition a thousand confessions will avail us nothing except to add to our sins.

As examples of true contrition, we have Mary Magdalen, who fell at the feet of Jesus weeping; St. Peter, who wept bitterly for having denied Our Lord; King David, who fasted and prayed, crying, "Have mercy on me, O God ... a heart contrite and humbled, O God, you will not despise."

When is sorrow for sin true contrition?

Sorrow for sin is true contrition when it is (1) interior, (2) supernatural, (3) supreme, and (4) universal.

1. Our sorrow is interior, when it comes from our heart, not merely from our lips. "A heart contrite and humbled, O God, you will not spurn" (Ps. 50:19).

One day a man bumped into an old woman carrying a basketful of vegetables. Her basket was knocked out of her hand, and the contents spilled on the street, rolling in all directions. The man curtly murmured, "Sorry," and went his way, impatiently saying to himself, "There ought to be a law against old women going out on the streets." Meanwhile, the old woman was left to pick up her vegetables as best she could. This man's sorrow was not interior; it was on his lips alone.
2. Our sorrow is supernatural when, with the help of God's grace, it arises from motives which spring from faith, and not merely from natural motives. If we are sorry for our sins because they offend God, who is so good and perfect, or because we fear His punishment, or the loss of heaven, our contrition is supernatural.

A thief was taken to court. He had been caught by reason of a watchdog in the house he had entered. The thief said to himself when he was sentenced to imprisonment: "I am sorry I ever entered that house. Next time I shall be sure and steal only from those houses that do not keep dogs." This man's contrition was not supernatural, but natural. He was sorry only because he was caught and punished. Other natural motives are the loss of health, reputation, or goods.

3. Our sorrow is supreme when we hate sin above every other evil, and are willing to endure anything rather than offend God in the future by sin.

A child said to the priest: "Father, I think I do not have enough contrition for my sins. When I offend my mother, I cry bitterly, because I love her. But when I confess my sins, I do not cry at all." The priest asked: "Would you commit a sin only to please your mother, whom you love so much?" Quickly the child replied: "Father, not! This child's contrition is supreme, or sovereign. Sorrow for sin is not judged by the amount of tears we shed, but by the firmness of our will in resolving to make amends and avoid sin because it offends God.

4. Our sorrow is universal when we are sorry for every mortal sin which we may have had the misfortune to commit. If we have committed five mortal sins, and are contrite for only four, even if we confess all, not one is forgiven.

WHY should we have CONTRITION FOR MORTAL SIN?

We should have contrition for mortal sin because it is the greatest of all evils, gravely offends God, keeps us out of heaven, and condemns us forever to hell.

_Sin is the greatest of evils,_ because its effects last longest, and it has the most dreadful results. Ill health, poverty, and other material evils last for only a time; at death they will all be ended forever, and we shall have our release from them. But sin? The evils arising from mortal sin, aside from those that hound us in this life, will persecute us unto eternity. As long as one has a mortal sin he cannot be forgiven for his venial sin.

WHY should we have CONTRITION FOR VENIAL SIN?

We should have contrition for venial sin because _it is displeasing to God_, merits temporal punishment, and may lead to mortal sin.

1. Venial sin is displeasing to God, and keeps us out of heaven, however temporarily. If we really love God, we would avoid every sign of sin separating us from Him.

_The stains of venial sin may seem very slight to us_ indeed; but when they are laid against the purity of the Infinite Goodness they become dark blots. _We can realize how God looks upon the slightest of venial sins_ when we remember how severely He punished His saints, as for instance, Moses, for only a very slight sin of thought.

2. By _venial sin_ we incur temporal punishment, which must be made up either here on earth or in the fires of purgatory.

3. Venial sin is a step to mortal sin. It causes carelessness with regard to sins, and leads us into sloth with regard to good works.

And so, being careless about venial sin, we fall into mortal sin "by little and little." No man ever fell suddenly into vice; vice is a habit of sin.

4. Venial sin deprives us of many graces by which we might merit more help and love from God.

_When going to Confession_, and if we only have venial sins to confess, we must be sorry for _at least one_ of them, or for some sin of our past, which we confess; otherwise the confession is not valid.

What is an ACT OF CONTRITION?

It is a prayer by which we express to God our sorrow and detestation of sin.

1. An act of contrition can be as _short as this_: "O my God, I am sorry with all my heart for having offended You, because You are all good!"

   "Have pity on me, O God; have pity on me, for in you I take refuge" (Ps. 56:2).

2. _An act of contrition is sufficient to forgive venial sins_. We may go to Holy Communion without confessing if we have no mortal sin. Although not required, it is good to say an act of contrition for our venial sins, if any.

_If we are frequent communicants_, and have only venial sins, it is better to _go to confession_ every two weeks or at least once a month. _Confession gives special graces_ not obtained through an act of contrition.
Perfect contrition implies a fervent love of God. We are sorry for our sins because they offend God Who is so good. Mary Magdalen had perfect contrition. Her contrition was so perfect that she never sinned again. She followed Our Lord and was at the foot of the cross when He was crucified. Her perfect contrition and love were greatly rewarded, for He appeared to her on Easter morning. We should all try to imitate Mary Magdalen's contrition, arising from sorrow at offending God.

150. Perfect and Imperfect Contrition

When is our CONTRITION PERFECT?

Our contrition is perfect when we are sorry for our sins because sin offends God, Whom we love above all things for His own sake.

"Wherefore I say to thee, her sins, many as they are, shall be forgiven her, because she has loved much. But he to whom little is forgiven, loves little." And he said to her, 'Thy sins are forgiven.' And they who were at table with him began to say within themselves, 'Who is this man, who even forgives sins?' But he said to the woman, 'Thy faith has saved thee; go in peace.'" (Luke 7:47-50).

1. This contrition arises from a pure and perfect love of God. If we have a perfect love of God, our contrition for sins will be perfect. It ought not be difficult for us to have a perfect love of God. We generally love our parents not for the food and clothes they give us, but for themselves, because we see their self-sacrifice, their unselfishness, and other good qualities.

Thus we shall be sorry, not only because we fear punishment or dread the loss of His gifts, but because we offend the good God, to Whom nothing is more evil than sin. If we can love our parents spontaneously, not for any reward we expect or punishment we wish to avoid, why can we not love God, Who is infinitely more lovable than our parents? If we love God spontaneously, because He is lovable in Himself, our love is perfect.

2. It is easy to make an act of perfect contrition if we sincerely love God. We can excite ourselves to it by thinking of the Passion, of how good God is, how many favors He has granted us, and how ungrateful we have been to Him in return for His goodness.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
3. If we happen to be assisting at a death-bed, and no priest is available, we should help the dying person make an act of perfect contrition.

The father of a family met with an accident and was at the point of death. The youngest child, who had recently made his first communion, saw that his father would die before the priest could arrive. He therefore took a crucifix from the wall, and holding it before his father's eyes repeated aloud an act of contrition. Tears filled the dying man's eyes. He died before the priest arrived, but his act of contrition washed his soul clean of sin.

4. We should form the habit of making an act of perfect contrition as often as possible.

It is only necessary to raise our hearts to God in pure love, and say some such words as: "O my God, I am sorry I ever offended You, because You are so good, and I love You!"

When is our Contrition IMPERFECT?

Our contrition is imperfect when we are sorry for our sins because they are hateful in themselves or because we fear God's punishment.

1. Imperfect contrition is called attrition. The fear of hell is a common motive of attrition. It is a good motive, but it is imperfect, because it arises from fear of God's punishments, and not from pure love for Him.

A mother sent her three young sons to take a big jar of honey to their grandmother. On the way the boys stopped to play. They stumbled over the jar, breaking it and spilling the honey. They all began to weep.

The first said, "Mother will surely spank us!" The second cried, "She will be so displeased she will give us no cookies!" And the third wept, "Mother will surely be sad!"

The first two boys had attrition: one had the fear of punishment, and the second had sorrow at the loss of reward. The third child had perfect contrition, for he thought only of the sadness and offense he caused to one he loved.

2. To receive the sacrament of Penance worthily, imperfect contrition is sufficient. However, an act of attrition cannot obtain forgiveness of mortal sin without the absolution of a priest.

Even if we feel only attrition for our sins, we can easily develop it into perfect contrition by remembering what we should be without God. We should always try to have perfect contrition in the sacrament of Penance.

3. A purely servile fear of God is not sufficient for imperfect contrition. That is one which makes a person avoid sin only because of punishment; so that, if there were no punishment, he would not be sorry, but ready and resolved to sin, regardless of the laws of God. To receive the sacrament of Penance worthily, purely servile fear would not be sufficient.

We call this fear "servile" because it is the fear of slaves, afraid of a hard taskmaster; they would quickly disobey his commands were they not afraid of his whips. Shall we look upon God thus? Servile fear does not make the sinner turn away from his sin. The "fear of God" that produces attrition is called filial fear. It is a fear of God's punishments that makes the sinner turn away from his sin and return sincerely to God; it is the fear that a good son who has offended his father seriously feels when he begs forgiveness.

How can a person in mortal sin regain THE STATE OF GRACE before receiving the sacrament of Penance?

A person in mortal sin can regain the state of grace before receiving the sacrament of Penance, by making an act of perfect contrition, with the sincere purpose of going to confession.

1. An act of perfect contrition takes away sin immediately. Our sins however grievous are forgiven before we confess them, although the obligation to confess as soon as we can remains.

Thus, if one makes an act of perfect contrition after having committed a mortal sin, and then dies before being able to go to confession, he is saved from hell by the act he made. Let us remember the penitent thief: "And he said to Jesus, 'Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom.' And Jesus said to him, 'Amen I say to thee, this day thou shalt be with me in paradise'" (Luke 23:40-43).

2. If we have the misfortune to commit a mortal sin, we should ask God's pardon and grace at once, make an act of perfect contrition, and go to confession as soon as we can.

With the act of perfect contrition must be our intention to go to confession as soon as we can. If we die without being able to confess to a priest, we shall be saved from hell by our act of perfect contrition.

3. We may not receive Holy Communion after committing a mortal sin, if we merely make an act of perfect contrition; one who has sinned grievously must go to confession before receiving Holy Communion.
St. Augustine in his youth led a bold life. The prayers of his holy mother, St. Monica, led to his conversion. One day he was in the garden when he heard a voice say, Take and read. He took up the Holy Scripture on a nearby table and read.

From that moment his conversion started. He made a resolution to amend his ways. This firm resolution he never broke; he became one of the greatest Saints. If we should be so unhappy as to sin, let us imitate his firm purpose of amendment.

151. Purpose of Amendment

What is the FIRM PURPOSE OF SINNING NO MORE?

The firm purpose of sinning no more is the sincere resolve not only to avoid sin, but to avoid as far as possible the near occasions of sin.

"But when the unclean spirit has gone out of a man, he roams through dry places in search of a resting place, and finds none. Then he says, 'I will return to my house which I left'; and when he has come, he finds the place unoccupied, swept and adorned. Then he goes and takes with him seven other spirits more evil than himself, and they enter in and dwell there; and the last state of that man becomes worse than the first" (Matt. 12:43-45).

1. This purpose of amendment must accompany the act of contrition; it is necessary before sin can be forgiven. By it we determine firmly to amend ourselves. "Behold, thou art cured. Sin no more, lest something worse befall thee" (John 5:14).

Two young men had fallen into the vice of drunkenness. Every day they went to the saloon, and with other companions drank till they lost their reason. Being reproved by their parents, they promised to overcome their vice and drink no more.

From that moment he never entered it again. The second young man thought that so long as he did not enter, passing in front of the saloon was harmless. He passed in front on the first day.

The second day, as he passed, his former companions hailed him, and he entered the saloon, thinking to himself that it was harmless, provided he did not touch wine.

After a week of this, he drank a little glass of old times' sake. It was not long before he fell back into his old vice, while the first young man was cured.

The first young man not only avoided sin, but the near occasions of sin. The second young man had no real purpose of amendment; and so he soon returned to his former ways, and fell back into sin.
2. Our purpose of amendment must have reference to God: it must be supernatural. If we decide to amend only because we should be more popular without bad habits, that is not a supernatural purpose.

In Holy Scripture there was King Antiochus who lamented his sins because worms were eating him up. Today we have criminals, drunkards, evil men, who bewail their wicked deeds because they land in jail or lose their wealth or reputation. For this reason they determine to improve: but not to improve their souls, only their methods, so that they may not be "found out,"—as if God had no eyes to see. Even if such persons determine to amend, their purpose has no merit before Almighty God.

3. Even if, after confession, we should fall again into the same sins that we have so often confessed, we should not despair, for by so doing we would become worse. If after confession we relapse into the same sins, our purpose of amendment is weak. We must strengthen our will. We should go oftener to confession, examine ourselves carefully, be watchful against temptation.

A young man once came to St. Philip Neri and told him he was the victim of a bad habit. The saint advised him to go to confession immediately after he fell into the same sin. The young man sincerely wished to get rid of the vice, and followed the advice strictly. In a short time he had not only got rid of his vice, but he had formed new virtues.

4. If we have only venial sins, the best way is to choose the one we commonly commit, and concentrate our efforts to eradicate it. We should correct ourselves of venial sins one at a time. Thus we can be sure of contrition, and a steady advance in virtue.

WHAT QUALITIES should our purpose of amendment have?

Our purpose of amendment should be firm, efficacious, and universal.

1. Our purpose is FIRM when we determine to avoid sin at any cost. Then we do not hesitate back and forth, but with decision cut ourselves off from the bonds which formerly bound us to sin and its occasions.

In one of his military expeditions, Alexander the Great, the conqueror of many lands, arrived in Gordium, Phrygia. In a certain fortress there was what people called the "Gordian knot," so well tied that many had tried to untie it but all miserably failed. It was believed that whoever could untie the Gordian knot would be the conqueror of Asia. When Alexander came, he did not waste time, but drew his sword and cut the knot apart.

2. Our purpose is EFFICACIOUS when we resolve to use all means to carry out our determination to amend, as by avoiding the occasions of sin,—persons, places, and things that ordinarily led us into sin in the past, and may do so again in the future. A good resolution is like a nail driven fast into the wall, but the resolutions of too many are like a nail badly placed, which falls out as soon as something is hung upon it.

Bad company and improper amusements and reading are such occasions. If we do not avoid them, we are not truly sorry for our sins. "He who loves danger will perish in it" (Sirach 3:25). People who say they wish to become better, but will not fly away from occasions of sin are like a housewife who industriously sweeps away cobwebs, but refuses to kill the spider that weaves them.

3. Our purpose is UNIVERSAL when we are determined to keep away from ALL mortal sins. A wise gardener uproots weeds, and does not merely cut off the top; otherwise they will grow thicker than ever.

St. Sebastian promised to heal the sick procur- sul of Rome if he would destroy all the idols. The proconsul destroyed the idols, but did not get well, and complained to the saint about it. The saint told him he had concealed the gold idol inherited from his ancestors, and could not be cured. As soon as he destroyed it, he was healed.

Is it necessary to confess EVERY sin?

It is necessary to confess every mortal sin which has not yet been confessed; it is not necessary to confess our venial sins, but it is better to do so.

1. We must confess all our mortal sins. God surely can forgive us without Confession; but He has not promised to do so, whereas He very clearly promised to forgive those whom His priests forgive.

God is free to put whatever conditions He wishes on the reception of His gifts. He is certainly within His justice to impose on us the condition of Confession, that we may have our mortal sins forgiven.

2. It is well to confess venial sins, though we are not obliged to do so. Many Christians do not commit mortal sin; they would have only venial sins to confess.

Venial sins do not exclude from heaven. Without confession they may be forgiven in many ways, such as by prayer, good works, and the frequenting of the sacraments. It is advisable, when confessing only venial sins, to accuse ourselves of some sin of our past life, even in general terms, such as: "I also accuse myself of the sins of my past life, especially those I committed against the Fourth Command-ment."

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
1. One makes a bad confession who wilfully conceals a mortal sin. For from being forgiven any of his sins, he thus commits a new mortal sin, sacrilege. If one is ashamed to confess his mortal sins before his ordinary confessor, he is always at liberty to go to another priest, one who does not know him. But by no means must he conceal a mortal sin. "He that hides his sins shall not prosper" (Prov. 28:13).

2. If we make a good confession, our souls are cleansed, and we are restored to sanctifying grace, to the friendship of God. We also receive actual graces which help us in our struggle against evil.

152. Sacramental Confession

What is CONFESSION?

Confession is the telling of our sins to an authorized priest for the purpose of obtaining forgiveness.

"If we acknowledge our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins" (1 John 1:9). "Is any one among you sick? Let him bring in the presbyters of the Church, and let them pray over him . . . and if he be in sins, they shall be forgiven him" (Jas. 5:14, 15).

WHY must we CONFESS our sins?

We must confess our sins because Jesus Christ obliges us to do so, in these words, spoken to the Apostles and to their successors in the priesthood: "Whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven them; and whose sins you shall retain, they are retained."

1. These words of Christ oblige us to confess our sins, because the priest cannot know whether he should forgive or retain our sins unless we tell them to him. In order to be able to give a just decision the priest must know the facts of each case. Thus the penitent must tell his sins. He is his own accuser and his own witness.

Even in a civil court, the judge makes no decision without knowing the facts of the case. A trial is conducted with accusers and witnesses against the person accused. The priest is the judge, and he must learn from the penitent himself whether he should give absolution, and what would be a just penance to impose.

2. The power to forgive sins was not given to the Apostles alone, but also to their successors, the bishops and priests of the Church, until the end of time.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The forgiveness of sins was surely not granted only to those people living at the time of the Apostles, but for all who, to the end of the world, should need forgiveness.

3. The Church commands us to confess at least once a year. All Catholics, including cardinals, bishops, priests, etc., are subject to this law. Good Catholics confess at least once a month, or even once a week. If we are so unfortunate as to have committed a mortal sin, we should go to confession at once.

What would you think of a person who met with an accident at New Year and is near death if he says: "No, do not call the doctor. I shall go to him at Easter"?

4. In the sacrament of Penance the priest acts as physician to the soul. He tells the penitent how to avoid sin and how to amend his life.

Just as we tell our doctor about all our bodily pains, in order that he may cure us, do we tell our sins to our confessor in order that he can give or suggest spiritual remedies.

THE CHIEF QUALITIES of a good confession are three: it must be humble, sincere, and entire.

When is our confession HUMBLE?

Our confession is humble when we accuse ourselves of our sins with a conviction of guilt for having offended God.

Our confession is humble when we show by our manner that we are truly sorry, and listen meekly to the priest's correction and advice. One who continually interrupts the priest with: "But you do not know me, Father! I am not like that!" would give the impression that he does not make a humble confession. One who complains that the penance imposed is too heavy for his sins is not humble.

When is our confession SINCERE?

Our confession is sincere when we tell our sins honestly and frankly.

1. Our confession is sincere when we tell our sins just as they are, without excusing or exaggerating them.

One who confesses that he stole because his companions told him to, or that the temptation was too strong, is excusing himself.

2. We should confess exactly as if we were telling our sins to God Himself; He knows them perfectly, including all the circumstances.

Our confession must be clear, so that the confessor may not waste his time asking us questions. We should also be very careful not to mention by name anyone in confession.

3. In confession we are to tell our own sins, not those of others. The confessional is not a place for gossiping about the faults of others.

The story is told of a woman who went to confession and complained bitterly of the faults of her son. In giving the penance, the priest said, "Say two Hail Marys for your sins and ten rosaries for those sins of your son which you have confessed." He was trying to teach her a needed lesson.

When is our confession ENTIRE?

Our confession is entire when we confess at least all our mortal sins, telling their kind, the number of times we have committed each sin, and any circumstances changing their nature.

A story is told of an old farmer who came into the confessional quaking and quivering with nervousness. He said, "Father, I have stolen a rope!" and stopped. Sensing that the confession was not entire, the priest asked, "How long was the rope?" The farmer answered, "About three yards long, Father!" But he was still very nervous, and so the priest asked, "Was there anything else you stole?" The farmer trembled, and finally gasped: "There—there was a—a cow at the end of the rope, Father!"

1. We must tell the exact nature or kind of the mortal sins we have committed.

For example, it is not enough for one to accuse himself of grievous lying. He should specify what kind of lie he told, whether it was to protect himself or to tell a calumny.

2. We must mention the circumstances that change the nature of our sins.

For instance it is not enough to say merely, "I stole a dollar," if it was stolen from a blind beggar, or from the collection plate at church. Ordinarily taking a dollar from your rich father may be a venial sin. From a beggar, it becomes mortal; from the church it is a sacrilege.

3. We must tell how many times we committed a mortal sin. The more often it has been committed, the greater the guilt. If we cannot remember the exact number of times we should tell it as nearly as possible, by telling how long a habit has lasted.

However, we must not waste time unnecessarily in this, but be as simple as possible. Instead of saying: "I was disobedient to my father twice, to my mother three times, and to my teacher five times," a young person should merely say: "I was disobedient ten times."
1. Before confessing to the priest, we must first make a very good examination of conscience. Then we should repent of our sins, say an act of contrition, and kneel in the confessional for our confession.

2. In Confession, we tell our sins to the priest as clearly as possible. We speak in a low voice, and avoid any waste of time in random talk. We must tell all mortal sins; we may also mention whatever venial sins we wish to state.

How to Make a Good Confession

HOW SHOULD WE PREPARE ourselves for a good confession?

We should prepare ourselves for a good confession by taking sufficient time not only to examine our conscience, but especially to excite in our hearts sincere sorrow for our sins, and a firm purpose not to commit them again.

When hearing confession, the priest uses a purple stole. The color purple signifies sorrow and penance. In former days priests used the stole continually as part of their habit, but today they use it only when on duty; the Pope alone uses the stole continually. It is the badge of the priesthood.

1. After we have made a good examination of conscience and excited ourselves to true repentance, we should say an act of contrition. The act of contrition should precede the confession. We should make it after the examination of conscience, before going into the confessional. The priest cannot pardon us if we are not repentant.

An act of contrition made any time during the day on which we go to confession is sufficient. We should renew the act of contrition at the moment that the priest is giving us absolution after our confession.

2. We then approach the confessional to await our turn. We should never crowd and fight to get first place. Some persons are so eager to be first that they even go up near the one actually confessing. This is a serious fault, especially if by so doing the person hears the confession going on.

Roger Brooke Taney was one day awaiting his turn to confess, in line with some Negro workmen.
He was then Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, a position second only in dignity to that of the President. Seeing him, the priest came out and said, “Come in next, Mr. Taney: the time of the Chief Justice is too precious to spend waiting.” But the Chief Justice replied, “Not Chief Justice here, Father, only a prisoner at the bar.” And he kept his place in line, awaiting his turn.

3. When our turn comes, we kneel in the confessional and wait till the priest leans towards the opening.

HOW SHOULD WE CONFESSION our sins to the priest?

1. Making the sign of the cross, we say to the priest: “Bless me, Father, for I have sinned. It is a week”...and then we tell how long it has been since our last confession.

   We must speak distinctly, but not so loudly that persons near the confessional can hear.

2. We then state our sins as clearly and briefly as possible, telling all mortal sins, including those that may have been forgotten in previous confessions, with the nature and number of each; we may also confess any venial sins we wish to mention. We must not waste time at any random talk.

   If we cannot remember the exact number of our mortal sins, we should tell the number as nearly as possible, or say how often we have committed the sins in a day, a week, a month, or a year. When we have committed no mortal sin since our last confession, we should confess our venial sins, or some sin told in a previous confession, for which we are again sorry, in order that the priest may give us absolution.

3. Having finished, we say: “For these and all the sins of my past life I am truly sorry, especially for . . .”; and then it is well to tell one or several of the sins which we have previously confessed, and for which we are particularly sorry.

WHAT SHOULD WE DO AFTER confessing our sins?

After confessing our sins, we should answer truthfully any question the priest asks, seek advice if we feel that we need any, listen carefully to the spiritual instruction and counsel of the priest, and accept the penance he gives us.

If we do not understand the penance, we must ask the priest to repeat it. If we cannot perform that particular penance, we should state our reasons to the priest, and have him change it.

1. When the priest is giving us absolution, we should say from our heart the short act of contrition in a tone to be heard by him, and make the sign of the cross.

   The words of absolution are said in Latin: “I absolve you from your sins, in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.” We must not leave the confessional until the priest gives some sign, as by saying, “God bless you,” or “go in peace.” It is best to wait till he has closed the little window.

2. After leaving the confessional, we should return thanks to God for the sacrament we have received, and promptly and devoutly perform our penance.

WHAT are we to do IF without our fault WE FORGET to confess a mortal sin?

If without our fault we forget to confess a mortal sin, we may receive Holy Communion, because we have made a good confession and the sin is forgiven; but we must tell the sin in confession if it again comes to our mind.

A doubtful sin is one of which we are not sure whether it is a sin or not a sin. We are not obliged to confess a doubtful sin, but it is better to do so. The confessor can then advise us and we shall have greater peace of mind.

What is a GENERAL CONFESSION?

A general confession is a repetition of all previous confessions, or at least of some of them.

Housewives sweep and dust the house every day; nevertheless they also give it a thorough general cleaning once or twice a year. A general confession is the equivalent of this general housecleaning.

1. It may be good to make a general confession of the whole year once a year, especially after a retreat or mission. These are called confessions of devotion.

   Scrupulous persons, however, who only torture themselves, should avoid general confessions. Even if mortal sins are omitted purposely in a general confession of devotion, it is worthy, provided those sins have previously been confessed and absolved.

2. It is usual to make a general confession of our whole life when we are about to change our state of life, as before marriage or before entering the priesthood or a religious order. A general confession is necessary when one has been making unworthy confessions.

A general confession may be advised as conducive to greater self-knowledge, to more genuine humility, and increased peace of mind.
Theodosius the Great, Raman Emperor, although a just ruler, once ordered the massacre of about 7000 people of Thessalonica in revenge for a tumult that they had caused in the year 390. St. Ambrose, then Archbishop of Milan, thereupon forbade the emperor’s entrance into the church.

Theodosius acknowledged his sin, and humbly stated that King David had likewise sinned. St. Ambrose rebuked him, answering that the emperor must then imitate David in his penance. Theodosius made reparation to the Thessalonians and did an eight-months’ severe canonical penance.

154. Satisfaction for Sin

WHY does the priest give us A PENANCE AFTER CONFESSION?

The priest gives us a penance after confession, that we may make some atonement to God for our sins, receive help to avoid them in the future, and make some satisfaction for the temporal punishment due to them.

1. The penance is satisfaction for sin, some penitential work imposed by the priest as a reparation to God for the offense offered to Him by sin.

In the early days of the Church, public or canonical penance was imposed for public sins. One who apostatized for fear had to do penance for seven years, during which time he was excluded from Holy Communion, and was required to fast on certain days.

2. Justice requires that an injury done to another should be repaired. One who steals must restore the stolen property. God forgave Adam’s sin, but his penance lasted his whole life. In confession, our eternal punishment is forgiven, but not our temporal. Temporal punishment is the punishment or penance that we have to suffer for our sins either here on earth or in Purgatory.

One who breaks the civil law is not let off even if he is sorry. He is given a penalty imposed by the judge.

3. Today the most common form of satisfaction is the saying of certain prayers imposed. If the sin calls for material reparation, restoration of property or a public apology is also sometimes imposed.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Satisfaction for Sin

One should not complain if the penance given by the confessor is more than other confessors usually impose. One should instead thank God for the opportunity to make some satisfaction here on earth, thus shortening his purgatory.

4. If the pencease consists of prayers, we should say it if possible as soon as we leave the confessional. It is wrong to put off the performance of a too long. One who intentionally omits the pencease commits sin, although the sins that were forgotten do not return. To omit a pencease for venial sins would be a venial sin; a serious pencease for mortal sins, would be grievous.

If we cannot perform the pencease imposed, we may request our confessor to change it. We may not on our own authority substitute another pencease for the one imposed.

WHAT KINDS OF PUNISHMENT are due to sin?

Two kinds of pencease are due to sin: the eternal pencease of hell, due to unforgiven mortal sins, and temporal pencease, lasting only for a time, due to venial sins, and also to mortal sins after they have been forgiven.

1. Even if Our Lord by His death fully atoned for all our sins, we need to do pencease for them. He made salvation available, on condition that we do our part.

In a similar way, a physician prescribes medicine. If one refuses it, he is not cured.

2. If there were no need of pencease, the most hardened sinners would receive the same treatment as the most saintly men, a condition impossible to the justice of God. Christ Himself wills that as we are to share in His glory, we must first share in His sufferings.

"Heirs indeed of God and joint heirs with Christ: yet so, if we suffer with Him, that we may also be glorified with Him" (Rom. 8:17).

3. The pencease for sin prescribed by God is clear:

(a) For mortal sin, eternal pencease in hell. This pencease we can escape by the sacrame of Penance, or, at the moment of death, if we are not able to receive the sacrame of Penance, by an act of perfect contrition.

(b) For mortal sins which have been forgiven, and venial sin not completely atoned for, temporal pencease.

4. The sacrame of Penance, worthily received, always takes away all eternal pencease; but does not always take away all temporal pencease.

WHY does GOD REQUIRE TEMPORAL PUNISHMENT for sin?

God requires temporal pencease for sin to satisfy His justice, to teach us the great evil of sin, and to warn us not to sin again.

1. Temporal pencease is due even forgiven sins, because human contrition if often imperfect. This temporal pencease is an atonement made to divine sanctity and justice. After confession, our contrition generally requires more satisfaction than the few prayers given as pencease.

"Nathan said to David: 'The Lord hath taken away thy sin, thou shalt not die; nevertheless, because thou hast given occasion to the enemies of the Lord to blaspheme, for this thing the child that is born to thee shall surely die'" (2 Kings 12).

2. Temporal pencease, as the word implies, lasts for only a time. It has a definite end. Holy Scripture furnishes us many examples of temporal pencease having been imposed by God.

Mary, the sister of Moses, was pardoned the sin she committed by murmuring against her brother. Nevertheless, God inflicted on her the temporal penalty of leprosy, and of seven days' separation from the people (Num. 12:9-15).

3. We pay the debt of our temporal pencease either in this life or in purgatory.

The CHIEF MEANS OF SATISFYING the debt of our temporal pencease, besides the pencease imposed after confession are:

(1) Attending Mass, (2) prayer, (3) fasting, (4) alms-giving, (5) the works of mercy, (6) the patient endurance of sufferings, and (7) indulgences.

"Zacchaeus stood and said to the Lord, 'Behold, Lord, I give one-half of my possessions to the poor, and if I have defrauded anyone of anything, I restore it fourfold' " (Luke 19:8-9).

We should do voluntary works of charity and mortification, in atonement; we should, besides, bear patiently all ills sent by God.

The pencease we perform, and the sufferings we bear patiently, not only reduce the temporal pencease due our sins, but also contribute to the increase of our eternal happiness. This is what we call gaining merits for heaven.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
1. Before a man is ordained priest and permitted to hear confessions, he must go through a long period of careful study and preparation. The present rule is to have a four-year preparatory course after the intermediate course, three or at least two years of Philosophy, and four years of Theology, Canon Law, Ecclesiastical History, and Sacred Scripture. This long and detailed preparation would usually not attract a low class of men.

2. After one is ordained priest, he is continually reminded of his duties not only by his superiors, but by his daily meditation and prayer. Every priest is obliged to say the Breviary every day. These spiritual duties bring down the grace of God on the priest, and serve to strengthen him to be faithful to his sacred duties, one of the most important being to keep the seal of the confession, the sacramental secret.

155. The Seal of Confession

What is the “SEAL OF CONFESSION”? It is the most solemn obligation of a priest to keep secret what has been revealed to him in confession.

1. The priest may not break this seal of confession even to save his own life, or to avert a great calamity. He must act as if he had not heard anything in confession. This is why a sense of shame or fear of telling our sins should never lead us to conceal mortal sins in confession.

Towards the end of the fourteenth century, Wenceslaus, King of Bohemia, ordered St. John Nepomucene to be drowned in the river Moldau. The king had tried to make the Saint reveal to him what the queen had said in confession, and the saint had firmly refused, in spite of inducements and threats. Hundreds of years after, during the process of canonization, the saint’s tongue was found incorrupt, and looked like a living tongue.

2. The seal of confession must be observed even in a court of justice, for the divine law is higher than human law.

In the beginning of the nineteenth century, a Jesuit priest of New York, Father Kohlman, was called into court to testify. A couple were on trial for having received stolen goods. Father Kohlman was supposed to have knowledge of the matter through the confessional, for he had restored the stolen goods to the rightful owner. At court, the priest refused to testify, and was thereupon tried for contempt of court. However, he was not punished, and soon after a New York law was passed exempting priests from revealing in court any knowledge obtained in confession. Such a law, nevertheless, is far from universal, and the position of a priest who refuses to reveal confessional matter in a court of law is not secure.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Would it be A SIN FOR A PRIEST TO DIVULGE what he knew through someone's confession?

Yes, it would be a mortal sin for a priest to divulge even a venial sin which he knew through confession.

1. The penalty for violating the seal of confession is excommunication reserved to the Pope, besides severe ecclesiastical penalties. From time to time we hear of priests who apostatize, but never has anyone fallen so low as to break the seal of confession.

This incident happened in France during medieval times. The chaplain of a castle one night heard a knock at his door, and opening it saw a man, who said that he wished to go to confession. The chaplain heard the confession during which the man revealed that that same night he was to lead an assault against the castle, having been chosen to execute a plot. The chaplain tried to dissuade him, but in vain. Absolution having been denied him, the man departed.

The chaplain passed the night in an agony of dread. However, he remained at the castle, and told no one of what he had heard in the confessional, but prepared himself for death. At dawn he heard a knock, and admitted the man of the night before. The man said: “I wished to be convinced that priests really observe the seal of the confessional, for I am a great sinner. All night I watched to see whether you would inform others, or leave the castle to save yourself. Now I no longer doubt the secrecy of the confessional, and I want to confess all my wicked deeds.”

2. The penitent, however, may give the priest permission to make use of what he has revealed in confession. In that case the priest may do so, although he is advised to be most careful, in order to prevent unjust accusation concerning the secrecy of the confessional.

Enemies of the Church have constantly tried to attack the seal of confession, to break this rule of the Church. So far, by the grace of God Who watches over His Church, these enemies have failed.

ARE PENITENTS BOUND by the seal of confession?

Penitents are in no way bound by the seal of confession; but they are advised to refrain from talking about what the priest tells them in the confessional.

1. Penitents should avoid speaking about the advice given, the penance, etc.

One reason for this is that if we misunderstand or misrepresent what the priest told us, he has no way of defending himself. Besides, each penitent is different from the others. Advice or penance given to one may not be good for another.

2. If we overhear something being told in the confessional, we are strictly bound to secrecy.

ARE WE FREE to choose our confessor?

Yes, we are absolutely free to choose the confessor we like.

1. It is advisable to have a regular confessor. In this way he becomes well acquainted with our character and state of conscience, thus enabled to direct us better.

A confessor is like a physician. If a sick man consults a different physician every week and follows the directions of none, he cannot expect much improvement in health. Similarly, a penitent who moves from one confessor to another can hardly get the advice he needs.

2. We should choose a skilled confessor, and follow his directions faithfully. However, for the peace of our conscience, we should not hesitate to change confessors.

If we change confessors, we should never without necessity mention to the new one what our old confessors advised us. It might work an injustice to the previous confessor, who cannot defend himself.

3. Some, out of a false sense of shame before their ordinary confessor, are tempted to conceal a mortal sin. If they cannot overcome such shame, they should go and confess to another priest.

One should also remember that the priest, who represents Christ Himself, is bound by the seal of confession never to reveal anything told him in the confessional.

4. Those who are ashamed to confess to any priest must remember that one day they will have their sins revealed, to their eternal confusion, before all mankind. “I will show your nakedness to the nations, to the kingdoms your shame” (Nahum 3:5). Is it not better to reveal our sins now to only one man, who need not know the penitent, and is furthermore bound by the sacramental secret? Is it not better to confess them now to the priest, than burn in hell for all eternity?

God Himself said, “There will be joy in heaven over one sinner who repents, more than over ninety-nine just who have no need of repentance” (Luke 15:7).
During the time of the great persecutions, the confessors and martyrs remained constant and were cast into prison. Many were put to death. Others denied their faith to escape persecution; on these the Church imposed severe penances. However, if the confessors and martyrs interceded in behalf of the apostates, their time was shortened by the bishop. In other words, an "indulgence" was granted to them by the proper authority, in view of the superabundant merits of those who interceded for them.

156. Indulgences

What is AN INDULGENCE?

An indulgence is the remission granted by the Church of the temporal punishment due to sins already forgiven.

1. Our Lord gave the Apostles and their successors the power to deliver men from every obstacle that might separate them from heaven. Thus He said to St. Peter: "And whatever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven" (Matt. 16:19).

An indulgence does not take away sin. Neither does it take away the eternal punishment due to mortal sins. An indulgence can produce its effects in the soul only after sins are forgiven and, in the case of mortal sins, only after their eternal punishment is taken away. Many who are not Catholic wrongly understand an indulgence to be a permission to commit sin, or a pardon for future sin, or a guarantee against temptation. By an indulgence the Church merely wipes out or lessens the temporal punishment due to sins already forgiven.

2. Since Christ gave the Apostles the power and right to forgive sins, free men from hell, and lead them to heaven, He certainly also gave them the lesser power to free sinners from the temporal punishment due to sin, and save them from purgatory.

A civil ruler who has the right to pardon criminals is empowered to choose in what manner he will grant the pardon.

3. An indulgence is not a permission or license to sin. One who is not in the state of grace cannot gain an indulgence. It is simply a forgiveness or release from temporal punishment.
HOW does the Church BY MEANS OF INDULGENCES remit the temporal punishment due to sin?

The Church by means of indulgences remits the temporal punishment due to sin by applying to us from her spiritual treasury part of the infinite satisfaction of Jesus Christ and of the superabundant satisfaction of the Blessed Virgin Mary and of the saints.

1. In the Church there is a SPIRITUAL TREASURY made up of the superabundant merits of Our Lord, the Blessed Mother, and the saints. The merits of the passion and death of Our Lord are infinite, for He is God. All these He left to His Church.

2. When the Church grants an indulgence, it does not really cancel any expiation due to God. It only supplies for our deficiencies by drawing on the spiritual treasury of the Church, exercising the power of the keys given by Christ.

A mother had many sons and daughters. Some of them acquired great riches; before dying, they bequeathed their possessions to their mother, to be used as she pleased. She also had younger children who needed support and education. Once in a while, therefore, she withdrew money from the bank, where she had deposited the riches left her, and used it for her other children.

3. Divine justice requires an exact reparation for all sins we have committed. Usually the small penance of a few prayers imposed by the confessor is not sufficient to make satisfaction for our sins, which have outraged the holiness of God.

Besides, we are often careless, and have only imperfect contrition for our sins. Therefore, even after our sins are forgiven, there usually remains some temporal punishment which we have to suffer either here or in purgatory. If we use of indulgences, we draw upon the spiritual treasury of the Church, and thus balance our account with God.

THE CHURCH ALWAYS EXERCISED its right to grant indulgences to the faithful:

The practice of granting indulgences has evolved in the course of history. The present discipline has developed from the early practice of granting a shortening of the public penance imposed on certain sinners.

1. During the time of the great persecutions, the confessors and martyrs remained constant and were cast into prison, and many were put to death. Others denied their faith to escape persecution; on these the Church imposed severe penances.

However, if the confessors and martyrs interceded in behalf of the apostates, their time of penance was shortened by the bishop. In other words, an "indulgence" was granted to them by the proper authority, in view of the superabundant merits of those who interceded for them.

2. As the centuries passed, the Church moderated its severe penances. There was danger that, if penances continued to be very severe, many would be unable to fulfill them. In order, therefore, to save as many souls as possible, the Church made the penances lighter. Public penances ceased to be imposed; the penitent was permitted to make atonement by means of alms-deeds, crusades, or pilgrimages.

Hence the wider use of indulgences came about; and they were granted for works comparatively easy of accomplishment.

3. More and more indulgences came to be granted, as today they are granted, for reciting certain prayers, for visiting certain holy places, for fasting and almsgiving, for using certain sacred objects.

Thus, when the Holy Land came into the power of the Turks, and pilgrimages could no longer be made to Jerusalem, Pope Boniface VIII granted a plenary indulgence to all who, during the year 1300, should for 15 successive days visit the basilica of the Apostles in Rome. This was the origin of the jubilee indulgence.

What are SOME OF THE ADVANTAGES of indulgences?

1. They cancel or lessen our temporal punishment.

Thus those who neglect the practice of gaining indulgences may be likened to a traveler who prefers a long and difficult road although a short and pleasant one is offered to him.

2. They console us in our fear of God's judgment for our past sins, and give us hope for the future.

When we sin, they encourage us to make our peace with God, for a state of grace is necessary before we can gain any indulgence.

3. They encourage us to go frequently to the sacraments, and to do good works.

They enable us to practice charity towards the holy souls in purgatory.
In the early Church, the canonical penances were severe. Grave sins, such as apostasy, were punished with a penance of seven years. During all this time the penitent was excluded from the company of the faithful. He knelt at the entrance of the church, asking for the prayers of those that entered. He heard only the first part of the Mass, and was not permitted to receive Holy Communion. On fixed days during the period of his penance, he was obliged to fast on bread and water. But if those faithful interceded, the penitent was granted an indulgence; his penance was shortened.

157. Grant of Indulgences

What is a PLENARY INDULGENCE?

A plenary indulgence is the remission of all the temporal punishment due to our sins. It requires that one be actually free from all sin, even venial sin.

1. One who dies immediately after gaining a plenary indulgence goes straight to heaven, without having to pass through purgatory.

The good thief was granted by Our Lord a plenary indulgence, because of his perfect contrition of heart. To the other thief he said that they were receiving what their deeds deserved. 'And he said to Jesus, 'Lord, remember me when Thou comest into Thy kingdom.' And Jesus said to him, 'Amen I say to thee, this day thou shalt be with me in paradise'" (Luke 23:42-43).

2. If we should be unable to gain a plenary indulgence fully, by failure to fulfill all conditions exactly, we shall nevertheless gain the indulgence partially according to our dispositions.

Unless otherwise expressly stated, a plenary indulgence can be gained only once a day, even if the prescribed work be performed a number of times.

What are the “USUAL CONDITIONS” ordinarily prescribed for gaining a plenary indulgence?

The “usual conditions” ordinarily prescribed for gaining a plenary indulgence are (1) “confession,” (2) “Communion,” (3) “a visit to a church” or “public chapel,” and (4) “prayer for the intentions of the Pope.”
1. The "confession" required can be made within the eight days immediately preceding the day to which the indulgence is appointed. The "Communion" may take place on the previous day. Both conditions, "confession" and "Communion," may be satisfied on the day itself or within the following eight days.

Any number of indulgences may be gained by the application of the same "confession" or "Communion," provided the other works prescribed are accomplished severally.

2. Persons who are accustomed to go to confession at least twice a month can gain all indulgences, even without the actual confession prescribed. Daily communicants have the same privilege, even if Communion may by chance not be received once or twice during the week.

3. The condition of "visiting a church" or "public chapel" is fulfilled by entering the church or chapel with the intention of honoring God Himself or His saints and reciting the prescribed prayers.

The visit may be made from noon of the previous day up to midnight of the day appointed. Religious and those communities living like religious with their boarding-school students and personnel may make the visit in the chapel of the institution.

4. The "intentions of the Pope" usually refer to the welfare of the Church and religion. Unless otherwise stated, they include: (a) the exaltation of the Church; (b) the uprooting of heresies; (c) peace among Christian nations; (d) the propagation of the faith; and (e) conversion of sinners.

The requirement of "prayer for the intentions of the Pope" must be vocal, not mental, prayer. It is readily fulfilled by saying, in addition to the other works prescribed, one Our Father, one Hail Mary, and one Glory be to the Father.

What is a PARTIAL INDULGENCE? A partial indulgence is the remission of part of the temporal punishment due to our sins.

1. A partial indulgence is reckoned, like the public penitential discipline of old, in days and years. These periods of time must not be taken to mean a certain length of time in purgatory. They only mean that as much temporal punishment is remitted which, in God’s sight, would have been remitted in the early Church by a canonical penance of so many days or years.

For instance, when an indulgence of 300 days is granted, it does not mean to free a soul from 300 days' suffering in purgatory. It merely indicates that as much temporal punishment may be remitted as would have been remitted in the early Church by a canonical penance of 300 days.

2. As no one knows how much the penances of old satisfied God's justice, so we cannot now know how much temporal punishment is remitted by the corresponding partial indulgence.

WHAT MUST WE DO TO GAIN an indulgence?

To gain an indulgence we must "be in the state of grace," have at least a general intention of gaining the indulgence, and "perform the works" required by the Church.

1. To gain an indulgence a person must "be baptized," and "in the state of grace" at least at the end of the prescribed works.

2. We must "have the intention," at least in a general way, of gaining the indulgence. We do not gain an indulgence by accident, without wishing to gain one.

It is well in our morning prayers to make a general intention to gain all the indulgences possible during the day. It is not necessary to express the intention each time an indulgence is to be gained.

3. We must perform the works required by the Church. We must comply exactly with the particular conditions required, according to the prescribed time, place, and manner.

When vocal prayers are prescribed as a condition, the words must be pronounced with the lips, and not merely read or said mentally. However, indulgences attached to invocations or ejaculations can be gained by reciting them merely mentally.

Who has power to grant indulgences?

The Pope alone has the power to grant "plenary indulgences" as well as "indulgences" for the whole Church applicable to the living and in suffrage for the dead; archbishops and bishops can grant "partial indulgences" for the living only in their own dioceses.

Bishops and priests with special faculties from the Pope may attach indulgences to objects they bless. These objects thus blessed are as if they had been blessed by the Holy Father himself.
158. Indulgenced Prayers and Objects

What is the RACCOLTA?

The Raccolta or “Manual of Indulgences” is the authentic collection of prayers and devotional practices in English which have been indulgenced by the Sovereign Pontiff.

1. Each prayer or practice is numbered. Reference to the Manual found at the end of indulgenced prayers and devotions is indicated by the abbreviation “Rac.” and the number of the prayer or devotional practice: e.g., Rac. 679. There are nearly eight hundred prayers and devotions listed.

2. The name of the official edition of the Raccolta in Latin is “Enchiridion Indulgentiarum Preces et Pia Opera.” This is why in some devotional books the indulgenced prayers are indicated by “Enchiridion” or “Ench. 679,” instead of “Raccolta” or “Rac. 679.”

3. The Raccolta is indeed a precious prayer book and no Catholic home should be without a copy. Published by Benzinger Brothers, New York, N.Y., it can be purchased at any Catholic book store.

Why does the Church grant indulgences?

The Church grants indulgences acting towards us as a loving mother with her children. She knows that in spite of our good will, we often fail in our good resolutions. With the grace of God we may not be committing numerous grievous sins, but daily we contract more debts with God through our negligences, our countless venial sins and imperfections. The gaining of indulgences will enable us to pay off, at least, part of our debts with God, and shorten our purgatory.

Moreover, the Sacrifice of the Mass with Holy Communion is the greatest source of our spiritual life. Mother Church, by inciting us to gain many and valuable indulgences—treasure for our future life, leads us to their attendance, putting as condition of gaining the indulgences, that of “confession” and “Communion.” It would be a great mistake to believe that such devotions as “the Stations of the Cross,” “recitation of the Rosary and litanies,” “attending Novena prayers and benedictions,” are more efficacious and meritorious than the offering of Mass and receiving Holy Communion.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
PLENARY and PARTIAL INDULGENCES

may be granted (1), with no limitation as to the number of times we may gain them; (2), once a day; and (3), on specific days of the Ecclesiastical Year.

1. Indulgences that are granted with no limitation as to the number of times they may be gained are called "tottiesquoties"—as often as you recite the prayer or do the practice.

Nearly all partial indulgences are gained as often as we repeat the prescribed prayers or practices. For instance, the two shortest and most beautiful ejaculations: Jesus! Mary! By pronouncing with devotion either one of them we may gain 300 days of indulgence every time we do it (Rac. 119, 292). There are, however, a few plenary indulgences that may be gained "tottiesquoties"—as often as you do it. The pious practice of the Stations of the Cross, the visitation of a church on All Souls’ Day, are samples of plenary indulgences that can be gained "tottiesquoties."

2. Indulgences that can be gained only once a day are mostly Plenary indulgences with the four "usual conditions," specially that of "confession" and "Communion." Sample of such an indulgence is the "Prayer before a Crucifix" said after receiving Holy Communion (See page 421).

3. Indulgences granted on specific days, as on the First Fridays of the month, on August 2nd the Portiuncula Indulgence, and the "Jubilee Indulgences" once every 25 or 50 years.

EXAMPLE FOR GAINING the Plenary Indulgence of the Stations of the Cross.

This practice is given a Plenary indulgence as often as it is performed without the "usual conditions," especially that of "confession" and "Communion." It can be performed as often as we wish. If Holy Communion is received on the day itself we make the Stations, we gain an extra plenary indulgence.

To gain the indulgences of the Stations of the Cross, it is not necessary to say any vocal prayers. One must go from station to station meditating with a contrite heart on the sufferings of Christ. For example, as we give a glance to the stations representing the falling of Jesus under the weight of the cross, we think that He was suffering because of our repeated sins. It does not matter if we spend only a few minutes or half an hour to make the rounds of the stations; it is sufficient to meditate on the Passion and Death of our Lord, to gain the indulgences.

There are very many plenary indulgences that can be gained on specific days of the year, or by the recitation of certain prayers for a week, or a month, under the "usual conditions." They can be found in the Raccolta or in approved prayer books. Most partial indulgences for prayers are made plenary if such prayers are recited daily for a month, on the "usual conditions."

WHAT OBJECTS are commonly indulged?

Indulgences may be attached to crucifixes, medals, rosaries, statues, and similar objects, provided they are not made of very fragile material.

1. The object must be blessed by the Pope, or by a bishop or priest possessing the powers. The indulgence is lost if the object is more than half destroyed, or if it is sold, but not if the object is lent or given away.

2. More than one indulgence may be attached to the same rosary or crucifix. However, one and the same prayer will not avail to gain all the indulgences attached to any one object, unless expressly declared.

A rosary beads may have the following indulgences attached to it:

a) The "Crozier" blessing which grants an indulgence of five hundred days for each Our Father and Hail Mary that we say on the beads, even though we say only a few Hail Marys on it, instead of the whole rosary.

b) The "Dominican" blessing which enables us to gain another one hundred days on each bead.

c) The "Apostolic Indulgences" which are given also to crucifixes. One who is dying and has such a rosary or crucifix, and tried his best to confess and receive Communion, and if this was not possible, is sorry for his sins and with a contrite heart invokes the name of Jesus, may gain a plenary indulgence at the hour of death.

Can we gain indulgences FOR OTHERS?

We cannot gain indulgences for other living persons, but we can gain them for the souls in purgatory, since the Church makes most indulgences applicable to them.

1. An indulgence for the living means for the person who performs the good work. We cannot gain an indulgence for another living person.

2. The Church can grant indulgences for the dead, as an offering to God by way of suffrage, as an intercessory prayer for the departed souls. As we cannot know how much temporal punishment is remitted by any indulgence, still less can we know what value the indulgences we gain have, when applied to the souls in purgatory.

It is wrong, for instance, to say that we have freed a particular soul from purgatory by the recital of a certain prayer with a plenary indulgence. The efficacy of such indulgences depends on God’s response to the intercession offered. But can we doubt that He will listen to the entreaty of His Church, with the infinite treasury of merits that He Himself has made available?
By this holy anointing and His most loving mercy, may the Lord forgive you whatever wrong you have done by the use of your sight, hearing - - - -.

Thousands die every year without the benefit of the Sacrament of Anointing of the Sick. We should see to it that the very sick receive the Anointing of the Sick, to help them face their judge.

159. The Sacrament of Anointing of the Sick

What is Anointing of the Sick?

Anointing of the Sick is the sacrament which, through the anointing with blessed oil by the priest, and through his prayer, gives health and strength to the soul, and sometimes to the body, when we are in danger of death from sickness, accident, or old age.

This sacrament is called “ANOINTING OF THE SICK” because it is the sacrament of the sick. It is also called Extreme Unction (extreme = last; unction = anointing) not because it heralds death, but because the “anointing” of this sacrament is ordinarily “the last of the four anointings” we can receive at Baptism, Confirmation, Holy Orders and at last “Extreme Unction.”

1. It was to cure the sick and console the afflicted that Our Lord worked many of His miracles. The Gospels give us vivid pictures of Him as He went about doing good, preaching and “healing every disease and every sickness among the people” (Matt. 4:23).

“No, when the sun was setting, all who had sick with various diseases brought them to him. And he laid his hands upon each of them and cured them” (Luke 4:40). So today, Christ comes to us in the Sacrament of Anointing of the Sick, and, if it be for the good of our soul, cures us of our sickness, saying to us, as He did to so many long ago, “Arise, be thou made whole.”

2. When Our Lord first sent out the Apostles, they “cast out many devils, and anointed with oil many sick people, and healed them” (Mark 6:13).

These words from Holy Scripture foreshadow the Sacrament of Anointing of the Sick. Then, before His Ascension, Our Lord promised His disciples certain wonderful signs that should accompany and follow them that believed in Him: In My Name they shall cast out devils; . . . they shall lay their hands upon the sick, and they shall recover.”
3. It is a certainty that the Apostles conferred Anointing of the Sick, as directly recommended and promulgated for the use of the faithful in the Epistle of St. James.

"Is any one among you sick? Let him bring in the presbyters of the Church, and let them pray over him anointing him with oil in the Name of the Lord. And the prayer of faith will save the sick man, and the Lord shall raise him up, and if he be in sins, they shall be forgiven him" (James 5:14-15).

4. The outward sign is the anointing with blessed "oil" (the matter), at the same time that the "words" (the form) are pronounced: "By this holy anointing and His most loving mercy, may the Lord forgive you whatever wrong you have done by the use of your sight — hearing — smell — taste and speech — touch — power to walk.

(a) The oil used is called "Oil of the Sick." It is the first of the three Holy Oils blessed by the bishop in the cathedral church on Holy Thursday morning. The other two are: "Holy Chrism" and "Oil of the Catechumens" used in Baptism, Confirmation and Holy Orders. The "Oil of the Sick" is pure olive oil. As "water" in Baptism symbolizes "washing," in Anointing of the Sick "oil" does "healing."

(b) The priest anoints with blessed oil in the form of a cross the five sense organs: eyes, ears, nostrils, lips, hands and feet. The anointing of the feet or of any other organ may be omitted, if there is any special reason.

(c) In case of urgent necessity, the anointing is made on the forehead alone, using the short form.

5. Only a priest can administer the Anointing of the Sick, ordinarily the parish priest.

WHO should receive the Anointing of the Sick?

All Catholics who have reached the use of reason and are in danger of death from sickness, accident, or old age, should receive Anointing of the Sick or Extreme Unction.

1. As the primary purpose of the sacrament is to "restore" the soul weakened by sin and temptation, those who have never been capable of sinning cannot receive it. Hence idiots and children under the age of reason cannot receive the Anointing of the Sick.

As the danger of death must arise from within, soldiers going to battle, prisoners about to be executed, passengers on a ship about to sink, etc., cannot receive the sacrament. However, a soldier, if wounded in battle, can receive Holy Anointing.

2. The sacrament is ordinarily received only once in the same illness. If the person recovers, and falls sick once more, he may receive the sacrament again, even if the illness be the same disease.

The sacrament should be administered as soon as there is danger of death. Those attending sick persons should not wait till the person is actually dying before calling the priest. Generally, the restoration to health often worked by Anointing of the Sick is not produced miraculously, hence the reception of the sacrament must not be delayed.

3. Anointing of the Sick is a sacrament of the living. Hence the person must be in the state of grace. Before its reception, therefore, it is customary to go to confession unless unable to do so.

WHAT ARE THE EFFECTS of the sacrament of Anointing of the Sick?

1. An increase of sanctifying grace.

Anointing of the Sick acts spiritually, as oil does materially: it strengthens, heals, and aids the soul.

2. Comfort in sickness and strength against temptation.

It gives one graces to console him and strengthen him against temptation. He obtains resignation to God's will, fortitude to suffer, and trust in God's mercy.

3. Preparation for entrance into heaven by the remission of our venial sins and the cleansing of our souls from the remains of sin.

When the person does not recover, if he receives the sacrament with perfect dispositions, part, and even the whole, of the temporal penalties may be forgiven him.

4. Health of the body when this is good for the soul.

Anointing of the Sick frequently restores to health. Very often the peace of mind that follows confession, and the knowledge that Anointing of the Sick has reconciled one with God, react beneficially upon the body of a sick person and cause the restoration of his health.

5. Takes away mortal sin when the sick person is unconscious or otherwise unaware that he is not properly disposed, but has made an act of imperfect contrition.

An unconscious person may receive Anointing of the Sick. If he is guilty of mortal sin, and has atonion for it and falls unconscious before the arrival of the priest, Anointing of the sick will restore him to sanctifying grace. However, should he recover, he is bound to confess his sins thus forgiven.
160. The Last Sacraments

What are the LAST SACRAMENTS?

They are the sacraments administered to a person dangerously ill, and include "Confession," "Holy Communion" called "Viaticum," "Anointing of the Sick," and, if not received before, "Confirmation."

(a) "Holy Communion" when given in danger of death is called "Viaticum," a Latin word which means "something for the journey" like a travelling companion. When the priest administers Communion as "Viaticum," he says: "Receive, my brother (sister), this food for your journey, the Body of Our Lord Jesus Christ, that He may guard you from the malicious enemy and lead you into everlasting life."

(b) It is the wish of the Church that all her children, regardless of their age (babies as well as adults), may receive the sacrament of Confirmation when they are in danger of death, if they have not received it before. If a bishop is not available to administer Confirmation (he seldom would be), the Church grants this faculty to the parish priest of the patient or to the one in whose territory the patient is dwelling. Some chaplains of hospitals have this faculty.

(c) It is likely that the priest, before taking leave of the patient, will give "The Apostolic Blessing," called Papal, because given in the name of the Pope for the hour of death, by which the patient may gain a plenary indulgence.

1. The sick person first makes his "confession," then receives the "Holy Eucharist" in the Viaticum, and finally is given "Anointing of the Sick."

2. It is advisable to call the priest to visit the sick in any serious illness, even though there be no apparent danger of death. It is the priest’s duty to visit the sick and administer the sacraments they need.

"My son, when you are ill, delay not, but pray to God, who will heal you" (Sirach 38:9).
3. When a person is dangerously sick, we should call the priest to administer the Last Sacraments to him. It is very wrong to delay calling the priest till the person is already on the point of death. While his mind is clear, he can prepare for the Last Sacraments better, profit from them.

When Anointing of the Sick is given while the person is still strong, there is more likelihood of his recovering. We have a serious obligation, if we are taking care of a sick person, to call the priest the moment there is danger of death. To delay to call him is a great mistake, for actual observation has proved that a sick person is always more calm and peaceful after the visit of the priest. Except in cases of emergency, the pastor of the parish to which the sick person belongs, or the pastor’s curates or assistants, should be called to administer the Last Sacraments.

4. We can help a sick person by nursing and consoling him. Every day we should make with him and for him acts of faith, hope, and charity. Above all, we should help him feel absolute resignation to God’s will.

How should we HELP A SICK person prepare for the Last Sacraments?

We should help a sick person prepare for the Last Sacraments both spiritually and corporally.

1. Before the priest arrives we should help the patient get ready for his Confession.

2. The patient’s face, hands, and feet should be sponged with a wet towel.

There should be ready towards the foot of the bed, to the right, a table with a clean white cloth. On it should be a crucifix, two lighted candles, some holy water, and a glass of fresh water with a tablespoon. There should also be a clean napkin, a saucer with six balls of cotton, and a piece of soft bread, or one or two slices of lemon for the hands of the priest, for wiping off the anointing. A basin of water and a towel should be near by, so the priest can wash his hands after the anointing.

3. Upon the priest’s arrival, if he is carrying the Blessed Sacrament, we should meet him with a lighted blessed candle, in silence.

There are available in all Catholic book stores prayer books with instructions and the prayers for assisting the priest while administering the Last Sacraments.

HOW can we help a dying person?

We can help a dying person with prayer.

1. We should kneel near the patient’s bed and recite the prayers for the dying, which may be found in most prayer-books. We should suggest to him short ejaculations that he can easily repeat, at least in his mind.

It is a mistake to try to help a dangerously sick person by conversing on worldly topics or retailing gossip, or holding out false hopes of recovery.

2. The following prayer is enriched with a plenary indulgence at the hour of death: “O my God, I now at this moment readily and willingly accept whatever kind of death You may wish to send me, with all its pains, penalties, sorrows.”

A person in good health, who recites this prayer in the state of grace, after confession and communion, may gain a plenary indulgence to take effect at the hour of death.

3. During the agony, we should sprinkle the bed and the dying person with holy water. Those around should pray, instead of fussing, or showing too extreme grief.

The first thing which we can offer immediately to God in relief of the soul of a loved one is an act of resignation to His holy will. Let us humbly say, “Lord, Your will be done!” In those places where the beautiful custom is practiced, the “passing bell” should be ordered rung, in order that other Christians may pray for the departed soul.

IN CASE of sudden or UNEXPECTED DEATH, should a priest be called?

In case of sudden or unexpected death, a priest should be called always, because absolution and Anointing of the Sick can be given conditionally for some time after apparent death.

If a person is apparently dead and has not received the Last Sacraments, we should immediately call the priest. A person may continue to live two or three hours after death has apparently taken place, especially if it is sudden. In that case Anointing of the Sick will avail his soul.
1. The ceremonies for burial include services in the church. They vary from the very elaborate to the simplest. Holy water and lighted taper express our desire to see the departed cleansed and admitted into the kingdom of light. Incense symbolizes our wish to have prayers ascend to God.

2. The body of the departed Catholic is borne in procession to the cemetery. At a funeral it is wrong to laugh or converse; we should pray for the repose of the departed. The small card announces the best offering one can make to a bereaved family: Holy Masses for the soul departed.

161. Christian Burial

How should the BODY OF A DEAD person be prepared for burial?

For burial, the body of a dead person should be washed, dressed modestly, and laid out neatly.

1. Lay out the body in a dignified and becoming manner, but leave out all worldly vanity. Remember that that body is sacred; it was the temple of the Holy Spirit.

Many a Catholic in his last will requests his relatives and friends to abstain from extravagant expenses for his burial. He begs them to offer masses for the suffrage of his soul and be generous towards charitable institutions.

2. After the body is washed and clothed, place a crucifix between the folded hands on the breast. Set one or two lighted candles at each side of the coffin. The room should be as quiet as possible, in order that friends who can call may be able to pray.

It is well to ponder on the truth, as we look at a dead face without cosmetics, that we too will some day have to arrive at our journey's end, and stand before the throne of God divested of all worldly decorations and masks.

How should funerals be conducted?

Funerals should be conducted with dignity and devotion; they should not be extravagant and beyond the family means.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
1. Some have the tendency to have pompous funerals for dead members of their families, asserting that it is the last thing they can give for their dead. This feeling is understandable; but it certainly shows a lack of proportion if this generous feeling results in the payment of large amounts of money for expensive caskets and grand funeral coaches, while the offering of prayers and especially of Masses is neglected.

If a family has means, suitable offerings should be given to the priest who attended the deceased during his illness, and adequate fees paid for the funeral services. Donations should be made to the Church and alms given to the poor, for the repose of the soul of the deceased; charity and Masses will avail the dead person’s soul more than gold caskets and truckloads of wreaths.

2. There are very solemn services accompanied by many ceremonies. There are also very simple services. God will hear the prayers during the simple as during the elaborate ceremonies, according to the devotion of those who pray.

The body should be taken to the church for the blessing, and if possible should be present at a Requiem Mass. The ceremonial of the Church for funerals is touching and significant, and rightly understood will benefit the living as well as the dead. It is not an empty show designed to glorify the dead and express sympathy to the living; it is a devotion calculated to help the departed soul attain its eternal reward, as well as to teach salutary lessons to those left behind.

3. Those who accompany a funeral to the cemetery should observe great recollection, and a serious demeanor. The playing of “jazz” pieces by a band during the funeral is to be condemned.

Unfortunately some people follow funerals as if they were in a worldly function, talking aloud and gossiping. A salutary thought would be to reflect that they might be the next to go that way to the cemetery.

4. Catholics should be buried in a Catholic cemetery, if there is one; at least the grave should be blessed. Some day the bodies will rise in glory, and be united with their souls in heaven; is it befitting their high destiny to bury them like animal carcasses in unconsecrated ground?

Over the place of burial a cross should be erected or marked. Generally the letters R.I.P. (Requiescat in pace: May he (she) rest in peace) are engraved on the headstone. And here a word about graves and mausoleums. The holy St. Monica, mother of St. Augustine, said: “Bury this body wherever you please. One thing only I ask of you, and that is, remember me at the altar of the Lord.”

A simple grave, an elaborate mausoleum,—it is all the same to those departed. It is of course natural for those who can afford it to build mausoleums where all the members of the family can be buried together. What is to be avoided is the erection of ostentatious structures that appear more like gaudy showhouses than sepulchers of Christians. The cross should be prominent; the inscriptions, should be liturgical, not taken from popular songs or sentimental rhymes.

5. Non-Catholics, Freemasons, those excommunicated as deliberate suicides, duelists, and those who ordered their bodies cremated, are denied Catholic burial.

Let us remember: to spend money on showy mausoleums while holding the purse strings tight against charity would be contrary to right reason. Living relatives must not forget to pray, to have Masses said, to give alms to the poor, as an offering for the departed soul.

FROM WHOM should we seek consolation when someone dear to us dies?

When someone dear to us dies, we should seek consolation from God, Who is our eternal Healer, Comforter, and Father.

1. Nothing on earth can give lasting comfort to bereaved hearts. But if we live our faith, the death of a beloved one should not drive us into despair; for one who goes in God’s grace, “to die is gain,” to die is to attain eternal union with God. For the just who die, death is truly no more.

As Our Lord assures us: “I am the resurrection and the life; he who believes in me, even if he die, shall live; and whoever lives and believes in me, shall never die” (John 11:25-26).

2. To the bereaved, God in His infinite mercy extends, through our Mother Church, the consoling assurance of Purgatory. This knowledge bridges the chasm yawning between us and our dear departed; it makes us feel that death has not cut the bonds of love uniting us with them. Instead of desolation for our loss, we find succor for sorrow, and a practical expression of our affection in prayers and good works offered to God in behalf of our beloved dead, who may still be in purgatory.

This is one reason for the necessity of understanding thoroughly the doctrine of purgatory (see pages 156-159). As St. Paul said, “We would not, brethren, have you ignorant concerning those who are asleep, lest you should grieve, even as others who have no hope” (1 Thess. 4:13).

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Ordination to the priesthood takes place during the celebration of the Mass. After the deacons have prostrated themselves before the altar for the recitation of the Litany of the Saints, they individually kneel before the Bishop who imposes both hands on the head of each without saying any words. This "imposition of hands" is "the matter of the sacrament." After the imposition, the Bishop sings or recites a prayer that contains "the form of the sacrament." The words of the form, which are always recited, are: "We beseech You, Almighty Father, invest these Your servants with the dignity of the priesthood. Renew in their hearts the spirit of holiness, that they may hold the office, next to ours in importance, which they have received from You, O Lord, and by the example of their lives point out a norm of conduct." After this, they are no more deacons, but priests. The other ceremonies, such as touching the chalice and paten, the last imposition of hands, etc., are a liturgical dramatization of the powers conferred by the Bishop by the imposition of hands and the above form.

162. The Sacrament of Holy Orders

What is HOLY ORDERS?

Holy Orders is the sacrament through which men receive the power and grace to perform the sacred duties of bishops, priests, and deacons.

1. Our Lord Jesus Christ instituted this sacrament. At the Last Supper He gave the Apostles and their successors the power to say Mass. He said, after consecrating His Body and Blood: "Do this in remembrance of me" (Luke 22:19). Thus He gave the Apostles the power to offer the Sacrifice of the Mass.

2. On the day of the Resurrection Our Lord gave the disciples power to forgive sins. He breathed on them and said: "As the Father has sent me, I also send you.... Receive the Holy Spirit; whose sins you shall forgive, they are forgiven them, and whose sins you shall retain, they are retained" (John 20:21-23).

3. Finally, before the Ascension, Christ gave His disciples the mission to preach the Gospel and dispense the sacraments.

"All power in heaven and on earth has been given to me. Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you; and behold, I am with you all days, even unto the consummation of the world" (Matt. 28:18-20).
The Apostles consecrated Paul and Barnabas bishops, with prayer and the imposition of hands. In the same way St. Paul ordained Timothy. When the Apostles established churches, upon their departure, they ordained and appointed successors (bishops) to whom they gave full powers, and other ministers (priests and deacons) to whom they transmitted part of their powers. "For this reason I admonish thee to stir up the grace of God which is in thee by the laying on of my hands" (2 Tim. 1:6).

What are SOME of the preliminary SIGNS of a vocation to the priesthood?

First, that a boy or young man be capable of living habitually in the state of grace.

Those who are called by God to be priests ordinarily receive no special revelation to this effect. God expects all to use the gifts of reason and of grace in determining their state of life.

Second, that he be attracted to the priesthood and manifest the attraction by (a) a virtuous life, (b) a love of serving Mass, (c) frequent confession and Communion, (d) teaching catechism, (e) helping others to be good Catholics.

An aspirant to the priesthood will avoid such worldly affairs that may be unbecoming of the holiness of his vocation. He will not go to entertainments that priests do not attend, as noisy and late hour dances, and shows that are not approved. He will usually go out with companions of the seminary, or members of his family. If a seminarian during vacation should indulge in alcoholic drinks, or should start dating a girl, it would be a sign that he no longer intends to become a priest. All of us wish to have good priests to take care of our souls. It should be our concern to safeguard our young future priests. Many girls and young women, by their virtue and good example, have been the inspiration of a number of worthy sacerdotal vocations; unfortunately some others have been the devil's instrument of vocations going on to the rocks . . . when there is such a great need of priests.

Third, that he has a right intention to save his soul and the souls of others; that he has good health and sufficient ability to succeed in the studies of the seminary; and that his qualifications be accepted by the bishop.

What are some of the requirements, that a man may receive Holy Orders worthily?

That a man may receive Holy Orders worthily, it is necessary:

1. That he be in the state of grace and of excellent character. “Excellent character” implies good will and virtuous conduct, as well as good sense.

Good sense is needed if a priest is to do good to souls. The delicate functions exercised by a priest, especially as a judge of souls, would exclude from priesthood a person of an unbalanced disposition, or one who is wanting in prudence.

2. That he have the prescribed age and learning. To be ordained a priest, one must have completed his twenty-fourth year of age. The prescribed learning for the priesthood ordinarily consists of four years of college after high school, and four years of theology completed in a seminary.

A man must have a good mind in order to make successfully the studies for the priesthood. Besides, here in our country as elsewhere, the priest is almost always compelled to defend the doctrines of the Church from attacks of its enemies.

3. That he have the intention of devoting his life to the sacred ministry. This includes willingness to bear whatever burdens and difficulties Holy Orders may bring, for the love of God. It presupposes sincerity in the intention to devote his entire life.

No one should enter the priesthood because his parents have forced it on him. On the other hand, no one should abandon a desire to become a priest just because other people oppose it. One must enter the priesthood of his own free will, because he loves God and believes it is the best way to save his own soul, and other souls for Christ. It would be very wrong to become a priest just to assure oneself of a living.

4. That he be called to Holy Orders by his bishop. The bishop must be satisfied that the applicant has the virtue and the physical as well as mental fitness required and that he is free from all canonical irregularity. In general if a young man has good will, good health, a good mind, good sense, and a sincere desire to dedicate himself to the service of God, he has the qualifications necessary for the priesthood.

If the candidate's will is good, it is likely that with the blessings of God he will lead a useful life in His service, as His priest.

5. There are parents who oppose the vocation of their sons to the priesthood. Such parents are responsible before Almighty God for this opposition.

There have been cases where a boy who had a vocation to the priesthood was prevented from realizing his desire because of the opposition of his parents; later, the boy turned out badly, even living an immoral and criminal life.
As an introduction to Holy Orders, a candidate receives the tonsure. The minor orders follow: porter, lector, exorcist, and acolyte. Then come the major orders: subdeacon, deacon, and priest. Finally, at his consecration, a bishop receives the fullness of the priesthood.

163. Minor and Major Orders

Which are the MINOR ORDERS?

The minor orders are the lower ranks of the clergy, through which aspirants are prepared to receive the holy priesthood: porter, lector, exorcist, and acolyte.

1. Minor orders were instituted by the Church in the early days when men of outstanding merit performed certain offices. They are not a sacrament, but only preparatory steps to major orders.

   For the minor orders the symbols of office are handed over to the aspirant, with accompanying words constituting the form. Given to the (a) PORTER is a key, with the right to guard over the church doors; (b) LECTOR, a book with the right to read certain passages of Holy Scripture when ordered by priest or bishop; (c) EXORCIST, the book of exorcisms, with the right to exorcise evil spirits; and (d) ACOLYTE, a candlestick, with the right to carry lights and give wine and water at Holy Mass.

2. Before minor orders, a man is constituted a member of the clerical state through the ceremony of tonsure, in which hair is cut from his head in the form of a cross, while he recites a verse from the Psalms to signify that he is dedicating himself to the service of God.

   By the TONSURE a cleric is incardinated or assigned to the diocese to which he will belong upon his ordination. He may not change to another diocese without the consent of his bishop and the bishop of the diocese to which he wishes to transfer.

Which are the MAJOR ORDERS?

The major orders are the higher ranks of the clergy: subdeacon, deacon, and priest.

1. The SUBDIACONATE is still a preparation for the sacrament of Holy Orders, and is of ecclesiastical institution. A subdeacon is pledged to perpetual celibacy and the daily recitation of the Divine Office.

2. The DIACONATE is the first or lowest degree in the sacrament of Holy Orders. The deacon receives sacramental grace.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
3. The priesthood is the second or middle degree in the sacrament of Holy Orders.

By his ordination, the priest has the greatest power on earth, that of offering the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, when he speaks Christ's words: "This is my Body . . . This is my Blood." With the approval of the bishop he may administer solemn Baptism, Extreme Unction, and upon receiving the necessary jurisdiction, he can administer the sacraments of Penance and Matrimony, and also Confirmation to those in danger of death from serious illness.

4. The episcopate, the highest degree in the sacrament, is the fullness of the Holy Orders, which gives the power of administering the sacrament of Holy Orders.

A new bishop is consecrated by a bishop assisted by two other bishops, called "co-consecrators." The essence of the order of bishop consists in the power to ordain priests and to consecrate other bishops. Abbots and some priests may be given the faculty to administer Confirmation and give minor orders, but only and exclusively a bishop can ordain deacons and priests and consecrate a bishop.

WHO IS THE MINISTER OF THE SACRAMENT OF HOLY ORDERS?

The minister of the sacrament of Holy Orders is the bishop.

The sacrament is administered by means of ceremonies that vary with the kind of orders conferred. It consists in the sign of the imposition of hands by the bishop, together with the accompanying words of ordination, varying with each respective order being conferred.

THE EFFECTS OF THE SACRAMENT OF HOLY ORDERS ARE:

1. An increase of sanctifying grace.

One of the purposes of God for calling a man to the sacred ministry is to have him offer the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. This is a most high office, for the accomplishment of which God surely gives grace, and more grace.

2. Sacramental grace, by which bishops, priests, and deacons have God's constant help in their sacred ministry.

The duties of God's ministers are innumerable and difficult; they must have sacramental grace. And God, Who knows this well, certainly furnishes all necessary graces by the sacrament of Holy Orders.

3. A character, lasting forever, which is a sharing in the priesthood of Christ, and which gives special supernatural powers.

Once a man is ordained deacon, priest, consecrated bishop, he is a deacon, a priest, a bishop forever. The sacrament imprints an indelible mark in the soul; it cannot therefore be repeated.

THE NEED FOR PRIESTS

"Jesus was going about the towns and villages, preaching the gospel and curing the sick. And seeing the crowds, He was moved with compassion, because they were deplored like sheep without a shepherd. He said to His disciples: 'Indeed, the laborers are few. Pray the Lord of the harvest to send laborers into His harvest'" (Matt. 10:35-37).

1. The laborers (priests) still are few. Christianity is not possible without priests. Chiefly because there are not enough priests, less than a third of the world is Christian.

Many good Catholics who know their religion cannot receive the sacraments because there is no priest to administer to them. Insufficient instruction for lack of priests causes others to become indifferent. Such traditionally Catholic areas as Latin America, the Philippines, and even Italy suffer from a scarcity of priests.

2. In the United States there are 825 counties, exceeding the combined areas of France, Germany and Great Britain, which are entirely without priests. Nearly 100 cities with 5,000 population or more have no resident priest. And in the missions? In vast India there is but one priest for every 80,000 people. In other countries there are still fewer.

3. What can we do about it? Our Lord said, "Pray the Lord of the harvest to send laborers." We have His assurance that He will be with us always, and that we have but "to ask and it shall be given us." So if we lack priests the fault is ours. We are not praying in the right way, or not using the means God provides, or both.

It would be false to say that young men do not become priests because of the many temptations of modern life. It would be equivalent to say that God is not fulfilling His promises. God will send us priests if we pray with absolute confidence and cooperate with Him. Perhaps we are not using the right methods according to our times to recruit more candidates to the priesthood. It must be a combined effort of all of us. Prayer, work and sacrifice. "Lord, increase our faith. Send us priests. Hear us, O Lord!"
Rubrics are rules for the proper execution of the services of the Church, for the exact conduct of any liturgical function. The rubrics of the Church are contained in the Missal, Breviary, Ritual, Pontifical, and Ceremonial. In books, rubrics are printed in red, for clearness and distinction.

The chief liturgical books of the Western Rite are six:

- The Missal contains all the prayers and ceremonies used for Mass, for each day of the year.
- The Breviary is the priests' prayer book, containing the Divine Office without chant.
- The Ritual contains all the services needed by a priest which are not in the Missal or Breviary, such as the administration of the sacraments.
- The Pontifical and Ceremonial are the Bishops' books. They contain the rites for episcopal functions such as Pontifical Mass, Confirmation, ordinations, consecration of altars, etc.
- The Martyrology is an enlarged calendar giving names and short accounts of the lives of the principal saints commemorated on each day of the year, in different parts of the Catholic world.

164. Powers and Duties of Priests

What are the Chief Supernatural Powers of the Priest?

The chief supernatural powers of the priest are: to change bread and wine into the body and blood of Christ in the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, and to forgive sins in the sacrament of Penance.

1. The Eastern Orthodox priests have received their orders from validly ordained bishops.

Therefore, even though they are not united to the Catholic Church, they have the power to say Mass. If they should return to the unity of the Church, they are not re-ordained.

The Ritual contains all the services needed by a priest which are not in the Missal or Breviary, such as the administration of the sacraments.

The Pontifical and Ceremonial are the Bishops' books. They contain the rites for episcopal functions such as Pontifical Mass, Confirmation, ordinations, consecration of altars, etc.

The Martyrology is an enlarged calendar giving names and short accounts of the lives of the principal saints commemorated on each day of the year, in different parts of the Catholic world.

The priests who apostatize, or are suspended or excommunicated still remain priests. They retain the power, although not the authority and jurisdiction, of priesthood. For example, they have the power of saying a true Mass, although they would sin grievously if they do so. However, they cannot forgive sin, except in the case of the dying; absolution is a judicial power, and needs jurisdiction.

2. Unlike the Orthodox and Old-Catholic churches, no Protestant denomination has validly ordained bishops or priests.

A number of these denominations call some of their ministers "bishops," but they are so only in name—unless some individual minister obtained valid orders from a schismatic bishop.

"Know God Better to Love Him More"
WHAT are the chief duties of a priest?

The chief duties of a priest, besides living in celibacy, and reciting the Divine Office daily, vary in accordance with the position held.

A priest is ordained for the exclusive service of God, that is, for the salvation of souls: his talents, his time, his very life belong to His service. St. Paul says: "He who is unmarried is concerned about the things of the Lord, how he may please God. Whereas he who is married is concerned about the things of the world, how he may please his wife; and he is divided" (1 Cor. 7:32-33).

1. The priestly vow of celibacy is taken when a man is received into the subdiaconate. Catholic priests of the Western Rite are not married, in imitation of Christ Himself. The Apostles, after they were called to the ministry, left all they had. Elias, Eliseus, Jeremias, and St. John the Baptist, lived in celibacy.

Celibacy is the glory of the Catholic Church. It is an ecclesiastical law and this is why the Church may and in fact does grant a dispensation, as it does with priests of some of the Catholic Eastern Rites, and in very special cases, with priests of the Western Rite.

2. The duties of a parish priest are many, varied, and of great responsibility.

As shepherd of his flock, he is responsible to God for the souls committed to his care. Preaching and teaching Christian doctrine is a primary duty of his. He must visit his parishioners in order to know them and their spiritual needs. He must find out if any new Catholics have moved into the limits of the parish, if all his parishioners have been married in Church, if the children go to a Catholic school or at least receive religious instruction and if the faithful come to Mass on Sundays and holidays. He hears confessions and is always ready for a sick call and the administration of the last sacraments. The parish priest must promote the various parochial organizations, like the Holy Name Society, Catholic Action, Legion of Mary, Sodalities of Our Lady, etc. The temporal administration is also part of his duties; he must see that the church, school, convent buildings, the cemetery if there is one, are properly cared for. One of the duties closest to his heart should be the custody of the Most Blessed Sacrament of the Altar.

3. Priests who are "not parish priests" assist pastors in their manifold duties and works, teach in seminaries, schools and convents. Following the instructions of their bishop, they attend to all sorts of undertakings that have as their end the glory of God and the salvation of souls.

The parishioners knowing of all the duties and responsibilities of their priests, should love them all the more, pray for them and assist them in the performance of their difficult task. Different sodalities and organizations should take care of the church and sanctity, of the choir, altar boys, of the poor and needy, of the sick and aged, of the unemployed. Parishes are the backbone of the Church.

What is THE DIVINE OFFICE?

The Divine Office is the service which all priests and certain other clerics, as well as many religious, are obliged to recite in private or chant in choir daily. It constitutes the official public prayer of the Church.

1. It is contained in the Breviary, and includes prayers, psalms, hymns, canticles, extracts from Holy Scripture, lives of saints, passages from writings of the Church Fathers, and the most important prayers. The 150 Psalms of the Bible, usually recited within a week, make up the substance of the Divine Office.

Every priest is obliged to say the entire Office of the day within the 24 hours of that day. Matins may be anticipated after 2 p.m. of the previous day, but no part may be put off for another day. In prescribed and fixed order, the Breviary is usually printed in one, two, or four volumes, and adapted to the four seasons of the year.

2. Divine Office is divided into eight parts called canonical hours. Daily about three quarters of an hour is spent by priests, clerics and religious to say it, and also by some of the laity who laudably recite it in the vernacular.

The canonical hours are arranged in such a manner as to sanctify the different hours of the natural day. This is why it is recommended to recite them as close as possible at their own hour. Such is done in many monasteries and Cathedrals, an act of public homage solemnly chanted in choir.

These are the Canonical hours:

Matins, the longest hour, usually of nine psalms and three lessons, originally recited before dawn, and now with just reason, anticipated the evening before.

Lauds, the morning prayer.
Prime, said at the "first hour," at sunrise, 6 a.m.
Terce, said at the "third hour," at 9 a.m.
Sext, said at the "sixth hour," at noon.
None, said at the "ninth hour," at 3 p.m.
Vespers, said as the evening service.
Compline, meaning "completion," said at bedtime.

Changes in the recitation of the Divine Office have been discussed at the first session of the Ecumenical Council. The result of these discussions will be known during the second session. What an edifying sight it will be to see priests and people together, reciting in the spoken language the official prayers of Mother Church before the Blessed Sacrament at least on some occasions!
Priesthood is the highest dignity on earth. The dignity of a priest surpasses that of emperors, and even of angels. No angel can convert bread into the Body of Christ by the mere power of his word; nor can any angel forgive sin. The priest stands between God and man. He is God's representative, God's ombossodar. Therefore whatever honor we pay to the priest, we render to God Himself. St. Francis of Assisi said that if he met an angel and a priest at the same time, he should salute the priest first.

165. Dignity of Priesthood

WHY should Catholics SHOW REVERENCE and HONOR to the priest?

Catholics should show reverence and honor to the priest because he is the representative of Christ Himself, and the dispenser of His mysteries.

1. The dignity of a priest is higher than any earthly dignity, for he is the representative of God. He has power that the most powerful civil rulers do not possess. The humblest priest by his word can call down God upon the altar and convert bread and wine into the Body and Blood of Christ. He can say to the sinner, "I absolve thee," and the sinner's soul is saved from hell. Not even the Blessed Virgin possessed the power to forgive sins, to grant absolution that erases the very guilt of sin.

2. We owe the priest reverence due to his dignity as representative of Christ. Even if a priest's life does not correspond with the requirements of his office, we should give respect; this we offer to his office.

The priest is "alter Christus"—another Christ. Our Lord calls him "a city built upon a hill," the "salt of the earth." He is in the world, but not of it. St. Francis of Sales said of priests: "I will close my eyes to their faults, and only see in them God's representatives."

3. When we meet a priest, we should salute him: women and girls should bow, and men and boys should raise their hats.

We should not gossip about the priest, even if we should notice something we do not like in him; to calumniate a priest is sacrilege. One who lays violent hands on a priest is excommunicated.
What is the Pontifical Work FOR PRIESTLY VOCATIONS?
It was established by Pope Pius XII in 1941 under the auspices of the Roman Sacred Congregation of Seminaries and Universities for the following purposes:

a) To intensify among the faithful, by every means, but particularly through the lay organizations in the dioceses, the desire of promoting, safe guarding, and assisting ecclesiastical vocations;

b) To disseminate the right knowledge of the dignity and necessity of the Catholic priesthood;

c) To unite the faithful of the whole world in communion of prayers and pious practices for priestly vocations.

Many indulgences and spiritual favors are granted to all the members of this Pontifical Work.

What are the “Serra Clubs?”
The “Serra Clubs” are organized groups of Catholic business and professional men with two main purposes: 1) to foster and assist in the education of young men for the priesthood; and 2) to further Catholicism through enduring friendships among Catholic men.

These two purposes are vital for the Church. The Serra Clubs constitute the “Serra International,” now formally aggregated to the Pontifical Work for Priestly Vocations. Catholic business and professional men who are able should become members of a Serra Club in their locality. There are more than 200 clubs in the United States. Its name was taken from Father Junipero Serra, the noted Spanish Franciscan missionary in the West.

How can we help TO HAVE MORE PRIESTS?
First, by prayer. Our Lord commanded us to “pray the Lord of the harvest to send forth laborers into His harvest.” Second, by joining at least one of the various associations of the diocese to promote priestly vocations. Third, by assisting at least one young man to become a priest.
166. The Sacrament of Matrimony

What is THE SACRAMENT OF MATRIMONY?

Matrimony is the sacrament by which a baptized man and a baptized woman bind themselves for life in a lawful marriage, and receive the grace to discharge their duties.

1. God instituted matrimony in the Garden of Eden, when He created Adam and Eve. "For this reason a man leaves his father and mother, and clings to his wife, and the two become one flesh" (Gen. 2:24).

Before the coming of Christ, matrimony was a sacred contract, but not a sacrament. Our Lord raised matrimony to the dignity of a sacrament.

At the marriage feast at Cana Christ worked His first miracle, thus manifesting the holiness of the married state. In the marriage contract, God has made a natural relation a means of grace for Christians. Our Lord instituted special sacraments for two states of life: the Priesthood and Matrimony; from this fact we may deduce the importance He attached to these states of life. By the sacrament of Matrimony God grants the contracting parties grace to bear the difficulties of the married state, and to sanctify their common life for God's glory and the salvation of their souls.

2. The sacrament of matrimony consists in the mutual expression by both contracting parties of their free consent to take each other as husband and wife.

This is the main act in the marriage ceremony. Without it, no marriage takes place. After this mutual consent is expressed, even if something should interrupt the rest of the ceremonies, the couple are validly married.
3. The ministers of the sacrament of matrimony are the contracting parties themselves, the bridegroom and the bride. The priest is the witness authorized by the Church to be present and bless the union.

This is because marriage is a contract, and they who make the contract therefore must perform the marriage. In Baptism, the one who baptizes, and in the other sacraments, the bishop or priest, is the minister; but in Matrimony the bride and groom are the ministers, one conferring the sacrament on the other.

God created Eve's body from the body of Adam. This was to show the perfect equality and union that should exist between husband and wife, who by marriage become "two in one flesh."

WHY is every TRUE MARRIAGE between a baptized man and a baptized woman A SACRAMENT?

Every true marriage between a baptized man and a baptized woman is a sacrament, because Christ Himself has raised every marriage of this kind to the dignity of a sacrament.

1. A marriage between baptized non-Catholics, if contracted in a valid way, is always a sacrament, and is so recognized by the Church. It can be broken only by the death of one of the parties.

The Church does not recognize the "marriage" of divorced baptized non-Catholics whose previous partners are still alive. Such unions are a sin, and not true marriage.

2. A marriage between two unbaptized persons, although not a sacrament, if contracted validly, is recognized valid by the Church, and is indissoluble. In the case of a marriage between two unbaptized persons, if one were later baptized in the Church, the marriage can be dissolved by the "Pauline privilege."

The conditions are: if the unbaptized party refuses to live with the Catholic, or to dwell peacefully with the Catholic, the baptized one may have the marriage dissolved and be free to marry a Christian. This power of the Church is based on St. Paul: "If any brother has an unbelieving wife and she consents to live with him, let him not put her away. And if any woman has an unbelieving husband and he consents to live with her, let her not put away her husband. . . . But if the unbeliever departs, let him depart. For a brother or sister is not under bondage in such cases" (1 Cor. 7:12-15).

WHAT IS NECESSARY to receive the sacrament of Matrimony worthily?

To receive the sacrament of Matrimony worthily, it is necessary (a) to be in the state of grace, (b) to know the duties of married life, and (c) to obey the marriage laws of the Church.

1. The parties to a marriage should be in the state of grace, because matrimony is a sacrament of the living. They should receive Holy Communion at their Nuptial Mass, to implore God's blessing on their union.

2. The contracting parties should understand well the purpose of the state which they are about to enter. The first purpose of God in instituting matrimony was to populate the earth, and raise up souls who would fill heaven with saints. He said to Adam and Eve: "Be fruitful and multiply; fill the earth and subdue it" (Gen. 1:28).

In matrimony a man and his wife take part in the work of the Creator, giving life to a deathless soul. If the married would ponder this fact, they surely would not neglect their duties towards their children, to "rear them in the discipline and admonition of the Lord" (Eph. 6:4). "As the sapling is bent, so is the tree inclined." Even wild beasts take the utmost care of their young, but certain modern parents in the pursuit of amusements neglect the proper upbringing of their offspring.

What are THE CHIEF EFFECTS of the sacrament of MATRIMONY?

1. An increase of sanctifying grace.

Matrimony is a sacrament of the living and must be received in the state of grace. But it increases the sanctifying grace already possessed by the recipient, so that he becomes more pleasing to God.

2. The special help of God for husband and wife (a) to love each other faithfully, (b) to bear with each other's faults, and (c) to bring up their children properly. This is the special sacramental grace obtained from the reception of the sacrament of Matrimony.

Besides the aim of bringing children into the world, God also instituted marriage for the mutual support of husband and wife. Before Eve was created, God said: "It is not good that the man is alone; I will make him a helper like himself" (Gen. 2:18). In Matrimony grace is needed—and grace given—for the proper exercise of its many functions: the begetting and bringing up of children, mutual exchange of love, fidelity, and comfort, maintenance of the family. For all these and other duties of the married, Matrimony is an unending source of grace.
1. Every Catholic family should have the Holy Family of Nazareth, Jesus, Mary, and Joseph, as their model, and live in holiness and mutual love.

2. Every family should preserve the custom of having family prayers in a unity of worship. The family that prays together stays together.

167. Duties of Married Life

What IS THE CHIEF DUTY of husband and wife in the married state?

The chief duty of husband and wife in the married state is to be faithful to each other, and to provide in every way for the welfare of the children God may give them.

1. Husband and wife must comfort and support each other in the activities of their common life, in the fulfillment of their duties individual as well as mutual, in all important matters, both spiritual and material. "Now they are no longer two, but one flesh" (Matt. 19:6).

The wife needs the husband to lean upon; the husband needs his wife to comfort and care for him. The man is the breadwinner and the head; the wife is the queen and mother. In true Christian marriage there is no question of selfishness, competition, or superiority between the spouses, for they two are "one flesh."

2. Husband and wife must be faithful to their marriage vows; they owe fidelity to each other. They ought very carefully to avoid even the appearance of unfaithfulness, for where jealousy is awakened, conjugal felicity ends. They should bear with each other's faults and infirmities, and not ruin their home life by dissensions.

The wife will influence her husband for good more effectually by silence, meekness, and prayer, than by nagging and scandalous scolding. The husband should remember that his wife also needs companionship; he should not be away long.

3. The spouses should always live together, and have a real Christian family life. They must however remember that all marital relations must be in accord with divine and natural law in the "faithfulness of chastity."

Their affection should not be purely human, but holy and supernatural, in accordance with the purpose of their state, which was instituted by God. "For we are the children of saints: and we must not be joined together like heathens that know not God" (Tob. 8:5).

4. For its type and model, marriage has the Mystical Union between Christ and His Church. The husband should love his wife as Christ loves the Church, with a holy and supernatural love, as his own self. The wife should love and obey her husband as the head of the family.

"Husbands, love your wives, just as Christ also loved the Church" (Eph. 5:25). "Wives, be subject to your husbands, as is becoming in the Lord" (Col. 3:19). In explaining the meaning of this latter passage, Pius XI in his Encyclical on Christian marriage says: "This subjection does not take away the liberty which fully belongs to the woman both in view of her dignity as a human person, and in view of her most noble office as wife and mother and companion; or does it bid her obey her husband's every request, even if not in harmony with right reason or the dignity due her as a wife. . . . But it forbids that exaggerated liberty which cares not for the good of the family; it forbids that in this body which is the family, the heart be separated from the head, to the great detriment of the whole body, and the proximate danger of ruin. For if the man is the head, the woman is the heart, and as he occupies the chief place in ruling, she ought to claim for herself the chief place in love."

WHAT are the DUTIES of the married AS PARENTS?

It is the grave obligation of parents to provide for their children and to train them in the love and fear of God. (See also pages 218-219, "Duties of Parents.") The best legacy they can leave their children is the love of God.

The religious training of the child depends mostly on the mother. A mother who spends her time gossiping with her neighbors, going from one social function to another, or engaging herself in useless amusements to the neglect of her children, has much to answer for before God.

The primary purpose of marriage is the begetting and rearing of children in the fear and love of God, in order that they may join Him in heaven some day.

Is artificial BIRTH CONTROL immoral?

Artificial birth control is immoral, contrary to both natural and divine law.

Artificial birth control is the prevention of conception and birth by the use of drugs, medications, instruments, devices, cleansing and other means to prevent the normal performance and fulfillment of the act of sex. Since it is against natural law and contravenes the primary purpose of marriage, it is morally wrong not only for Catholics, but for everyone.

Although the primary purpose of marriage is the procreation and education of children, the obligation is an affirmative one and an individual couple may be excused from it temporarily or permanently for proportionate reasons. After Pope Pius XII affirmed the obligations of spouses in the state of matrimony to provide for the conservation of the human race, he continued in his "Allocation to Midwives" . . . "Serious motives, such as those which are frequently present in the so-called 'indications'—medical, eugenic, economic, and social—can exempt from this positive, obligatory prestation for a long time, even for the duration of the marriage. Hence it follows that the observing of the sterile periods can be licit from the moral viewpoint." When reasons exist in married life for family limitation, the only morally acceptable course is continence, periodic or permanent. There is a vast difference between frustrating nature in contraception and not using one's marital rights in the exercise of continence.

Therefore, a married couple capable of practicing rhythm and with mutual consent, may do so for serious reasons. The act is normally performed. The failure of conception, in any particular instance, is attributable to a condition of nature. Excusing causes have relieved the couple of their affirmative obligation to procreate. At times it may be advisable to seek competent spiritual and medical advice.

Is ABORTION evil?

Direct abortion is evil, a grave sin, contrary to the law of God; indirect abortion may be permitted.

1. Direct abortion is committed when the fetus is intentionally removed from the mother's womb before it is able to lead a separate life, even if this were done in the very earliest period of pregnancy. Direct abortion is equivalent to murder; those guilty of it, or who cooperate either physically or morally, incur excommunication.

Direct abortion cannot be permitted even to save a mother's life. If the fetus or the baby is killed purposely because by not doing so the mother might die, that is direct abortion.

2. Indirect abortion may occur when although not intended, the death of the fetus follows some operation or other treatment performed on the mother. Such treatments and operations are permitted only when it is certain that both mother and child would otherwise die. In such cases the child must receive Baptism.

In order to be certain of circumstances, a conscientious Catholic physician should be consulted.
Henry VIII, king of England, asked the Pope to grant him a divorce from his lawful wife, Catherine of Aragon, so that he might marry Anne Boleyn. The king had rendered valuable services to the Church. If the Pope refused, England would surely be plunged in heresy.

But Pape Clement VII stood firm. Not even to save England far the Church could he break God's law. The only reply he gave was: "Non possimus; I have no authority to set aside the divine law."

As a result, Henry VIII abandoned his obedience, and intent on his evil desires and yielding to his passions, he revolted from the Church. This was the beginning of the Protestant Church of England.

168. Divorce

WHY does THE BOND of the sacrament of Matrimony LAST UNTIL THE DEATH of husband or wife?

The bond of the sacrament of Matrimony lasts until the death of husband or wife, because Christ has said: "What therefore God has joined together, let no man put asunder."

1. Christian marriage is a union between only one man and one woman. God created only one man and one woman in the beginning; there was unity in marriage.

Under the Mosaic Law divorce was in some cases permitted, to avoid greater evils, because after the Fall the primitive revelation had become obscured to men. But when Christ came, He withdrew this permission absolutely, and restored marriage to its original unity, saying:

"Have you not read that the Creator, from the beginning, made them male and female, and said, 'For this cause a man shall leave his father and mother, and cleave to his wife, and the two shall become one flesh? Therefore now they are no longer two, but one flesh. What therefore God has joined together, let no man put asunder. . . . Moses, by reason of the hardness of your heart, permitted you to put away your wives; but it was not so from the beginning" (Matt. 19:4-8).

2. Christian marriage is a sacred and holy state pleasing to God. St. Paul compares it to the mystical union between Christ and His Church. As Christ is one, and the Church is one, so marriage is between one man and one woman. As Christ and the Church are inseparably united, so marriage is indissoluble. It makes the contracting parties "two in one flesh."

St. Paul said: "This is a great mystery—I mean in reference to Christ and the Church" (Eph. 5:32). Christ is the head of the Church; so is the man the head of the wife. The Church is subject to Christ; so must the wife be obedient to her husband. Christ never abandons the Church, and the Church is always faithful to Christ; so a man and his wife must be faithful to each other.

3. The important object of marriage is to provide for the proper upbringing of children. This could not be attained if divorce were permitted.

What would become of children if parents were free to separate at their leisure? Court records show that many youthful criminals come from the broken homes of divorced parents. Divorce destroys the family and will some day, if not arrested, destroy the State.

4. If the indissoluble character of Matrimony is well understood, even should—as may often happen—husband and wife disagree, their tendency would be to make up, not to rush to the divorce court.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Divorce

NO POWER ON EARTH CAN BREAK A CHRISTIAN MARRIAGE.

1. The indissolubility of marriage is not a law ordained by the Church, but by God. The Church cannot and will not tamper with the laws of God. As St. Paul said:

"To those who are married, not I, BUT THE LORD, commands that a wife is not to depart from her husband, and if she departs, that she is to remain unmarried, or be reconciled to her husband. And let not a husband put away his wife" (Cor. 7:10, 11).

2. Not even to avert the most serious calamities can the Church sanction divorce. When Nicholas I was Pope, the King of Lorraine, Lothaire II, had the Emperor Louis send an army to Rome to frighten Pope Nicholas into giving him a divorce from his wife. But the Pope did not grant the divorce.

Napoleon the Great appealed to Pope Pius VII to annul the marriage which his brother Jerome had contracted with Miss Patterson of Baltimore. The Pope sent the following reply after minute investigation: "Your Majesty will understand that upon the information thus far received by Us, it is not in Our power to pronounce a sentence of nullity. We cannot utter a judgment in opposition to the rules of the Church, and We could not, without laying aside those rules, decree the invalidity of a union which, according to the Word of God, no human power can sunder."

3. A non-conssummated marriage between two baptized persons or between one baptized and another unbaptized, is dissolved either by the solemn religious profession of either party, or by papal dispensation for very grave cause.

In contrast to the attitude of the Popes on divorce was the action taken by the Protestant "reformers," Luther, Melancthon, etc., when Philip, Landgrave of Hesse, wished to have two wives at the same time. For sixteen years Philip had been married to Christiana, daughter of the Duke of Saxony, and the couple had been blessed with several children. Soon after the Protestant outbreak, Philip became attracted to Margaret Sial, a maid of honor in his household. He did not, however, apply for a divorce from the Protestant leaders, but wished them to sanction another marriage, so that he might have two wives, Christiana and Margaret, at one and the same time.

The Protestant "reformers" gave this answer to Philip: "If Your Highness is resolved to marry a second wife, we judge that it should be done privately. . . . Thus all opposition and scandal will be avoided. Still, we ought not to be anxious about what the world will say, provided the conscience is at rest. Thus we approve of it, and Your Highness has, in this writing, our approbation."

What is DIVORCE?

Divorce is a legal separation of married persons; as generally understood today, it is a complete severance of the marriage bond giving the parties the right to marry other persons.

1. Our Lord lifted marriage from the natural to the supernatural level, making of it a holy sacrament. And this consummated sacramental marriage can never be dissolved, except by the death of one of the parties; there can never be such a thing approved by the Church as divorce.

The marriage of unbaptized persons is not sacramental, though it may be valid. The valid marriage of two baptized persons is always sacramental, whether they be Catholics or non-Catholics. For this reason the valid marriage of two baptized non-Catholics performed in the authorized manner is always a sacrament. This is easily understood when we remember that neither pastor nor official is the minister of the sacrament of Matrimony; they do not really confer the sacrament. The contracting parties are themselves the ministers, and confer the sacrament upon each other.

2. Christ definitely and strictly forbade the cutting, the breaking of the marriage bond. Nobody can misinterpret His meaning: "Everyone who puts away his wife and marries another commits adultery; and he who marries a woman who has been put away from her husband commits adultery" (Luke 16:18).

3. The bond of the sacrament of matrimony lasts until the death of husband or wife. Christian marriage is indissoluble, except by death. Divorce—that is, the breaking of the marriage bond, with the right to remarry—is never permitted. By the law of God, the bond uniting husband and wife can be dissolved only by death.

"And he said to them: 'Whoever puts away his wife and marries another, commits adultery against her; and if the wife puts away her husband and marries another, she commits adultery'" (Mark 10:11-12).

169. Church Laws on Marriage

Why has the Catholic Church alone the RIGHT TO MAKE LAWS regulating the marriages of baptized persons?

The Catholic Church alone has the right to make laws regulating the marriages of baptized persons, because the Church alone has authority over the sacraments, and over sacred matters affecting baptized persons.

1. The Church alone has authority over holy matters. The Church is the guardian, the custodian of the sacraments, the means of grace for men. On this account, the Church must safeguard these sacraments.

God assigned to secular governments the duty to administer material things; but to His Church He gave power and authority over spiritual matters. "Render, therefore, to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's."

2. Marriage is not only a sacrament, but also a contract. The Church, therefore, may interfere with this contract, by laying down laws; just as the civil government rules certain civil contracts binding, or null.

What authority has THE STATE regarding the marriages of baptized persons?

Regarding the marriages of baptized persons, the State has the authority to make laws concerning their effects that are merely civil.

1. The State may make laws about the aspects of marriage that are purely material, such as laws regarding the filing of the marriage contract, laws about the conjugal property, laws about income tax exemptions according to the number of children a married couple have.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
"What therefore God has joined together, let no man put asunder" (Matt. 19:6). By these words Christ Our Lord restored marriage to its original unity and indissolubility; so that there is no power on earth that can dissolve a marriage that has been validly contracted and consummated. The civil divorces granted by the State to Christians, giving them a right to remarry cannot be recognized by the Church. The State has no right to legislate in contradiction to divine law.

2. Catholics should, however, obey the State laws on marriage as long as these do not contradict laws of God or the Church. But if some laws are not exactly according to Catholic principles, Catholics should work to have better laws, suited to the full exercise of their religious obligations.

What is the ORDINARY LAW of the Church to be observed AT THE WEDDING of a Catholic?

The ordinary law of the Church to be observed at the wedding of a Catholic is this: A Catholic can contract a true marriage only in the presence of an authorized priest and two witnesses.

1. The laws of the Church require a Catholic to be married in the presence of the parish priest, or the bishop of the diocese, or a priest delegated by either of them, and before two witnesses. Catholics are absolutely prohibited from contracting marriage except before a priest of the Church and two witnesses.

(a) In danger of death marriage may be contracted validly and licitly before two witnesses, if the parish priest or his delegate cannot be had without grave difficulty; even if there is no danger of death the same may be done, provided it is foreseen that the above condition will last for a month. Thus the couple are truly married and receive the Sacrament of Matrimony.

The action should be written down, signed, and the documents given to the bishop or pastor when he comes. No Catholics should take this unusual step except for an extraordinarily grave reason.

(b) If any other priest is available, even if he is not the pastor or the coadjutor, he must be called to assist at the marriage; but the marriage is valid even if contracted before the two witnesses alone.—(Canon 1098.)

2. No Catholic can be married outside the Church. Catholics who go through the form of marriage before a civil official, such as a justice of the peace are not married.

They have merely made a civil contract. Therefore, if they live together as man and wife, they sin against the Sixth and Ninth Commandments. Their legal contract may save them from jail, but it will not save them from hell. If they have children, these are registered as illegitimate in the baptismal records.

3. If Catholics attempt to marry before a non-Catholic minister, they not only commit sin, but they are excommunicated from the Church. They are not married.

They are excluded from the sacraments, may not be godparents for baptism and confirmation, and may not receive Christian burial. Their excommunication lasts until they go to confession, receive absolution from the bishop, and get married before a Catholic priest, if they are to live as spouses.

4. A priest in his own diocese may perform the marriage ceremony outside his own parish only with the permission of the parish priest or bishop of the place.

A Catholic who has dwelt within the limit of a certain parish for a month is considered as belonging to it; also if he has a real place of abode in it, with the intention of remaining.

When does the Church declare a separation of a validly married couple?

The Church declares a separation of a validly married couple for very grave cause, such as adultery, heresy, threats on the life of either, etc.

1. The separation declared by the Church does not cut the valid marital bond; neither of the parties may marry again till the death of the other. Should the cause cease, they must live together again.

The wronged party should obtain the sanction of the bishop before separation. The need of separation will rarely arise when both husband and wife are good practical Catholics who seriously considered the responsibilities of matrimony before embarking upon it, and who did so with prayer and the blessings of the Church. Who has trusted in God and found Him deaf to supplication?

2. The only "divorce" permitted in the Catholic Church is a separation, with no right to marry anyone else.

Not that the Church forces a couple who cannot agree in peace to continue living together. As far as separation includes property rights, Catholics are required to obtain ecclesiastical permission to start proceedings for a civil divorce. Once the divorce is granted, if the marriage had been a consummated sacramental bond, the contract remains in every other way; and neither of the parties can enter into marriage with another person.

170. Impediments to Matrimony

What are impediments to matrimony?

Impediments to matrimony are obstacles to the validity or lawfulness of a marriage.

1. Impediments to matrimony are certain restrictions imposed by the law of God or of the Church which render a marriage contract invalid or unlawful if such restrictions are violated when entering into the marriage. Such obstacles are called “impediments.”

Whenever circumstances incompatible with the sacrament or contract of Matrimony exist, the Church has established impediments for the welfare of society and the protection of the matrimonial bond.

2. When impediments exist, the Church either completely forbids the administration of the sacrament, or requires special assurances that the dangers may be reduced as far as possible; in this latter case, a matrimonial “dispensation” is granted.

Non-Catholics can marry validly among themselves, since the Church enforces its laws only among those under its care. If baptized non-Catholics marry validly, their marriage cannot be dissolved.

Two Kinds of Impediments:

1. DIRIMENT (also called annulling or nullifying) impediments render an attempted marriage altogether null and void, invalid. Dispensations are only rarely granted for diriment impediments. Should an attempt at marriage be made without dispensation there is no marriage.

   Such an invalid marriage must be either dissolved, or the impediment removed by a dispensation, and the marriage performed validly. If a marriage is dissolved, the contracting parties are free to marry other partners, if they so wish.

2. PROHIBITIVE (also called impediment or hindering) impediments render a marriage unlawful, illicit, but valid. The marriage cannot be dissolved.
3. It is important to distinguish "illicit" from "invalid." Diriment impediments make an attempted marriage invalid, of no effect, not true; in short, no marriage. Prohibitive impediments make a marriage illicit, unlawful, forbidden; but it is valid, a true marriage, and cannot be dissolved.

As an example of the difference between "invalid" and "illicit": Except in case of necessity a Catholic lay person is forbidden to baptize a baby. If he does so, the Baptism is illicit, but it is valid; and the baby is truly baptized.

The Chief DIRIMENT Impediments are:

1. An existing marriage. One who is already married cannot marry again while the other party is still living. This impediment is never given a dispensation.

Should someone, believing his spouse dead, contract another marriage, he must immediately leave the second spouse if the first be discovered living.

2. Coercion. In marriage, the contracting parties must give their consent freely. If either party is forced to marry against his will through abduction, violence, fear, etc., the impediment is annulling, and there is no marriage.

Parents and others who use coercion to force someone into a marriage against his will are grievously guilty before God. However, the marriage is valid if in spite of his dislike for the other party a person freely consents to marry, for other motives.

3. Lack of age. Boys under sixteen and girls under fourteen cannot enter into marriage (See page 223, 2nd column, No. 3. "We are bound to obey civil just laws ..." Legal age is considered one, if above the canonical age).

4. Blood relationship or consanguinity.

The Church forbids the marriage of close relatives in order to enforce the respect due to blood relations, and to prevent the birth of physically and mentally defective children, often found resulting from such marriages.

5. Close affinity. This means relationship by marriage. The survivor cannot marry the blood relations of his dead spouse.

In the direct line, as a stepdaughter or mother-in-law, no dispensation is granted. In the collateral line the impediment extends to the second degree, and may be dispensed.

6. Holy orders or solemn vows. Men who have received major orders, monks and nuns who have taken a solemn vow of chastity, cannot contract a valid marriage.

7. Disparity of worship. This is marriage between a Catholic and an unbaptized person.

If a Catholic attempts to marry an unbaptized person without a dispensation, his marriage is null. Examples of the unbaptized are: Hindus, Mohammedans, Jews, Buddhists, Shintoists.

8. Spiritual affinity. Without dispensation, sponsors in Baptism cannot marry their godchildren. A lay person cannot marry the person to whom he administered lay baptism.

9. Legal relationship. Those who by civil law are incapable of contracting marriage by reason of a legal relation arising from adoption are incapable, by Church law, of a valid marriage.

This impediment partakes of the nature of the civil impediment which conditions it: it is prohibitive, where the civil impediment is prohibitive, and diriment or annulling, where the civil impediment is diriment.

10. Other impediments. There are other impediments which those who wish to get married should know. They should inquire from their pastors or confessors about these.

Among other diriment impediments are crime, error, impotency, public propriety, imbecility, and clandestinity.

The Chief PROHIBITIVE Impediments:

1. Forbidden times (see page 365).

2. Simple vows. Simple vows of virginity, chastity or celibacy, a vow to enter a religious order or become a priest, are impediments.

3. Mixed religion. The marriage of a Catholic to a baptized non-Catholic, is a prohibitive impediment which, without dispensation, renders the marriage valid, but illicit, unlawful. Such a marriage, being valid, cannot be dissolved.

For example, without a dispensation, a Catholic man marrying a baptized non-Catholic (such as a member of the Orthodox Church), before his parish priest contracts a valid but illicit marriage. Being valid, his marriage cannot be dissolved. But to make the marriage lawful and not a sin, a dispensation must be secured. This kind of marriage must be clearly distinguished from Disparity of Worship (see above), which is a diriment impediment, making an attempted marriage void.
Dispensations from Matrimonial Impediments

Does the Church have THE AUTHORITY TO EXCUSE or GRANT DISPENSATIONS from all impediments?

The Church can grant dispensations only from such impediments as arise from its own laws, but not from such as arise from divine or natural laws.

1. Impediments of the natural law, which is only part of the divine law, are unchangeable, and cannot be given any dispensation. An example is the marriage of parent and child, or of a married person whose spouse is still living.

2. Dispensations are granted when there is sufficient reason or need. The bishop and the parish priest have the authority to investigate each case.

3. Not all impediments are granted dispensation with equal ease. Prohibitive impediments are more easily granted dispensations than diriment ones. Very rarely can a dispensation be obtained from solemn vows or from major orders, when one of the contracting parties is unbaptized, or when the proposed marriage is between such close blood relations as uncle and niece, aunt and nephew.

4. In order to discourage unnecessary seeking after dispensations, a fee is required. These fees help to maintain the matrimonial courts established to safeguard marriage.

Matrimonial dispensations are granted (a) in favor of a contemplated marriage, or (b) to legitimize one already contracted. The poor are granted dispensations without charge.

MIXED MARRIAGES

1. A marriage between a Catholic and a non-Catholic baptized Christian, and a marriage between a Catholic and a non-baptized person are both called "mixed marriages."

2. For a marriage between a Catholic and a non-Catholic baptized Christian, there is a "prohibitive impediment."
   For a marriage between a Catholic and a non-baptized person, there is a "diriment impediment." The differences between these two kinds of impediments are explained on pages 362 and 363.

3. The Church forbids its members to marry non-Catholics because such marriages may bring family discord, neglect, indifference and even loss of faith on the part of the Catholic. It also happens that the religious training of the children is neglected.
   The non-Catholic may wish to practice "birth control" or is liable to a "divorce" and contract another marriage according to his or her church principles.

4. The Church grants a dispensation for a "mixed marriage" under these conditions:
   a) the non-Catholic must promise not to endanger the faith of the Catholic. Divine law forbids mixed marriages as long as there is danger to the faith of the Catholic or of the children;
   b) the Catholic must promise to give good example and pray that God bring them closer together in one faith;
   c) the Catholic and non-Catholic must promise to have all children born of the marriage baptized and reared as Catholics.

5. The Church shows its disapproval of "mixed marriages" even after a dispensation has been granted. The banns are not published, the Nuptial Blessing at Mass not given, a permission is needed to have the ceremony in the church.

Does the Church allow Catholics to marry during LENT and ADVENT?

The Church allows Catholics to marry during the so-called "closed seasons" of Lent and Advent, provided they do so quietly and refrain from pomp.

It is an error to think that the Church prohibits the contracting of marriage on any day of the year. It merely prohibits celebrations or signs of rejoicing that do not harmonize with the spirit of the penitential seasons, that is, during Lent and Advent.

1. (a) MARRIAGE can take place any day of the year.
   (b) NUPTIAL MASS is not permitted on all Sundays and on liturgical days of 1st class. There are about thirty such days.
   (c) NUPTIAL BLESSING AT MASS may be given on any day except on "All the Faithful Departed Day" November 2nd and during the Sacred Triduum, i.e., Holy Thursday, Good Friday, and Holy Saturday. The nuptial blessing is given during Mass by the priest who offers it; it is omitted if the spouses are not present or have already received it.

The "closed season of Lent" is from Ash Wednesday to Easter Sunday inclusive, and the "closed season of Advent" from the 1st Sunday of Advent to Christmas inclusive. During these two penitential seasons, the Church wishes the faithful to avoid setting a date for the celebration of their marriage. However, if there should be a "just reason" for it, she expects the parties to refrain from too much pomp. Thus, noisy banquets, balls and dances would be out of place.

2. During "closed seasons" the permission of the bishop is required for the celebration of a solemn marriage, that is, with nuptial Mass, or at least the nuptial blessing during Mass.

WHEN does the Church DECLARE A MARRIAGE NULL?

The Church declares a marriage null when, after detailed investigation, the facts prove that from the very beginning there had been no marriage; there had been no validity.

NULLITY declares that no marital bond had ever existed; this is not to be confounded with divorce, which is a juridical act cutting an existing and valid marital bond.

When a marriage is annulled, since therefore there has been no real matrimony, the parties to the invalid contract are set free to marry other partners; or they may regularize the marriage by a valid ceremony. When the Church annuls a marriage, declaring it invalid, the parties may apply for a civil divorce, with the permission of the ordinary.
It is a sin for parents to discourage, oppose, or prevent their child's lawful desire to choose a state of life for himself. The first picture shows the father of St. Therese of the Child Jesus, giving her his blessing before she entered Carmel. Parents whose children have a religious vocation should imitate this good father. And those whose children choose to enter the married state should bless them likewise, as Our Blessed Mother must surely be blessing the newly-wedded pair above, who offer the bridal bouquet at her feet. Their preparatory period of courtship was ruled by prudence.

172. Courtship and Engagement

What is the purpose of COURTSHIP?

Courtship is a time of preparation for marriage, the time of choosing a life partner; it requires prudence and wisdom.

1. It is only when persons have reached the proper age and are so situated as to be able to bear the responsibilities of the married state, that courtship should engage their attention. Then the man and women may frequent each other's company, in order to discover whether they would make suitable companions for life.

   Boys and girls still in school should devote their time to their studies and such things appropriate to their age, as games and innocent entertainments. It is altogether out of place for young people to neglect their studies in order to waste their time in boy-and-girl affairs.

2. It is proper for a man to pay his attentions to several women at the same time, and for a woman to receive such attentions from several men at the same time.

This is precisely because courtship is the time of choosing, to discover who will make the most suitable partner for life.

Adolescents of high school age cannot expect to marry for several years. By "going steady" they place themselves in a proximate occasion of sin. No Catholic boy or girl is so virtuous as to be free from any danger of sin. Parents who consent their children to go out unchaperoned, as to an open-air theatre and other such places, and those who go, are certainly guilty before God. Courtship or "dating" should be carried on without secrecy; young women should beware of men who keep their "love affairs" a secret.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
3. The length of the period of courtship should be between six months and two years, no longer. Marriage is a serious and sacred responsibility, and should not be rushed into under the influence of a physical attraction or passion. But courtship, when the prospective partners are so often in each other’s company, should not be greatly prolonged, to avoid possible serious consequences.

"Marry in haste, repent at leisure," says a wise adage. Runaway marriages are generally scandalous, even sinful; at any rate they are strong temptations to sin. And so are prolonged courtships.

WHAT SHOULD GUIDE THE CHOICE during courtship?

One should make sure that the person he or she wishes to marry is a practical Catholic, and possess the character to make a good companion and helper in life.

1. The person chosen should have the mental and spiritual qualifications necessary for the permanent partnership, the dispositions to harmonize with the prospective partner’s.

The only way to make sure of marrying a Catholic is to have dates with no others but Catholics. This rule must have no exception. If Catholic young men date only Catholic young women, and Catholic young women only Catholic young men, the problem of "mixed marriages" will be solved. We are very careful before buying a new house or a new car and even a suit of clothes. Should we be less wise in choosing a companion for life? "A wife is her husband’s richest treasure, a helpmate, a steadying column" (Sirach 36:24).

2. One can better judge the character and virtues of a future spouse at church and in the home than on the floor in ballrooms. The advice "Choose your partner at the communion rail" is very sound.

An accomplished young lady was engaged to marry a prominent young man. The day before the wedding, a party was given at the house of the young lady. The conversation turned towards religion; the young man spoke with open contempt of all beliefs, boasting that he was an "open-minded" person of the 20th century and free from all "medieval notions" and "priest-invented" ceremonies.

The young lady, shocked beyond measure, gently protested, begging him not to speak in such a manner. But he laughed at her, saying that he meant every word he said and more, and that she would soon enough unlearn her "religious nonsense."

The young lady then said, "I cannot marry a man who does not respect God and religion, for he surely will not respect his wife." Thus the engagement was broken, and a worthy young lady freed from a life that would have been an agony and a danger for her.

3. It is wrong and foolish to marry for beauty, riches, or honors alone. We should rather seek, and chiefly seek, the quality of the person’s soul.

After all, beauty, riches, and honors pass quickly. They may even be lost on the day of the marriage. But a good soul is beautiful in the sight of God and lives forever.

What is ENGAGEMENT, or betrothal?

Engagement, or betrothal, is a mutual promise of marriage, implying marriage at an early date.

An engagement should not last longer than a few months. As soon as the promise to marry is made, a definite date for the wedding should be set.

1. It is the duty of young people to consult their parents about their wedding. In cases where parents are extraordinarily unreasonable, young people should consult their confessor about the matter. Generally, the parents are right about the good or bad prospects of a proposed marriage.

2. The engagement may be formally entered into by a contract in writing signed by both parties, with the parish priest or Bishop, or two others, as witnesses. Such a formal engagement should be encouraged, especially in cases where hasty alliances are feared.

3. During both the courtship and the engagement, the couple should respect each other’s virtue, and avoid undue familiarities; this is a pledge of a chaste and happy married life. The best preservative of virtue is God Himself; and so those preparing for marriage should frequent the sacraments of Penance and Holy Eucharist.

Everything between an engaged couple should be aboveboard. They should reveal to each other frankly everything pertaining to their financial status, social relations, and matters related to health. In this way they prevent future quarrels and misery.

If after some time either party becomes seriously convinced that the marriage would be a mistake, the engagement should be broken off. Human respect or other considerations should not be permitted to jeopardize future happiness.
Those who enter matrimony should imitate the good dispositions of Tobias and Sara (3), who began their married life with prayer, and lived each day in the presence of God.

Before receiving the sacrament of matrimony, the couple should make a very good confession (1), in order to be in the state of grace. At the Nuptial Mass, they should receive Our Lord (2), so that He may honor their wedding with His Divine Presence.

173. Preparations for Marriage

WHAT SHOULD A COUPLE DO who have decided to get married?

A couple who have decided to get married should separately appear, with baptismal certificate, before the parish priest of the bride, for the canonical examination.

1. This should be done not less than a month before the projected marriage, to allow time for the calling of the banns. With hand on the Gospels, the contracting party swears that the truth is being told; he then replies to the questions asked by the priest.

The main questions concern dispositions for the reception of the sacrament: the Baptism, First Communion and Confirmation of the contracting party, and impediments. A careful interrogatory is made to find out if both parties are free from marriage bond; and to make sure they intend to enter a permanent marriage, one that cannot be dissolved by divorce or any other way except by death. Should there be any impediments, a dispensation, if possible, has to be arranged. Should there be diriment impediments that cannot be given a dispensation, the marriage cannot take place.

2. The canonical examination makes sure that the contracting parties know what they are doing, and do it of their own free will. In this way the Church shows its solicitude for its members; every possible precaution is taken in order that all may enter the state of matrimony fully prepared and safeguarded.

After the canonical examination the marriage license should be secured, and other requirements of the State complied with, such as blood tests, etc.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Christian marriage is a holy union, blessed by God, between one man and one woman. It is an indissoluble and pure relation, like the union between Christ and His Church.

As the priest says to the man at the end of the Taledana marriage ritual, "I give you a companion, not a servant; love her as Christ loves His Church." The union is for life, for better or worse.

What are the "BANNS OF MATRIMONY"?

The banns of matrimony are a public proclamation of an intended marriage, made at the principal Mass on three successive Sundays or festival days, in the church or churches of the bride and groom.

1. The purpose of the banns is to discover impediments, to avoid secret marriages, and to furnish those interested an opportunity to intervene, should they wish to do so. Dispensation from banns is granted for urgent reasons.

2. If either party has lived, after reaching canonical marriageable age, for six or more months away from the community in which the marriage is to be celebrated, the bishop may also require the publication of the banns in the other place or places.

With the approval of the ordinary, the banns, instead of being read out, may be posted at the church door, or published in the parish weekly bulletin.

3. If anyone knows of any impediment to a proposed marriage, he is bound in conscience to make it known to the pastor; otherwise he is guilty of sin.

Ordinarily, the marriage is not performed till three days after the last bann.

WHAT does THE MARRIAGE CEREMONY INCLUDE?

In its fullness, the marriage ceremony includes: the nuptial contract, the nuptial Mass, and the nuptial blessing.

1. Matrimony is both a sacrament and a contract. In all other sacraments the ordinary minister is of the clergy; in Matrimony, because it is a contract, the ministers are the parties concerned, the bride and groom.

When the man and woman first offer themselves to each other for marriage, the first condition of a contract is fulfilled. When the offer is accepted, the second condition is fulfilled. And in the ceremony of Matrimony, when the man and woman give free and mutual consent, the contract is sealed. The contract is consummated when the rights mutually exchanged are first exercised.

2. The words in the marriage ceremony by which the man and woman express mutual consent to take each other as husband and wife constitute the essential part of the sacrament; they seal the marriage contract.

The priest is present only as the representative of the Church, a necessary witness for the safeguarding of the marital contract, and to implore God's blessing on the pair. He is really only the most important of the witnesses, the intermediary of Mother Church.
370
My Catholic Faith

The main act of the sacrament of matrimony is the expression of mutual consent. After this act the couple join hands (2), and the priest blesses them with holy water (1). The contracting parties hear the Nuptial Mass, receiving Holy Communion. By this act of uniting themselves with Jesus in the Holy Eucharist, they invite Him to their wedding, to bless them, as the couple in Cana did long ago. During the Mass the Nuptial Blessing (3) is given. “May this her yoke be one of love and peace.”

174. Rite for the Sacrament of Matrimony

HOW can Catholics BEST OBTAIN GOD’S BLESSING on their Marriage?

Catholics can best obtain God’s blessing on their marriage by being married at a Nuptial Mass, and by receiving Holy Communion devoutly.

Marriage rites are not the same throughout the Church; the following is the ceremony now used in our country.

1. Entrance into the church and access to the altar.

The bridegroom and bride go to the altar with their parents or friends simply or in solemn procession. All participants should be aware of the presence of the Most Blessed Sacrament in the tabernacle and behave accordingly. If Mass is to be said, the bridal party take their proper places in specially prepared pews. This is the only occasion when lay people are permitted to remain in the sanctuary.

2. Prayer and Instruction before Marriage.

The priest stands at the foot of the altar, while all kneel, and prays a short invocation asking for the blessing of God. He then delivers a sermon, or reads the instruction before marriage.

3. The Sealing of the Marriage Bond.

All stand facing the priest. The bridegroom stands to the right of the bride.

Addressing the man by name, the priest asks, “N., will you take N., here present, for your lawful wife according to the rite of our holy Mother, the Church?” He replies, “I will.”

Turning to the bride, the priest asks: “N., will you take N., here present, for your lawful husband according to the rite of our holy Mother, the Church” she replies, “I will.”

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
Having understood the mutual consent of both parties, the priest instructs the couple to join hands. He then places the end of the stole around their hands and, turning first to the groom and then to the bride, says: "Say after me, 'I, N. N., take you, N. N., for my lawful wife (husband), to have and to hold, from this day forward, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, until death do us part.'"

4. Confirmation of the Marriage Bond.

The priest, in Latin, pronounces the words of sanction and blessing: "I join you in matrimony: In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, Amen." As he speaks, he makes over the couple the sign of the cross. Then he says: "I call upon all of you here present to be witnesses of this holy union which I have now blessed. What God has joined together, let no man put asunder." After this he sprinkles them with holy water.

5. Blessing and Giving of the Wedding Rings.

The priest saying a short prayer blesses the rings, symbol of faithfulness, and sprinkles them with holy water. He then addresses the groom and bride: "Now that you have sealed a truly Christian marriage, give these wedding rings to each other, saying after me:

The groom accepts from the hand of the priest the ring for the bride, puts it on the third finger of the bride’s left hand while repeating the words of the priest: "In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit, Take and wear this ring as a pledge of my fidelity."

The bride likewise receiving the other ring, repeats the same words while putting the ring on the third finger of the groom’s left hand.

The priest recites "Psalm 127", the "Our Father", some "versicles and a prayer". Then extending his hands over the bride and groom, he says five beautiful "invocation prayers of blessings." At the end he adds: "Through our Lord Jesus Christ His Son, Who lives and reigns with Him in the unity of the Holy Spirit, God, world without end." R/. "Amen."

7. The Nuptial Mass and Blessing.

The priest offers the Nuptial Mass for the married couple. The Nuptial Blessing is given during the Canon of the Mass, after the "Pater Noster." It is directed to the woman, rather than to the man. On only one other occasion (when the bishop blesses the holy oils at the Chrism Mass on Holy Thursday) is the Canon of the Mass thus interrupted at its most solemn part. This is part of the prayer for the bride: "May this yoke that she is taking on herself be one of love and peace."

8. The Farewell.

After the Mass, the priest says to the spouses: "Go in peace, and may the Lord be with you always." They reply: "Amen."

The married couple may now kiss together the wife’s "wedding ring," reciting devoutly: "Grant us, O Lord, that loving You we may love one another and live in accordance with Your holy law" (300 days indulgence).

MASS OF THANKSGIVING for the 25th and 50th Wedding Anniversary

Married couples should consider their Wedding Day as one of the most important and cherished in their lives.

It is a refreshing custom for both on every anniversary of their wedding, to go to Mass and receive Holy Communion together in thanksgiving of the graces received. If possible, they should keep that day all for themselves, as if they had just been married: a "one day honeymoon."

The Church approves of such a celebration. For the occasion of the Silver and Golden (25th and 50th) Wedding Anniversaries, there is a "Mass of Thanksgiving."

This Mass is of the same class than that of bishops and priests celebrating their consecration or ordination anniversary. The Mass may be either in honor of the Most Holy Trinity or of the Blessed Virgin Mary. If so desired, the couple with their children, families and friends, may walk together to the sanctuary. The pastor or celebrant may address a few words for the occasion followed by the Mass. After the last Gospel, special prayers of thanksgiving are recited by the priest and the blessing given. At the end, as on the Wedding Day, the priest says: "Go in peace, and may the Lord be with you always." They reply: "Amen."
On his First Communion Day, when seven years old, St. Dominic Savio made some resolutions. Frequent confession and Holy Communion, friendship with Jesus and Mary, death rather than sin were among them. Stepping-stones to Christian perfection, they enabled him, by heroic example, to lead others to love God and neighbor. His pledge to die rather than sin was put to the test when he prevented two youths from offending God by anger which gave vent to stoning each other. Crucifix in hand, Dominic offered himself as their victim. Moved to contrition by his courage and piety, the two enemies were reconciled. The virtuous example of his short life shows us that we should start from childhood to strive for Christian perfection, and to help others to shun sin and love God.

175. Christian Perfection

SHOULD WE BE SATISFIED MERELY to keep the commandments of God?

We should not be satisfied merely to keep the commandments of God, but we should be willing to follow Our Lord's invitation to all men: “You therefore are to be perfect (holy), even as your heavenly Father is perfect” (Matt. 5:48). Perfection is the summit—the highest degree of holiness.

The commandments of God state the minimum requirements for salvation. They should be kept not merely according to the letter, but also according to the spirit; this obliges us to strive for greater perfection.

1. The model of Christian perfection is Our Lord. The saints, who imitated Him steadfastly, are also patterns of perfection. This aiming “to be holy as our heavenly Father is holy,” this seeking to be like Christ — “another Christ,” is to strive towards Christian perfection.

No one can ever be as perfect as Our Lord. But having Him for a model inspires us to strive for greater and greater sanctity. He said, “I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life” (John 14:6). And in reply to the young man who wished to become perfect, Jesus said, “Come, follow me” (Matt. 19:21). We should try to make progress every day, so that we are better today than yesterday. “He who is just, let him be just still, and he who is holy, let him be hallowed still” (Apoc. 22:11).

2. If we only give God what He commands us to give, we would be doing only what is absolutely necessary. In such a case we would go to church only once a week, plus six holydays of obligation a year; we would go to Confession only once a year, an receive Holy Communion only during the Easter Time. By doing these things and avoiding all serious violation of the Commandments, we would still be obeying God and keeping ourselves from mortal sin and saving our souls.

What would you think of a child who gives to his parents only what is demanded of him? What would you think of him if he never showed them any affection, never did anything extra for them to show his love and gratitude?

3. We say that we love God, our Creator, Father, and Friend, our Saviour, the Source of all our graces. Love is proved by deeds, by the amount of sacrifice we would be willing to make for the beloved person.

Can we ever serve God sufficiently, to show our affection? He does not command us to go out of our way to help the poor; but can we consider anyone a good Christian who does not do so? A Christian should not only obey the commands of Christ, but should follow His counsels. We go to Mass on weekdays, because we love Him, and wish to visit Him in the Most Blessed Sacrament of the altar, to receive Him into our very hearts. We should think up extra things to do for God, as we think up extra things to do for the person we love most. Our parents do not command us to buy gifts for them on their birthdays; but if we do so, are they not delighted at our show of affection?

In what does CHRISTIAN PERFECTION CONSIST?

Christian perfection consists in union with God by the practice of virtue; it requires love of God and our neighbor, and detachment of the heart from the things of this world. By striving after true Christian perfection, we make clearer and clearer in ourselves the true image of God.

1. Christian perfection is nothing else but sanctity, holiness, the love for God. Lest those who call themselves "ordinary mortals" be afraid to aspire to this sanctity, we must make it clear that it does not require extraordinary works. It only requires deep, abiding love, for "Love is the fulfilling of the law," the fulfillment of it to its very foundation and depths, not merely on the surface.

Did our Blessed Mother do any extraordinary works, judged by normal standards of the world? Let us imitate her perfect submission to the will of God in all things. "Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it done to me according to your word" (Luke 1:38).

2. The spirit of Christ obliges us to strive for greater perfection. All states of life can be sanctified by those who wish only to live for God. Saints are found in every class. Love of God is in everybody's power.

As there are different degrees of love, so also there are different degrees of perfection, according to the capacity of each individual. But all can practice virtue. From other good works we can excuse ourselves, saying: "I cannot fast, for I am sickly," etc. But no one can say, "I cannot love." However, religious and pious practices should be adapted to the occupations and duties of an individual. A mother of twelve young children would do wrong to spend half the day in church praying. One who works in an office should not stay so long at daily Mass that he is habitually late for his work.

3. We should begin from youth to strive after perfection.

Saint Dominic Savio on his First Communion day, when only seven years old, made some resolutions to which he was faithful till his death. These resolutions helped him towards perfection, so that at the age of fifteen he died a holy death. Among his resolutions were: (1) frequent confession and communion; (2) Jesus and Mary as friends; and (3) death rather than sin.

4. Every one should choose for his model a saint whose position and calling are similar to his own.

Schoolboys will find among the best models Saint Aloysius, St. Dominic Savio; schoolgirls, the Little Flower, Saint Agnes, St. Mary Goretti, and always the Blessed Virgin; married men, St. Louis of France, St. Thomas More; married women, St. Monica, St. Elizabeth; religious, the canonized founders of their order; priests, the Curé d'Ars, St. John Bosco, St. Philip Neri; bishops, St. Charles Borromeo and St. Francis of Sales.

5. In order to attain the state of Christian perfection, we must have a spirit of detachment towards the things of this world. Let us remember that the eternal is what counts; the temporal is given us by God only to help us fulfill our end of praising, of serving Him, and thus saving our soul.

By the spirit of detachment is not meant actual dispossession. A rich man can be completely detached from riches, if he uses them only for the end God gave them to him, if he does not love his riches for the sake of riches or for other worldly purposes, but uses his wealth for God and his fellow-men. A man in a high position of honor and power is detached from such honor and glory if he knows they all come from God, and uses them for God's purposes. On the other hand, even the poorest of men and the most despaired can violate the spirit of detachment if he desires to possess what he does not have, for the sake of such possession.
The Little Way of St. Therese of the Child Jesus is the way of spiritual childhood, which means becoming spiritually as a little child in the arms of a tenderly loving Father. An ordinary person as well as a great saint can practice The Little Way simply by placing absolute confidence in God. Because He loves us we love Him. One who loves does all things, great and small, to please the beloved. The illustration shows St. Therese, while glancing at the statue of the Child Jesus, making her sister's bed as an act of love.

As she grew older she carried her Little Way to heroic perfection. "Not a word, not a look, if not to give pleasure to the good God" became her guiding principle. We also can imitate the Little Flower. By making it our sole aim to please God, we can follow The Little Way to Christian perfection.

176. General Means of Perfection

What are the GENERAL MEANS OF PERFECTION?

After the observance of the Commandments of God and of the Church, the general means of perfection are: (a) Holy Mass with Communion; (b) habit of prayer; (c) self-control and self-denial; (d) faithfulness in small things; (e) order and regularity; (f) spiritual reading and meditation; and (g) recourse to solitude.

These are general means of perfection, because they are suited to every one in every state and condition of life.

1. God instituted the sacraments as effective means of grace. Can we get more grace than from God Himself, coming in Holy Communion?

2. Habit of Prayer. Without God we can do nothing. We should especially make a habit of ejaculatory prayers.

   We should sanctify our every action by offering it to God. A good plan is to make a general offering every morning, with our morning prayers. In this way, all we do—work, prayer, and even sleep—becomes a prayer to God.

3. Self-control and self-denial are acts of mortification: keeping down anger, and abstaining even from things which are permitted, but above all avoiding even the least yielding to what is forbidden. Self-control is the mark of the true Christian. If we deny ourselves some things which are permitted, we shall find it easier to avoid what is forbidden. Self-denial gives us a strong will. Self-denial is the mark of the human being made to the likeness of God; a beast does not say "No" to himself.

Christ said: "If anyone wishes to come after me, let him deny himself" (Mark 8:34). One may deny oneself by avoiding what is not necessary, such as splendid dress, rich food, costly houses and cars, excessive entertainments, curiosity, etc., and above all, by doing cheerfully whatever duties come, and accepting with resignation all trials.

4. By faithfulness in small things, we obtain greater graces and avoid grave sins more easily. As in the natural order, so in the spiritual, great things come from apparently insignificant things. We should be careful to avoid venial sins in order to be saved from mortal sins.

"He who is faithful in a very little thing is faithful also in much; and he who is unjust in a very little thing is unjust also in much" (Luke 16:10). Our Lord promises to reward those who are thus faithful, saying: "Well done, good and faithful servant, because thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will set thee over many" (Matt. 25:21).

5. We observe order and regularity by having a fixed time for everything: for rising, retiring, eating, work, recreation, etc.

We should imitate the order that God has placed in the whole universe, regulating everything by law. Recreation is not against the practice of Christian perfection; it is a need that God wishes us to satisfy in the proper manner. It should however, not interfere with our duties, or take up too much time.

6. We should have some regular spiritual reading and meditation, even if for only ten minutes every day, as food for our souls.

Meditation on the truths of faith, the life of Christ, and the lives of the saints, will inflame our hearts to virtue.

7. Solitude helps us grow in virtue. The noise and bustle of the world are distractions. We should once in a while imitate Our Lord and withdraw into solitude, to see our faults better, and go closer to God.

Catholics who are able, spend a few days every year in a spiritual retreat, to resort to this valuable solitude.

The Little Way

Which is one of the most practical means of perfection recommended for the ordinary person living in the world?

For the ordinary person living in the world, one of the most practical means of perfection is that called the Little Way of St. Therese of the Child Jesus.

This Little Way can be followed by ordinary mortals who cannot undergo heavy mortifications like fasting, flagellation, and hair shirts, by people who are not possessed of mystical graces, who cannot do great works.

1. The Little Way is the way of spiritual childhood. Its ESSENCE is simple:

(a) God Almighty is our most loving and tender Father; we, His tiny little children who can do absolutely nothing without Him.

(b) Because we are tiny little children and entirely helpless, we put all our trust in God. He, the loving Father, takes us in His fatherly arms.

(c) We in gratitude for His fatherly care, give Him all that a tiny little child is able to give, our LOVE.

Our Lord Himself taught us to call and consider God "Our Father" (Matt. 6:9-13). He urged, "Unless you turn and become little children, you will not enter into the kingdom of heaven" (Matt. 18:3). He declared, "Whoever does not accept the kingdom of God as a little child will not enter into it" (Mark 10:15).

2. The characteristics of "the Little Way" are the characteristics of a tiny little child:

(a) Littleness and weakness. This means meekness and humility. Making ourselves as humble as we can, let us be ever aware that without God we can do nothing. Whatever we do, however great, is only a gift that our loving Father in heaven sees fit to grant us.

(b) Poverty and simplicity. Without God we possess nothing. Doing His holy will, we can be sure that He will provide for us. Simplicity personified, an innocent tiny child should be our model in our attitude, in all our actions, towards God.

(c) Absolute confidence in his father. In full trust, let us abandon ourselves to God and His infinite mercy.

(d) LOVE. A tiny little child gives love. This is exactly the only thing we can give to God, our love. We show our love for God by doing all things, small and great, to make Him happy, to give Him pleasure.

St. Therese of the Child Jesus, called "the Little Flower," said, "Not everybody can fast, or wear hair shirts, or spend hours in prayer. But everybody can love."
Those who follow the evangelical counsels of poverty, chastity, and obedience give up the pleasures of the world in order to serve and love God more fully. They put into practice the idea behind these words of Holy Scripture: "What doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world, and suffer the loss of his own soul?" God gives more weight to the Counsels than to riches.

177. The Evangelical Counsels

What does OUR SAVIOUR especially RECOMMEND that is not strictly commanded by law?

Our Saviour especially recommends the observance of the Evangelical Counsels—voluntary poverty, perpetual chastity, and perfect obedience.

1. "Evangelical" here means contained in the Gospels; these counsels of perfection are clearly set forth in Holy Scripture.

They are called counsels, because they are an invitation and not a command; all are invited, but no one is forced. "Not all can accept this teaching; but those to whom it has been given" (Matt. 19:11).

2. By means of the evangelical counsels the three chief evil tendencies of man—avarice, sensuality, and pride—are subdued, enabling him to rise more freely to God.

Good works are mild remedies for these evil tendencies. Prayer cures pride; fasting cures sensuality; and almsgiving cures avarice. But the evangelical counsels are a radical remedy for these three evils. Obedience subdues pride; chastity destroys sensuality; and poverty blots out avarice.

3. The evangelical counsels, however, are not in themselves perfection. They are only the best means for attaining perfection. If we adopt the counsels, but do not follow them we are far from perfect.

What is VOLUNTARY POVERTY?

Voluntary poverty is the renunciation of all earthly possessions, for the love of God.

1. Christ counseled voluntary poverty: "If thou wilt be perfect, go, sell what thou hast, and give to the poor" (Matt. 19:21).

Our Lord Himself was extremely poor. A stable was His birthplace; a poor woman was His Mother; a carpenter was His foster-father. He had nowhere to lay His head.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
2. To give alms according to one's means is the duty of every Christian. But voluntary poverty means the giving up, for the love of God, of not only part, but of all our earthly property, and suffering the hardships of poverty.

What is PERPETUAL CHASTITY?

Perpetual chastity consists in abstaining from marriage and all unclean desires.

1. Christ counseled perfect chastity: "Let him accept it who can" (Matt. 19:12). Christ Himself was perfectly chaste and virginal. His mother was a virgin. He loved children, who are virginal.

He who is unmarried is concerned about the things of the Lord, how he may please God. Whereas he who is married is concerned about the things of the world, how he may please his wife; and he is divided. And the unmarried woman, and the virgin, thinks about the things of the Lord, that she may be holy in body and in spirit. Whereas she who is married thinks about the things of the world, how she may please her husband" (1 Cor. 7:32-34).

2. The sixth and ninth commandments of God oblige us to live chaste lives, and to avoid impurity. But lifelong and perfect chastity means besides the sacrifice of something lawful: marriage.

Is perfect CHASTITY especially PLEASING to God?

Yes, perfect chastity is a virtue most pleasing to God.

1. When God wished to give a mortal Mother to His Son, God chose the purest of the daughters of Juda, a virgin, Mary. When He wanted a protector for the Blessed Virgin and her future Child, God chose a virgin, Joseph, the most chaste of men. Christ Himself was a virgin, and the Apostle He loved best, the one who leaned on His breast at the Last Supper, and to whom He confided His Mother from the cross, was also a virgin, St. John the Evangelist.

2. Priests and members of religious communities, both men and women, are bound to celibacy and perfect chastity. Celibacy is the state of being unmarried.

St. Paul commended the state of celibacy: "I say to the unmarried, and to widows, it is good for them if they so remain, even as I" (1 Cor. 7:8).

3. Even the heathen recognize and honor the virtue of virginal chastity. If the heathen respect those who prefer virginity to the married state, how much more should Christians respect those who, from a supernatural motives, choose to live a life of chastity!

In pagan Rome six virgins, called the Vestal Virgins, were appointed to keep the so-called sacred fire burning on the altar in the temple of Vesta. These virgins usually came to the temple at the age of ten years, and remained there for thirty years. During that time they were forbidden to marry.

The Romans believed that the Vestal Virgins brought them good fortune and obtained for them the protection of their gods. They treated the Vestal Virgins with the greatest respect. They were accorded military honors in public. If a criminal, on his way to execution, happened to meet a Vestal Virgin, he was immediately pardoned. The virgins were given the best places wherever they went; they were clad in white robes. If a Vestal Virgin broke her vow of chastity, she was buried alive.

What is PERFECT OBEDIENCE?

Perfect obedience is the complete submission of one's will to that of a superior.

1. Christ counseled perfect obedience. He said to His Apostles: "Follow me." He said to the rich young man: "If thou wilt be perfect, go, sell what thou hast, and give to the poor... and come, follow me" (Matt. 19:21), i.e., "Come and be guided by Me in all things."

Christ was perfectly obedient to His heavenly Father. He never sought His own will, but always the will of the Father Who sent Him. He was obedient to His Mother and to St. Joseph.

2. All men are bound to render Christian obedience to their superiors according to their state. Children must obey their parents; citizens must obey the civil authorities; all must obey their spiritual superiors. But this obligation leaves us free in many things; it does not bind all our actions. Perfect obedience on the other hand requires us to obey in everything. It is the greatest sacrifice we can give to God.

If we fast, give alms, or lose our reputation for God's sake, we only give a part of ourselves. But if we give perfect obedience, we sacrifice our will; we give all we have. We have nothing more to give.
178. The Religious State

What is THE RELIGIOUS STATE?

The religious state is a permanent way of community life, by which the faithful bind themselves to observe the evangelical counsels by vows of poverty, chastity, and obedience.

The first religious order developed under St. Anthony the Great, who assembled around him in the desert a number of disciples living in separate cells. In the year 348 A.D. St. Pachomius gathered the anchorites under a common roof, and gave them a fixed rule; this was done on an island near the mouth of the Nile River in Egypt. From there the monastic life spread to Palestine and Syria, and thence to Asia Minor. In the 5th and 6th centuries, the monastic life was propagated in the West by St. Martin of Tours and St. Benedict.

1. The religious state is called the state of perfection, because those who embrace it have the obligation, through faithfulness to their vows, of aiming at evangelical perfection.

Those who are in the state of perfection are not necessarily all perfect; but they are expected to aim at perfection. Many people in the world are actually more holy than some in the religious state. It is however easier to strive after perfection in the religious state, where there are more aids and means than in the world with its distractions.

2. The call to the religious state is an invitation: “Not all can accept this teaching, but those to whom it has been given” (Matt. 19:11).

Members of religious orders or congregations are bound by the vows of poverty, chastity, and obedience. They are devoted to the exclusive service of God, “without distractions” (1 Cor. 7:35).

WHO MAY BE ADMITTED into the religious state?

Any Catholic who is free from impediment, and who has a right intention, and who is fitted to fulfill the duties of the religious life may be admitted into the religious state.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
1. The principal impediments to admission to the religious state are: an existing marriage, lack of age (being less than 15 years of age), debts that must be paid, parents who need one's support.

The mere opposition of parents who do not need one to support them is not an obstacle. Many Saints had to meet parental objections firmly before they could join religious orders.

2. If one has a firm desire and resolution to enter a religious community out of a good motive, to serve God better, he or she has the right intention for the religious state.

One who may intend to join a religious congregation in the hope of obtaining honors or of having an easy life, has not the right intention.

3. Among the things needed to fulfill the duties of a religious life are: virtue, sufficient health, and adequate education for the work of the particular congregation to be joined.

In general, the qualifications for a vocation are good will, good health, and good sense.

WHAT STEPS SHOULD BE TAKEN in embracing the religious state?

Before any definite decision is made, a competent spiritual director should be consulted, regarding both spiritual and practical matters.

One need not be strongly attracted to the religious state before deciding to embrace it. Feelings generally have nothing to do with the matter; what is most needed is will. Feelings pass, but day after day one needs a strong will to remain faithful to the vows taken in a religious congregation.

1. One should apply for admission into the religious community chosen. If one is refused and has to return home, he or she should not feel disgraced. The novitiate is precisely a trial, to find out one's qualifications.

Those who are sent out should recognize the trial as permitted by God, and offer it up to Him. It is the practice of many religious congregations to refuse candidates who have been novices or even postulants in other congregations.

2. Once accepted and permitted to take the vows, all one has to do is to persevere, to live according to the vows, and try day to day to attain to the highest perfection.

How SHOULD PARENTS behave if their child chooses a religious vocation?

Parents should give special praise and thanksgiving to God for the blessing, if their child chooses a religious vocation.

Mrs. Colonel Vaughan, an English mother, prayed every day that all her children might become priests and nuns. In time, of her eight sons one became a cardinal, a second an archbishop, another a bishop, and three priests; all of her five daughters became Sisters.

1. As no one should be forced, so no one should be prevented from becoming either a priest, brother, or a sister. It is a sin for parents to oppose or prevent their child's religious vocation.

Our Lord promised, "Everyone who has left house, or brothers, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or lands, for my name's sake, shall receive a hundredfold, and shall possess life everlasting" (Matt. 19:29).

2. It is a great honor for a family to have even one of its members dedicated to the special service of God, as a priest, a brother or a nun.

Our Lord said: "If anyone comes to me and does not hate his father and mother, and wife and children, and brothers and sisters, yes, and even his own life, he cannot be my disciple" (Luke 14:26). By this "hate" does not mean to break God's commandment of love; it means only to give up for God's sake, to detach oneself from what is good, in order to be fully attached to the one infinitely Perfect Good, God. "Every one of you who does not renounce all that he possesses, cannot be my disciple" (Luke 14:33).

What is THE DOWRY?

The dowry is a sum of money required by congregations of women, payable upon the profession of a novice as member of the community.

1. The purpose of the dowry is to provide the person with some support should she leave the community at the end of her temporary vows, or after a dispensation, or upon dismissal.

In case one leaves the community, the dowry is returned to her intact. Meanwhile, during her stay in the community, the interest on the dowry is used for her maintenance.

2. Those who cannot give a dowry may be dispensed with the consent of the Holy See. Applicants who have completed their education are more easily dispensed.
“The harvest indeed is abundant, but the laborers are few!” Jesus calls to his special service, for workers in His harvest. A boy and a girl hear the call. The boy (1) says to his parents: “See the stole I’ll wear some day!” And the girl (3) dreams of the day when she will be teaching school as a religious Sister. If one feels, as these two young people do, that he should like to serve God fully, let him hasten to consecrate himself to God in the priestly or religious state.

179. Religious Communities

HOW MAY religious communities BE CLASSIFIED?

Religious communities may be classified as orders or congregations.

1. Religious “orders” are those institutes in which the members take solemn vows; they are chiefly the old orders of monks and nuns.

Among the religious orders for men in the United States are: Augustinians, Benedictines, Dominicans, Franciscans, Trappists and others.

2. Religious “congregations” are those in which the members take only “simple public vows”; most religious communities are of this kind. The Jesuits, after a number of years in simple vows, may also take solemn vows.

For men among the largest communities are: Divine Word Fathers, Jesuits, Passionists, Redemptorists, Salesians, Salvatorians and others. For women we have too many to be able to enumerate them.

3. Religious institutes may also be classified as clerical or lay. The “clerical communities” are those in which a great proportion of the members are priests. The “lay communities” are those with the great majority of their members not ordained priests.

For men, these last are what we term brotherhoods, such as the: De la Salle Brothers, Marist Brothers, St. Francis Xavier Brothers, Sacred Heart Brothers.

4. Some communities follow “the manner of life of religious,” living together under the government of superiors and with approved constitutions. But their members do not take "public" but only "private" vows, or make only a "pledge" to live in community life. However, under many aspects, the Code of Canon Law likens them to religious institutes and their members to religious. The difference between them and the religious proper is hardly noticed.

Among the most well-known of such societies we have the Vincentians, Maryknoll Fathers, Oratorians of St. Philip Neri, and Fathers of the Precious Blood.

5. A new development in the life of the evangelical counsels is the Secular Institutes, whose members have neither public vows nor common life, but follow a profession in the world.

In what KINDS OF WORK are the religious communities engaged?

They are engaged in all kinds of work, ranging from the purely contemplative life of prayer to the active life of missionaries.

1. Members of contemplative "orders" are strictly cloistered, and devote their life chiefly to prayer and penance. This prayer is not for the individual alone, but for the greater honor and glory of God, the well-being of the Mystical Body of Christ, the reclaining of all into the Fold of the Good Shepherd.

Among contemplative orders we may mention the Carthusian and Cistercian monks, and the Carmelites, Poor Clare and Perpetual Adoration nuns.

2. Members of semi-contemplative communities observe the "mixed life," they superimpose the active on the contemplative life. They seldom leave their houses, and engage themselves in teaching, caring for penitents and orphans, etc.

Among semi-contemplative congregations we may mention: the Assumption Sisters, Dominican Sisters, and Good Shepherd Sisters.

3. The religious communities of active life are dedicated to teaching, hospital work, mission work, etc. Active life does not refer to mere bodily activity, but to external activities carried on outside the religious house.

Thus Cistercians who farm their land do not pursue an active life. Most of the religious institutes in the United States are engaged in the active life. Among them we may mention: Jesuits, Franciscan Tertiaries, Vincentians, Passionists, Redemptorists, Salesians, and Brothers of Christian Schools.

WHICH religious community SHOULD ONE CHOOSE who wishes to dedicate his life entirely to God?

One who wishes to dedicate his life entirely to God should choose the religious community best suited to his inclination and ability.

Besides priests, religious are needed, both men and women, for the schools, the hospitals, the teaching of religion, care of the poor, and of the missions.

Women cannot become priests, but they can be very useful as religious Sisters. Many a soul has been converted to the Faith because of the example, the prayers, or the influence of a Sister. Sisters are most useful too in the missions; they are the auxiliaries of the missionary priests in their difficult work of winning souls for Christ.

How can one HELP INCREASE the number of priests and religious?

1. Every one should pray steadfastly and sincerely for priests and religious.

2. Those who are financially able should support poor candidates in seminaries and religious houses of formation.

3. Lastly, he who is earnest about the service of God should decide whether he is willing to consecrate himself entirely to that service. Such as have the will and necessary qualifications should either enter the priesthood or one of the religious congregations.

It is the opinion of many bishops and priests that there would be more vocations to the religious life if the orientation towards a more pastoral and apostolic life, advocated by Pope Pius XII and Pope John XXIII, would be accelerated. This means that some changes should be made. Prolonged prayers and non-liturgical devotions should be abbreviated or not held at a time when the religious should be engaged in apostolic work. Pope John XXIII wrote in 1963 to the religious: "Remember that it is not by prayer alone but also by works that we shall obtain a new orientation of society based on the Gospel." The regulations of the enclosure should be modified, so that religious sisters may do their apostolate also after sunset. In older days, after sunset, women in general remained at home. Times, however, have changed. Therefore, sisters should be with their charges when most needed. Habits of the religious should be simplified by cutting off useless ornamentations and starched, unhygienic and antiquated trimmings. Pope Pius XII told the Superiors General (1952) that "certain customs which, though they formerly had some meaning in a different cultural context, no longer have any," and that in such customs, "a young, fervent and courageous girl would find nothing but fetters inhibiting her vocation and her apostolate."
The Church has blessings for persons, places, and things. A mother after childbirth is blessed. Anybody may ask a priest to bless him. Houses and places of business, fields and crops, may be blessed. Devotional articles, such as medals, rosaries, crucifixes, images and holy pictures, may be blessed. All these blessings and objects blessed are sacramentals.

180. Sacramentals

What are SACRAMENTALS?

Sacramentals are holy things or actions of which the Church makes use to obtain for us from God, through its intercession, spiritual and temporal favors.

1. These holy actions and objects are called sacramentals because in some ways they resemble the sacraments. The term is applied to whatever the Church uses for the promotion of devotion in the worship of God: consecrations and blessings, the objects consecrated or blessed, prayers and ceremonies.

As in the sacraments, visible signs are used in the sacramentals, such as holy water, sacred oils, the sign of the cross, etc., together with a formula of words. By these visible signs God's benediction is invoked on persons, places, or things.

2. Our Lord sanctioned the use of sacramentals: He blessed the loaves and fishes, the young children, and the Apostles before the Ascension. He gave the Apostles power over evil spirits, to cast them out and to heal all kinds of diseases.

In the Old Testament we read of God's blessing our first parents, of Noe blessing his two sons, of Isaac blessing Jacob, of Jacob blessing his twelve sons, of Moses blessing the tribes of Israel. The Jewish priests blessed the people every day. "Cleanse me of sin with HYSSOP, that I may be purified" (Ps. 50:9). "Therefore I disown what I have said, and repent in dust and ASHES" (Job 42:6).

3. In sacramentals the Church makes use of ceremonies, in imitation of Our Lord and the example of the Old Law, in which God Himself prescribed ceremonies.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
In working miracles, Our Lord used His breath, made clay, used gestures, when He could have worked them as easily by a mere act of His will. Our Lord gave the Church power to instruct men, and therefore the implied power to do whatever is necessary to help out the purpose. Ceremonies without doubt add solemnity to religious acts, and increase devotion.

Which are THE CHIEF KINDS OF SACRAMENTALS?

1. BLESSINGS given by priests and bishops.

(a) Priests are authorized to give the blessings for sacramentals, with the exception of those especially reserved to the bishops.

The laity can bless, but not in the name of the Church. Thus we have the custom of parents blessing their children when they leave the house, at the Angelus, or when they go on a journey. In these private blessings, the more pious the person giving the blessing, the greater its effect.

(b) Several acts of consecration appertain solely to bishops, and may be performed only by priests with the necessary faculties. Examples are: the consecration of churches, altars, sacred vessels for Mass, and bells; and blessing of the holy oils (done on Holy Thursday in the cathedral church).

Church bells are principally used to summon the faithful to divine service, and also to invite them to pray, as at the ringing of the Angelus.

These are the principal ceremonies at the blessing of a bell: The bell is raised, washed inside and out with water mixed with salt, and then dried carefully with towels. Psalms are recited, and prayers are said begging God to bless the faithful every time the bell rings. The exterior of the bell is anointed in seven places, with the holy oil for the sick. Then the inside is anointed in four places, with holy chrism. The bell is named in honor of and after one of the saints. Then the censer containing lighted incense and myrrh is placed under the bell, to incense and perfume the interior. The elaborate ceremony ends with the singing of the Gospel describing Our Lord's visit to Mary and Martha.

2. EXORCISMS against evil spirits.—The exorcism of possessed persons or things consists in having the minister of the Church command the evil spirit to depart from the person or thing. In modern times cases of possession are comparatively rare; this we can gratefully attribute to the blessings and grace of Christianity. Nevertheless such cases still occur; should we hear of any, let us notify the priest.

"Then having summoned the twelve Apostles, he gave them power and authority over all the devil" (Luke 9:1). He declared, "In my name they (the Apostles) shall cast out devils" (Mark 16:17). The Apostles and disciples exercised this power: "The seventy-two returned with joy, saying, 'Lord, even the devils are subject to us in thy name'" (Luke 10:17). Our Lord Himself commanded many devils to depart from possessed persons of His time. (Matt. 8:26-34; Mark 1:23-28; Luke 9:37-44).

3. BLESSED OBJECTS of devotion.—Of these we may make mention of: holy oils, holy water, candles, ashes, palms, crosses and crucifixes, scapulars, medals, Agnus Deis, rosaries, images, holy pictures, bells, and blessed dresses.

All objects used in divine service, such as sacred vessels, linens, vestments, are specially blessed. Mother Church has special blessings for everything we use: for radios, automobiles, airplanes, fields, libraries, etc. We should ask the priest to bless everything we use and have. As St. Paul said: "Whether you eat or drink, or do anything else, do all for the glory of God" (1 Cor. 10:31). By sacramental blessings, we consecrate to God all we are and have, and make use of the intercessory prayer of the Church.

Common sacramental BLESSINGS FOR PERSONS AND PLACES:

1. Blessings for persons.—Of these the most common are the blessing at the end of Mass and other liturgical occasions, the blessing for communicants, the nuptial blessing, the blessing for mothers before and after childbirth, the blessing for the sick, the last blessing for the dying, the blessing of the remains of the dead, the consecration of kings, abbots, monks and nuns.

2. The consecration of kings, abbots, monks, and nuns, consists in having them formally set apart by the Church through its minister so as to be dedicated to its special service.

The consecration of bishops and ordination of priests is a sacrament.

The ceremonies of "Religious Vesture" (clothing) and "Profession of Vows" are considered sacramentals. They may take place during Mass. There are votive masses for the occasion.

3. Blessings for places.—Among the most common places blessed are: churches, chapels, altars, cemeteries, dwelling-houses, places of business, farms, crops. The home of every Catholic, as well as his place of business, should be blessed.

(For consecration of churches, see page 412).
1. Every new house should be blessed. The blessing should be renewed every year during the Easter time. In its ritual the Church prays that God may sanctify the house, and that angels may abide within its walls, and protect all living therein.

2. Holy water is one of the principal sacramentals of the Church. In blessing holy water, the priest first blesses salt, then water, and then mixes both with special prayers. The water symbolizes purity of soul; the salt stands for prudence; the combination is a symbol of purity and immortality. As often as possible, we should make the sign of the cross, first dipping the fingers in holy water. Seven years' indulgence is gained each time.

181. Use and Value of Sacramentals

How should we make USE OF THE SACRAMENTALS?

We should make use of the sacramentals with faith and devotion, and never make them objects of superstition.

1. If we use sacramentals, as they should be used, in acknowledgment of our faith in the efficacy of the blessing of the Church which God Himself founded, our act will be pleasing to God, and the sacramentals will profit us. If we wear a crucifix or medal on our persons, hoping that by God's grace it will preserve us from evil, we are not superstitious.

We must remember however that of themselves sacramentals have no power. They only have power through the prayer of the Church which uses the authority given by Christ.

2. If one uses sacramentals in the spirit of those who look upon them as powerful in themselves, with no reference either to God or to the Church, or his own state of grace, he is superstitious.

This is the case with the "charms" which certain ignorant persons use. They sometimes take a crucifix, a prayer-book, a medal, etc., and use it on their persons, believing that it is a charm which will make them immune to bullet-shots, wounds, etc. These charms are used by such persons without any reference whatever to their original purpose of sanctification; therefore, their use of no effect at all.
3. We should use sacramentals constantly. Every Christian home should have holy water and blessed candles. Every Christian should receive as many blessings as he can. Every mother should take her newly-born infant to church to receive the blessing of the Church. Every Christian house or building should be blessed.

Some take an attitude of contempt towards sacramentals as fit only for women. They have as much need of prayer and faith as women. Christians reverence and make use of sacramentals, and have firm confidence in the prayer of the Church to make them effective. They know that everybody, however holy, has need enough, in this vale of tears, of all the help he can obtain from God.

4. A Catholic home should have a private altar before which the family assembles for prayers. It should have blessed images and a crucifix. Every room should have a crucifix.

Many homes have the laudable custom of keeping burning an oil or electric votive lamp on their family altar. In many homes it is the custom to sprinkle the beds with holy water before retiring at night.

HOW DO THE SACRAMENTALS OBTAIN FAVORS FROM GOD?

The sacramentals obtain favors from God through the prayers of the Church offered for those who make use of them, and through the devotion they inspire.

1. Unlike the sacraments, sacramentals were instituted by the Church, not by Christ; they are not necessary to salvation.

The blessing in a sacramental consists in this: the minister of God, praying in the name of His Church, invokes the divine benediction upon the person, place, or object concerned.

2. Unlike the sacraments, sacramentals of themselves have no power to confer grace.

The divine blessing averts earthly ills and promotes temporal welfare, whereas the divine grace beautifies the soul. The first is chiefly temporal, and the second particularly spiritual, in effect.

3. The effect of sacramentals depends on the pious dispositions of the person using them.

Sacramentals increase devotion by fixing our thoughts on particular virtues, and helping us appreciate them. For example, upon looking at a crucifix we think of the love of Christ for us; we remember what He suffered to prove that love; we become sorry for the sins that caused such tortures.

5. Whenever we are in trouble, pain, danger, or temptation, the use of sacramentals is of great benefit. Every Catholic should own a blessed rosary, and use it. Every Catholic, man, woman, boy, girl, or child should wear on his person a blessed crucifix or medal or scapular. It serves to remind the wearer in times of danger that there is a God Who cares what happens to his soul.

6. The Church, by the use of sacramentals, teaches the faithful the truths of religion, aside from exciting good thoughts and increasing devotion. The truths of our faith are taught by sacramentals through the faculty of sight, as explanations teach them through hearing. Thus sacramentals are like picture books that are used as aids in the teaching of religion.

One, however simple and unlettered, who kneels before a crucifix and knows about the death of Our Lord on the cross, will better be able to realize His love and sacrifice, than if the catechist merely repeated over and over again that Jesus suffered and died for us.

THE CHIEF BENEFITS obtained by the use of the sacramentals are:

1. Actual graces.

If we use them with proper dispositions, that is, while in the state of grace and with firm faith and confidence, sacramentals can profit us greatly.

2. The forgiveness of venial sins.

Sacramentals excite good thoughts and inspire devotion and greater love of God as well as greater sorrow for sin; this devotion and sorrow bring grace, and the grace thus obtained in turn obtains the forgiveness of venial sins. Contrition always remits sin, and sacramentals are an aid to true contrition.

3. Remission of temporal punishment.

In the old times the Israelites were granted numerous graces through the use of certain objects. If that was there in the Old Law, spiritual results must be obtained in the New Law.

4. Health of body and material blessings.

The Apostles anointed with oil many who were sick, and healed them. Innumerable are the examples in modern times of the extraordinary effects of sacramentals.

5. Protection from evil spirits.

We need the protection of sacramentals against the devil, that goes about seeking souls to devour.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The illustration (1) shows a girl wearing the blessed dress of Our Lady of Lourdes. It is white, with a blue sash tied in front. (2) shows one wearing the blessed dress of Our Lady Mary, Help of Christians. It is coral pink, with a powder blue sash tied in a bow at the left side. All blessed dresses must be modest, with long sleeves and closed necklines.

The illustration (3) is a scapular of Our Lady of Carmel. After being imposed, it may be substituted by a properly blessed scapular medal. (4) shows the two faces of the Miraculous Medal. Our Lady herself revealed the design for it.

182. Blessed Objects of Devotion

Which are the blessed OBJECTS of devotion MOST USED by Catholics?

The blessed objects of devotion most used by Catholics are: holy water, candles, ashes, palms, crucifixes, medals, rosaries, scapulars, and images of Our Lord, the Blessed Virgin, and the saints.

1. Holy Water, through the blessing received, brings on us the intercession of the whole Church. However, as the other sacramentals, it has no magic power—it's efficacy depends on our devotion.

Holy water is placed at the doors of all churches and chapels, for us to use when we go in and out. We should also have it at the doors of all our rooms in our homes. Holy water is used in many blessings of the Church, for the dead, for the consecration of churches, etc.

2. CANDLES and other lights are used in the Church as much as holy water. They stand for Christ, the “Light of the World.” Candles are blessed on the Feast of the Purification or Candlemas Day, in memory of Holy Simeon’s words, calling Christ the “light of revelation to the Gentiles” (Luke 2:32).

When we burn lights by the corpses or graves of our dead, we pray that they may be admitted soon into the light of heaven, the sight of God. We burn lights before images of the saints, as a symbol of the virtues with which they were endowed, and as a supplication for help through their intercession.

The candle lighted at our Baptism denotes the light of the Holy Spirit, which we then receive, and recalls the words of Christ, “So let your light shine before men in order that they may see your good works, and give glory to your Father in heaven” (Matt. 5:16). On the altar, the lights signify the presence of Christ, the Light of the World, Who comes down on it at the consecration.

3. ASHES are blessed on Ash Wednesday, and marked on the foreheads of the faithful, to remind them of the words of God to Adam: "In the sweat of your brow you shall eat bread, till you return to the ground, since out of it you were taken; for dust you are and unto dust you shall return" (Gen. 3:19).

In crossing our foreheads with ashes on Ash Wednesday, the priest says: "Remember, man, that you are dust, and to dust you will return."

4. PALMS are blessed on the Sunday preceding the Feast of Easter, in commemoration of the entry of Our Lord into Jerusalem before His Passion, when He was received with joy and acclaimed with Hosannas.

During the blessing of the palms, the priest prays that those who receive and keep them may be preserved from sin and danger. It is customary to hang up in some part of our homes the blessed palms we receive on Palm Sunday. The palm is a symbol of victory over sin, of triumphal entry into heaven.

5: No church, altar, cemetery, or Catholic institution is without the cross or CRUCIFIX; no home should be without it.

No Catholic dies without the crucifix; and no one should live without carrying it somewhere on his person. When we look at it we remember the infinite love of God for us; with the cross of Christ He proved this love. (See page 201.)

6. The most commonly-worn medals are the SCAPULAR MEDALS and the Miraculous Medal. The scapular medals are substitutes for the cloth scapulars. The Miraculous Medal was revealed by Our Lady to Sister Catherine Labouré, a Sister of Charity. The Blessed Virgin appeared to her in the posture now shown on the medal, with the ejaculation, "O Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee" around her. The Blessed Virgin bade Sister Catherine have a medal made according to that model, promising those who should wear it great blessings.

The reverse of the medal, also revealed by Our Lady, has the letter M surmounted by a cross, the two Sacred Hearts of Jesus and Mary, and twelve stars. The many cures, temporal blessings and spiritual graces received in a few years by those who first wore the medal caused it to be known as the Miraculous Medal. The feast of our Lady of the Miraculous Medal is celebrated on November 27.

7. Most commonly worn SCAPULARS are the brown scapular and the blue scapular.

(a) The brown scapular is the badge of the Confraternity of Carmel. The members are supposed to say the office, but for lay people this may be changed to three Hail Marys, which may be part of their daily prayers. Only priests with the proper faculties can impose the brown scapular.

The original scapular was designed to hang over the head, in front and behind, as many religious still wear it, forming part of their habit.

(b) The blue scapular is a devotion in honor of our Lady's Immaculate Conception. It requires the wearers to live a life of chastity according to their state, to pray for the conversion of sinners.

There are besides other scapulars as those of the Seven Dolours, of the Holy Trinity and of the Passion. All these five scapulars may be substituted by a properly blessed medal, one face of which has the image of the Sacred Heart of Jesus and the other face Our Lady's image under whatever title. The medal can substitute only after the cloth scapular has been imposed.

8. An AGNUS DEI is a disk of white wax stamped with the image of a lamb and cross (standing for Christ); it is solemnly blessed by the Pope and distributed in Rome on the Saturday after Easter.

Formerly the Agnus Dei was given only to the newly baptized who carried it on their persons, in honor of the "Lamb of God."

9. The most commonly used blessed dresses are those in honor of our Lady of Lourdes, of our Lady of Sorrows, of the Immaculate Conception, of Carmel, of Mary Help of Christians, of St. Anthony, and of St. Joseph. These dresses are worn as a promise, or to obtain some special favor. Their use is not binding under pain of sin.

The use of these blessed dresses should be encouraged, as a reminder to our girls to dress modestly always. The formula for blessing a dress is in the Roman Ritual: "Benedictio Vestis et Cinguli." Even if one who has promised to wear a blessed dress fails to fulfill her promise, she commits no sin. She merely loses the graces that otherwise she would have received by the faithful fulfillment of her promise.
The following illustrate the qualities of prayer: “He who serves God willingly is heard; his petition reaches the heavens” (Sirach 35:16). “Let my prayer come like incense before you; the lifting up of my hands, like the evening sacrifice” (Ps. 140:2). “The Lord is near to all who call upon him” (Ps. 144:18). “Ask, and it shall be given you; ...knock, and it shall be opened to you” (Matt. 7:7).

183. Objects and Qualities of Prayer

What is PRAYER?

Prayer is the lifting up of our minds and hearts to God.

1. Prayer is loving conversation with God, our loving Father. The mere thought of God is not prayer: devils think of God, but they do not pray.

   Is it not an honor to be allowed to talk to the President of our country? But at any moment we can talk to God Almighty in prayer; He has no hours of appointment; He has no secretaries to forbid our entrance into His presence.

2. God not only permits, but commands us to pray. Prayer is a privilege and a duty.

   And he also told them a parable—that they must always pray and not lose heart (Luke 18:1). God wants us to talk to Him at any hour of the day and night, and even of the most trifling things. The more often we speak to Him, the better is He pleased. “Pray without ceasing” (1 Thess. 5:17).

3. Prayer includes every kind of divine worship: reception of the sacraments, offering Mass, attending sermons, Benediction. All devotions of the Church are prayers.

Prayer is a means by which we obtain God's help. No man can be just who does not pray. Prayer is a recognition of the Creator and His power.

WHY DO WE PRAY?

1. To adore God, expressing to Him our love and loyalty.

   This is the prayer of praise. We ought to praise God, Our Lord and Master, for his infinite perfections. The Church praises Him unceasingly.

   The Gloria and Sanctus in the Mass, the Te Deum, and the Gloria Patri are all prayers of praise. The Blessed Virgin praised God in the Magnificat. We must adore God as becomes reasonable human beings. Chain prayers are foolish.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
2. To thank Him for His favors.

This is the prayer of thanksgiving. All we have comes from God, and we are obliged to render Him thanks. Too many take His favors for granted, and neglect to thank Him.

Christ Himself complained when He healed ten lepers, for only one returned to give Him thanks (Luke 17:11-19). If somebody picks up a pencil we have dropped, we hasten to thank him with a smile; but for God Who made us and keeps us in health and happiness, we are not polite.

3. To obtain from Him the pardon of our sins, and the remission of their punishment.

This is the prayer of contrition. It is a form of petition, for by it we ask God to forgive us.

The good thief prayed: "Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom" (Luke 23:42). And how well and quickly he was rewarded! God never forgets our sins without contrition.

4. To ask for graces and blessings for ourselves and others.

This is the prayer of petition. God wishes us to ask Him for all that we need, spiritual or temporal. He knows our needs better than we do, but He prefers to have us ask Him; thus He obtains our cooperation in the dispensation of His gifts.

Christ Himself used a prayer of petition in the Garden and on the Cross. The Christians prayed for the deliverance of Peter when he was in prison. "Whoever calls upon the name of the Lord shall be saved" (Rom. 10:13).

HOW SHOULD WE PRAY?

1. With attention.

We should remember to Whom we are talking, and avoid deliberate distractions. Let us prepare ourselves before prayer and assume a reverent posture.

To be properly attentive, we must pay attention to the words we say, and to God Who hears. In order to be pleasing to God, we must pray in the name of Jesus and in accordance with His will. We must therefore pray for whatever is for the glory of God and the salvation of souls. The Church prays always in the name of Christ: "Through Christ our Lord." Our Lord promised: "If you ask the Father anything in my name, he will give it to you" (John 16:23).

2. With a conviction of our own helplessness and our dependence upon God.

We should humbly acknowledge our nothingness, our unworthiness, and God’s greatness.

"The prayer of the lowly pierce the clouds" (Eccli. 35:17). Remember how Christ praised the publican who humbly struck his breast and prayed: "O God, be merciful to a sinner." We are entirely dependent on God our Creator; whatever He refuses us, we cannot have. "Without me, you can do nothing" (John 15:5).

3. With a great desire for the graces we beg of Him.

It is far from polite to a fellowman to ask him for something and at the same time to act as if we did not care whether he granted our request or not. How much more reprehensible such an action would be before Almighty God!

To prove our great desire for the favor we ask, we must be sure to possess a pure heart, to be in the state of grace. Even the prayer of sinners is profitable, especially when they are sorry for their sins; but the purer our heart is, the better is God disposed to hear our petitions.

4. With loving trust in His goodness.

We should have confidence, filled with a firm belief that God will grant our prayer if it is for our good. God loves to see faith, confidence, and trust in our hearts. At the same time, we should be resigned to God’s will. We must leave to God’s good pleasure the granting or withdrawing of our wish, how and when He would grant it.

"Amen I say to you, whoever says to this mountain, ‘Arise, and hurl thyself into the sea,’ and does not waver in his heart, but believes that whatever he says will be done, it shall be done for him" (Mark 11:23). God knows best what is for our good. We ought not to dictate to Him how and when to answer our prayers.

5. With perseverance.

Even if our petition is not immediately granted, we should not stop praying. "We must always pray, and not lose heart" (Luke 18:1).

Our Lord Himself told the parable of the man who continued knocking, and thus actually forced his friend to give him what he wanted. St. Monica prayed for eighteen years for the conversion of her son; after that he became a Doctor of the Church and a great saint—St. Augustine. Our Lord also gave us the example in this; after having labored all day, He frequently passed the night in prayer.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
FOR WHOM should we pray?

We should pray especially for ourselves, for our parents, relatives, friends and enemies, for the souls in purgatory, for the Pope, bishops, and priests of the Church, and for the officials of our country.

1. We should pray for ourselves, for all our needs of soul and body.

We should particularly pray for those whom we love: our parents, brothers and sisters, friends and relatives, benefactors and superiors. We must also pray for our enemies and for all whom we may have injured.

2. We should pray for the Church, for all its spiritual and temporal needs, that it may be established in all hearts, that pagans, heretics, and sinners may be converted.

We must pray for our departed brethren, the souls in purgatory, that they may see God soon.

3. We should pray for our country and our temporal rulers, that their power may be used for the good of the people and the glory of God.

We should always pray that God's will may be done by all, that virtue may flourish everywhere. “Pray for one another, that you may be saved. For the unceasing prayer of a just man is of great avail” (James 5:16).

HOW DO WE KNOW that God always hears our prayers if we pray properly?

We know that God always hears our prayers if we pray properly, because Our Lord has promised: “If you ask the Father anything in My name, He will give it to you.”

“Amen, amen, I say to you: if you ask the Father anything in my name, he will give it to you” (John 16:23). “Ask whatever you will, and it shall be done to you” (John 15:7).
1. God never forgets a promise, and how often has He promised to answer prayer!

Our Lord promised: "Ask and it shall be given you" (Matt. 7:7). "All things whatever you ask for in prayer, believing, you shall receive" (Matt. 21:22).

2. God answers our prayers more quickly if they are accompanied by some sacrifice or mortification, to show our humility and earnestness. A prayer is more powerful with God if several join in the petition, and if those who pray are just.

"If two of you shall agree on earth about anything at all for which they ask, it shall be done for them by my Father in heaven" (Matt. 18:19).

WHY DO WE NOT ALWAYS OBTAIN what we pray for?

We do not always obtain what we pray for, either because we have not prayed properly, or because God sees that what we are asking would not be for our good.

In the latter case, God will grant us something better. No prayer is offered in vain. God is like a kind and wise father, who gives his child fruit instead of the knife he is crying for. "Everyone who asks, receives" (Matt. 7:8).

If we pray for favors or help, we must also do all we can to carry out our wishes. For example, if we pray for the recovery of a loved one, we must get the best medical help we can.

How many KINDS OF PRAYER are there?

There are two kinds of prayer: mental prayer and vocal prayer.

1. MENTAL PRAYER is that prayer by which we unite our hearts with God while thinking of His holy truths.

This kind of prayer is also called "MEDITATION;" in it we spend the time thinking of God or of certain truths He has revealed, and by such meditation we make resolutions to become better. There are suitable books for a good short daily meditation.

2. VOCAL PRAYER is that which comes from the mind and is spoken by the lips.

We can also pray in SONG, by means of hymns and other religious music. The public prayers of the Church are vocal. Vocal prayer is both useful and necessary. Our body, as well as our soul, must give homage to God. But praying with the lips alone, without the spirit, is worthless. That is "lip service."

Our Lord said, "This people honors me with their lips, but their heart is far from me" (Matt. 15:8).

MAY WE USE OUR OWN WORDS in praying to God?

We may use our own words in praying to God, and it is well to do so often.

In prayer, we may use authorized forms that we have learned, or we may speak to God in our own words according to the dictates of our heart. We should often speak to God in our own words, for they are more fitted to our needs and feelings than set forms. We should speak to Him like a child to its father. It is not necessary to say long prayers. God regards not the length, but the fervor; not the time spent, but the love. There are no "MAGIC PRAYERS." A prayer is powerful depending on the love and confidence with which we say it.

Are DISTRACTIONS in our prayers always DISPLEASING to God?

Distractions in our prayers are not displeasing to God, unless they are willful.

A busy mother, even at prayer, may have an undercurrent of thought about the children's lunch. A businessman who has several important decisions to make would very likely be distracted in prayer.

Prayers said with willful distractions are of no benefit to us. They are like a phonograph record we play at God. Since with such "prayers" our hearts and minds do not go up to God, and our will is not in God, they cannot be true prayers.

WHEN and WHERE should we pray?

We should pray always, and in all places.

St. Paul said: "Whether you eat or drink, or do anything else, do all for the glory of God" (1 Cor. 10:31). "Pray without ceasing" (1 Thess. 5:17).

1. Even when we are not on our knees, we should pray while we work. Even if it is mental work, we can stop once in a while to raise our hearts up to God. We should offer our work as a prayer to God, by directing our intention, and often renewing it.

Ejaculatory prayer, using short exclamations, is most helpful. Some good ejaculations are: "Blessed be God"; "All for Thee, my Jesus"; "My God and my all"; "Jesus, Mary, Joseph!"

2. We can pray at home, at work, in the company of others, even on the street. The best place to pray is in church, because it is the house especially consecrated to prayer.

We ought to say especially our morning and night prayers, grace at meals, and the Angelus three times a day. We should also pray when we are tempted, in misfortunes, danger, or need, and at the beginning of every important undertaking.
To make the sign of the cross (1) join the hands in preparation, putting yourself in the presence of God. (2) Lay the left hand on the breast, and with the extended fingers of the right hand touch the forehead, saying, "In the Name of the Father."

(3) Touch the breast, saying: "And of the Son."
(4) Touch the left shoulder, saying: "And of the Holy. . . ." then (5) the right shoulder, saying: "Spirit." Finally, (6) join the hands and say: "Amen."

185. The Sign of the Cross

HOW do we usually BEGIN and END our prayers?

We usually begin and end our prayers with the sign of the cross.

"God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of Our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom the world is crucified to me, and I to the world" (Gal. 6:14).

1. Nothing in the Church is begun, carried out, or completed, without the sign of the cross. It is used in innumerable blessings and ceremonials of the Church. At Mass alone it is used fifty-one times.

The sign of the cross is the most common way of confessing our faith. By it we can know Catholics from non-Catholics. It is believed that it had its origin in apostolic times.

2. We make the sign of the cross by touching with the outstretched fingers of the right hand the forehead, then the breast, and then the left and right shoulders, saying, "In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen."

The sign should be made slowly, with great respect, as it is the sign of our salvation. The left hand should be laid across the breast.

3. Another way of making the sign of the cross is used at the two Gospels of the Mass. Then small signs of the cross are made with the thumb of the right hand on the forehead, on the lips, and on the breast. This same sign with the thumb alone is made on the forehead at Baptism.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
4. In some countries a double sign of the cross is made in the following manner:

With the thumb of the right hand a small cross is made on the forehead, meanwhile saying: “By the sign of the Holy Cross,” then a small cross is made on the lips, while saying: “from our enemies”; then a small cross is made on the breast, while saying: “deliver us, O Thou Lord our God”; and finally with index and middle fingers a large sign of the cross is made, touching forehead, breast, and shoulders, saying: “In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit.” All these words are from the Roman Missal.

5. We should make the sign of the cross especially upon arising in the morning and retiring at night; before and after our prayers, meals and principal actions; and whenever we are tempted or in danger. Whenever we are blessed, at Mass, at Benediction, or elsewhere, we should make it.

It is customary to ask for a priest’s blessing when he visits our home. We should then kneel and make the sign of the cross. An indulgence is attached to the sign of the cross. Every time we make it we gain three years’ indulgence; if made with holy water, seven years’ indulgence.

WHY do we make the sign of the cross?

We make the sign of the cross to express two important mysteries of the Christian religion, the Blessed Trinity and the Redemption.

1. When we say, “In the name,” we express the truth that there is only one God; when we say, “of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit,” we express the truth that there are three distinct Persons in God. And when we make the form of the cross on ourselves, we express the truth that the Son of God, made man, redeemed us by His death on the cross.

By this sign we confess that we belong to the religion of the crucified Saviour. By it a Catholic makes a clear confession of faith; by it he is known.

2. By means of the sign of the cross we obtain God’s blessing and protection from dangers both spiritual and physical.

Of itself the sign of the cross is a blessing, besides a prayer for God’s blessing. Since it is a sign of God and His crucified Son, the devil fears it, and it is a shield against temptation. The saints used to make the sign of the cross when evil thoughts assailed them; many Catholics today follow their example; and we should do the same. In doing so, we put a seal on our foreheads that proclaims, “I belong to Christ, the King of all.”

3. The Church holds the sign of the cross in great reverence and honor. All our churches, schools and other institutions, altars, graves, and sacred vestments bear this sign. Churches are usually built in the form of the cross.

St. John Damascene said: “The sign of the Cross is a seal, at sight of which the destroying angel passes on, and does us no harm.” It is the Christian counterpart of the blood of the lamb marking the doorposts of the Israelites. It is the sign of Christ, the symbol of our redemption.

What are the prayers that every Catholic should KNOW BY HEART?

The prayers that every Catholic should know by heart are: the Our Father, the Hail Mary, the Apostles’ Creed, the Con- fiteor, the Glory be to the Father, and the acts of faith, hope, charity, and contrition.

In addition, every Catholic should know the “Angelus,” the “Hail Holy Queen,” “grace before and after meals,” a prayer to the guardian angel, one to St. Joseph, and Our Lady’s Memorare.

1. The “Gloria Patri” (Glory be to the Father) is a prayer in honor of the Blessed Trinity. It is a prayer of praise, as well as an act of faith in the mystery of the Trinity.

We should repeat the “Glory be to the Father” every time we receive a benefit from God, and in times of suffering and temptation. We should repeat it often, in acknowledgment of the chief mystery of the Catholic Faith, of the Blessed Trinity.

2. The acts of faith, hope, and charity are special prayers said in adoration of God. The act of contrition also honors God, because in asking for the pardon of sins, we acknowledge His power to condemn and to save. The “Confiteor” is the long form of the act of contrition, and is used at Mass.

Even when we are in the midst of work, we can often send up to God the adoration we feel by making very short acts of faith, hope, charity, and con- trition. We might say, for instance, “Dear God, I believe in You; I hope in You; I love You with all my heart. I am sorry that I have offended You, because You are so good.” For other occasions, we should also know by heart the longer forms.

3. By the grace before and after meals, we ask God’s blessing on our food, and we thank Him for having given it to us.

One would think that everybody would be eager to give God this act of courtesy. Sad to say, many neglect to thank God for their daily food. These prayers are on pages 418-421.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
"And it came to pass as he was praying in a certain place, that when he ceased, one of his disciples said to him, 'Lord, teach us to pray'” (Luke 11:1). Our Lord therefore taught His disciples the "Our Father."

Jesus continued: “And I say to you, ask, and it shall be given to you; seek, and you shall find; knock, and it shall be opened to you. For everyone who asks receives; and he who seeks finds; and to him who knocks it shall be opened (Luke 11:9-10).

186. The “Our Father”

Why is the “OUR FATHER” the best of all prayers?

The Our Father is the best of all prayers because it is the Lord’s Prayer, taught us by Jesus Christ Himself, a prayer of perfect and unselfish love.

1. The “Our Father” was taught by Christ Himself to us through His Apostles at their request. It has an introduction and seven petitions for all the needs of soul and body. It is at one and the same time a prayer of praise, petition, and contrition.

2. In the “Our Father” we not only pray in the name of Jesus, but in His own words. It is suited to every class and condition of men, from the simplest to the wisest.

Of this prayer more than of any other Our Lord’s promise holds good: “If you ask the Father anything in my name, he will give it to you” (John 16:23).

3. In saying the “Our Father” we offer ourselves entirely to God and ask from Him the best things, not only for ourselves, but also for our neighbor. No prayer means so much in so few words.

Why do we address God as “Our Father Who art in heaven?”

We address God as “Our Father Who art in heaven,” because we belong to Him, our loving Father, Who created us and watches over us, Who adopts us through sanctifying grace as His children and Who destines us to live for ever with Him in heaven, our true home.

1. “Our Father Who art in heaven” is the introduction. In it Our Lord taught us to be as little children, calling God “Father.”
Thus we show our love of and confidence in Him. We say “Our” and not “My” because we pray not only for ourselves, but for all men. “We are sons of God” (Rom. 8:16).

2. We say, “Who art in heaven” to remind ourselves that in heaven is God’s throne, and there also is our true Home. “In my Father’s house there are many mansions” (John 14:2).

For what do we pray when we say “hallowed be Thy name”?

When we say “hallowed be Thy name,” we pray that God may be known and honored by all men.

This is the first petition. It is placed first to teach us that we should put the glory of God first above all things else. “Praise the name of the Lord” (Ps. 113:1).

For what do we pray when we say “Thy kingdom come”?

When we say “Thy kingdom come,” we pray that the kingdom of God’s grace may be spread throughout the world, that all men may come to know and to enter the true Church and to live as worthy members of it, and that, finally, we all may be admitted to the kingdom of God’s glory.

This is the second petition. We here acknowledge God to be the King and Lord of creation. We ask that all may recognize Him as such, that He may extend His care and providence to all.

For what do we pray when we say “Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven”?

When we say “Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven,” we pray that all men may obey God on earth as willingly as the saints and angels obey Him in heaven.

This is the third petition. By it we pray for help to fulfill God’s will and by being patient and resigned under trials, for no pain can befal us without God’s permission. “He who does the will of my Father shall enter the kingdom of heaven” (Matt. 7:21).

For what do we pray when we say “Give us this day our daily bread”?

When we say “Give us this day our daily bread,” we pray that God will give us each day all that is necessary to support the material life of our bodies and the spiritual life of our souls.

This is the fourth petition. The word “daily” shows that we are expected to ask every day, for the “bread” we ask for is only for one day. We are permitted to ask for temporal favors, provided they are not contrary to God’s will.

For what do we pray when we say “and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us”?

When we say “and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us,” we pray that God will pardon the sins by which we have offended Him, and we tell Him that we pardon our fellow men who have offended us.

This is the fifth petition. We cannot expect God to forgive us if we do not forgive others. “If you forgive men their offenses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you your offenses. But if you do not forgive men neither will your Father forgive you your offenses” (Matt. 6:14-15).

For what do we pray when we say “and lead us not into temptation”?

When we say “and lead us not into temptation,” we pray that God will always give us the grace to overcome the temptations to sin which come to us from the world, the flesh, and the devil.

This is the sixth petition. Temptations come to us (1) from the world, other people and things of this earth full of vanities; (2) from the flesh, that is, from our own weak and corrupted nature; and (3) from the devil, the evil one whose only joy is in dragging souls to sin. We must do our part in resisting temptation by being vigilant against it, and by avoiding the occasions of sin. “Pray, that you may not enter into temptation” (Matt. 26:41). “God is faithful, and will not permit you to be tempted beyond your strength” (1 Cor. 10:13).

For what do we pray when we say “but deliver us from evil”?

When we say “but deliver us from evil,” we pray that God will always protect us from all harm to soul and body, especially from sin.

This is the seventh and last petition in the Our Father.

What is meant by the word “Amen” with which we end the “Our Father”?

By the word “Amen” with which we end the Our Father, is meant “So it is,” or “So be it,” the word expresses our confidence that all our petitions will be granted.
1. “The angel Gabriel was sent from God to a town of Galilee, called Nazareth, to a virgin betrothed to a man named Joseph, of the house of David, and the virgin’s name was Mary. And ... he said, Hail, full of grace, the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou among women” (Luke 1:27-28).

2. Mary went to visit her cousin Elizabeth: “And Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Spirit, and cried out with a loud voice, saying, Blessed art thou among women and blessed is the fruit of thy womb” (Luke 1:41-42). When we pray the “Hail Mary,” these two beautiful events came to mind.

187. Prayers to Mary

THE PRINCIPAL PRAYERS TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN

The “Hail Mary,” the “Hail Holy Queen,” the “Angelus,” the “Rosary,” and the “Litany of the Blessed Virgin Mary.”

What is the first part of the Hail Mary?

The first part of the “Hail Mary” is: Hail Mary, full of grace, the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb, Jesus.”

1. The first part of the “Hail Mary” is a prayer of praise. It is composed of (a) the words of the Archangel Gabriel to Mary; and (b) the words of St. Elizabeth to Mary. Because the prayer begins with the words of the Angel, the “Hail Mary” is in English termed the “Angelical Salutation.” It is called “Ave Maria” in Latin.

The angel Gabriel said: “Hail, full of grace, the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou among women” (Luke 1:28). The words of St. Elizabeth are “Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb” (Luke 1:42).

2. The first two words, “Hail Mary,” mean: I salute thee. By this we testify our reverence for our Blessed Mother and congratulate her on her privileges.

“He has regarded the loveliness of his handmaid; for behold, from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed” (Luke 1:48).

3. “Full of grace” means that Mary is the most holy and exalted of all creatures, possessed of all graces and gifts of God.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
She is the only one of all mortals that was conceived free from all stain of original sin. This is why we speak of Mary's Immaculate Conception. "You are beautiful, my beloved, and there is no blemish in you" (Cant. 4:7).

4. "The Lord is with thee" signifies that although all good persons are united with God, Mary in a special manner is more closely united with Him in love and power.

Mary was united with God even on earth in the closest union; she was like a tabernacle containing God, except that while the tabernacle only shelters Our Lord, her spirit and His were one, and even her blood and His were one.

5. "Blessed art thou among women" means that Mary has been privileged among all women, being the Mother of the Son of God. She is therefore higher in holiness, grace, and glory than any other woman.

Mary was blessed because the Son born of her brought her blessings. She is blessed as one who cooperated in the salvation of men; even on earth, she received the homage of angels and men.

6. "And blessed is the fruit of thy womb, Jesus" means that Mary is blessed because of her Son. All her glory and power come from Him, God who became her Son.

Mary is like a tree that bears good fruit; can any fruit be better than the Son of God? So touched was a woman by the holiness of that Son that she raised up her voice in praise: "Blessed is the womb that bore thee, and the breasts that nursed thee" (Luke 11:27).

What is the SECOND PART of the "Hail Mary"?

The second part of the "Hail Mary" is: "Holy Mary, Mother of God, pray for us sinners now and at the hour of our death."

1. The second part of the "Hail Mary" is a prayer of petition, and was composed by the Church. In it we entreat Mary's intercession.

Mary, of all human beings, shared most in the bitter sufferings of her Son for the salvation of men. She cannot be deaf to our petitions to help us attain eternal salvation. She knows what her Son suffered for us.

2. "Holy Mary, Mother of God, pray for us sinners." We call ourselves sinners, for no man, except the Blessed Virgin, can be free from all sin. Knowing what power a mother, and especially the Mother of God, has over her Son, we beg Mary to pray for us.

There is no sinner fallen so low that Mary will refuse to entreat mercy for him if he is contrite.

3. In the words: "Now and at the hour of our death" we ask of Mary to obtain for us during life the gift of the love of God, and at the hour of death that help we shall need to enable us to save our soul.

The hour of death is the time above all times when we need help most. At that hour we may probably be racked by physical suffering which tempts us to forget God; we may very likely be attacked by the devil, by temptation when we are weakest. We may be overwhelmed by a fear of God. And so we plead with Mary to obtain for us the graces we shall need.

What is the "Hail Holy Queen"?

The "Hail Holy Queen" or "Salve Regina" is one of the most common prayers to Mary, composed in the eleventh century and attributed to the Benedictine monk Herman the Lame (Contractus).

What is the "Angelus"?

The "Angelus" is a prayer recited morning, noon, and evening, in honor of Mary and of the mystery of the Incarnation.

1. This prayer is called the Angelus, because its first word in Latin is "Angelus" meaning Angel. In the Easter season, the "Regina Coeli" is substituted for the Angelus.

The custom of ringing the bell for the Angelus dates from the eleventh century, during the Crusades, to admonish the faithful to pray for the victory of the crusaders.

2. For the "Angelus," the bell is rung thrice three separate times, with an interval of about half a minute each, while the verse and "an Ave Maria" are being said. Then, for the "longer prayer," the bell is rung continuously.

The words of the "Angelus," with explanations, are as follows: (1) The Angel of the Lord (Gabriel the Archangel) declared unto Mary the birth of the Son of God. And she conceived of the Holy Spirit (and she became, by the grace of the Holy Spirit, the Mother of Jesus). Behold the handmaid of the Lord. Be it done unto me according to thy word. (By the consent Mary gave in these words, God the Son came from heaven and became incarnate in her womb). And the Word (God the Son) was made flesh (became man). And dwelt among us (and lived on earth for thirty-three years, our Saviour and Lord).

The faithful who at dawn, at noon, and at even-tide, or as soon thereafter as may be, devoutly recite the Angelus, or at Eastertide the Regina Coeli, with the appropriate versicles and prayers, or who merely say the Hail Mary "five times," may gain an indulgence of ten years each time. (Racc. 331).
The Rosary is divided into the joyful, the sorrowful, and the glorious mysteries. In the joyful mysteries, we meditate on: (1) the Annunciation; (2) The Visitation; (3) The Birth of Jesus; (4) The Presentation; and (5) The Finding in the Temple. In the sorrowful mysteries we meditate on: (1) The Agony in the Garden; (2) The Scourging; (3) The Crown of Thorns; (4) The Carrying of the Cross, and (5) The Crucifixion. In the glorious mysteries we meditate on: (1) The Resurrection; (2) The Ascension; (3) The Descent of the Holy Spirit; (4) The Assumption; and (5) The Coronation of the Blessed Virgin.

188. The Rosary

What is THE ROSARY?

The Rosary is a prayer in honor of the Blessed Virgin, consisting of one hundred and fifty “Hail Marys” and fifteen “Our Fathers” accompanied by meditation on the life, passion, and glory of Christ.

1. It is said that in the Middle Ages there were hermits who could not read the psalms in the psalter. So they used to substitute “one Our Father” and “one Hail Mary” for each psalm. To note the number, they made use of stones, or seeds strung on a cord.

The word “rosary” means a garland or wreath of roses. Each prayer said in the Rosary is a spiritual rose offered to our Blessed Mother.

2. The Rosary is a powerful prayer to obtain the grace of God through the intercession of the Blessed Virgin. Pope John XXIII in his encyclical letter (1959) on the Rosary tells us that the Rosary is an excellent means of prayer and meditation. As in his younger years, the holy Rosary continues to be very dear to his heart, so much that he never fails to recite it every day as an act of devotion to the Blessed Virgin Mary.

In times of danger and calamity, the Rosary has been the means by which miraculous aid has been obtained. This was the case in the victory of Lepanto (1571), and the deliverance of Vienna (1683). It was in thanksgiving for these victories that the Holy Father instituted the feast of the Blessed Virgin Mary of the Rosary on October the 7th.
3. The very simplicity of the Rosary makes it a prayer for children. For this reason it is the prayer of the little and the humble, and most pleasing in the eyes of God.

However, we must pray with devotion, attention and slowly. "Prayer is a loving conversation with God, the Blessed Virgin Mary, and the saints." There are "no magic" prayers. God will pay no attention to the prayers of a phonograph or of a parrot.

4. At the same time the rosary is a prayer of contemplation: the truths discovered from meditation on the mysteries presented can never be exhausted by even the most learned.

Pope Pius XII in his encyclical letter (1951) on the Rosary encourages the Christian people to realize "the dignity, the power, and the excellence of the Rosary."

"But it is above all in the bosom of the family that We desire the custom of the Holy Rosary to be everywhere adopted, religiously preserved, and ever more intensely practiced. In vain is a remedy sought for the wavering fate of civil life, if the family, the principle and foundation of the human community, is not fashioned after the pattern of the Gospel."

"To undertake such a difficult duty, We affirm that the custom of the family recitation of the Holy Rosary is a most efficacious means. What a sweet sight—most pleasing to God—when, at eventide, the Christian home resounds with the frequent repetition of praises in honor of the august Queen of Heaven! Then the Rosary, recited in common, assemblies before the image of the Virgin, in an admirable union of hearts, the parents and their children, who come back from their daily work. It unites them piously with those absent and those dead. It links all more tightly in a sweet bond of love, with the most Holy Virgin, who, like a loving mother, in the circle of her children, will be there bestowing upon them an abundance of the gifts of concord and family peace."

The family that prays together stays together.

HOW IS the Rosary SAID?

Ordinarily, only one-third of the Rosary is said: fifty Hail Marys and five Our Fathers prayed on a string of beads slipped through the fingers.

The Rosary combines vocal with mental prayer. It is a summary of the most important parts of the Gospels, a most useful and powerful prayer. Catholics should not fail to say at least five decades of the Rosary each day.

1. Ordinarily, we begin the Rosary by saying the Apostles' Creed. Then we say one Our Father, three Hail Marys, and one Glory be to the Father for the increase of faith, hope and charity. This is the introduction, but it is not necessary for the gaining of the indulgence.

For every third part an indulgence of five years may be gained; if recited in company with others once a day, an indulgence of ten years (Rac. 395).

2. We say the "Our Fathers" on the large beads and the "Hail Marys" on the small beads. One Our Father, and the ten Hail Marys following, are called a decade. Five decades make the chaplet of beads. It is customary to close each decade with a "Glory be to the Father."

While reciting the Rosary, everyone should hold his own rosary in his hand. If several are saying the Rosary together, only one need have a rosary in his hand and regulate the number of prayers.

3. While we say each decade, we should meditate upon one mystery of our faith. The Rosary is divided into the joyful, the sorrowful, and the glorious mysteries, each honoring respectively the life, the passion, and the glorification of Our Lord.

The objection is often made that the Rosary is not a praiseworthy prayer because in it one prayer, the Hail Mary, is repeated so often. In reply to this objection we would say that one who has a feeling much at heart generally repeats over and over certain words that give expression to that feeling. Note a child begging for something. Besides, this practice has Holy Scripture itself, and even Our Lord, for a model: in the Psalms, the words "His mercy endureth forever" are repeated in only one psalm as many as twenty-seven times; the angels intimate that their song of "Holy, holy, holy, Lord God of hosts" is unceasing; in the Garden, Our Lord repeated His prayer.

What is the LITANY OF THE BLESSED VIRGIN?

The Litany of the Blessed Virgin is a prayer in which the most glorious titles are given to the Mother of God, as her intercession is invoked.

The LITANY is a succession of glorious and symbolic salutations. In it we call her Mystical Rose, because the beauty of her soul fulfilled the prophecy, "I am raised aloft,...like a palm tree in En-gaddi, like a rosebush in Jericho" (Sirach 24:14). We address her as Tower of David and Tower of Ivory, because she rises up above all men in beauty and strength of soul. She is called House of Gold because God Himself dwelt within her as in a Temple. She is called Ark of the Covenant, because as it contained the tables of the Mosaic Law, so she contained the Lawgiver of all, God. She is invoked as the Gate of Heaven, because we beg her to intercede for us "now and at the hour of our death" so that we may enter the heavenly kingdom.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
When we pass before an image of Our Lord, our Lady, or the Saints, we should show our reverence by bowing before it.

2. Upon entering or leaving the place where the Blessed Sacrament is exposed, or while Holy Communion is being distributed, we should make a double genuflection, that is, kneel on both knees and bow, in adoration of God, there before us.

3. When we enter or leave the church, or pass before the tabernacle where the Blessed Sacrament is reserved, we should genuflect on the right knee as an act of adoration to our hidden Lord. In genuflecting, the knee should touch the floor, and not merely be bent.

189. Religious Practices

What kinds of religious practices are observed in the Church?

There are two kinds of religious practices observed in the Church: the ordinary and the extraordinary.

1. The ordinary practices take place at regularly appointed times. They are the regular services held on Sundays and holidays, and weekdays.

On Sunday and holidays, in all parish churches one or more Masses are offered in the morning, afternoon and evening, according to the number of priests and the size of the parish. At each of these Masses a sermon is preached. In many parishes, there are special services, such as the recital of the Rosary, or benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. On weekdays one or more Masses are said. Especially in May, June, and October, there is usually exposition of the Blessed Sacrament and the recital of the Rosary. As it should be, wherever possible, the Mass is taking the place of such devotional practices.

2. The extraordinary or special devotions take place only on special occasions. Some of them are: "Benediction," "exposition of the Blessed Sacrament," the "Way of the Cross," "processions," "novenas," "missions and retreats," "congresses," "devotion to the Sacred Heart," etc.

In what does THE DEVOTION TO THE SACRED HEART OF JESUS consist?

The devotion to the Sacred Heart of Jesus is meant to honor His love, human and divine, and to arouse men's love and self-surrender in return.

1. Since Jesus Christ is both God and man, His humanity, being inseparable from His divinity, is worthy of adoration. This adoration is not aimed at the human nature, but at the divine person of Christ. In a similar manner, when we kiss our mother's hand, we do not pay our respect to her flesh, but to her, as our parent.

Although devotion to the Sacred Heart of Jesus was known in ancient times, it became widespread as a result of the revelations Our Lord made to St. Margaret Mary Alacoque, towards the end of the seventeenth century. Through her, He made twelve promises to those who should practice the devotion to His Sacred Heart.

2. Among the twelve promises of Our Lord in favor of the devotees of His Heart is: "I promise in the excess of the mercy of My Heart, that its all-powerful love will grant to all those who receive communion on the first Friday of every month for nine consecutive months the grace of final repentance, and that they shall not die under My displeasure, nor without the sacraments, and that My Heart shall be their secure refuge at that last hour."

The “First Friday” devotion arose from this promise of Our Lord, especially the devotion of the nine First Fridays. When we venerate the Sacred Heart, we should remember His great love for us, flowing out of that Heart, and try to make some return for that love.

3. In order to make this devotion of the nine First Fridays well, we should make a good confession and receive Holy Communion, offering all that we are and all that we have to the Sacred Heart of Jesus. Everybody should make this devotion at least once, for himself.

The whole month of June is consecrated to the Sacred Heart. In many churches every day in June, there are special devotions.

Other devotions to Our Lord Jesus Christ are: those to His Passion, to the Holy Name, to the Five Wounds, and to the Precious Blood.

What is a EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS?

A Eucharistic Congress is a gathering of Catholics which convenes for the purpose of giving public adoration to the Eucharist.

The first Eucharistic Congress was held at Lille, France, on June 21, 1881.

1. These congresses aim to promote devotion to our Lord in the Holy Eucharist, to honor Him in the memorial He left us. They aim to discuss means by which to make known Christ's gift to men. They may be local, provincial, diocesan, national, or international. National Congresses are held in a number of nations every few years.

The exercises of the congress include daily Masses attended by all the participants, daily communions, conferences, etc. Sometimes the participants are divided into various sections for better discussions and organization.

2. The most important of these congresses is the International Eucharistic Congress. It was started in 1881 and at present is taking place every four years. The place is selected by a permanent committee with the approbation of the Holy Father. It is customary for the Pope to appoint a Legate, usually a Cardinal, to International Congresses; he presides over the most important functions as the representative of the Holy Father.

These international congresses, attended by hundreds of thousands, are most pleasing to Our Lord in the Eucharist. This satisfaction He shows by the fruitful result of such congresses. The spiritual life of the participants is renewed, and not rarely many who have become indifferent to the Faith renew their fervor. The spectacle of the devotion and piety of so many adoring the Sacrament is an edifying spectacle to non-Catholics, thousands of whom are converted. The nation selected for the congress is specially blessed.

The 28th International Eucharistic Congress, held in Chicago in June 1926, was one of the greatest religious events in the history of our country. The Congress was held in Soldier's Field, an immense stadium with a capacity of 350,000. Twelve Cardinals, over 500 Archbishops and Bishops, six thousand Priests, ten thousand Sisters, and hundreds of thousands of people gathered in Chicago for four days to honor Jesus in the Blessed Eucharist. On the last day the solemn procession took place on the grounds of the large Seminary of Mundelein. Over 900,000 faithful gathered to honor Our Eucharistic Lord. The Cardinal Legate of the Holy Father carried the sacred monstrance. This Congress of devotion and prayer struck a contrast to the usual commercial and busy life of that great city. Even the President of the United States sent his personal representative.
During the sermons of a mission or retreat (1), we should listen attentively, avoiding all kinds of noise such as coughing, fidgeting, whispering, etc. We should remember the motive for the mission, and act accordingly.

190. Practices of Devotion

What is the WAY OF THE CROSS?

The Way of the Cross is a kind of pilgrimage, in which we visit in our mind the most important scenes of Our Lord's Passion in Jerusalem.

*Tradition says that the Blessed Virgin originated this devotion by often walking in the steps of her Son to Calvary, pausing at the spots marked by some special incident. This devotion is called Via Crucis, Way of the Cross, or Stations of the Cross.*

1. The Way of the Cross is made by stopping at fourteen stations indicating the path followed by Our Lord, bearing His cross, from the palace of Pilate to Calvary.

The fourteen stations erected according to the prescriptions of the Holy See are marked by fourteen wooden crosses. Pictures and inscriptions are usually added, but the indulgence of the devotion are attached to the crosses.

2. In making the Way of the Cross, we visit the stations consecutively, pausing at each one, and meditating on the scene which is represented by the station.

   It is advisable and usual to go from station to station in the church. It is enough to meditate on the Passion, without saying any set prayers, although it is usual to recite one Our Father, one Hail Mary, and one Glory be to the Father at each station. A favorite ejaculation said at the beginning of the meditation before each station is: “We adore Thee, O Christ, and we bless Thee. Because by Thy holy cross Thou hast redeemed the world.”

3. The Way of the Cross is a most profitable devotion. Meditation on the Passion of Our Lord leads us into contrition and the practice of virtue. A plenary indulgence is attached to this devotion (Racc. 194).
If we are prevented by sickness, long distance from the church, or any other hindrance of sufficient nature, from making the way of the cross, we can gain the indulgence by reciting twenty times the Our Father, Hail Mary, and Glory be to the Father,—(once for each station, five times for the sacred wounds, and once for the intention of the Holy Father)—holding meanwhile a crucifix properly blessed for the stations. The very sick gain the indulgence by just holding the crucifix and making an act of contrition, or a sign of sorrow.

What are NOVENAS?

Novenas are public or private devotions carried on for the space of nine days in honor of God or the saints or angels.

1. The first novena of the Church was held by the Apostles and disciples who with our Blessed Lady awaited the coming of the Holy Spirit after the Ascension. Following the example of the Apostles, the faithful make novenas directly to God or to Him through one of the saints, to obtain spiritual or temporal favors.

Any suitable prayers may be used in making a novena. The best way, however, is to hear mass and receive Holy Communion daily as practices for the novena.

2. Novenas are commonly made in preparation for a specified feast.

The novena most often made are: for Pentecost, for Christmas, for Corpus Christi, for Christ the King, for the feasts in honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary, for St. Joseph, for the Guardian Angels, for the patron saint of the community. The "Novena of Grace" in honor of St. Francis Xavier’s canonization has been productive of innumerable and extraordinary favors. It is made from March 4 to March 12.

What is a MISSION?

A mission is a series of sermons and other spiritual exercises conducted under the leadership of a competent priest or priests for the purpose of renewing fervor in the spiritual life.

Missions effect an immense amount of good. Because of their rare occurrence, they make a great impression on the people. Missions are seasons of grace for a community or parish; sinners are converted and the just are incited to progress in virtue. This is because they are a sort of general check-up of the spiritual status of the community and of the individuals.

1. In most places Missions are held at least once a year. They usually last a week, including daily sermons, meditation, and congregational singing and end in a general communion.

2. During the Mission we should as possible withdraw ourselves from worldly amusements and spend as much time as we can with Our Lord, meditating on spiritual things, especially on the topics brought up in the sermons.

Again and again we should think over the words of Holy Scripture: "For what does it profit a man, if he gain the whole world, but suffer the loss of his own soul?" (Matt. 16:26).

3. The Mission serves to remind us that our destiny is heaven, and that therefore we should not be too much immersed in earthly distractions to the exclusion of our spiritual progress.

It serves to remind us that worldly honors and riches and pleasures are nothing, and that the only true riches are the love and service of God alone.

4. During the Mission we should examine ourselves very carefully, including our conduct during the whole year, to see where we can make improvements, and where they are most needed. Then we should make a good confession, with a firm determination to amend, and serve God better.

The Mission is a good chance for those who are bashful about confessing to their parish priest, who knows them. During the Mission several priests from elsewhere are usually present to hear confessions. Many confess more freely to a priest who is a stranger than to their parish priest or curates.

What are RETREATS?

Retreats are a series of spiritual exercises and religious services held in "Retreat Houses," in convents, schools, and similar institutions, for a certain class of persons, whether priests, nuns, schoolchildren, laymen or laywomen.

1. The retreat is similar to a Mission, and has about the same effect. It is better than a Mission in the sense that the retreat-master can particularize his discourses, as those present are supposed to belong to only one class of individuals having similar tastes and similar problems.

Those taking part remain day and night in the retreat house, leaving for the period all occupations and worldly amusements.

2. More and more religious houses, colleges and schools organize special retreats for the accommodation of those in the world who wish to go in retirement for their annual spiritual exercises.
One of the most famous places of pilgrimage is the Grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes, France. In 1858, the Blessed Virgin, proclaiming herself the Immaculate Conception, appeared there to a little peasant girl named Bernadette. From then on a spring has flowed out of the grotto, the water of which has been the means of curing hundreds of thousands. Pilgrims from the remotest parts of the world going to the shrine number about a million a year. The cures are certified by a bureau of eminent physicians, most of whom are non-Catholic. At Lourdes physical cures are not the only ones made; there are also many conversions.

191. Processions and Pilgrimages

What is the PURPOSE of processions?

Processions are held to set before us forcibly events in the life of Christ and doctrines of our faith, or to implore the mercy of God, or as a public act of thanksgiving.

1. Processions are held in honor of God or the Saints. It is by way of an open profession of faith that Mother Church has instituted processions like those of Corpus Christi, Rogation Days, Christ the King, etc. Processions are also held in times of calamity, to offer united prayer to God.

   Our Lord promised that wherever two or three are gathered in His name, He would be in the midst of them. He also required us to profess Him publicly before our fellowmen.

2. In a procession, a cross is always carried in front. Banners or standards may also be carried, and candles borne.

Images are usually carried, except when the Blessed Sacrament is taken in procession. In this latter case it is the practice not to carry images. The prayers recited or hymns sung vary according to the object of the procession.

PROCessions REGULARLY HELD

1. The PROCESSION of the feast of the Purification of the Blessed Virgin Mary, February 2nd. This feast, considered in honor of Our Lord Jesus Christ, is also called Candlemas. On this day, before Mass, candles are blessed and after carried in procession.

   The wax tapers carried during the procession symbolize Christ, the Light of the World, whom Holy Simeon called “a light of revelation to the Gentiles” (Luke 2:32).

2. The PROCESSION of Palm Sunday. Blessed palms are carried, in memory of Our Lord’s triumphal entry into Jerusalem.
Although Holy Week begins with Second Passion Sunday or Palm Sunday, the priests and ministers use red vestments and sing joyous hymns during the solemn procession, to symbolize the triumphal entry of Jesus into the city.

3. The PROCESSIONS on Rogation Days. The greater Rogation Day is on April 25, and the lesser Rogation Days on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday before the feast of the Ascension of Our Lord.

According to local customs, on these days a procession is held, in which the Litany of the Saints is said, followed by Mass. If a procession cannot be held, the bishop will give the directions as to what is to be done. He may also transfer the lesser Rogation Days to other days more suitable to the region. The purpose of the procession and special prayers is to beg for God's mercy and ask blessings on the field and crops.

4. The PROCESSION of Corpus Christi, the Thursday after Trinity Sunday. It is most solemn, the Blessed Sacrament being carried and placed on two altars specially built for the purpose, for the adoration of the people.

The feast of Corpus Christi (Body of Christ) was instituted about six centuries ago as a special memorial of love of Christ for us. In the 15th century Pope Urban IV instituted the procession of Corpus Christi. The feast of Corpus Christi is a holyday of obligation in many countries. Where the procession is not made on Thursday, it is transferred to the following Sunday.

5. The PROCESSION of Christ the King, celebrated on the last Sunday in October. In this the Blessed Sacrament is usually carried as for Corpus Christi. It is usual to permit only men to walk in the procession, the women standing along the way. It ends with the prayer of consecration to Christ the King and Benediction.

When the Blessed Sacrament is carried in procession, it is taken in a monstrance under a canopy, and incense is burnt. It is the custom to ask important civil officials who are good practical Catholics to hold the posts of the canopy during the procession.

What are PILGRIMAGES?

Pilgrimages are journeys made to holy places with the object of giving honor to God or His saints, and as a means of devotion and pence.

1. Pilgrimages were made in the Old Law. On the three principal feasts of the year, all the men had to go up to the Temple at Jerusalem. Thus we read in the Gospel how Joseph and Mary took Jesus to the Temple when He was twelve years old.

"And his parents were wont to go every year to Jerusalem, at the feast of the Passover" (Luke 2:41).

2. The chief places of pilgrimage are: the Holy Land where Our Lord lived and died; Rome with its sacred places, shrines of the Blessed Virgin, and spots sacred to the Apostles. Those on a pilgrimage must not act like curious tourists simply bent on sight-seeing.

In the "Holy Land" the chief places of pilgrimage are the scene of the Crucifixion and the Holy Sepulchre on Mount Calvary in Jerusalem, the place of the Nativity at Bethlehem, and the place of the Annunciation at Nazareth.

3. In Rome, City of the Prince of the Apostles, the principal places visited are the four basilicas: St. Peter's, where the body of Peter rests; St. Paul's outside the walls, where one can pray at the tomb of Paul; St. John Lateran, and St. Mary Major.

A pilgrimage is usually undertaken to obtain graces, in thanksgiving for graces received, or in fulfillment of a vow. Pilgrimages are made to Rome every jubilee year. God shows His approval of pilgrimages by granting many spiritual and temporal favors to the participants.

4. Shrines of pilgrimage in honor of the Blessed Virgin are scattered all over the world, and are so numerous as to be almost countless. But the most famous are: Lourdes in France, Loretto in Italy, Zaragossa in Spain, Czestochowa in Poland, Fatima in Portugal, Guadalupe in Mexico, Lujan in Argentina, etc.

(a) At Lourdes every year a million pilgrims offer their love to Mary Immaculate, and profit by her intercession; many miraculously cures have taken place there.

(b) In the United States there is the new National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, Washington, D.C. The Blessed Virgin Mary under the title of the Immaculate Conception is the Patroness of the United States. The feast is on December 8th.

(c) In Mexico the most extraordinary Sanctuary of the Blessed Virgin Mary of Guadalupe.

(d) In Canada there is Beaupre, where pilgrims seek the blessings from St. Anne.

For other shrines of saints we may mention St. Patrick's at Donegal, Ireland; St. James' at Compostella in Spain; St. Benedict's, St. Francis', St. Anthony's and St. John Bosco's in Italy; St. Stephen in Hungary; St. Boniface's in Germany; St. Rose of Lima in South America; St. Francis Xavier's in Goa; St. Therese's of the Child Jesus at Lisieux in France; "and elsewhere many other holy martyrs and confessors and holy virgins" (The Roman Martyrology).
The illustration (1) shows a young man, member of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine. This important society should be established in every parish. In the Sodality of Our Lady (2) the members honor the purest of mankind and strive to imitate her virtues, especially that of chastity. Their activities in the parishes include the teaching of catechism. A member of the Apostleship of Prayer (3) aims to help promote the glory of God in union with the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

192. Religious Associations

What are religious associations for the laity?

Religious associations for the laity are societies under ecclesiastical direction, established for the purpose of personal sanctification, for works of charity, and Catholic Action.

Religious associations are generally classified into: (1) secular third orders; (2) confraternities and pious societies; (3) councils, organizations, movements and societies fostering Catholic enterprises.

Secular Third Orders

Secular Third Orders are societies of lay people affiliated to organized religious orders, and founded for some devotional or active work for God's greater honor and glory.

The object of Third Orders is to have the religious life of the religious orders penetrate into the homes, so that, in imitation of their brethren of the First and Second Orders, lay people in the world may strive after greater perfection, although not bound by any vows under pain of sin.

Third Orders are like religious orders, being branches of these to which they are affiliated. They have a probation similar to a novitiate, a rule, and a habit. The rule is not binding under pain of sin. The habit is not worn in public without permission.

In the United States the principal Third Orders are the: Augustinian, Benedictine, Carmelite, Dominican, Franciscan, etc. Members of Third Orders are "brethren," sharing in the merits and spiritual life of the first and second orders of religious.

Confraternities and Pious Societies

Confraternities are associations of lay people erected by ecclesiastical authority for the furtherance of works of piety and charity.
The rules of confraternities are not binding under pain of sin. However, if the rules are not observed, the special graces, and indulgences attached to them are not granted. Confraternities with the right to affiliate similar associations to themselves are termed archiconfraternities. We here list a few examples of our largest confraternities.

1. The Confraternity of Christian Doctrine, by order of the Holy See, is to be instituted in every parish, to promote greater knowledge and more assiduous practice of the Catholic Faith.

   The means used are: instruction classes, study and discussion clubs, home instruction, and religious education of non-Catholics.

2. The Apostleship of Prayer (League of the Sacred Heart) promotes the glory of God and the sanctification of its members by the performance of all prayers and good works in union with the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

To become a member, one only need to have one’s name registered in an affiliated center and receive the certificate of admission. There are three degrees of members, with corresponding spiritual duties. The most common devotions of this association are the morning offering and the First Friday devotion.

3. The Confraternity of the Most Holy Rosary is a religious association for the purpose of promoting the devotion of the Rosary. Members are required to recite fifteen decades of the rosary every week; this does not bind under pain of sin.

4. The Holy Name Society aims to promote due love and reverence for the Holy Name of God and Jesus. (See page 209.)

5. The Legion of Mary is an association open to all the laity. Its purpose is the sanctification of its members and all with whom they can come in contact.

   They go from house to house to intensify Catholic Life, bring back to the fold those who have fallen away, and secure new converts. The Legion is not concerned with material relief. Through an intense devotion to the Blessed Virgin Mary the Legionnaires have become leaders of Catholic Action.

6. The Sodality of Our Lady aims to develop full Catholic life by devotion to Jesus through Mary; it is for personal holiness and active Catholicity.

   The Sodality has a monthly communion day and a monthly or weekly meeting. In the parishes sodalists generously help out in Catholic Action and social welfare activities.

Various Catholic Organizations

1. The Knights of Columbus is the best known and largest fraternal benefit society of Catholic men with over a million members in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Puerto Rico, Panama, and the Philippines. Loyally serving the Church, it promotes the Catholic Press, radio and television, the Legion of Decency for good moving pictures, the Organization for Decent Literature, Catholic Welfare drives, Catholic instruction and education, etc.

2. The Society of St. Vincent de Paul is established for the relief of the poor and neglected; its works are a living embodiment of the corporal and spiritual works of mercy. Each member is assigned a poor family for weekly visits.

   Honorary members have no poor families under their special care; but they make an annual offering of a fixed sum for the work of the Society. In the United States the Society spends around $5,000,000 a year for the poor.

3. The Apostleship of the Sea is an international Catholic Organization for the religious, educational and charitable welfare of Catholic seamen. It strives to provide seamen with facilities for assisting at Mass, receiving the sacraments, training them to promote Catholic Action among other seamen.

   National Organizations directly or indirectly under the auspices of the “National Catholic Welfare Conference”

   1. Catholic Youth Organization CYO
   2. National Catholic Educational Association
   3. Catholic “Boy Scouts of America”
   4. Catholic “Girls Scouts of America”
   5. Catholic “Camp Fire Girls, Inc.”
   6. St. Dominic Savio Class Room Club
   7. National Newman Club Federation
   8. Nat’l Federation of Catholic College Students
   9. Catholic Students Mission Crusade
   10. International Federation of Catholic Alumnae
   11. National Council of Catholic Men
   12. National Council of Catholic Women
   13. National Council of Catholic Youth
   14. National Council of Catholic Nurses
   15. National Catholic Rural Life Conference
   17. National Catholic Home and School Association
   18. National Catholic Laymen’s Retreat Movement
   19. Nat’l Catholic Laywomen’s Retreat Movement
   20. National Catholic Music Educators’ Association
   21. National Catholic Social Action Conference
   22. National Catholic Theatre Conference
   23. Catholic Association for International Peace
   24. The Liturgical Conference

(See pages 132-133 “The N. C. W. C.”)
It is not possible for all to go to distant missions to win souls for Christ. But one can always help by prayers and alms. Those who thus assist missionaries in their apostolic labors will be rewarded.

Holy Scripture says: "Equal shall be the portion of him that went down to battle and of him that abode at the baggage; and they shall divide alike" (1 Kings 30:24).

193. Propagation of the Faith

How can WE HELP the missions?

1. By praying for the missions, home and foreign, and for missionaries that they may fulfill the command of Christ: "Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations."

We should include in our particular petitions each day a fervent prayer for missions and missionaries; they are the vanguard of God, making Christ known in regions darkened by paganism. "Pray therefore the Lord of the harvest, to send forth laborers into His harvest" (Luke 10:2).

2. By knowing the missions and making them known to others.

We learn about the missions by reading mission magazines and other periodicals, by joining mission societies, by contributing to missionary appeals, by taking active part in missionary work. Let us love the missions, for it is only by them that the approximately one billion souls still unbaptized may know and love Christ our Lord.

3. By making sacrifices for the missions; that is, by helping to support them, and by personal service.

This is best done through mission societies that we should join as members, as well as through missionaries personally known to us.

Many good Catholics support or help support students in seminaries, destined for the missions. Others support priests and religious serving in the missions. If we cannot imitate these good people, on account of our financial situation, we can always offer up fervent prayers and sacrifices.

WHICH are the different official Church ORGANIZATIONS intended to PROMOTE and to collect means for the propagation of the Faith?

The following are the most important organizations:

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"

This society is under the direction of the Sacred Congregation "De Propaganda Fide" in Rome. Its purpose is to further the evangelization of the world by the united prayers of the faithful, and by the collection of alms for the distribution to the missions in the Western Church territories.

Conditions for membership: a) Daily prayers of one "Our Father," one "Hail Mary," and invocation, "St. Francis Xavier, pray for us"; and

b) An offering:
   Individual yearly memberships ... $ 1.00
   Individual perpetual memberships ... 40.00
   Family perpetual memberships ... 100.00

Deceased persons are also eligible for membership.

All members share not only in 15,000 Masses that are offered annually for their intentions, but in all the prayers, sacrifices and apostolic works of the missionaries.

Mission Sunday is the next to last Sunday in October. This is designated as a "Day of Prayer and Propagation for the missions." In addition, the offerings of the faithful are received to aid the missions.

2. The Pontifical Association of the Holy Childhood.

By this organization Catholic children throughout the world make their contribution of prayer and alms for the welfare of children in mission fields; thus our children become little Apostles. The conditions are:

(a) Daily prayers of one Hail Mary and the ejaculation: "Holy Virgin Mary, pray for us and for the poor pagan children," and

(b) Almsgiving to the Association.

Members gain numerous merits: sharing in those of missionaries and of the children benefited, in Masses offered by missionaries everywhere, in the prayer of all members, etc.

3. The Pontifical Society of St. Peter the Apostle. This association was organized to help in the formation of native clergy in mission lands. This aim is accomplished in three ways:

(a) By prayers for the formation of new priests, holy and pleasing to God;

(b) By furnishing the material aid necessary for the maintenance of major and minor seminaries in the missions; and

(c) By supporting poor seminarians in their studies for the priesthood, in territories under the Sacred Congregation of the Propagation of the Faith.

The importance of this society's work is well illustrated in the words of the Vicar of Christ: "If you do not work with all your might to accomplish 'the building of a native clergy,' We maintain that your apostolate will be not only crippled, but it will prove to be an obstacle and an impediment for the establishment and organization of the Church in those countries." "Rerum Ecclesiae," Pius XI in 1926.

4. The American Board of Catholic Missions. This Board is composed of the United States hierarchy.

An Episcopal Committee annually distributes to the missionary dioceses of the United States and its dependencies 40% of the annual Mission Sunday collection of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith.

5. The Catholic Church Extension Society. This is a home organization, established for the purpose of building chapels and schools, supporting mission churches, distributing Mass stipends to missionaries, and educating priests for the home missions.

The official organ of this society is the monthly "Extension Magazine," with a circulation of 400,000 copies.

6. The Catholic Near East Welfare Association. This association does for the missions of the Eastern Church what the Society for the Propagation of the Faith does for those of the Western Church.

Conditions for membership: a) A daily prayer;

b) an offering:
   Individual yearly memberships ... $ 1.00
   Family yearly memberships ....... 5.00
   Individual perpetual memberships ... 20.00
   Family perpetual memberships ... 100.00

7. Commissariat of the Holy Land. This organization collects and distributes funds for the support of the Holy Places, as well as of educational and charitable projects in the Holy Land.

8. Commission for Catholic Missions among the Colored People and Indians. This Commission is engaged in furnishing aid to Indian and Negro missions.

9. Catholic Students' Mission Crusade. It is engaged in promoting missionary knowledge among Catholic students, by means of a national magazine, textbooks, lectures, plays, and similar methods. Its activities include spiritual, educational, and missionary aid.

The Mission Crusade has a membership of approximately 1,000,000 in 3,100 educational institutions. The National headquarters are at: Crusade Castle, 5100 Shatuc Ave., Cincinnati 26, Ohio.
194. Church Symbolism

What is SYMBOLISM?

Symbolism is the giving of a rather hidden meaning to external things, particularly in order to express religious ideas.

By symbolism man apprehends reality; art in all its forms is the symbolical expression of inexpressible ideas, the positive manifestation of absolute Beauty. This is why ceremonial, which is but a symbolical representation, is vital to the life of man, whose highest desires concern a grasping at the ultimate.

1. Symbolism is invaluable, because it expresses ideas otherwise utterly inexpressible. For instance, can we express the idea of eternity in either word or picture? Yet how easily the idea is depicted by the symbol of the circle,—something without beginning without end.

Similarly we cannot explain in however numerous volumes the definiteness of One God in Three Persons; we cannot draw a picture of that idea. And yet let us draw an equilateral triangle, and by that symbol the idea is definitely conveyed: Three Persons co-equal, co-eternal, yet only One God.

2. By a familiar sign a symbol tells a story; it is a mark of identification. It expresses with exactness and beauty certain religious truths. It is not an end in itself, but a means to an end: a symbol uses art for the purposes of religion.

A symbol must not be a representation of something, but rather a representative. For example, a man is not symbolic of Our Lord; but a lamb with a banner lying on a book with seven seals is. And true symbolism must always be understood as representative. For when the symbol is taken as the very thing represented, then we have idolatry, a sin against God's commandment. If we worship the lamb itself, and not Jesus Christ, then that is idolatry. It should however be clearly understood that the commandment outlaws worship of the symbol, not the symbol itself.

3. Symbolism is essential to all kinds of religious worship. The Old Testament is full of it, forming the basis of our Christian symbolism, by which we apprehend through our senses a God-given and absolute beauty and truth.

The purpose of symbols is educational, to help man lay hold of the Infinite. Few knew how to read; books were expensive and lettered by hand. Preaching in the enormous cathedrals was not very easy, without our modern devices. The people loved God; but they could not learn about Him by oral or written instruction. And so symbolism came to the rescue, and the great churches became beautifully illustrated textbooks, for everybody to read and understand. The medieval Christian read into common objects carved, cast, painted, embroidered, or woven, a religious and mystical meaning; that was his culture, his art.

We must not, however, mistake types, or even pictures, for symbols. If we confine ourselves to animals and inanimate objects, and avoid historical characters, we are safely in the realm of symbolism. Moses on Sinai is not a symbol, but a type; of Our Lord on the Mount and similarly, Samson is a type of strength; they are not symbols.

4. From earliest times the Church has made use of symbols, to foster devotion, or to stand for some mystery of the Faith that needed to be kept secret from pagans. For instance: the early Church used a fish to stand for Christ; a town, a ship, or a woman with uplifted arms to stand for the Church.

The Most Common Catholic Symbols:

1. For the Most Blessed Trinity: the equilateral triangle to depict equality as well as unity; a combination of the triangle with the circle, to depict in addition the idea of eternity; the interwoven three circles of identical size; the interwoven triangles, one with apex upward and the other with apex downward, thus forming a six-pointed star, which is a symbol of creation; two interwoven triangles combined with a circle; the trefoil, which is a variation of the interwoven circles; the trefoil with triangle, another development of the three circles with an equilateral triangle; the trefoil with three points, another development.

Other symbols for the Holy Trinity are: the triquetra, with equal arcs of the circle symbolizing equality, unity, eternity, and indivisibility; the triquetra with a circle; the triquetra with a triangle; the three fishes arranged in the form of a triangle.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
2. For God the Father: a hand coming out of a bank of bright clouds; an eye in an equilateral triangle; a six-pointed star, termed the Creator's star; the Hebrew letters for the word Jehovah (God), inside a triangle, and surrounded by rays; the Hebrew yod inside a triangle, or two yods within rays of glory.

3. For God the Holy Spirit: the descending dove, though this must not be too realistic, and must be with the three-rayed nimbus; the cloven flame of fire, or seven flames; the scroll, to show the seven gifts; the seven lamps, seven doves, seven-fold flame, seven-branched candlestick; the star with seven points, or with twelve points, to depict the seven gifts or the twelve fruits of the Holy Spirit.

4. For God the Son, our Blessed Saviour. These are almost too numerous to mention, the most important being the cross, with some fifty forms in use. Our Lord is represented by: the Lamb of God on a book with seven seals, or with a banner of victory, or with both; the Good Shepherd; the five-pointed star; the fish; the pelican feeding her young with her blood; the cross on an orb; the vine; the rock; the unicorn; sacred monograms.

The "Chi Rho" symbol is an abbreviation of the word Christ, with the Greek letters X and P, the first two letters of the word in Greek. Like other monograms for Jesus, it has various forms. At times the Chi Rho is combined with the Alpha and Omega, or with the Greek cross, or with the letter Ν (Νικα, meaning conqueror). The IHC symbol is an abbreviation of the Greek word for Jesus. Today IHIS is also used. Another variation is IC XC, to stand for Jesus Christ. INRI means "Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews."

5. For the Blessed Virgin: the lily, symbol of virginity and purity; the fleur-de-lys in various forms; the rose, white or pink; the pierced heart; the crescent moon; the crown with stars; a star; her monogram, the flowering almond, the closed gate, the sealed book.

The symbols for the four Evangelists are: a human head for St. Matthew, because his Gospel starts with a relation of the human ancestry of Christ; a lion for St. Mark, because the beginning of his Gospel relates the story of St. John the Baptist in the desert, the home of wild beasts; an ox for St. Luke, because this animal was a symbol of sacrifice, and St. Luke's Gospel begins with a relation of the priest Zachary in the Temple; an eagle for St. John, because the opening verses of his Gospel carry the reader on a flight to the Infinite.

Other symbols are: for the Sacraments - the font, a dove, a chalice, a whip, an oil stock, clasped hands and a stole; for the Word of God, an open Bible, a burning light, a candle, two scrolls; for Penance, a prie-dieu; for Matrimony, two clasped hands; for Holy Orders, a stole, or a chalice on a Bible, with folded stole; for Prayer, a censer with smoking incense; for sacred music, a lectern; for the Epistle and Gospel, a double lectern; for benediction, an upraised hand without nimbus. A banner symbolizes victory; a flaming sword, God's authority; a crown, sovereign authority; two tables of stone, the Commandments; a book or scroll, the Law; crossed keys, the power of the Pope.

6. For the Church we have the symbols of: the ark, the ship, the ark of the covenant; the vine; the woman with dragon underfoot; the crowned woman; the bride with chalice and book; the house on a rock; the city on a hill; the candlestick; the wheat and tares; the net.

7. Symbols still commonly used are: the olive branch for peace; the palm for martyrdom; the lily for purity; the halo for sanctity; the rose for love and beauty of soul. Faith, hope, and charity are represented by a cross, an anchor, a heart.
195. Conclusion: Why I Am a Catholic

HOW does OUR REASON point out the truth of the Catholic religion?

Our reason points out the truth of the Catholic religion by these principles:

1. There is a God (see pages 14-37). We need only to look about us and contemplate the heavens and the wonders of nature, to be sure that all this order and beauty could not have come into existence except by the almighty power of an intelligent Being, God.

Who made the heavenly bodies and set them in fixed places, and traced the paths they should follow from age to age? Who made the trees, and commanded particular plants to spring from certain seeds? Who made life? Who, if not God?

2. The soul of man is immortal (see pages 42-46). A man can reason, make abstract conclusions, distinguish between right and wrong. These are acts of a spiritual faculty, and the soul to which this faculty belongs must be spiritual and independent of matter, and being so, is not subject to death. A man can say No to himself.

No other being on earth can do the spiritual things man can do. In this world man alone has intelligence and free will, therefore he alone has an immortal soul. Animals act only from instinct and sense, which are organs of the body; animals therefore cannot be immortal.

3. All men are obliged to practice religion (see pages 10-11, 180-181, 196-197). Man, with his intelligent and immortal soul, can know God according to the limits God has set. He knows that he owes to God his very existence, that he is entirely dependent on Him. From this origin and dependence arises man's duty to give his Creator due honor and adoration, in other words, his duty to practice religion.

To be faithful to God, we must serve Him by obeying His commandments and carrying out His wishes; by believing in Him, hoping in Him, and loving Him with all our hearts. All these things we learn about when we study our religion; all these we do aright when we are faithful in the practice of our religion.

4. The religion God revealed through Christ is worthy of belief (see pages 22-29, 64-67, 74-80). Our Lord announced Himself the Son of God, and as such preached His doctrines that He required us to believe. To prove that He was truly God, Our Lord worked numberless miracles.

God alone can work miracles, and He cannot work them to approve what is false. The miracles therefore worked in favor of the teaching of Jesus Christ are manifest proofs that His teaching is true.

5. Christ established a Church with which all must be connected, at least in desire, in order to be saved (see pages 102-109).

Our Lord gathered about Him a group of disciples, and called it His Church; He promised that this Church would last forever. "He who does not believe shall be condemned" (Mark 16:16). "Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit, . . . and behold I am with you all days, even unto the consummation of the world" (Matt. 28:19-20).

6. The only true Church of Christ is the Catholic Church. Only the Catholic Church possesses the marks of unity, holiness, catholicity, and apostolicity, marks of the Church established by Jesus Christ. (See pages 110-117, 142-155).

The history of the Catholic Church gives incontestable evidence of miraculous strength, permanence, and unchangeableness, thus showing the world that it is under the special protection of God. Who said, "The gates of hell shall not prevail against it" (Matt. 16:18).

Let us thank God for His gifts. We can best show our gratitude to God for making us members of the only true Church of Jesus Christ by often thanking God for this great favor, by leading edifying and practical Catholic lives, by trying to lead others to the true faith, and by helping the missions.

We thank God for the graces He showers on us in prayer and by our good lives. By following the commandments of God and the Church, and doing good works, we lead practical and edifying Catholic lives; such lives are the best way of leading others to our Faith, if we have no more direct means. By such lives we say, "Deo gratias!"

"Go into the whole world and preach the gospel to every creature" (Mark 16:15).

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
THE CHURCH YEAR

See page 254 for an explanation of the different periods and seasons.

Holydays of obligation are marked with a cross †.

THE CHIEF FEASTS OF THE YEAR

† The Immaculate Conception, December 8.

On this feast we honor the unique privilege by which the Blessed Virgin Mary was exempted from original sin. It is the first important feast of the ecclesiastical year. It is a holyday of obligation. It is also the patronal feast of the United States, which is especially consecrated to the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

† Christmas Day, December 25.

This, one of the most beautiful feasts of the year, is celebrated in remembrance of the Nativity of Our Lord. On this day priests are allowed to say three Masses in memory of the triple birth of Our Lord Jesus Christ; a midnight Mass to commemorate His eternal generation as God in the bosom of the Father; a Mass at dawn, to honor His temporal birth of the Blessed Virgin Mary at Bethlehem; and a Mass at daytime, in memory of His spiritual birth, as our Redeemer, in the hearts of the faithful.

For Christmas a crib is built in churches, schools, and many homes, to commemorate the crib at Bethlehem. Little children are specially encouraged to help build the crib. The crib was popularized by that great saint, Francis of Assisi.

The Holy Innocents, December 28.

The feast honors the children murdered by order of King Herod, as recorded in St. Matthew's Gospel.

† Octave of the Birth of Our Lord, January 1.

On this day we honor the first shedding of blood by our Divine Lord for the salvation of our souls. The feast was also instituted to implore the blessings of Almighty God on the new year. The rite of circumcision, a symbol of Baptism, was imposed by Moses on all male children, and was undergone the eighth day after their birth, to distinguish them from the Gentiles. For us Christians, Baptism took the place of circumcision. On this Feast, the ceremony of the renewal of baptismal vows may take place.

Feast of the Most Holy Name of Jesus (Sunday between the Octave of Christmas and the Epiphany, or, if there is none, January 2).

This feast is to give special honor to the Holy Name of Our Lord. Every time we pronounce the Name of Jesus, we should bow our heads.

The Holy Name Society was founded by Gregory X in 1274 to combat the growing evil of cursing, swearing, and irreverence. It is a society for men.

The Epiphany, January 6.

This feast celebrates the manifestation that Jesus Christ the Messias made to the nations of the world represented in the persons of the Magi.

Feast of the Holy Family (First Sunday after Epiphany).

This feast was instituted in order to hold up as the model of Christian families the holy Family of Nazareth, composed of Jesus, Mary, and Joseph.

Septuagesima Sunday.

Septuagesima Sunday, and the two following Sundays, Sexagesima and Quinquagesima, mean respectively seventieth, sixtieth and fiftieth, because they fall near the 70th, 60th, and 50th days before Easter. Quadragesima Sunday, near the fortieth day, is the first Sunday of Lent.

In the United States, the period in which Catholics may fulfill their Easter duty of Confession and Communion begins with the first Sunday of Lent, and lasts till the Feast of the Most Blessed Trinity, on the Sunday after Pentecost.

Octave for the Unity of the Church, January 18 to 25.

The Purification of the B. V. M., commonly called Candlemas Day (February 2).

By undergoing the ceremony of purification after childbirth, imposed on all Jewish women, Our Lady, who needed no purification, gave an example of obedience and humility to the whole world. This day the Church celebrates the blessing of candles, which symbolize Christ the Light of the World, entering the Temple to be presented here to God His Father. This is the reason why this feast is considered as a feast of Our Lord.

The day following Candlemas is the feast of St. Blase, patron for ailments of the throat. Then it is the practice to have throats given a special blessing by being touched between two crossed candles.
Our Lady of Lourdes, February 11.

This feast celebrates the apparition of the Immaculate Conception in the town of Lourdes, France. (See page 404.)

Feast of the Chair of St. Peter, Apostle, February 22.

Ash Wednesday.

This day opens the Lenten season. Catholics go to church to receive the ashes which the priest marks on their foreheads with the words: "Remember, man, that you are dust, and to dust you will return." The ashes are from the palms blessed the previous year. They symbolize penance.

First Passion Sunday.

From noon of the day previous to Passion Sunday, the crucifix and the statues on the altar are wrapped in violet, as a sign of mourning. During Passion Week and Holy Week, the Church follows closely the last scenes of Our Lord's life; on the last three days of Holy Week, she even reproduces, in a kind of sacred drama, the very acts of His Passion, death, and burial.

Commemoration of the Seven Sorrows of the Blessed Virgin Mary (Friday in Passion Week).

This Commemoration is made to recall the great sorrows of our Lady during the Passion of her Son, Our Lord Jesus Christ.

This is celebrated in honor of the Spouse of the Blessed Virgin, in whose care were placed Our Lady and Jesus Himself.

Second Passion Sunday, or Palm Sunday.

This is the first day of Holy Week. It commemorates the entrance of Our Lord for the last time into Jerusalem, when the multitude, bearing palm and olive branches, went out to welcome Him, with cries of "Hosanna!" Before the Mass begins on this day, palms are blessed, and a solemn procession held, in remembrance of that triumphal entry of the Lord. The palms are kept in homes as a sign of blessing.

Holy Thursday.

This day especially commemorates the institution of the Holy Eucharist by Jesus at the Last Supper. After Mass the Blessed Sacrament is taken to the Altar of Repose, or Repository, to remain there until the Communion service in the afternoon of Good Friday.

During the night of Holy Thursday and on to the service of the following day, good Catholics devote an hour or two to adoration of the Blessed Sacrament at the Altar of Repose. Where there is more than one church in the community, the faithful go from one to another, praying before the Blessed Sacrament.

Holy Mass is held in the afternoon or evening. On Holy Thursday—as on Good Friday and Holy Saturday—private Masses are forbidden. After the Gospel takes place the washing of the feet of twelve men by the celebrant of the Mass; this is in memory of Our Lord, Who washed the feet of His Apostles just before the institution of the Holy Eucharist. After Mass the altar is stripped, to show the interruption of the Holy Sacrifice, and the spirit of mourning for Good Friday.

Besides the evening Mass, in cathedrals there is celebrated in the morning a pontifical Mass, the Chrism Mass, at which the holy oils are blessed. These are the oils used in the administration of the sacraments of Baptism, Confirmation, Extreme Unction, and Holy Orders, as well as for the consecration of churches, altars, chalices, bells, etc.

Good Friday.

On this day as well as on Holy Saturday, the vigil of Easter, the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass is not offered. The entire time is devoted to mourning in memory of the stay of Our Lord in the tomb.

The Good Friday service in the afternoon is a memorial of Our Lord's passion and death. It consists of four parts: (1) the Lessons, with reading or of the Passion; (2) the solemn Collects or Prayers; (3) the veneration of the cross; and (4) Holy Communion, of which all may partake.

The veneration of the cross is a main feature. The unveiling of the crucifix, which has been covered with purple cloth during the Passion tide, is symbolic of Christ being stripped of His garments. The anthems and responses sung during the veneration are the "Improperia," or Reproaches—words addressed by Our Lord to the Jews. They are a striking and dramatic feature of the Good Friday service. The devotion of the Stations of the Cross is generally practiced throughout the day.

Holy Saturday.

The service normally starts at such a time that the last part, Holy Mass, should begin at about midnight, Easter Day. For grave reasons the bishop may permit a church to begin sooner, but not before sunset. The first part of the service is the blessing of the new fire. The Paschal candle is blessed and taken in solemn procession inside the church. The hymn of praise, Exsultet, is sung.

Four Lessons are read, with a Prayer after each Lesson. Then follows the first part of the Litany of All Saints. In parish churches the baptismal water is blessed, before the major altar if possible, so that all may be able to see. The water is taken to the baptismal font; the solemn renewal of baptismal vows takes place. After the second part of the Litany, the solemn Mass begins.

Easter Sunday.

This feast, the "greatest solemnity" of the Christian year, the feast of feasts, is in honor of the Resurrection of Our Lord from the dead. The Mass is full of allusions to the Resurrection of Christ and to Baptism, which is a spiritual resurrection.

Easter is celebrated on the first Sunday following the first full moon of the spring; it may occur any Sunday between March 22 and April 25.
The Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, March 25.

This day commemorates the coming of the Angel Gabriel to Our Lady, announcing to her that she was to become the Mother of Our Lord Jesus Christ.

Rogation Days.

The "Greater Rogation Day" or "Greater Litanies" are on April 25th; but if Easter Sunday or Monday occurs on this day, they are transferred to the 26th or 27th.

The "Lesser Rogation Days or Litanies" are the three days before Ascension Thursday. For the singing or recitation of the Litanies which may be in the vernacular, the procession and other prayers, see page 403.

† Ascension Thursday (40 days after Easter).

This feast celebrates Our Lord's going up into Heaven forty days after His Resurrection. The extinguishing of the Paschal candle after the Gospel on Ascension Day symbolizes the departure of Our Lord from earth. It is a holyday of obligation and it always falls on a Thursday.

Pentecost Sunday.

The chief object of this feast is the commemoration of the coming of the Holy Spirit on the assembled Apostles. It is one of the three chief feasts of the year, considered second only to Easter. This feast is preceded by a novena, historically the first novena celebrated in the Church.

May, the Month of the Blessed Virgin.

In nearly all churches the month of May is celebrated with daily devotions, usually consisting of the recitation of the Rosary and the Litany of the Blessed Virgin, with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament. Often a sermon is given on the Blessed Virgin. Special indulgences are attached to these devotions.

At homes and in schools small altars are built in honor of the Blessed Mother; flowers are offered to her. During the month of May devout Catholics attend Mass daily.

St. Joseph, the Worker, May 1.

In the history of the Church we find that she often christened pagan festivals, making use of dates and ceremonies, and endowing them with an entirely new and Christian significance. In accordance with this tradition she has now placed the observance of Labor Day under the powerful patronage of St. Joseph, the humble and saintly worker whom God chose as the head of the Holy Family. St. Joseph is proposed as the model of all working men.

Trinity Sunday
(Sunday following Pentecost Sunday).

This feast specially honors the Most Holy Trinity.

Corpus Christi
(Thursday after Trinity Sunday).

This feast is consecrated to the Holy Eucharist. It was established in order to celebrate most solemnly and with all pomp the institution of the Most Blessed Sacrament, since it is not possible to do so on Holy Thursday on account of the other Holy Week celebrations. On this day or on the following Sunday a great procession with the Blessed Sacrament is held.

The Queenship of the B. V. Mary, May 31.

As Christ is our Divine King, Mary is our heavenly Queen.

Feast of the Most Sacred Heart of Jesus (Friday of the following week after Corpus Christi).

On this feast the Church honors the Sacred Heart of Jesus and makes reparation for the poor way men and women to His great love. For this purpose the prayer "Act of Reparation" to the Sacred Heart of Jesus is ordered to be said.

Birthday of St. John the Baptist, June 24.

This feast is in honor of Our Lord's Precursor.

Feast of St. Peter and St. Paul, June 29.

This feast is in honor of the two great Apostles especially commemorating St. Peter, Christ's Vicar on earth, the first Pope of God's Church.

The Most Precious Blood, July 1.

In honor of the Holy Blood of Our Lord, shed in His circumcision, agony, passion, and crucifixion, this feast is celebrated.

The Visitation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, July 2.

This feast is to commemorate the visit made by Our Lady to her cousin Elizabeth, before the birth of St. John the Baptist. It recalls the charity of Our Lady.

Commemoration of Our Lady of Mount Carmel, July 16.

All Catholics should wear the brown scapular or "scapular medal" of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel, enriched with many indulgences.

The Transfiguration, August 6.

This feast commemorates the day when Our Lord took Peter, James, and John up to a mountain apart, and there was transfigured before them, His face shining as the sun, and His garments becoming white as snow.
† The Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary, August 15.

On this feast is commemorated what happened after the death of God's holy Mother: her body and soul were taken up into Heaven, where she was crowned by her Divine Son Queen of all Angels and Saints. It is a holyday of obligation.

In the earliest days, the Church commemorated only the deaths of the martyrs, calling this their birthdays, as then they are born to heaven. Then an appeal came for the celebration of feasts in honor of Saints who were not martyred. Naturally, Mary the Mother of God here took first place. By the sixth century such a feast in honor of Mary on August 15 was observed throughout the universal Church. The dogma was proclaimed in 1950.

Birthday of the Blessed Virgin Mary, September 8.

This feast honors the birth of our Mother the Blessed Virgin. Among all the Saints, John the Baptist is the only one who shares with Mary the honor of having a birthday feast celebrated by the Church. This is because John was freed from original sin before his birth, as Mary was free from the moment of her conception.

The Most Holy Name of Mary, September 12.

Feast of the Exaltation of the Holy Cross, September 14.

The Emperor Constantine had two churches built on Calvary, and in one the relic of the True Cross was kept. Later, the king of Persia, Chosroes, carried away the relic to Persia; but the Greek emperor Heraclius waged war, defeated Chosroes, and returned the True Cross to the basilica on Calvary, in the year 629. From the eleventh to the fourteenth century, it was the thought of the True Cross that inspired the Crusaders in their battles for the Holy Places of Palestine.

The Seven Sorrows of the Blessed Virgin Mary, September 15.

This is the second celebration to honor the sorrows of Our Blessed Mother, the first one being on the Friday of Passion Week. The seven sorrows thus honored are: Simeon's prophecy (Luke 2:15), the flight into Egypt, the three days' loss of the Child Jesus (Luke 2:42-46), the way to Calvary, the Crucifixion, the taking down of Our Lord's Body from the cross, and the burial of Our Lord.

Feast of the Guardian Angels, Oct. 2.

Feast of the Blessed Virgin of the Rosary, Oct. 7.

It was on the 7th of October 1571 that the Christians defeated the Turks at Lepanto, gaining the victory through the intercession of the Blessed Virgin. Catholics are recommended to pray daily five decades of the Holy Rosary. The feast is often celebrated on the first Sunday of October.

Mission Sunday (Sunday before the last in October).

This Sunday is set apart in a special manner for the missions. On this day the sermons and the instructions are about the work that is being done by the missionaries for the spread of the Catholic faith; a collection is taken up for the Society of the Propagation of the Faith. All Catholics are urged to become members of that Society and thus help in that work so dear to the Sacred Heart of Our Lord.

Feast of Christ the King (Last Sunday in October).

On this day the Church invites all her children to join in offering public and solemn homage to Jesus Christ, our King, acknowledging His spiritual kingship over the Church, and proclaiming the rights and benefits of His reign over families and nations. Christ is our King not only by reason of His divine nature, but by reason of His human nature as well, since He was appointed King by His heavenly Father and redeemed mankind by His death on the Cross.

† Feast of All Saints, November 1.

On this day the Church honors the Angels and Saints in heaven. It is a holyday of obligation.

This day is a great family feast. It has its origin in the year 610, when Boniface IV dedicated the Pantheon of Rome to the Blessed Virgin and all the martyrs. It is in special commemoration of the millions of Saints in heaven who have not been officially canonized by the Church, and thus have no special commemoration during the year.

All Souls' Day, November 2.

This day commemorates all the souls in Purgatory. It is a day for pious remembrance of the dead, and for offering of Masses and prayers for them. On this day as on Christmas, priests are allowed to say three Masses, for the souls of the departed, that they may be free from Purgatory.

From noon of All Saints' Day till midnight of the next day (All Souls' Day), all those who have confessed and received Holy Communion on either of the two days may gain the "tотies quoties" indulgence: a plenary indulgence applicable to the souls in Purgatory every time they visit a church or public chapel, and pray "six Our Fathers," "six Hail Marys," and "six Glorias" for the intention of the Holy Father. It is to be noted here that those who are accustomed to go to confession at least twice a month, or to communicate daily in the state of grace and with an upright and holy intention, and even though they do not go to communion once or twice during the week, may without confession gain all the indulgences for which confession is prescribed as a necessary condition. If the "tотies quoties" indulgence is not gained on All Saints' and All Souls' Days, it may be gained on the Sunday following. When November 2 falls on a Sunday, All Souls' Day is celebrated on the Monday following, November 3.

"KNOW GOD BETTER TO LOVE HIM MORE"
The Most Important Prayers

The RACCOLTA or "Manual of Indulgences" is the authentic collection of prayers and devotions which have been indulgenced by the Sovereign Pontiffs. Each prayer or devotion is numbered. Reference to this "Manual" found at the end of indulgenced prayers is indicated by the abbreviation Rac. and the number of the prayer: e.g. Rac. 678. For further references, see page 338.

The Sign of the Cross

(Three years indulgence; with holy water, seven years. Rac. 678)

The Lord’s Prayer

OUR FATHER who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name; Thy kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread; and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us; and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. Amen.

The Hail Mary

HAIL MARY, full of grace! the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb, Jesus.
Holy Mary, Mother of God, pray for us sinners, now and at the hour of our death. Amen.

The Doxology

GLORY be to the Father, and to the Son, and to the Holy Spirit. As it was in the beginning, is now, and ever shall be, world without end. Amen.

The Apostles' Creed

I BELIEVE in God, the Father Almighty, Creator of heaven and earth; and in Jesus Christ, His only Son, Our Lord; who was conceived by the Holy Spirit, born of the Virgin Mary, suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, died, and was buried. He descended into hell; the third day He arose again from the dead; He ascended into heaven, sitteth at the right hand of God, the Father Almighty; from thence He shall come to judge the living and the dead. I believe in the Holy Spirit, the Holy Catholic Church, the communion of saints, the forgiveness of sins, the resurrection of the body, and life everlasting. Amen.

The Confiteor

I CONFESS to Almighty God, to blessed Mary ever Virgin, to blessed Michael the Archangel, to blessed John the Baptist, to the holy Apostles Peter and Paul, and to all the Saints, that I have sinned exceedingly in thought, word, and deed (strike your breast three times as you say), “through my fault,” "through my most grievous fault." Therefore, I beseech the blessed Mary ever Virgin, blessed Michael the Archangel, blessed John the Baptist, the holy Apostles Peter and Paul, and all the Saints, to pray to the Lord our God for me.
May the Almighty God have mercy on me, and forgive me my sins, and bring me to everlasting life. Amen.
May the almighty and merciful Lord grant me pardon, absolution, and remission of all my sins. Amen.
(Indulgence of 300 days. Rac. 691)

Act of Faith

O MY GOD, I firmly believe that Thou art one God in three Divine Persons, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost; I believe that Thy Divine Son became man, and died for our sins, and that He will come to judge the living and the dead. I believe these and all the truths which the Holy Catholic Church teaches, because Thou hast revealed them, who canst neither deceive nor be deceived.
(Indulgence of three years. Rac. 36)

Act of Hope

O MY GOD, relying on Thy almighty power and infinite mercy and promises, I hope to obtain pardon of my sins, the help of Thy grace, and life everlasting, through the merits of Jesus Christ, my Lord and Redeemer.
(Indulgence of three years. Rac. 36)

Act of Love

O MY GOD, I love Thee above all things, with my whole heart and soul, because Thou art all-good and worthy of all love. I love my neighbor as myself for the love of Thee. I forgive all who have injured me, and ask pardon of all whom I have injured.
(Indulgence of three years. Rac. 36)

Act of Contrition

O MY GOD, I am heartily sorry for having offended Thee, and I detest all my sins, because of Thy just punishments, but most of all because they offend Thee, my God, who art all-good and deserving of all my love. I firmly resolve, with the help of Thy grace, to sin no more and to avoid the near occasions of sin.
(Indulgence of three years. Rac. 36)
The “Hail, Holy Queen”

HAIL, HOLY QUEEN, Mother of Mercy: hail, our life, our sweetness, and our hope! To thee do we cry, poor banished children of Eve; to thee do we send up our sighs, mourning and weeping in this vale of tears. Turn, then, most gracious advocate, thine eyes of mercy toward us; and after this our exile, show unto us the blessed fruit of thy womb, Jesus. O clement, O loving, O sweet Virgin Mary!

(Indulgence of five years. Rac. 332)

Morning Offering

O MY GOD, I offer Thee all my prayers, works, and sufferings in union with the Sacred Heart of Jesus, for the intentions for which He pleads and offers Himself in the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass, in thanksgiving for Thy favors, in reparation for my offenses, and in humble supplication for my temporal and eternal welfare, for the wants of our holy Mother the Church, for the conversion of sinners, and for the relief of the poor souls in purgatory.

I wish to gain all the indulgences attached to the prayers I shall say and to the good works I shall perform this day.

Blessing before Meals

❖ Bless us, O Lord, and these Thy gifts, which we are about to receive from Thy bounty, through Christ Our Lord. Amen.

Grace After Meals

❖ We give Thee thanks for all Thy benefits, O Almighty God, who livest and reignest forever; and may the souls of the faithful departed, through the mercy of God, rest in peace. Amen.

(Indulgence of 300 days. Rac. 683)

Prayer Before Work

DIRECT, we beseech Thee, O Lord, our actions and further them with Thy continual help, that every prayer and work of ours may always begin from Thee and through Thee be likewise ended. Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

(Indulgence of 300 days. Rac. 680)

Prayer After Work

We give Thee thanks, O Almighty God, for all Thy benefits, Who livest and reignest world without end. Amen.

(Indulgence of 300 days. Rac. 683)

The Memorare

REMEMBER, O most gracious Virgin Mary, that never was it known that any one who fled to thy protection, implored thy help, and sought thy intercession, was left unaided. Inspired with this confidence, I fly unto thee, O Virgin of virgins, my Mother! To thee I come, before thee I stand, sinful and sorrowful. O Mother of the Word Incarnate, despise not my petitions, but, in thy mercy, hear and answer me. Amen.

(Indulgence of three years. Rac. 339)

Prayer to St. Joseph

GUARDIAN of Virgins and father, Holy Joseph, to whose faithful care Christ Jesus, very innocence, and Mary, Virgin of virgins, were committed, I pray and beg of thee, by these dear pledges Jesus and Mary, free me from all uncleanness, that with spotless mind, pure heart, and chaste body, I may ever most chastely serve Jesus and Mary all the days of my life. Amen.

Prayer to the Guardian Angel

ANGEL of God, my guardian dear,
To whom His love entrusts me here,
Ever this day be at my side,
To light and guard, to rule and guide. Amen.

(Indulgence of three years, Rac. 432)

The Divine Praises

Blessed be God
Blessed be His Holy Name
Blessed be Jesus Christ, true God and true Man
Blessed be the Name of Jesus
Blessed be His Most Sacred Heart
Blessed be His Most Precious Blood
Blessed be Jesus in the Most Holy Sacrament of the Altar
Blessed be the great Mother of God, Mary most holy Blessed be her holy and Immaculate Conception
Blessed be her glorious Assumption
Blessed be the name of Mary, Virgin and Mother
Blessed be St. Joseph, her most chaste spouse
Blessed be God in His angels and in His saints

(Indulgence of three years; five years if said publicly, Rac. 696)
The Angelus

V. The angel of the Lord declared unto Mary.
R. And she conceived of the Holy Ghost.

Hail Mary, etc.

V. Behold the handmaid of the Lord.
R. Be it done unto me according to thy word.

Hail Mary, etc.

V. And the Word was made flesh.
R. And dwelt among us.

Hail Mary, etc.

V. Pray for us, O holy Mother of God.
R. That we may be made worthy of the promises of Christ.

Let us Pray

Pour forth, we beseech Thee, O Lord, Thy grace into our hearts, that we to whom the Incarnation of Christ, Thy Son, was made known by the message of an angel, may by His passion and cross be brought to the glory of His resurrection, through the same Christ Our Lord. Amen.

(For indulgence, see note, page 397, "What is the Angelus?", last paragraph.)

Regina Coeli

Queen of heaven, rejoice. Alleluia.
For He whom thou didst deserve to bear. Alleluia.
Hath risen as He said. Alleluia.
Pray for us to God. Alleluia.
V. Rejoice and be glad, O Virgin Mary! Alleluia.
R. Because Our Lord is truly risen. Alleluia.

Let us Pray

O God, who by the resurrection of Thy Son, Our Lord Jesus Christ, hast vouchsafed to make glad the whole world, grant, we beseech Thee, that, through the intercession of the Virgin Mary, His Mother, we may attain the joys of eternal life. Through the same Christ Our Lord. Amen.

(For indulgence, see note, page 397, "What is the Angelus?", last paragraph.)

De Profundis

Out of the depths I have cried unto Thee, O Lord! Lord, hear my voice.
Let Thine ears be attentive to the voice of my supplication.

If Thou, O Lord, wilt mark iniquities: Lord, who shall abide it!
For with Thee there is merciful forgiveness; and by reason of Thy law I have waited for Thee, O Lord.
My soul hath relied on His word; my soul hath hoped in the Lord.
From the morning watch even until night: let Israel hope in the Lord.
Because with the Lord there is mercy: and with Him plenteous redemption. And He shall redeem Israel from all his iniquities.

(Indulgence of three years. Rac. 585)

Eternal rest give unto them, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon them.
May they rest in peace. Amen.

(Indulgence of 300 days. Rac. 582)

O God, the Creator and Redeemer of all the faithful, grant to the souls of Thy servants departed the remission of all their sins, that through pious supplications they may obtain that pardon which they have always desired: Who livest and reignest for ever and ever. Amen.

Prayer Before a Crucifix

Look down upon me, O good and gentle Jesus, while before Thy face I humbly kneel, and with burning soul pray and beseech Thee to fix deep in my heart lively sentiments of faith, hope, and charity, true contrition for my sins, and a firm purpose of amendment; the while I contemplate with great love and tender pity Thy five wounds, pondering over them within me, calling to mind the words which David Thy prophet said of Thee, my good Jesus: "They have pierced My hands and My feet; they have numbered all my bones."

(Indulgence of ten years; a plenary indulgence if recited after Communion. Rac. 201.)

Anima Christi

Soul of Christ, sanctify me.
Body of Christ, save me.
Blood of Christ, inebriate me.
Water from the side of Christ, wash me.
Passion of Christ, strengthen me.
O good Jesus, hear me.
Within Thy wounds, hide me.
Suffer me not to be separated from Thee.
From the malignant enemy, defend me.
In the hour of my death, call me.
And bid me come to Thee,
That, with Thy saints, I may praise Thee For ever and ever. Amen.

(Indulgence of 300 days; if recited after Communion, seven years. Rac. 131.)

Act of Resignation to the Divine Will

O Lord my God, I now at this moment readily and willingly accept at Thy hand whatever kind of death it may please Thee to send me, with all its pains, penalties, and sorrows.

(Indulgence of seven years; a plenary indulgence at the hour of death, for those who say the above prayer on any day chosen, after Communion and Confession. Rac. 638.)

Ejaculations

Jesus!

(Indulgence of 300 days. Rac. 113)

Jesus, meek and humble of heart, make my heart like unto Thine!

(500 days' indulgence. Rac. 227)

My Jesus, mercy.

(300 days' indulgence. Rac. 70)

Most sacred Heart of Jesus, have mercy on us.

(500 days' indulgence. Rac. 242)

Mary!

(Indulgence of 300 days. Rac. 292)

Mother of mercy, pray for us.

(300 days' indulgence. Rac. 304)

Jesus, Mary, Joseph, I give you my heart and my soul.

Jesus, Mary, Joseph, assist me in my last agony.

Jesus, Mary, Joseph, may I breathe forth my soul in peace with you.

(Indulgence of seven years for each invocation. Rac. 636)

Prayer to Christ the King

O Jesus Christ, I acknowledge Thee as universal King. All that has been made, has been created for Thee. Exercise all Thy rights over me. I renew my baptismal vows, renouncing Satan, his pomps and his works; and I promise to live as a good Christian. In particular do I pledge myself to labor, to the best of my ability, for the triumph of the rights of God and of Thy Church.

Divine Heart of Jesus, to Thee do I proffer my poor services, laboring that all hearts may acknowledge Thy Sacred Kingship, and that thus the reign of Thy peace be established throughout the whole universe. Amen.

(A plenary indulgence on the usual conditions once daily. Rac. 232)

The Manner in Which a Lay Person is to Baptize in Case of Necessity

Pour ordinary water on the forehead of the person to be baptized, and say while pouring it:

"I baptize you in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit."

N. B. Any person of either sex who has reached the use of reason can baptize in case of necessity, but the same person must say the words while pouring the water, and have the right intention.
